NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP)—The protracted Washington's birthday holiday reduced the volume of new financing in the past week. The bond offerings with a total of $71,429,000 exceeded the stock issues, which amounted to $36,184,000. Stock offerings in the preceding week totaled $169,745,000, compared to $73,574,000 for bonds.

Profit-taking on a very active market was followed on the New York rubber exchange last week by good support against a fairly stiff pressure, with the result that the reaction was only slight. Prices finished at about the same level as on Feb. 15.

General Motors Corporation sales to overseas dealers in 1928 increased to 282,157 from 103,830 cars in 1929. Sales in the fourth quarter of 1928 amounted to 71,867 cars compared to 52,493 cars in the corresponding 1927 period.

The New York Central railroad in 1928 retired 244 employes who had 40 years or more service and 22 employes who has been in the railroad service 50 or more years. A woman—Mrs M. E. Donka, 70 years old, held the record of 55 years and 5 months service as a telegraph operator at Newark, N. Y. Pension payments in 1928 totaled $2,591,193 to 4,469 persons.

Net income of the Melville Shoe corporation of New York increased last year to $1,657,139 fro m$1,231,151 in 1927. The company opened 89 new stores, bringing the chain to 410 stores.

Stockholders of Shenandoah Rayon corporation of Utica, N. Y. have been called to a special meeting on March 26 to vote on sale of common stock to a banking syndicate for $3,000,000 to provide funds for factory expansion.

Lane Drug Stores, Inc., of Atlanta are planning to open additional stores in Georgia, Florida, North Carolina and Tennessee to bring the chain up to 225 stores.

Stockholders of Celotex company of record March 6 are being offered rights to subscribe to additional common stock at $65 a share in ratio of one new share for every seven shares held.

JEWETT CITY

FRAUD WHO DUPED MASONS JAILED AT NEW BEDFORD

The following item is of much interest to members of the local Masonic fraternity. No more slick article than this imposter, who has now been apprehended in New Bedford, ever approached the Jewett City Masons and asked for fraternal charity. The alias used here was Albert F. Norton. Fayetteville, N. C., he claiming that he was a past master of Phoenix lodge No. 8, Norton, with a ready list of aliases rounded up the master, the treasurer and the secretary of Mt. Vernon.

Among his several assets was a thorough knowledge of the ritual of both the Masons and Odd Fellows.

He told here of being on his way to see his brother in Plymouth, N. H, claiming that an automobile driver was giving him a lift from Waterbury to Danielson.

A blow-out necessitated a shift of tires near Willimantic. There, as he assisted in the change, he said he threw his overcoat containing $50 and a ticket to Boston over the radiator. At Danielson he learned that his wallet was missing, so, as much as he "hated to," he guessed he would have to ask for three days, a small loan from the fraternity. He failed to land the local Odd Fellows, being shy of necessary traveling credentials.

His visit here was Nov. 7.

NEW BEDFORD, Feb. 21—Albert George Dias, the man with 28 aliases, howled so noisily in court today when sentenced to two months that it was necessary to remove him from the court room in order that the session could proceed.

Dias, who was caught this week at a hospital in Boston, was arrested here last November, charged with larceny, at a time when a nation-wide search was being made for him by Masonic organizations. The police described him as an impostor and said his illegal activities were confined almost entirely to Masons.

In making a plea for Dias, his counsel, H. A. Lider, said "His wife is here in court this morning."

"Which wife?" interrupted the judge.

"I beg your honor's pardon," said Mr. Lider. "I'm not aware that he has more than one."

"I understand he has a wife in California," replied the court, "and I have received a letter from a woman in Somerville who says she is his wife."

"She is the one who is here," said the attorney.

"Well, tell her for me that letters to a judge before whom a case is to be heard dealing with that case are not welcomed," asserted Judge Milliken.

Finn's tonight Marian Davies and William Haines in the big special Show People.—adv.

Manager J. F. Barnett, of the Finn theatre closed Saturday, as of March 1st, a dozen of the new spring screen bookings. All the new pictures are included in the top-liner lists, and will be on the local screen, on even dates with the metropolitan showings.

There is to be a meeting of Orville LaFlamme post, American Legion, this (Monday) evening.

At 6 a. m. Sunday the mercury stood at only 8 above, after one of the snappiest nights of the winter. At 1 p. m. the temperature held to the forties for several hours and snow water ran freely in the streets.

FUNERAL.

Louis Ethier.

The funeral of Louis Ethier was held from his home on Greene avenue Saturday morning. In the solemn requiem mass in St. Mary's church Rev. Nicholas Caron was celebrant, Rev. John D. Carey of Voluntown, deacon and Rev. J. J. McCabe, sub-deacon. Mrs. Noel Garand played and sang the music of the mass, and the waiting hymn. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Rev. Fr. Caron reading the committal prayers. The bearers were Messrs Beaulieu, Lizee, Liberty, Dominick, Ritchie and Thibeault. There were beautiful floral remembrances. Relatives were present from New York, Springfield, Norwich, Willimantic and Pawtucket. Hourigan Bros. were in charge of the arrangements.

Miss Helen Hull entertained the Harmony club Friday afternoon.

Unsigned items will not be published in this column any more than in any other part of the paper, as has been stated numberless times.

A. A. STEBBINS RESIGNS AS SUPT. OF RAYON

Alfred A. Stebbins has resigned as superintendent of rayon with Ashland Cotton Co., the resignation taking effect last Saturday. On that day he was presented by William T. Duggan, the cotton superintendent, a gold watch chain and Masonic charm, given in behalf of the overseers. Mr. Stebbins has several positions under consideration. He came to Jewett City first as the engineer at Hopeville, then became master mechanic, later being the assistant superintendent, afterwards superintendent of rayon, all with Ashland Cotton Co. His successor is A. W. Fawcett, of New Bedford.

Older boys of the town were much interested to learn Sunday, that their old friend C. A. Stephens was alive and had turned 82. No stories of the wild life of his native state, dating back to war-times and the years of the early seventies, ever could be more attractive to the out-of-doors lad. His tales of hunting and trapping with 40 years of story telling about the great Maine woods, are beyond compare and camping narratives of keenest interest. One Jewett City man, after considerable search, now owns his whole set of lynx hunting tales, which were published more than 50 years ago, beginning in 1872. These books now out of print are all complete. Lynx Hunting, On the Amazon, Off the Geysers, Left on Labrador, Fox Hunting and Camping Out. The local man also has in his library the two later Old Squire stories, When Life Was Young and A Great Year of Our Lives.

Pantaloons of justice can hardly be termed breaches of the peace.

Breed Theatre

Shall girlhood's gay flirts be turned by marriage? The problem interested American matrons and is fearlessly argued by Ernest Pascal in his story, "Man-Made Women," a new DeMille studio production starring Leatrice Joy which opened at the Breed theatre last night.

Pascal, who wrote "The Marriage Bed," and "The Dark Swan," emphasizes the modern and feministic point that in matrimonial partnerships the woman requires self expression equally with the man. If men have made women into social butterflies, then they shouldn't complain that the feminine after marriage continues to sip social sweets and refuses to become a domestic grub.

Paul L. Stein, clever maker of "The Forbidden Woman," directed from Alice Miller's continuity, and Ralph Block produced it. Adrian supplied many gorgeous gowns for the women in the cast.

Burton Page, police chief, of Madison, Conn., was doubly anxious to capture a band of automobile accessory thieves of whom complaint was made. Returning to his parked automobile after a search for the thieves, Page found it stripped. The only removable thing left on the car was a plate carrying the words "Madison Police Department."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

The most gorgeous song and dance revue in vaudeville will be brought to the stage of this theatre today. Meyer Golden presents his spectacular Whirl of Splendor, a stage on a stage, revolving with five different scenes. This production, besides the wonderful talent, carries some beautiful stage effects and wardrobe. Lloyd and Allen, the two boys full of hokum comedy. Princess Whitecloud, in songs of India. Dixwell and Snyder, in a very pleasing comedy skit and a real treat for the kiddies, the sensational Two Tumbling Clowns who come here direct from the Paramount theater, in New York.

If you were a theatrical producer—

And you entered the theatre where your new production was rehearsing—

And found, instead of your newest "find", that your parlor maid was speaking the lines of the leading role—

Wouldn't you think you were having a nightmare?

That's exactly how Eric Byron feels tion in "Broadway Fever," the Tiffany-Stahl production starring Sally O'Neil when he encounters a similar situa- showing today to Wednesday at the Palace theatre. Considered either as comedy or tragedy it's definitely a situation!

Byron's reaction, the whereabouts of the missing actress and the final curtains of both Byron's public and his private dramas may be discovered by viewing "Broadway Fever." You'll find, besides Sally O'Neil in the role of the little stage struck southern girl, handsome Roland Drew as Byron, and beautiful Corliss Palmer, as the leading lady whom Sally supplants so unceremoniously.

Broadway Fever," was directed by that master of comedy drama, Edward Cline, from a story written by Lois Leeson, responsible for many recent film scenarios.

Broadway Theatre

The film version of the most successful play ever written is being screened in this city.

Anne Nichol's "Abie's Irish Rose," great and poignant story that it is, came to the Broadway theatre yesterday, and showed all evidence of scoring a tremendous success, even greater, possibly than the original play itself.

Paramount has filmed "Abie" on a big scale, building it into a mighty comedy dramam of love and tolerance, with frequent touches of clever humor, and a cast that is ideally suited to the various roles made famous on the stage for so many years.

"Abie's Irish Rose" teaches us that love can conquer all racial misunderstanding, and that bigotry and the jealousy of creeds is all wrong. Never before has such a stirring tale so beautifully told been presented on a local silver sheet, but the picture does not preach; it amuses and entertains.

Jean Hersholt's performance is that of a master, to put it lightly. Once again has this actor scored in a role that he makes outstanding, that of Solomon Levy, the Jewish father who objects to his son's marriage to an Irish girl, Rosemary Murphy. Charles Rogers, whose splendid work in "Wings," "My Best Girl," "Get Your Man, and others, is well remembered, excels as Abie and Nancy Carroll shows herself to be typically Irish as Rosemary. J. Farrell MacDonald is the father of the girl, Patrick Murphy. The comedy roles are in the hands of Bernard Grocey and Ida Kramer, who, as Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Cohen, have carried their parts from the stage to the screen.

This production has been produced with a number of talking and singing sequences, also sound effects, and is so much more thoroughly enjoyable. Owing to the length of the program evening performance began at 6:30 instead of 7 p. m. A second showing is presented at 8:45 p. m.

Old landmarks of New York of a long past era will virtually pass in review—Niblo's garden, Laura Keene's theatre, the Academy of Music, early home of grand opera, the old Broadway minstrel shows. Famous entertainers of bygone days—Theodore Thomas, Berlioz, William Dempster, Joe Jefferson, Dan Bryant and many others, will live again land—volunteer firemen at a typical the way to manoeuvers on Staten Island—Durvea and his Seventh Regiment on in fancy. Old time scenes—Colonel Yorkville park high jinks—sleighing in Central park—the tally-ho party—on the canvas of sound these scenes will take form once again.

The occasion of this special broadcast by the Gypsies is the annual Founder's Week sale which will be held in all A. and P. stores during the week of February 25th. This food sale marks the founding of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company in 1859. It has long been the custom of A. and P. food stores to make this week an outstanding food purchasing opportunity by effecting substantial reductions in all classes of foods sold in A. and P. stores.

The program goes on the air promptly at 8:30 o'clock, eastern standard time, over the red network stations of the National Broadcasting company.

Local council of Jewish Women will have a New York speaker at their meeting which is to be held in the Sinai Brith home Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. Miss Bessie Meyers, educational supervisor of the council will give a demonstration of the council's programme covering the educational, recreational and welfare work carried on in the rural communities. Choral Society Concert

The Norwich Choral society has completed plans for its next concert. Owing to the fact, that the preparations for the Easter music, Easter coming early this year, place large demands upon the time of many of the singers, it seemed advisable, not to have rehearsals so early that they would interfere with each other. In all probability there will only be one rehearsal before Easter. The programme, decided upon, promises to be a most interesting one. "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" will be the cantata, and there will be a number of selections by Wagner, Gounod, etc.

Mohey talks, but it doesn't make a satisfactory financial statement.

BOY SCOUT CAMPAIGN TO OPEN THIS EVENING

The financial campaign of the Norwich Council of the Boy Scouts of America will start this (Monday) evening with a gathering of the campaign workers at the Wauregan hotel at 6:30 o'clock. The chairman of the campaign this year is Charles Colt, president of the Boy Scout council, and Mr. Colt has assisting him the campaign committee, consisting of Charles V. James, Arthur L. Peale, Cyril E. Fitch, Dr. R. R. Agnew, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, and Scout Executive Frederick Bielefeld, Jr.

The quota for the campaign is $6,575, which comprises the total amount of the 1929 budget prepared by the budget committee and endorsed by the executive committee of the council. Items of the budget as approved are as follows:

Executive salary including transportation, $2,700; office assistant salary, $750; rent, light, telephone, $300; office supplies, $100; postage, $50; publicity and printing, $300; transportation, camp, speakers and council expenditures, $125; camp, council proportion of running expenses of Camp Wakenah not paid by individual boys, $500; rallies and field days, $150; leadership training, $150; national quota and charter fees, $150; deficit 1928, difference between budget and money raised, $700; allowance for pledge unpaid, $300; miscellaneous, expenditures including interest, incidental and campaign expenses, $400; total budget, $6,575.

It is anticipated that the amount of the budget will be raised in the days set for the intensive campaign, February 25-26-27 and 28. Many prominent citizens of Norwich have voiced their endorsement of the campaign to Chairman Colt, among the many being Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, who is a firm believer in scouting and whose letter to Mr. Colt follows:

"It is a pleasure to give sincere and appreciative endorsement to the work of the Boy Scouts; to the leaders of strong men who give themselves unselfishly to work for boys; to the zeal, interest and accomplishment of the boys themselves as they grow unmistakably in power, in orderliness, in cleanness of living in efficiency and preparation for citizenship. In these present days when it appears that the homes are faltering in their control and guidance of youth, every agency like the school, the church, the Boy Scouts and similar movements that shall supplement the efforts of home, should be encouraged. I sincerely wish the movement well, hope for its success in its present effort, and its continuance in its incomparable work for boys."

The campaign committee have been fortunate in securing as speaker at Monday's meeting Hilliard B. Holbrook, an experienced leader in scouting in the Minute Man council at Waltham, Mass. Mr. Holbrook has had much experience in scouting and with boys, having been connected with the scout council at Washington, D. C., before going to Waltham.

Another feature of the meeting will be the presentation of the Boy Scout civic service award. The award is in the form of a medal, and was secured by the Boy Scouts of Norwich, each scout subscribing a small sum to the medal fund. The award will be presented by Star Scout Nicholas Tarrant, a ranking scout of Troop 5 of St. Patrick's church.

ST PATRICK'S DAY PLANS IN THE NORWICH PARISH

Lent in St. Patrick's church has begun with a wonderful manifestation of faith, as proved early Sunday morning, when in addition of a large representation of the Holy Name society, Patrick M. Coleman president, nearly every person in the great congregation at the 7:30 mass received communion from the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr M. H. May and his assistant priest. So many hundreds of confessions had the three parish priests heard during Saturday afternoon and evening that an equally large number received the Eucharist at 9 o'clock mass from Rev. Myles P. Galvin, Rev. John J. Reilly, aiding in giving communion. The number at the mass for the Italian Catholics at 8:15 was noticeable also.

It was the second Sunday in Lent, the gospel read in all the masses throughout the world being Matthew 17. 1-9, narration of the transfiguration of Christ upon the mount. From that gospel Father Reilly chose his text, the words of Peter, "Lord, it is good for us to be here." These he applied to all church attendance, more especially during the holy season of Lent, advocating on the part of all the devotion of the Stations of the Cross, that in following in spirit Christ's journey to Calvary—as depicted by the fourteen stations along the walls of the auditory each Catholic may come to consider his own troubles and sorrows light, as compared with the anguish of the Saviour and His Blessed Mother, who loved each other with such tenderness.

He announced that Sunday, March 17., feast day of St. Patrick, patron of the parish, the 7:30 mass will be a high mass which all members of the A. O. H. and auxiliaries have been invited to attend receiving holy communion in honor of St. Patrick, Apostle of Ireland. In the evening of that Sunday there will be a concert of Irish hymns and airs, with a sermon on St. Patrick.

LARGE AUDIENCE AT Y. M. C. A. SUNDAY SERVICE

There was the usual large attendance at the Sunday afternoon services at the Norwich Y. M. C. A., building. All the chairs were occupied and a number stood during the services.

Several patriotic slides were shown after the scripture reading and prayer and the hymn, "America", in four slides was thrown on the screen as the large congregation sang. Three reels of moving pictures were shown, namely, "The Revolutionary Period," "Our Presidents" and "America, the Canaan of Nations."

During the service General Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk. He spoke in part as follows: "The saying about Washington, "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen" is true and well deserved. Washington did not run away when danger was near; he stood close by his men, and whenever it was necessary to fight he did his part. He was also first in peace, for after the victories he did everything possible to maintain peace. It is true that Washington was first in the hearts of his countrymen. They loved him with a real manly love; they loved him for what he was and what he did, and he was abundantly worthy of their love.

I want to call your attention to one who deserves our loyalty even more than does Washington or Lincoln, and that one is called in Scripture, "The Captain of Our Salvation"; I refer to the great Son of God, Jesus Christ. He was and is first in war against all sorts of evil; he told the religionists of his day, the Pharisees that they were unclean in their lives, and he always made war on evil. Then he too, has a right to be called the greatest man of peace, for he went all the way to the cross to purchase peace for us, and you will recall, that just before he went away by the way of the cross, he uttered those memorable words to his disciples, "My peace I give unto you, let not your hearts be troubled."

He is truly the great peacemaker between God and man. Then the Christ has a just claim on our loyalty; more than any other. Show me a life apart from him and I will show you a life of discord and show me a life that has enthroned him in the heart and I will show you a life of beautiful harmony. I would not have you less loyal to Washington's and Lincoln's memory, and to the country they and others did so much for, but I believe we owe to the Christ our greatest loyalty, and I trust we will give it to Him." Gerald Payne operated the moving picture machine; Louis Mell furnished the piano music and three members of the Boy Scout Troop No. 1 ushered and gathered the offering.

ELOQUENT BOSTON MISSIONARY

A week's mission was opened at the

A week' smission was opened at the 10 o'clock mass Sunday morning at Sacred Heart church by a Jesuit missionary priest. The order of exercises for the week will include masses every morning at five and 7.30 o'clock. Each evening there will be a sermon and benediction of the most blessed sacrament at 7.45. There will be a special mission for the children this (Monday) afternoon at four o'clock, and at the same hour again on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon. At the 10 o'clock mass when the sermon was on the gospel of the day, the visiting priest urged all people to be faithful during the mission and to make Lenten sacrifices by attending all devotions. The missionary is Rev. Father John Mattimore, S. J., of St. Mary's monastery, Boston, a member of the New England Missionary band. A Catholic mission always offers a special opportunity for any who may have grown lukewarm in the practices of their religion to return to favor with God.

STEREOPTICON LECTURE AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

"In the Land of the Incas" was the subject of the stereopticon lecture given in the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday night by the pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter. The lecture told the story of the people of Boliva whose civilization outranked that of other Indians but whose spirit was broken by the early Spanish occupation. The Methodist church is building up a strong educational programme among them and training them again for leadership. During the lecture about fifty hand colored slides were shown by Ralph Smith who operated the lantern.

"The Man with a Temper, John" was the theme of the Sunday morning sermon by the pastor and the text was John 1:6 "And there was a man sent from God whose name was John". The Junior choir under the leadership of Mrs. Florence Aldrich sang.

15 PERSONS WERE KILLED BY A WINDSTORM IN MISS.

Storm Swept Through the Village of Duncan—Estimates of the Injured Range as High as 100—Business Section of the Town is in Ruins—Four Persons Were Killed and Six Injured by Wind, Rain and Hail in Northeast Texas.

DUNC N, Miss., Feb. 25—(AP)—A heavy windstorm swept through this village this afternoon, killed at least 15 persons and left the business section in ruins. Estimates of the injured ranged as high as 100.

Six Chinese were killed in the collapse of a store, and the other victims met death in the collapse of buildings. Two blocks of the business district, about 15 dwellings and four cotton gins were razed. Only four or five business houses were left standing.

Only three white persons were known to have been among the dead.

At Alligator, Miss., six miles north of Duncan, Mrs. N. P. Oswalt, and baby, and Mrs. Rollins Oswalt and two children were injured in the collapse of their home.

National guardsmen from Clarksdale were ordered by Governor Bilbo tonight to proceed immediately to Duncan, and it was announced that other detachments would be called if necessary.

STORM KILLED FOUR PERSONS IN N. E. TEXAS

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 25—(AP)—A wind a rain and hail storm lashed northeast Texas early today, leaving in its wake, four dead, six seriously injured and property loss estimated at more than $250,000.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Jones were killed at Cooper, 60 miles northeast of Dallas, by a tornado that demolished their home and two Negroes, Alfred Gibson and his wife, lost their lives at Grand Prairie, 13 miles west of Dallas. Wakefield, a tourist, and Mrs. William Duncan, 60, were seriously injured.

At Cooper, Troy Young, 21, Mrs. Three others, Mr. and Mrs. John Trigg and their daughter, Leona, 19, were injured at Grand Prairie. Mrs. Trigg and her daughter may die, it was said at a Dallas hospital, where they were brought for treatment.

The wind played its usual quota of tricks on its victims. Joe Clark, who was milking a cow in a barn at Cooper, saw his house torn from its foundation and his daughter, who was running to him, tossed through the door into the barn. The girl was unhurt.

Buddie Trigg, 17, who was asleep when the storm struck, escaped injury although he was thrown from his bed into the yard. He extricated his mother from a section of the wall, which pioned her down.

Most of the damage was at the Primetex refinery at Grand Prairie, where huge iron storage tanks were crumpled like paper, the wind sprinkling the countryside with oil. The management of the refinery estimated the loss at $150,000.

NATIONAL GUARD ORDERED OUT IN MISS.

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 25—(AP)—National guard detachments from Clarksdale under the command of Major T. E. Birdsong, were ordered by Governor Bilbo early tonight to proceed to Duncan, where 20 persons were reported to have been killed in a tornado. THREE DIVISIONS OF REPARATIONS WORK

PARIS, Feb. 25—(AP)—The reparations conference today divided the present stage of its work into three elements and turned each over to a sub-committee. No plenary session of the full committee is likely to be held again before next Monday.

True to their previous course, the experts refrained today from mentioning any amount which Germany may be called upon to pay annually. Neither was there any discussion of the number of these payments.

The three elements into which the discussion has been divided are how much Germany can pay yearly in cash without limited protection; what payments can she make by deliveries in kind.

All three sub-committees are to report at the same time. The full body agreed today that it would be useless to have a report from one only because the questions are so inter-dependent that each can be considered only as a part of the whole problem.

10-YEAR-OLD GIRL TESTIFIED IN THE EDEL MURDER TRIAL

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(AP)—A 10-year-old girl testified today at the trial of Frederick W. Edel for the murder of Mrs. Emmeline Harrington.

She was May Flynn, daughter of the superintendent in the apartment house where Mrs. Harrington, an actress, was killed in 1927. She told of visiting the actress often and of seeing her the day before she was killed. She identified some rings, a fur coat and some draperies as belonging to Mrs. Harrington.

Guy Harrington, actor and divorced husband of the slain woman, was the only other witness of the day. He also identified the coat, draperies, rings, a watch, and numerous checks and other papers.

Most of the articles identified were found by police in a room that Edel, a waiter, had occupied in the Hotel Taft, in New Haven. The watch and one ring and a mirror and comb were recovered from women friends of Edel to whom he had given them, the prosecutor said.

INCREASE IN INCOME OF PENN. RAILROAD COMPANY

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 25—(AP)—The full income account of the Pennsylvania Railroad company for 1928, made public tonight, shows that the net income for the year exceeded the figures of any previous 12 months and marked the third successive year in which a new high record was made.

The net income was $82,507,613 an increase of $14,347,317 over 1927. It was equivalent to 14.69 per cent on the $561,673,900 outstanding capital stock, and the 7 per cent dividend was earned more than twice over. In 1927 the percentage of net income to outstanding capital stock was 13.65, and in 1926 it was 13.53.

Dividends paid during 1928 amounted to $38,171,621.

CHICAGO GANG SLAYING REMAINS A MYSTERY

CHICAGO, Feb. 25—(AP)—Too many theories tonight had brought the investigation of the Moran gang slayings virtually to a standstill so far as developments were concerned.

For ten days the authorities have jumped from theory to theory and from clue to clue in an effort to find out who invaded the North Side headquarters on Valentine's day, lined up seven men and killed them. Tonight most of the theories and clues had been traced as far as possible without bringing any tangible results.

KIDNAPING CHARGE MADE AGAINST MRS EDNA SHARP

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 25—(AP)—Formal charges of kidnaping were filed this afternoon against Mrs. Edna Sharp, following the swearing of a complaint against her by Mrs. Helen Murphy, mother of Doris Smith Murphy, four years old. The child recently was taken from a park where she was playing and held several days before she was found in custody of Mrs. Sharp.

FEAR VIOLENCE AT CHICAGO ELECTION TODAY

CHICAGO, Feb. 25—(AP)—With one alderman in hiding and other candidates for seats in the city council under threats of violence, Chicago tomorrow holds an aldermanic election in all 50 wards.

Detective squad cars will patrol districts where trouble is expected and special details of police will be on duty.

Candidates receiving a majority will be elected, while in other cases there will be a second election in April.

In the "Bloody 20th" ward, scene of many disorders, the candidate opposed by Mayor Thompson, Alderman A. J. Prignano, was taken from his home, along with his family, in a squad car. Six policemen were detailed at the house to prevent possible bombing.

Six residents of that same ward were said to have been indicted today by a grand jury investigating irregularities in the April primary. Those named included Dr. Samuel S. Epstein.

The issue at the polls is largely one of continued control by Mayor William Hale Thompson, his opponents say charging that the best known adherents of the mayor have soft-pedaled their allegiance in their campaigns.

NO MILITARY TREATY BY FRANCE AND BELGIUM

PARIS, Feb. 25—(AP)—The so-called Franco-Belgian document published by the Utrecht Dagblad and in German newspapers purporting to show a secret military accord between Belgium and France were described as gross forgeries in circles close to French officialdom tonight.

In addition a semi-official note was made public by the Havas News agency denying that any secret military treaty had been signed between France and Belgium. The note stated that the two countries had signed an accord in 1920 implying an entente between the two general staffs but that this accord was not secret. It was registered with the League of Nations and was published by the league two years ago.

TROLLEY CAR COLLIDED WITH STEEL COAL CAR

EAST HARTFORD, Feb. 25—(AP)—A trolley car bound for Hartford from East Manchester tonight, collided with a steel coal car at Woodland crossing, throwing it four feet off the track and also derailing the locomotive. Traffic was diverted for several hours and it was not until 10 o'clock that service was restored.

The accident occurred on a curve while two cars attached to an engine were backing out of a siding onto the main line. The front part of the trolley was stove in, but the motorman, S. Barrow, of Hartford, escaped injury. A woman, the only passenger, was shaken up and refused to give her name. An engineer from the public utilities commission made an investigation.

TESTIMONY OF $5,000,000 COPPER STOCK SWINDLE

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(AP)—A former stock salesman for Cameron, Michel and company, defunct brokerage concern, today described "high pressure" methods used by his superiors in conducting what the government alleges was a $5,000,000 copper stock swindle.

Testifying at the trial of Herbert C Locke, John T. Locke and five others charged on 85 counts with using the mails to defraud, the witness, Harry Gutches, said that John Locke told him Canario copper stock could be picked up very cheaply by wide-awake investors and that it certainly would go up.

REBUKED FOR ATTEMPTING TO ACT AS HIS OWN LAWYER

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 25—(AP)—Frederick P. Schaefer, New York accountant in addition to being ordered by Judge Carl Foster in a memorandum of decision returned today in superior court to pay the sum of $2,5000 to the O. K. Tool company, of Shelton, was rebuked by the judge for his attempt to act as his own lawyer in the trial of the action decided.

Schaefer late last year brought a suit against the company to recover $40,000 damages declaring that he was under contract with the company to receive one half of whatever excess profit tax he was able to have refunded to the company. He claimed that $80,000 of such tax was returned by the government to the tool company.

In commenting upon Schaefer's appearance at the bar in his behalf, Judge Foster said: "The plaintiff in this case appears without counsel and not only accumulates difficulties for himself by insisting upon acting for himself but seems to rely for assistance upon one who has just that little knowledge of law, which is such a dangerous thing."

SLAIN MAN WAS TO HAVE BEEN IMPORTANT WITNESS

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(AP)—Raymond Clark, a chauffeur, who was shot to death in Corona Saturday, was identified today by Superintendent Fritz Brieger of the Queens bureau of street cleaning as an important witness who was to have been called in the grand jury's investigation of graft and bribery in the borough.

Brieger said Clark had been a chauffeur for a Queens borough official for two years previous to last November, when he was discharged. Brieger did not identify Clark's former employer.

"Clark was to have been a most important witness," said Brieger. "He was about to be called before the grand jury. I do not wish to discuss details of the case at this time, but I believe that Clark was murdered."

Police are holding as a material witness in the killing Edward Duffy, of Corona, with whose wife authorities said Clark had been friendly.

JUST LOVED EACH OTHER, SO THEY GOT MARRIED

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 25—(AP)—George Gillespie, Arizona cowboy entertainer, and his bride, the former Katherine Thorne, Chicago heiress, who eloped last night from Castle Hot Springs, Arizona, were located here today.

"We just loved each other and so we got married," they explained. "Father and mother just don't understand yet," said Mrs. Gillespie. "When they do, I am sure everything will be all right."

The bride's parents, who are wintering at Castle Hot Springs, had asked authorities to search for the elopers. The father, Robert J. Thorne, formerly was president of Montgomery Ward and company.

HOLD UP IN BRANCH POSTOFFICE IN BRONX

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(AP)—Two robbers tonight held up a postal clerk in the branch postoffice at 235th street and White Plains avenue, the Bronx, and escaped with $422, taken from the money drawer at the registry window. They overlooked a much larger sum in the safe.

John Birmingham, the clerk, was alone in the branch office shortly after 8 o'clock when the two men, carrying pistols, entered. He jumped for his desk in which he keeps his gun, but the men covered him with their pistols and ordered him into a back room.

Another man who entered the postoffice during the hold up also was put into the back room.

After locking the door the robbers took the $422 from the registry window and fled.

Birmingham escaped within a short time and notified postal inspectors and police.

FRANK E. HOWARTH WAS $600 SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS

HARTFORD, Feb. 25—(AP)—Frank E. Howarth, former treasurer of the Hartford Yacht club, whose body was found in a gas-filled room at the club Sunday afternoon, was almost $600 short in his accounts, club officials revealed today. Inasmuch as Howarth's integrity, during the two years he held office, had never been questioned, this discovery proved almost as great a surprise to the club as had the man's suicide. It was not until his annual report was examined a day or two before his death that the defalcations were noticed.

Club officials admitted today that they have been unable to locate the late treasurer's books.

YOUTHS ARRESTED FOR BREAKING AND ENTERING

MIDDLETOWN, Feb. 25—(AP)—Two youths were arrested tonight charged with breaking and entering the office of the Milltrook Dairy company. They gave their names as Charles DeForrest 18, Middletown, and John Morton, 21, Buffalo.

The young men were noticed in the office by a passerby who informed police. An officer sent in to investigate discovered the youths, who ran, but a shot from his pistol halted DeForrest. An hour later Morton was arrested on the outskirts of the town. They will be arraigned in city court

Lindbergh And His Fiancee In Seclusion

Announcement of Time and Place of Wedding Will Be Made in a Few Days.

CUERNEVACA, Mexico, Feb. 25—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Miss Anne S. Morrow, secluded in this somnolent, flower-filled, sun-drenched mountain resort, are formulating together their wedding plans and in a few days may make announcement of the time and place.

The Associated Press is in a position to state authoritatively that there will not be a surprise wedding as has been persistently rumored, but that after the principals have themselves decided—which they have not done as yet, the information as to where and when will be given out.

The affianced couple are together here for the first time since their engagement was announced on Feb. 12. Today Lindbergh drove an embassy automobile in which they explored alone the beautiful country in the vicinity.

There is little to break in upon their seclusion here. No newspaper is published in Cuernevaca. The residence of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow has no telephone. Although the town is only a two hours' ride by automobile from the capital, its life is so tranquil and undisturbed that in few other places of the earth could the young couple be so far removed from curious crowds and intruders.

Beside their automobile ride, Lindbergh and Miss Morrow took short walks around the picturesque town and sat talking together in the courtyard of the Morrow home whose high surrounding walls are hidden by masses of multi-colored flowers.

Ambassador Morrow returned to the capital this morning to attend to his duties but Mrs. Morrow and her daughter, Elizabeth, remained with Anne and Lindbergh. They expect to stay here for several more days.

TRADE WITH PHILIPPINES SUBJECT AT TARIFF HEARING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—(AP)—Strenuous opposition to a disturbance of the existing reciprocal free trade relations between the United States and the Philippines was voiced today before the house ways and means committee at the opening of hearings on the administrative provisions of the tariff act.

The present law recognizes the legal right to impose duties against Philippine imports but exempts all island products from tariffs under a separate clause permitting free entry of the products where they contain not more than 20 per cent. of foreign materials.

No witness before the committee today questioned the legal right to levy duties upon or restrict importation of certain Philippine products. Opposition, however, was voiced against farm group proposals for tariffs on the islands' copra and coconut oil and against the Timberlake resolution to restrict Philippine sugar shipments to this country as an aid to western sugar beet growers. Copra is admitted free from all countries while cocoanut oil is dutiable but free from the islands.

WHITE HOUSE SCENE OF BUSTLING ACTIVITY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—(AP)—The white house today entered upon such a week of bustling activity as it rarely knows except when a president is about to move.

Although the process of packing up has been in progress for the past month much remains to be done; so much, in fact, that the attaches of the executive mansion today were wondering frankly if it could be all completed by March 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, it seems, are continually coming across some object that he or she desires to take along to Northampton, Mass., and thus the number of things to be prepared for shipment is constantly increasing. Already four large vans loaded down with the Coolidge effects have moved away from the white house, bound over the road for Northampton. More are to leave in the course of the week.

And, meanwhile, Mr. Coolidge is considering his arrangements for inauguration day. So far as is known definitely, he has decided finally on but one point—that he will leave the national capital as early as possible Monday afternoon in the hope of arriving at Northampton that night.

$150,000 FOR SURVEY OF A NICARAGUAN CANAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—(AP)—Within a few minutes after the senate had adopted today the resolution of Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, authorizing a survey of a Nicaraguan canal, President Coolidge forwarded to the senate a supplemental estimate of $150,000 for the survey.

The appropriation, the same as that proposed in the Edge resolution was transmitted for inclusion in the second deficiency appropriation bill passed today by the house.

The Edge resolution still must be considered by the house but apparently the president and the budget bureau were acting in anticipation of house approval.

The $150,000 estimate was a substitute for the similar estimate submitted last session by the president. The new estimate would provide for a survey of a Nicaraguan canal route connecting the Atlantic and Pacific and for a survey for enlarging the Panama canal. Both proposals are provided by the Edge resolution.

COURT SUSTAINS THE GENERAL ELECTRIC CO.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—(AP)—The court of appeals of the District of Columbia today sustained the General Electric company in its contention that station WGY, at Schenectady, should not be forced to share time with another General Electric station, KGO, at Oakland, Calif., as required in the November 11, allocation of the radio commission.

Immediately after the decision was handed down, Louis G. Caldwell, general counsel for the radio commission announced that he would ask for a rehearing. In the event a re-hearing is not granted, it was said he would appeal to the supreme court of the United States. The case was taken to court shortly after the November 11 allocation.

A[illegible] $85,000,000 [illegible] Express Highway

Directors of C. C. C. Unfavorable to Bill Before the General Assembly.

HARTFORD, Feb. 25—(AP)—After literally cross-examining Former State Highway Commissioner Charles J. Bennett, of Hartford, engineer for the financial backers of the proposed $85,000,000 toll express highway, which would be stretched across the state to form part of a New England highway running from the suburbs of New York to the suburbs of Boston, directors of the Connecticut chamber of commerce and representatives of the body's members associations today voted an unfavorable sentiment on the general assembly bill providing for the state's segment of the way.

The former highway commissioner was alone in his semi-support of the proposition, while the opposition comprised from the point of view of the number expressing themselves, not only W. L. Barnett, assistant counsel for the New Haven railroad, but also a half dozen chamber directors and representatives. At the close, a motion for a vote "favoring or opposing the proposition as presented today," after some argument, met with unanimous voicing of unfavorable opinion. President Kimball, of the state chamber was authorized to appoint a committee of three to report to the executive committee, which in turn will decide the official attitude of the chamber toward the bill. This attitude will be brought to the attention of the general assembly's incorporations committee, when it meets to hear proponents and opponents of the measure.

Mr. Bennett, announcing at the outset of his brief speech that he was not appearing as an advocate of the proposition, but rather to tell what he has learned through his capacity as engineer for Pope and Richardson, of 60 Broadway, New York, the financial house which will handle the building of the highway, described the proposal as follows:

It will be 250 feet wide, with four lanes, two for express traffic in opposing directions and two for slow moving traffic in opposing directions. Each lane will be 40 feet, leaving a right of way shoulder of 170 feet. This shoulder, he later said, in answer to questions, would "probably" have garages, roadhouses, restaurants, service stations and similar enterprises catering to tourists. The cost of the road, he said, would be between $50,000,000 and $100,000,00, and, most likely, actually about $85,000,000. Connecticut's portion would run from a point on the Fairfield county-New York state line to a point on the Windham county-Massachusetts line. Mr. Bennett declared he was instructed by his principals to be "as vague as possible about the location," and he refused to say where either the Windham county or Fairfield county points would be.

The entire highway will be 200 miles long; it will have 200 bridges over or under existing highways, roads and crossings, under passes and several bridges over rivers. At no point would the highway touch railroads, street railways or public highways at grade, though it will connect with such highways.

Mr. Bennett thought the toll rate would be $4 to $5 for one vehicle traveling the entire length of the highway.

The company, to be known as the New England Express Highway company, would be incorporated in Connecticut with the power of eminent domain to acquire, by condemnation, necessary property for the highway. Mr. Bennett said there would have to be a "reasonably drastic condemnation law" passed in connection with the highway, or else its promoters would not be able to get land for it.

INTRUDER FIRED SHOT AT PUGILIST JACK DEMPSEY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25—(AP)—The story of a mysterious attack upon Jack Dempsey by two unidentified prowlers, one of whom fired a revolver shot at the former champion, furnished the fight community a new thrill today.

The shot was fired, according to Dempsey, as he attempted to cut off the escape of a man who had awakened the Manassa mauler and his companion, Floyd Fitzsimmons, shortly after 5 a. m., in the home of Harry C. Moir, and demanded at the point of a gun that the lights in the bedroom be turned on.

The bullet went wild, imbedding itself in the wall. The intruders escaped and left no clues that thus far have been located, either as to their identity or purpose.

Dempsey, who described the incident in detail to newspapermen and exhibited the flattened bullet, declared he was at a complete loss to understand the attack, unless prompted by a desire to abduct him for ransom.

"If this wasn't an actual fact it would sound like the bunk or the old ballyhoo," Jack admitted, "but that bird gave me a scare when I first saw his head poked through the doorway and what looked like a gun in his hand.

"He looked around, trying to make out what was what in the dark, then when Floyd yelled at him, he demanded we turn on the lights and called to someone outside named 'Joe.' The door was right next to my bed and I jumped at it, forcing the fellow out in the hallway. Then we ran out through another door, trying to head him off and his pal. They were already down the stairway and let go as I got into the hall. Both went out through a window."

Dempsey scoffed at the idea of attempted robbery, pointing out that nothing in the house was disturbed and that the intruders apparently had an object in going direct to his bed-room. Furthermore, Dempsey said, he had no money or valuables with him nor could he give any other likely motive for the intrusion, beyond that of possible abduction a theory regarded by newspapermen as somewhat fantastic.

$194,500,000 DEFICIENCY BILL PASSED BY THE HOUSE

Carries the $2,727,000 For Prohibition Recommended by President Coolidge—Senator Harris Has Given Notice That When the Measure is Taken Up in the Senate He Will Offer Again the $24,000,000 Prohibition Amendment—Vote in the House Was 239 to 125.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—(AP)—The second deficiency bill weathered the prohibition storm in the house today and was sent to the senate with the presidential recommendations safely embodied in the $194,500,000 supply measure.

Immediately after the house by a vote of 239 to 125 had placed its mark of approval on the bill, the signal was given that it would face a period of rough weather in the senate similar to that encountered in the house.

Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, served notice that when the measure was taken up in the senate he would offer again the $24,000,000 prohibition amendment that led to the death in conference of the first deficiency bill. The second measure carries most of the items that were incorporated in that bill.

The $24,000,000 proposal twice was rejected by the house, once when the amendment was offered on the floor Saturday and again today when that body refused by a roll call vote to send the bill back to the appropriations committee to incorporate the huge amount in the measure.

As the legislation goes to the senate it carries the $2,727,000 recommendation for prohibition that was transmitted to congress last week by President Coolidge. This fund would be distributed among the department of justice, customs bureau, prohibition bureau and civil service commission to carry on their activities relating to enforcement of the dry laws.

An impenetrable cordon of republican votes protected the presidential recommendations from the time the measure was taken up in the house. Although the southern democrats stood firmly behind the larger figure throughout the struggle, they lost the support of most of the New York and other eastern democrats who threw their support to the republicans to defeat the proposal.

There were half a dozen amendments to increase the amount before the house finished with the bill. Most of these were offered by democrats, but one, to provide $300,000,000 for enforcement, was proposed by Representative Laguardia, a New York republican, who ranged himself alongside the democrats.

Among its various items the measure includes an amendment sponsored by Representative Cramton, republican Michigan, to provide $250,000 for an investigation of the operations of the prohibition law. The sum would enable President-elect Hoover to carry out his campaign promise that such an investigation would be made.

In addition the bill among other provisions carries $75,000,000 for tax refunds. This item was sharply contested in the house during consideration of the first deficiency bill. The measure also carries $17,299,000 to pay the salary increases granted government employes under the Welch act which passed last season.

CONFERENCES HELD BY PRESIDENT-ELECT HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—(AP)—President-elect Hoover was informed by Speaker Longworth today that in all probability it would not be possible to convene congress in special session before April 10. The speaker thought, however, that once convened its activities could be restricted to farm relief and to revision of the tariff.

The president-elect also conferred with William J. Donovan, assistant to the attorney-general, who returned to Washington from Santa Fe, New Mexico, especially for the interview. Donovan has been mentioned frequently as a likely selection for secretary of war.

Mr. Longworth said the ways and means committee of the house would hold a meeting Saturday to take stock of the situation and determine as accurately as possible the date on which a tariff revision measure would be ready for the consideration of congress. The speaker said that although it did not seem as if congress could be convened before April 10, the opening certainly would not be later than April 20.

SENATE MIGHT NOT CONFIRM SEVERAL NOMINATIONS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—(AP)—Hope virtually was abandoned today by senate leaders of obtaining confirmation of any of several nominations facing contests. Unless acted upon at this session, the nominations die.

The nominations under fire and awaiting a chance for senate consideration include those of Irvine L. Lenroot, a former Wisconsin senator, to be a member of the court of customs appeals; Henry Glassie, a former tariff commissioner, to be a judge of the District of Columbia supreme court, and Pat Neff, former governor of Texas, to be a member of the railway board of mediation.

The nominations of Arthur Ratchelder of Massachusetts, and Cyril M. Jansky, of Minnesota, to be members of the radio commission, also are pending.

After an all-day session the senate judiciary committee failed to reach a decision on the nominations of Lenroot and Glassie, and their cases went over until tomorrow.

He suffered a stroke in December last year and since had been confined to his daughter's home.

The next day he showed some improvement but an attack of pleurisy retarded his convalescence. He went to Battle Creek, Mich., for treatment and in April of 1924 he sent from there his resignation to the board of the Plymouth Congregational church. He then was made pastor emeritus.

FENN REAPPORTIONMENT BILL MAKING ITS LAST STRUGGLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25—The Fenn bill for reapportionment is making its last struggle for existence with the odds strongly against it. Although a special session of the senate will be held tonight for exclusive consideration of the bill it is practically certain no vote will be taken, but the measure be hotly debated by supporters and opponents. Speculation at this moment goes a long step further, and predictions are rife to the effect that the Fenn bill will fail of passage at this congress.

Another failure to pass congress that will be a serious disappointment to Connecticut is the bill to refund to that state more than $600,000 as reimbursement of money advanced the government and expended during the War of 1812. Representative Stobbs, of Massachusetts, who bore the brunt of securing a favorable report from the judiciary committee, filed that report today, but at the same time a minority committee report was filed signed by nine members of the committee and has roused so much opposition to the bill that those favoring it believe it unwise to press the measure at this time, when the tension is high. Should the measure be defeated, as is more than probable under existing circumstances, such defeat might militate against it when reintroduced in the next congress. As a result Connecticut interests may be better safeguarded by delay, and that is the probable action to be followed by those most interested to secure reimbursement for the state.

ASSAULTED AND SHOVED WOMAN INTO FURNACE

ATCHISON, Kas., Feb. 25—(AP)—Stuffed head first into a blazing furnace in the basement of her home by a Negro who had assaulted her, Mrs. C. V. Jacobs, 53, wife of a retired baker, was burned probably fatally here today before her attacker was frightened away.

Louis Glover, 37, the alleged assailant, was arrested an hour and a half later and spirited out of town by officers to forestall possible mob action.

Mrs. Jacobs was severely burned about the head and shoulders and nearly suffocated but was able to make a statement before she collapsed. Little hope was held tonight for her recovery.

She told officers that Glover, who had been employed as a handy man about the house, attacked her, dragged her down the cellar steps and forced her head and shoulders through the furnace door.

The Negro was frightened by the ringing of the door bell when the woman's husband returned home and fled. Jacobs found his wife with her clothing ablaze.

Glover was whisked out of town so rapidly that few persons knew of the alleged attack until late today. There was some scattered talk of violence, but no demonstrations developed.

Police said the Negro at one time was an inmate of a local insane asylum.

HANGS HIMSELF RATHER THAN FACE POLICE COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 25—Rather than face the police court on a charge of carnal abuse of a female child, John W. Culver of 33 Jackson street, 71, committed suicide by hanging by his trouser belt in cell No. 2 at police headquarters this morning. The motive or the suicide is believed to have been a stricken conscience over the depraved actions that have blighted his character for some time. Officer Arthur Hurley discovered the body hanging from a cross bar of the cell door at 7.30 o'clock. Cutler had been placed in the cell Sunday night following his arrest on complaint of a 13 year old girl and her parents. He was to have been presented in police court at 9 o'clock today on a charge of rape. A few hours before his body was discovered the officer in charge at the time had visited the cell room and noted nothing unusual in Culver's condition. Joseph LaFlamme who was quartered in No. 1 cell stated that he did not hear any sound that would give any indication that a man was taking his own life in the adjacent cell.

Culver had tied his trouser belt on the cross bar and looped it around his neck. He then stepped from his prison cot. Dr. Louis I. Mason, medical examiner, viewed the body and gave permission for removal. Culver's impending trial and other cases scheduled for court had attracted a crowd of spectators and when news of the suicide spread considerable excitement was caused in the group.

John W. Culver was born in this city June 18, 1857, a son of John and Sarah A. Wilson Culver. Besides his wife he leaves several nephews and nieces. He was a dresser tender and was affiliated with the Order of United American Mechanics.

HAGGERTY AND WALSH FINED FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 25—Fines of $200 and costs in each case were imposed in police court today on John J. Haggerty and Harold Walsh, both of this city who were charged with violation of the liquor laws by possession of intoxicants with intent to sell. Both young men gave notice of an appeal to the April criminal term of the Windham county superior court. Bonds were fixed at $300 in each case.

Haggerty was arrested Saturday evening in a raid at Haggerty's jitney office in the Bacon block on Temple street. The raid was staged by Sergeant Grant Bombria and Officers Albert Montie, Alfred Meikle and James Kearns. When the officers entered Haggerty and Walsh were in a room where about two and one half pints of moonshine were located. At that time Haggerty, who gave Sergeant Bombria a scuffle and managed to destroy part of the evidence, was arrested and later released under bonds.

While Haggerty's case was being tried this morning Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher issued a warrant for Walsh who was present in court chambers and was immediately taken into custody.

Through his attorney, Haggerty pleaded not guilty and stated that he had not anything to do with the renting of the room in the Bacon block since the first of this year although he visited there on occasions to hear radio programs. Witness said that it was his belief that Walsh was renting the room. He stated that Walsh invited him (Haggerty) to have a drink and told where the liquor was located. Haggerty said that he had just secured the bottle when Sergeant Bombria entered and that he dropped the bottle on the floor. He denied that there had been any sale of liquor while he was present in the room.

Sergeant Bombria and Officers Montie and Meikle gave corroborating testimony for the state. Napoleon Bacon, owner of the block testified that Haggerty had given up the room about January 1 and that Walsh had made a rental payment to him once since that time, establishing the belief that Walsh and not Haggerty was occupying the room.

It was at this point in the trial that Judge Frank H. Foss called a recess while the warrant was drafted and serve don Walsh. The latter entered a plea of nolo contendre. Prosecutor Gaucher moved for judgment but this was deferred by the court until the completion of the other case.

Walsh testified that he had rented the room from Mr. Bacon, stating that he was an electrician and that no liquor was sold in the room which was used solely as a gathering place for a group of friends interested in radio. He corroborated Haggerty's testimony as to the events of Saturday evening. The case constituted Haggerty's second offense on a violation of the liquor law charge, he having been arrested over a month ago in a raid on the same room. Judge Foss, termed the alibi presented in the testimony as "blind" to hide the true facts of the case and then imposed the fines of $200 in each case.

WESTERLY

BLIND MAN BURNED IN BUS SAID TO BE LEVI HOPKINS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 25—A charred and smoking hulk of twisted steel and ashes was all that remained in the early afternoon of Monday on Center Hill, about a half mile toward Westerly, on the Noose Neck Hill road, out of Hope Valley, of what had been a Gray line motor bus, P 440, R. I. Jitney 226. In the ashes at the rear of the bus, which was en route from Boston to New York, Chief of Police William L. Kay, of Hope Valley, was endeavoring to get out of the hot ashes, aiding Undertakers S. R. Avery and Son, the few charred bones of a bus passenger. The burned man was tentatively identified as Levi Hopkins, of East Providence, an inmate of Faith Home for the Blind.

The driver, Donald A. Gass, is held on a technical charge of manslaughter, it is understood. At 12:30, word was carried to Sergt. James E. Norman, on duty at the Hope Valley state police barracks, that a motor coach was on fire just outside Hope Valley. Troopers were sent out and Dr. Hartford Gongaware, of Hope Valley, was called to the barracks. The doctor arrived at the barracks as the passengers, some suffering from serious burns, were brought in and first aid treatment was given and then they were sent in five or six private automobiles, to Westerly hospital.

The bus passenger list numbered 24 or 25. The flames seemed to burst out without any warning on the right side, apparently from the heater between the second and third seats. The flames spread so fast that a man who occupied a seat near the rear of the bus and had only to open the emergency door and step out, had his hair singed before he could gain a point of safety outside at the rear left of the bus which Operator Gass stopped on the right hand side of the cement highway near a small pond hole. It was but a moment before the flames enveloped the entire interior of the bus.

Besides the man burned to death, an eleven-years-old girl was the most seriously injured, and is in a dangerous condition at Westerly hospital. She was trampled underfoot by the passengers who rushed toward the front door in making their escape.

Passengers taken to the Westerly hospital for treatment of cuts, wounds, and burns were, including the driver:

Donald A. Gass, 28, 21 Cottage road, Medford, Mass.

Thomas Dowling, 24, 2 Lincoln house, Tuffnell, Park Hill, London, England.

Jack Goodman, 19, 74 Seaview avenut, Malden, Mass.

Edward J. Donovan, 37, 3563 89th street, Jackson Heights, L. I.

The injured were attended by Drs. Hartford Gongaware, of Hope Valley, and John Ruisi, John Helfrich, Richard Shea and Harry Crandall.

The Chrysler cars of the state police were all used, and they commandeered all the cars they could find in Hope Valley to bring the injured to the hospital, making the trip in record time.

There was a rumor that several of the passengers who were injured were taken to the South County Hospital, in Wakefield, but this was not so, as all of the injured were brought to Westerly, the nearest place to the accident.

Driver Gass explained that he was driving along the hill when he turned his head to the right and saw a blaze, and about that time some one pounded on the window. He turned the car to the side of the road and applied the brakes, stopping the car within 22 feet. In that short time, he said the flames flashed up the side of the bus and the whole roof was ablaze. The doors were thrown open, and there was a stampede of passengers, some jumping out of the windows. Others piled in front, and some in the rear. Gass, is a veteran of the World war, who served overseas in Co. B, of the 121st Infantry.

Several hours after the fire the state barracks authorities were in doubt as to the identity of the burned man.

Through express trains on the New Haven road were operated in several sections Sunday afternoon and evening to care for the returning rush of Washington birthday week end holiday trippers. The platforms about the Westerly waiting station resembled those of the summer season when crowded with visitors to and from Westerly beaches. Sunday morning the east bound New England express having the coaches of the Federal express besides its regular coach and sleeping car equipment was delayed at Westerly station while a new connecting rubber steam pipe hose which had blown out between two forward baggage cars was replaced with a new one that the car occupants might remain warm on their trip to Boston. The express left before the rear flagman could catch the train after he had been sent to the rear with his red flag.

Two policemen were on duty Monday morning when the work of excavating on the lot adjoining the Colonial club was begun by a steam shovel and fleet of motor trucks. When the building is completed north of the Westerly post office block which will replace the wooden Colonial club structure will be 242 feet long, 60 feet wide and two stories high.

The property was sold to A. Horowitz and others of Worcester, Mass. by the Wilcox park trustees about a year ago for over $160,000. The building planned by the new owners will cost $200,000 and will have ground floor space for 16 stores. The second floor will be for offices.

In the meantime the Colonial club will be moved to the rear of the lot. The A. M. Gencarelli Co., which has charge of the excavation work, stated that the ask would be completed in about a month.

It is generally rumored here that Montgomery-Ward will have one of the stores in the new business block.

DANIELSON

TWO DOGS SUSPECTED OF RABIES KILLED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 25—Two more dogs suspected of having developed rabies have been "sent west" and their heads forwarded to Hartford today by Dog Warden Charles E. Ayer as the quarantine went into effect in the towns of Killingly, Brooklyn and Putnam. One of these dogs was owned in Dayville, the other in Attawaugan. The Dayville dog, in confinement for the past two weeks because of the suspicion that it had been bitten by a dog since established as rabid, suddenly went mad yesterday and was killed. The Attawaugan dog, not known to have been bitten, though there is no proof that he had not been, also developed marked symptoms of rabies on Sunday and also was despatched. Reports on the heads of these dogs are expected to reach Warden Ayer on Tuesday or Wednesday.

Meanwhile the officially warned quarantine on dogs went into effect this morning and was very generally obeyed. A few dogs were seen loose, and in some cases owners chasing after them, but their roaming in about every instance was due to slipping collars and getting away from the places where they had been chained or by slipping out of homes where they were confined when someone came in or went out.

Killingly High school's new band is a growing organization. At the present time it has between 80 and 90 members, all diligently applying themselves to becoming proficient in the use of the instruments which they have elected to play. The membership of the band is made up of both boys and girls. Though this was a vacation day, the regular Monday rehearsal was held at the high school today and many of the players spent hours there practicing. The band is doing well. It now plays simple marches and other numbers, and progressing encouragingly. The band includes about 30 cornet and trumpet players, has around a dozen saxophones, a number of trombones, alto, bass and baritone players, as well as a good clarinet section. The drummers number in the neighborhood of ten. The first parade appearance of the band is scheduled for Memorial day, three months hence. At that time the band will be nattily, though inexpensively, uniformed. The boys are to wear white trousers and white sweaters, the sweaters have a large letter K on which a lyre will be superimposed. The girls will wear white skirts and sweaters like those worn by the boys. Along with the practicing they are now engaged in the members of of the band are being taught marching in parade formation. They give evidence of liking it all.

This morning the funeral of Jule Bazillion was held from the home on Tiffany street, with funeral services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S., Rev. Josephe Bergin, M. S., and Rev. Joseph A. Demers, M. S., were officers of the solemn high mass of requiem. A delegation of members of the Union St. John Baptist, of which Mr. Bazillion had been a member for years, attended the service and the bearers were members of the union. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery, the committal service conducted by Rev. Fr. Demers. The bearers were Nestor Gaudreau, Pierre Tourgeon, Henry Alderie, Fred I. Racine, Joseph Belanger and Oliver Belanger. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

His many friends here and in surrounding communities will learn with regret of the death in Webster the past week of Colin S. Campbell, for years a resident of Danielson. Mr. Campbell had been in failing health for a long time, and since last July had been able to get about very little. As a registered pharmacist, he was employed here for years at the Woodward Drug store and after leaving that concern was manager of Burroughs Drug store. He was a genial, courteous man, traits that won him many friends. Mr. Campbell was a native of Hudson, Mass., and was in his 59th year. He is survived by his wife and two sisters.

JACKSON INQUEST TO BE RESUMED THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 25—Coroner Arthur G. Bill said this afternoon that he will resume the inquest relative to the death of County Detective W. E. Jackson at Willimantic on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. The coroner expects to finish the inquest on that day, but will not be able to forecast until thereafter how long a time will elapse before his finding is made. The coroner further indicated this afternoon that he is not certain as yet as to all of the persons that he will question at Willimantic on Thursday. It will be recalled that Mrs. Gertrude Tracy Jackson, widow of the slain detective was called to testify at the inquest pertaining to her husband's death just a few hours before she committed suicide. What she may have been asked when questioned and what replies she made remain as much of a secret with the coroner as the contents of the two notes said to have been found upon her person after her death.

Constable Louis S. Barstow of East Killingly, who is doing the "mopping up" as they used to say over there during the war days of a decade ago, on personal tax charges in Killingly, said this morning that the number of unpaid personal taxes now number approximately a half a dozen, out of all of the hundreds of people liable to pay them in this town. Constable Barstow is operating with the aid of alias warrants. He calls on a delinquent, demands payment, gives a few hours to produce where circumstances warrant such a concession, and then if the money is not forthcoming invites the person who has not paid to get into his car and take a ride over to the county jail. No delinquent has as yet seen fit to take the trip. They pay. It is regarded as rather a significant fact that delinquents of last year on the personal tax list who were visited by the constable are in no case included on this year's slow-pay list.

A point that does not appear to be clear in the minds of some hunters is as to whether they have a right to use their dogs for hunting during the quarantine period. They have. The quarantine notice includes a paragraph that sets forth that hunting dogs may be released while actually engaged in hunting game and while they are accompanied by a licensed hunter. This is of particular interest just now to men who hunt foxes.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Feb. 25.—Men, women and children representative of every walk of life, filled St. Mary's church to its capacity this morning to pay final tribute to Daniel J. Byrne, treasurer of the Putnam Savings bank, who died last Friday, and whose funeral services were held at ten o'clock this morning.

The church was filled with mourners nearly an hour before the arrival of the funeral cortege, while another gathering of friends and acquaintances of Mr. Byrne remained in the churchyard while the solemn high mass of requiem was being celebrated. The high altar bore the mourning colors of the church.

The solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's church, assisted by Rev. Bernard J. Donnelly, pastor of St. Anne's church, Hartford, deacon, Rev. Henry Quinn, of St. Joseph's church, Willimantic, subdeacon, and Rev. Francis Kelough, assistant chancellor of the diocese, St. Joseph's cathedral, Hartford, master of ceremonies.

In the santcuary of the church were the following priests, all intimate friends of Mr. Byrne: Rev. John Downey, pastor of St. Peter's church, Hartford; Rev. Father Dargan, curate of St. Peters, Hartford; Rev. John C. Mathieu, pastor of St. Joseph's church, North Grosvenordale; Rev. Edward Mathieu, pastor of St. Mary's church, Willimantic; Rev. John Quinn of Westerly; Rev. John H. Quinn of Wauregan, Rev. Edward J. Quinn of Norwich Town, Rev. Ernest J. Boileau and Rev. Joseph D. Casey, curates of St. Mary's church, Putnam, and Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor of St. Mary's Memorial church, Norwich.

The Gregorian plain chant was sung by the members of the male quartet of St. Patrick's church of Hartford, under the direction of John McCarthy, who accompanied the singers at the organ.

The honorary bearers were Ernest B. Kent, vice president of the Putnam Savings bank; John Reardon, president of the institution of which Mr. Byrne was treasurer; Byron D. Bugbee, president of the Bugbee corporation and president of the Cargill Trust company; Samuel Reynolds, president of the Citizens National bank; John P. Burial was in the Byrne family lot in St. Mary's cemetery. The grave and final resting place of Mr. Byrne was surrounded by beautiful floral pieces. Committal services at the grave were conducted by Rev. Father Bellerose and Rev. Father Mathieu.

The Putnam Savings bank where Mr. Byrne was connected for the past 15 years remained closed today until one o'clock in memory of its late treasurer. The other two Putnam banks and all retail houses in the city, in displaying their love and admiration for the dead business leader suspended business operations between 10 and 11 o'clock.

Lieut. Everett S. Davis, U. S. Army Air service took off for Boston from Mantup field in the vicinity of his home in Gary district this morning, after a three day visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett A. Davis. Lieut. Davis left shortly after eight o'clock, the Curtiss-Falcon bomber making a perfect take off. The army officer then circled above the city and thrilled hundreds who watched him in his "warming up" tactics. After obtaining his bearings the flier headed his plane for East Boston airport on official business. Within two hours he was back over Putnam and made a second landing "in his own backyard" where he bade his mother and father farewell, returned to his craft and in another flight over the business section of the city, regained bearings and disappeared over the horizon, on his way back to his post at Langley field, Virginia.

The entire city fire apparatus of the two stations, was summoned this morning on a general alarm from box 46 on Church street to extinguish a chimney fire. The alarm was sounded shortly before five o'clock, when a four stroke alarm struck a few minutes previous failed to raise the giant ladders of the hook and ladder truck to the peak of the roof at 53 Bridge street. The fire was quickly extinguished without damage.

Frank E. Howath, former treasurer of the Hartford Yacht club and former Putnam lawyer was found dead from gas asphyxiation at his room at the Hartford Yacht club in Hartford Sunday afternoon. Medical Examiner Dr. H. J. Onderdonk of Hartford, pronounced Howarth a victim of suicide.

Frank E. Howarth was born in Putnam in 1890, the son of Thomas J. and Ellen Howarth. He attended schools in Putnam and graduated from Putnam high school in June, 1908. Following the completion of his education Mr. Howarth entered the law offices of Torrey and Geissler, becoming a law student of Attorney Charles L. Torrey. Howarth proved to be a brilliant student and under the guidance of Mr. Torrey, one of Connecticut's best known lawyers, soon was prepared to take his examinations for the Connecticut state bar. In June, 1911, the young man, not yet 21 years of age, went to Hartford where he took the exams and successfully passed them, obtaining unusually high markings in his tests. Within a few months he was admitted to the Connecticut state bar.

He opened an office for the practice of his profession in the Bradley block on Front street. Howarth, then one of the youngest members of the law association, through his thorough knowledge of law and wonderful examples of oratory, given in courts in this state, soon brought the eyes of some of the most prominent attorneys in the state upon him.

After a few years of law practice, Howarth encountered social difficulties and he retired from the bar association. Later he went to Hartford and became prominent in yachting circles, through his affiliation with the Hartford Yacht club, serving as its treasurer for two years. During this length of time he did much for the improvement of the organization, centering his interests in the club.

Mr. Howarth is survived by three brothers, Thomas J. Howarth of Lenox, Mass., George Howarth now in China and Raphael Howarth, whose address is unknown. He also leaves a sister, who resides in Providence, R. I.

All dogs in the city of Putnam are now under strict quarantine, which went into effect this morning. The purpose of the quarantine is to prevent any possible outbreak of rabies. All dogs were today chained upon upon leashes or were confined to the area of a kennel enclosure as prescribed by the state department of domestic animals.

The members of the Congregational church of this city were presented with an evening of music, consisting of vocal and instrumental selections. This program as was presented at the church last evening was in place of the regular Sunday evening "Friendly Evening Service."

The musical program which followed consisted of the following numbers: Organ prelude, "Laus Deo," Dubois, by J. The Southern New England Telephone company had its wire gangs at work in the borough all day Monday stringing, through Main street, a new cable which carries 102 pairs of wires. The telephone company seem anxious to give the borough the best service possible. Close to 500 subscribers are now handled with accuracy and dispatch. Few localities show a 10-year increase in telephone service equal to Jewett City's.

OOn the Dorrville ice fields, another cutting could be made today, better ice it would be than any of the harvest of last winter, when, in March, a few tons of 6-inch ice was housed.

A big Pacific truck did the "Leaping Lena" act on Hill street, Monday, with an amused gallery wondering what was coming next. The heavy service auto was loaded with floor planking, for the new Ashland mill. Upon striking the Hall street grade the forward end, driver, engine and all, mounted skyward until the rear overhang of lumber hit the road. To the credit of the machine and the driver, both hung to the job, while the engine never missed a stroke.

White-throated sparrows were re-ported from the parsonage grounds in Newent, last week. Not only early but quite rare.

The finest and smartest cars on the streets of the world

It is a very tangible value in Cadillac-La Salle that all over the world Cadillac-La Salle ownership carries with it the unquestioned admission that the owner is driving the very finest motor cars which his highest ambition can attain.

OTHER cars have sought in vain to achieve the high social prestige that has been inseparably Cadillac's for a generation. But you have only to pause where the smartest people congregate, you have only to check the social register, and you will inevitably discover a preponderance of Cadillacs and La Salles.

And the simple bald fact about this is that men and women who know motor cars know too that if they want a car to ride and drive as Cadillac-La Salle ride and drive they must eliminate everything else from consideration.

For the truth of all truths about Cadillac-La Salle, and something that you know full well, is just this: it is because of inherent and surpassing excellence that there is no substitute for the priceless possession and prestige of a Cadillac-built car.

Where else—in all the world—will you find the same measure of comfort, of riding and driving ease?—where else such vital provisions for safety and freedom of mind?

The Cadillac-La Salle Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission. A vital essential in time of emergency, this transmission permits lightning-like shifting of gears with a finger-touch, at any speed, without pausing in neutral. It is quiet, simple, positive and effortless in operation and removes even the faintest suggestion of clashing gears.

Cadillac-La Salle Duplex-Mechanical System of Four-Wheel Brakes. Though these new brakes are amazingly powerful and positive in action, slight effort is required to operate them. Just a touch of the toe on the brake pedal and they respond instantaneously.

Cadillac-La Salle Security-Plate Glass, with which Cadillac-La Salle windows, doors and windshields are equipped, remains intact in the event of collision or if struck by stones flung up from the wheels of passing cars.

Included in the present Cadillac-La Salle line are twenty-three refreshingly beautiful Fisher bodies and fifteen exclusive and luxurious custom models, Fleetwood designed and Fleetwood built, exemplifying the very last word in chic, smartness and luxury.

La Salle is priced from $2295 to $2875; Cadillac, from $3295 to $3995; Fleetwoods up to $7000—all prices f. o. b. Detroit. Cadillac-La Salle dealers welcome business on the General Motors Deferred Payment Plan. Enjoy the car now and pay out of income.

THE SPECIAL CITY MEETING.

After a search of many weeks after facts concerning the gas and electrical department, the special committee appointed by the city meeting has indicated to Mayor Robbins that it has completed its work and is ready to report.

What the committee has to say about the conditions it found, the study of the operations of the plant, the inquiry concerning the new rate schedule which was put into effect last fall and which precipitated the city meeting and the naming of a special committee will be disclosed to the citizens Wednesday evening. Likewise any recommendations which the committee may have to make in view of its discoveries.

It becomes apparent therefore that the special city meeting Wednesday night is one which should be of unusual interest to the citizens of Norwich. It concerns not only those who have been adversely affected by the rate schedule which is in effect but all those who are concerned in the operations of the gas and electric department, and inasmuch as the citizens are the stockholders, that should be a meeting which as many as possible should be disposed to attend.

Norwich awaits with interest what the committee has to say concerning the inquiry it has made. It is to be hoped that it is thorough and that all the facts will be brought to light. Many questions have been asked and perhaps many more are ready to be asked in the quest for information. Norwich has been going along on the much criticized new schedule in the hope that the committee which was named to get the facts would be able to open the way for relief.

It rests with the people to say what shall be done once the report of the committee has been heard and to take action upon any recommendations that may be made. That means that there should be a representative gathering of the citizens Wednesday night. It is not a time when such an important matter should be left to the action of a few, and if the interest which has been displayed in the forthcoming meeting means anything the capacity of the town hall will be taxed to its limit. It is no more than should be expected.

CANNOT BE BLAMED.

Fully aware of the fact that Washington will be the assembly place of a large number of people from all parts of the country just prior to, during and following the inauguration next Monday, an organized body of Washington citizens, known as the citizens joint committee on national representation, has arranged to carry on a campaign of education among these visitors.

The belief prevails among the Washingtonians that there is too little known about the position they are in concerning the franchise. They think that this can to some extent be overcome. They are impressed by the opportunity which is presented to them and they are going to make the most of it by setting forth the facts and the figures which pertain to the situation. In this way it is hoped to arouse a sympathetic interest that will be carried to all corners of the country in their behalf with the expectation of getting support in their endeavors.

No one can blame them for making the most of this opportunity. Washington is a large city and there are hundreds of thousands there who ought to have a vote but whom are prevented from participating in national elections because they are residents of the District of Columbia. While this may be known its real significance may not be appreciated by most people. Yet when it is called to their attention and the information they are given sets them to thinking about the situation it is not unlikely that many of those who see and hear will become missionaries in behalf of voteless Washington.

It isn't a case of Washington saying whether it shall have the vote or not. It rests primarily with congress, and then through a constitutional amendment such a privilege could be gained if the states of the country ratified it. Steps to get such an amendment have been taken. Progress cannot be said to have been record-breaking but this new effort indicates that there is no willingness to let any possible influence escape. They think they have just as good a right to vote as any of the other citizens and there is a growing feeling that even though they have not obtained it they have proved their case.

NON-SINKABLE SHIPS.

When Admiral Sims declares there is no such thing as a non-sinkable ship he voices what has been frequently proved. There were the times when it was claimed that there were such ships, and it is still possible to hear it said even now, but ships continue to go down.

There is no escaping the fact that far greater safety exists for those who go to sea in ships than ever before. Experience has taught the need of improvements and increased provisions for safety and they have invariably been provided where passengers are transported. We note the ships today which not only carry the long required life boats and life preservers, but they are equipped with water tight compartments, radio for the summoning of assistance and various devices for detecting the presence of other ships in case of bad weather conditions.

Regardless of all these and the importance of maintaining these facilities at their best that the service in case of need may correspond ships continue to sink under certain conditions with the loss of many lives, they become helpless and require assistance and they pile up on the shores.

Nevertheless there probably never was a time when ocean transportation was surrounded with as great safety as it is today. When trouble develops and ships are lost it is too often found that conditions existed which ought to have been prevented, that negligence in the maintenance of protective measures has figured conspicuously and had there been full observance of the safety requirements, proper tests been carried out and the ship kept fit the ship would probably have remained afloat.

Apparently the admiral thinks there is such a thing possible as a non-sinkable ship, but it can be obtained only at the sacrifice of luxury. And yet one wonders if such a vessel should be constructed if there would be any more complete observance of the shipping regulations on such a vessel than there has been on vessels which ought to have remained afloat but sank because the means of assuring safety were allowed to deteriorate or conditions prevailed which made it possible to shirk safety provisions.

BLOCKED BY HOUSE.

Even though there was a disposition in the senate to disregard the wishes of the enforcement authorities and an inclination to throw embarrassment in the way of the next administration, the house of representatives at Washington took a decidedly different view and the result is that it defeated the proposal to appropriate $24,000,000 for the enforcement of prohibition.

The house has given heed to the statements which have been issued by those in charge of such work that such an amount of money could not be employed, that it is not needed under the existing conditions for using it and that no more satisfactory results could be accomplished with it than without it.

Furthermore, there is reason for believing that the house has given heed to the plan of President-elect Hoover to name a commission for the purpose of giving consideration and study to the whole prohibition question with a view to finding out what the facts are and how they can be the most satisfactorily met.

It is quite apparent that the senate action in making such a fund available for the use of the president as he might deem necessary was for the purpose of trying to complicate the situation and to create an utterly false impression.

There may be a time later on, when the commission which Mr. Hoover has promised he will name has completed its work and set forth its recommendations, that appropriations will be required to carry them out. Till that time comes and it is known what is wanted it is well to refrain from a manifest endeavor to complicate and overdo.

MEXICAN MURDERS.

Those who are disposed to make trouble for the new president of Mexico are continuing their activities by the kidnapping and murder of two American engineers. This is an old but aggravating practice, one which it is realized the Mexican government isn't directly responsible for but one which it is bound to be looked to correct.

Thus when representations are made to that effect it is to be noted that President Portes Gil is already active in that work. There are always those in every country who are ready to assume the role of outlaw, ready to stir up strife and anxious to make trouble for the government regardless of the hardships that are inflicted upon innocent individuals.

Whatever may be the object of the murderers there is slight ground for believing that it can disrupt the improved relations which exist between the United States and Mexico, however much it may be intended to bring it about.

From all indications the Mexican president does not intend to permit such conditions to prevail. He serves notice that he intends to exercise a firm hand in dealing with them as if to inform them and others that there is to be no thought of toleration where lawlessness develops. It is quite evident that he is much disturbed by the occurrence, that he does not welcome other manifestations of disorder and that he doesn't propose to have his government's relations with this country jeopardized

It is not improbable that he will be criticized for some of his utterances made following the disturbances and yet it remains to be seen whether they are made for home consumption and the quicker correction of the trouble or whether he actually intends to go the limit in meeting the situation which he faces.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Col. John Q. Tilson, who has been entrusted by President-elect Hoover to fix the date of the special session, has made no formal announcement as to that date. He feels the two principal measures to be considered must be ready and waiting, when congress convenes. But it is a pretty good guess that Wednesday, April 10, may be the date determined upon, although between the 8th and the 15th holds good for general prediction.

Col. Tilson has made it known that he expects the ways and means committee will be ready to report out a bill by April 8th and that the agricultural bill would be ready then or within a week later, so the 10th is likely to be the date, according to the best information obtainable.

Usually extra sessions have begun on a Monday, but that is a habit, not a rule.

Over in the senate, Senator Bingham won new glories when he so successfully took the lead in the matter of killing the Heflin resolution to prohibit the use of the church pennant in its place at the peak of naval vessels, during divine services on board ship. The Heflin resolution met its death by a vote of 70 to 7 after another of the customary virtuperative harangues by Mr. Heflin.

In the list of chief killers of the Heflin resolution were Moses of New Hampshire, Metcalf of Rhode Island and Tydings of Maryland, who in combination with Senator Bingham, won out on every point.

Mr. Bingham was active and successful in the matter of eliminating the Dill amendment known as the Nicaragua amendment regarding troops stationed there in time of peace or by act of congress, which, had it gone through the senate as a rider to the navy bill was likely to prevent passage of the bill at this session, owing to delay and opposition it would meet in the house. With only five working days left the 70th congress, anything that spells controversy is quite likely to spell failure to pass.

Preparations for entertainment of Gov. Trumbull and his official party during their visit here, are being completed. The most notable social event will be the dinner given in their honor by Senator and Mrs. Bingham on the evening of March 4th, to which a large company of distinguished persons in political and diplomatic circles have been invited.

Col. Tilson has again been sworn in as colonel in the ordnance section of the reserve corps, his commission being for another five years, his former one just expiring. The ceremony took place in his private office at the capitol. It will be recalled that Col. Tilson was ordnate expert of the house during the World war, serving at that time on the military affairs committee. He later was assigned to the ton committee of all, that ways and means, and resigned from that when elected leader of the majority side of the house, a position he now holds.

The press gallery is the main channel through which American political news goes to the whole world. Every great press association and leading dailies have representatives in that body. The president gives them this special interview twice each week, in order that they may get the news "as is" and all have equal opportunity to get the facts and the true background of events. As men we members of the press move along, through the short corridor that leads to the president's office, we face the keen scrutiny of a half dozen secret service men, door keepers and other officials on guard to see that none but those authorized may find their way into the presidential office. For once within the room, there is easy opportunity to take the president off guard, either in person or speech, by crank or criminal, or unscrupulous writer. The presidential office is a large circular room in which blazes an open fire of white birch or maple, suggestive of the New England home of Mr. Coolidge, who is found seated at a big flat top mahogany desk engaged in looking over the list of questions filed by the newspaper men, and which they hope he will answer. As soon as the men have ranged themselves in a semi-circle around the room, facing him, the president rises, nods pleasantly, then without further formality or greeting, answers, the first of the questions.

The desk is free from clutter or mass of work: only a few books and perhaps a state paper or two waiting his signature show it is in use. At its right, close to the president is a standard on which a beautiful silk American flag drapes itself in soft folds. Sometimes there are roses on the desk, but not always. Through the great circular windows back of the president one looks beyong the broad lawn to the nearby Potomac, and the Washington monument. The president's personal stenographer sits at the president's side, the only person to sit while the president stands. Official notes are taken for future reference if need be, of all questions and answers. That is a practice followed ever since press conferences originated in the Wilson administration, or shortly prior to it.

Once Mr. Coolidge begins to answer written or interpolated questions, he loses all claim to the title of the "silent president." He explains his attitude on various matters at length, he drifts into illustrations, he is what we may term "chatty," if we were not afraid no one would believe us. I recall one summer day, we heard the hum of bees out side the open window. Some one made a facetious remark about possible white house honey. The president grinned—yes, there is no other word for it—then said in his slow New England way, that he didn't like honey, and had never eaten any since the way, when he was a little fellow and "only about so high," measuring from the floor, he had climbed to a chair then to a pantry shelf up in the little Vermont farmhouse, dug his small fists into a honey jar, and ate so much it made him sick. When the laugh died down, the president readjusted his tortoise rimmed glasses and returned to comments on international affairs, without the slightest evidence he had ever broken into personalities and had, for a moment, chatted as freely and informally as if with neighbors up on the Green hills.

When a conference is ended, the president bows slightly, says he "guesses" that is all he can say today, then turns to his desk and begins work while the men file out of the room. The Bulletin correspondent has had the privilege of attending press conferences throughout the administrations of Wilson, Harding and Coolidge. No greater opportunity could be found for sizing up the temperment and temper of presidents than those conferences offer. Wilson drove with a tight reign. When he wished to prevent being asked embarrassing questions he spiked the guns in advance, by saying, "I do not wish to be questioned or have mentioned here today" such matters. President Harding always had a smile for "the boys," as he called the newspaper men; if they asked questions he thought should not be answered, he would laugh and say, "Oh, boys, you ought not to ask me that." He trusted them, and often talked with perfect freedom. Under the same circumstances Mr. Coolidge simply "hasn't heard" the question, and without rebuke or expressing annoyance turns to the next question and continues as before.

Neither Mr. Harding nor Mr. Coolidge were ever known to mislead correspondents by their answers. And in the 15 years, and more since the conferences have been held, less than a half dozen of the hundred of correspondents attending have broken the unwritten law "do not quote the president."

When conferences seem at an end, the three presidents have shown plainly a wide difference of temperament.

Mr. Wilson would bow coldly and say, "I have nothing more to say."

Mr. Harding smiled, and said, "Good bye, boys. Come again next week."

Mr. Coolidge glances around the circle, then remarks he guesses that is all for today, but he is always ready to listen to still another question, if asked to do so.

What Mr. Hoover will do and say is a matter of considerable conjecture in the minds of that great body of political news writers, known as the capitol press gallery.

THE AGE OF EFFICIENCY

When Thyra arrived at the apartment Ellen was already home, and had dinner started.

"I'm hot and I'm tired and I'm disgusted," announced Thyra by way of greeting.

"You look it," replied Ellen. "What's the matter?"

"I don't like my job," said Thyra, stamping into a chair and rumpling her pretty bob. Ellen paused in her cooking operations.

"Why, I thought you loved your job," she exclaimed. "Just the other day you were raving and cooing about Mr. Saunders, and how you loved to take his dictation."

"That's just it," explained Thyra, tapping her foot angrily. "And now what does that old office manager do but put in dictating machines!" Ellen's face grew scarlet with her effort to keep from laughing.

"It's the age of efficiency, my dear," she said, turning the gas down a little. "But I wish you'd mend your broken heart long enough to cut some bread."

"The age of efficiency makes me sick," burst out Thyra a moment later as she hacked the bread with vicious strokes. "You may think it's fun to sit and listen to an old machine all day. You're a private secretary, and you've forgotten what it's like to be a stenographer. And not even a stenographer—a machinist!"

"Machines are taking all the romance out of the world, Thyra," said Ellen. "We must learn to adjust ourselves to the new day. Romance is dead, killed by efficiency."

But on the following morning Thyra had not yet adjusted herself to the new day sufficiently to go to work. She found a slight headache excuse for staying home from the detested office. When Ellen reached home that evening she found Thyra curled on the davenport, indulging in day dreams.

"Ellen!" Thyra burst out, jumping to her feet. "The most wonderful iceman!" Ellen gazed at her in bewilderment.

"What" she gasped.

"Oh, he's a dream! Curly black hair, and so big and handsome. He's marvelous!"

"The iceman!" said Ellen. "Do I understand that you are speaking of the person who brings our ice?"

"Yes! I've never seen him before because he comes when we are at the office. Oh, he's so romantic-looking! I just know he's a college football star, getting into condition. Lots of them carry ice, you know." Ellen gave up trying to restrain her mirth, but in spite of all her ridicule, Thyra stuck to her guns. He was a wonderful iceman.

On the following Saturday Ellen had a holiday from her office. Icemen were the last things she was thinking of until toward the middle of the morning she heard a noise in the kitchen. She hurried out in time to see the iceman inserting a huge block of ice through the outside door of the refrigerator. Ellen's heart gave a little jump. She gasped. Then, as the door of the refrigerator slammed and he disappeared down the steps, she sighed and returned to the living room.

"The trouble with Thyra," she said to Lereself, "is that she lacks the vocabulary to do a subject justice. He is superb, beautiful, divine!"

That night Ellen announced, with elaborate casualness, that instead of going away for her vacation she had resolved to spend it in the city.

"I really think I'll get more of a rest" she explained, a bit lamely, perhaps. Thyra was not acute enough to connect this sudden decision with an iceman. Ellen's vacation was to begin in just one week. During the intervening days she talked little, but her long silences were singularly expressive. She was waiting and anticipating.

When Thyra arrived home on the Friday evening just preceding Ellen's vacation, she found her busily packing her clothes.

"What in the world are you doing?" she inquired.

"I've changed my mind again," Ellen announced with an embarrassed laugh. "I'm going away after all." And then, as though she had just thought of it, she added, "Oh, did you notice, they've just installed electric refrigerators in all these aparments?"

Thyra went to see, and she remained in the kitchen a long time. When she returned she sat down on the davenport and gazed at the ceiling with a mischievous smile.

"The age of efficiency," she said, as though to herself. "It certainly is killing romance!"—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Partial Review

Mr. Editor: It is easy to see that the general clamor against the management of the gas-electrical combination is not proving that a municipal method of conducting a city's business is not economic, but just the reverse.

The abuses complained of, and despaired of remission or cure, are incident to the inert attitude of the city's government, which is also supposed to be in the hands of the people and under their control and superintendence.

It is difficult to understand why the furnishing of the city with light should be so much different from supplying it with water that the latter goes on with evident satisfaction to the public, while the former is a constant casus belli.

One bitter complainant's letter cites not only the outrage of overcharges but the absence of courtesy in the office of the G. & E. department, and draws comparison with the telephone department's handling of customers, and this leads me to have something to say about telephone rates—and the expense to patrons of that very necessary factor in the conduct of business. The use of an ordinary office phone costs the user $3.50 per month in advance. The expense for 12 months is therefore $42. This at the present rate of interest at the savings bank requires a deposit of $838, and if the user has another phone at his house the cost is about doubled. Multiply this by the number of citizens using the phone, and you can see the magnitude of capital put up, against which the telephone company brags about what it is costing them to run the system—and what great improvements they are making; all in behalf of their customers, as they would have us think. When other manufacturers improve their plants so as to do their work more expeditiously we find them reducing the price of their product—but in the telephone exchange's view, it is an argument for advance. They are just now announcing their intention to spend for improvements (?) in Norwich alone, $90,000, and we may be preparing ourselves for a raise in their tariffs, and there is no appeal.

As one writer fittingly says: "This used to be a free country!"—now it is the worst tax-ridden country, perhaps, on the planet. Once our fathers would go to war because of a tax, now we, their children, must sit demurely and meekly and hand over hard-earned cash to the cleric who makes out the bills.

Of course, courtesy lubricates the machinery of commerce, all right, but fair dealing between man and man is a stronger bond of sympathy for social prosperity and a righteous fraternity giving to all "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness".

As citizens we should all willingly stand for this and all who will not stand for it should be compelled to.

A BULLETIN READER.

Norwich, Feb. 25, 1929.

Some Questions About G. & E. Dept.

Mr. Editor: Mr. Pitcher's and Mr. Huber's letters have some good questions about the gas and electrical department and I hope there will be many more at the coming city meeting.

I would like to know why some people are charged for having an electric pump in their homes when others are not charged? When a person has a home where there is no city water, if he wants anything it is an electric pump, and to think that a special charge is made for a small electric motor in the home is outrageous.

No other community in the United States has such a charge and I do not believe that people in Norwich are so dumb as to permit a continuance.

We were told at the "free lecture" on rates that they were to give us $30,000 but as yet I do not know who is to get this money as most everyone I have talked with has to pay more, and many very much more. How can anyone call the present rates lower? The other reason was to increase the sales of merchandise to increase the consumption of electricity and I would like to know if one electric clock consumes less than 25 cents worth of electricity in one year's time how many thousands of these electric clocks will have to be sold to make a good load?

Much money has been spent to advertise these electric clocks during the past few weeks and I would like to know whether it is the electric load or is it commissions for the sales manager that has caused the gas and electrical commissioners to take the clock business away from the taxpaying stores selling clocks in our city.

Why could not the consumer have had the optional privilege of keeping the old rate if he wished, as privately owned companies do, rather than treating the owners of the plant like a dog, take it or leave it?

JAMES W. MURPHY.

Norwich, Feb. 23, 1929.

Well Impressed by G. & E. Dept.

Mr. Editor: I wish to say first in this letter that the gas and electrical department is not paying me to write this, as some of the city's critics will probably declare. The reason that I am writing this is because I found again in the paper this morning that several of our unsatisfied fellow citizens have made another attempt at literary creation. I have heard for several months that every person who favors the gas and electrical department is paid by them, and I wonder what deduction one is to make from such unjust theory. It seems to declare that either those who write destructive criticism are the only ones in the city of Norwich who have a right to their opinion, or that they themselves are being paid by someone who has a legal or personal grudge against the gas and electric or its heads.

By this I do not mean to give the impression that I am not in favor of criticism, but I feel that creative is much better than destructive criticism, and I have seen very little constructive criticism published in the papers. Possibly this is because most of the people of Norwich consider the accusations are against the heads and not against the gas and electric itself, and feel it below themselves to answer such accusations. One could say in defense though that when C. W. Taggart became the head of the department of the city it was impossible to procure coal because of the lack of credit, while now—any amount can be purchased either on credit or by "cash." This in itself shows good management. It also may be said that $8,000 a year as a salary is not a great amount to pay the head of a $3,000,000 plant.

I read that an abused taxpayer claims the gas and electric is somewhat responsible for his condition. Does he realize that this department of the city is the only one which does not cost the taxpayers anything? In fact, it does more than this—it gives the city lights for cost and helps pay the expenses of the city's other departments by its profits. Could anything be more just? The department pays a great many of its smaller expenses out of its petty cash fund, and thereby saves time and expense. Could anything be more reasonable? It sells electricity for three cents a kilowatt hour. Could the people of Norwich ask for anything more economical?

With these advantages in mind, and the fact that a great deal of propaganda has been spread about the gas and electric I hope that I will find that some of this criticism has been the result of misunderstanding, and not a fundamental base.

Why City Is Neglected

Mr. Editor: Mr. Pitcher's letter is good and I see now why street lights have been out all night at times, and at other times for many hours at a time, if it is a fact that the night trouble man has taken care of the lines of the Bozrah Electric company eight and ten miles from the city.

I understand that the general manager and his son were paid something like $3,000 in cash last year, besides extras, and this amount I believe is more than one-fifth of the total payroll of our police department, but if this is not enough money they should be paid more; but as for the extras like garage rent, trips to Atlantic City and automobile for family use, I believe the owners of the plant are not in sympathy with.

Discrimination by G. & E. Dept.

Mr. Editor: I am writing to ask if you will give space in your paper as some of your readers doubtless will have questions that they will want to ask at the coming city meeting which I hope will be answered by the fact finding committee.

An elderly lady living alone who uses only five rooms in her house went to the office of the gas and electrical department and asked if she had two rooms in her attic disconnected if the charge could not be changed from seven rooms to five rooms, but she was told promptly that there was only one rate for her, and when this lady inquired why the department did not return to the old rate as voted by the city meeting she was promptly told that the rate which went into effect Oct 1 was the rate made to stay and there would be no change.

I know of one man who has a 20-room house but he is billed for eight rooms only, and I know of another man who has a three-light fixture in his office but by having an electrician disconnect two lights on the fixture he only has to pay for one light. Both of the above men are perfectly able to pay the rates on the basis that the elderly woman is charged, but discrimination of this kind is made apparently for political reasons, and I hope this situation will be brought to an end at the coming city meeting.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN E. FANNING.

Norwich, Feb. 25, 1929.

Why Expenses Run High

Mr. Editor: I imagine the fact finding committee have learned of many interesting matters during their study of the gas and electric situation and I have been told that putting the new electric rates into effect cost the department something like $5,000 and I can readily appreciate this fact if there were many cases like the following:

After the outside work of the survey for the new rate had been completed a group of men doing this work were instructed to report at the Shetucket street office on a certain Monday morning at 8 o'clock and at that time the cashier would be in waiting to give them instructions pertaining to work which they were to do in the office. These men reported promptly on this certain Monday morning and had to wait until the following Thursday afternoon before the cashier arrived.

Is it any wonder that the rates have to be increased when the management operates with conditions like this?

To hear the commissioners talk you would think it was a big thing when the department paid the city $50,000 tax per year, but if the plant was privately owned we would receive more than $100,000 every year for taxes and this would make some real difference in our tremendously high tax rate.

I hope that the committee can explain to us how the men in the employ of the gas and electrical department could build a cinder driveway at the home of Earl Taggart when the excavating work for the department has to be done by the Connecticut Engineering & Contracting company.

I for one believe that the voters will vote in no uncertain terms at the coming city meeting and the owners of the plant will not tolerate management of this kind.

A TAXPAYING VOTER.

Lack of Supervision

Mr. Editor: Mr. Pitcher's letter is most interesting and Mrs. Chase's letter covers a matter which should have careful consideration also.

I believe the following people have been killed by electricity during the last 15 years in the city of Norwich, but I think one or possibly two were killed by current other than from our electric light plant: Eddie Hart, Bolton, Dempsey, Officer Kane, the Shear boy, Holland and Kilroy, besides Fisible, who was almost burned to death and lost one arm and one leg.

It seems almost unbelievable that telephone users run the risk of being injured or possibly killed and any human being might be killed instantly by taking hold of wires run on fence posts. It seems to me that the mayor should call the attention of the public utilities commission to this matter as they have jurisdiction over poles used jointly with the gas and electrical department. Our fees are high enough now without putting more expense on us for insurance by paying damages for injury and death.

Norwich, Feb. 25, 1929.

Charged More Under New Rate

Mr. Editor: Living outside of the city limits I realize that I have no voice in the matter of electric rates but I find in talking with a number of my neighbors that everyone seems to be charged more for electricity now than at the old rate and I do hope that the coming city meeting will take action whereby the consumers of electricity will receive some consideration.

Several of the stores down town have had calls for kerosene lamps to be used where electric meters have been removed and I know of one aged woman whose life is constantly endangered by using a kerosene lamp. Some years ago friends of this woman raised funds to have her house wired and she has enjoyed electric light for several years, but a 300 per cent increase made it out of the question for her to continue.

We are all waiting to hear the answers to Mr. Pitcher's questions, which we hope will help the owners of the plant to in some way see that the small consumer is considered.

WALTER HINDLE.

Taftville, Feb. 25, 1929.

Questions Should be Carefully Studied

Mr. Editor: Mr. Pitcher's list of questions are good and I believe they warrant the careful study of the owners of the plant.

Mr. Pitcher did not mention anything about the case he had against the department for intrusion of guy wire on his property which, as I understand it, the department refused to remove after being ordered to do so for more than two years and finally the court ordered the wire removed and the general manager ignored the court order and if Judge Waller had treated the general manager for contempt of court as Judge Wheeler did one of our citizens when State's Attorney Lucas was trying a case in the superior court some years ago the gas and electrical department would have been without a manager a number of hours a day for several weeks. Doubtless you will remember when one of our prominent citizens ignored a summons to court during a trial and Judge Wheeler instructed Sheriff Jackson to issue a subpoena to bring this citizen into court and the judge gave him a choice of going to jail for 30 days or appearing in court every day for the remainder of the session, which lasted several weeks, and to sit with the spectators, and he was glad to attend court and keep out of jail.

I hope that the fact finding committee can tell us if the general manager paid the department anything for the use of the Cadillac touring car used at his summer cottage at Groton Long Point last summer, and also if they can tell us why the department has in their employ a portrait painter who had a studio on Broadway at one time.

W. F. Bogue never ran things this way. Give me the good old days with honest management.

"LENT AND MY HOME"
Memory Verse for Tuesday

"Fathers, provoke not your children to anger, lest they be discouraged." (Colossians 3:21). (Read: Colossians 3:14 to 21).

MEDITATION: Patience is the first virtue of a parent. How often we have seen children alienated from the love and piety of the home by the austere and exacting severity of parents! These misguided parents love their children but they expect too much and they demand it too soon. They forget how once they also thought as a child and spake as a child. "With a little more patience and a little less temper, a gentler and wiser method might be found in almost every case."

PRAYER: O Father of men, we pray for all parents that they may have a deepened sense of their responsibility for the Christian nurture of their children; and, realizing that a child's first thoughts of God come through the teaching and example of father and mother, may they so live the Christian life that their children may be drawn to the Father in heaven. Amen.

YOUR INCOME TAX

If property was acquired by gift after Dec. 31, 1920, the basis is the same as it would be in the hands of the donor, or last preceding owner by whom it was not received by gift. For example, a man in 1921 bought stock in a corporation at $100 a share, kept it until January, 1922, it was worth $120, and then gave it to his son, who in 1925 gave it to his wife, the stock then being worth $150 a share. If in 1928 the wife sold the stock for $200 a share, the taxable gain is not $50 but $100 a share, the gain over the cost to the preceding owner who did not acquire the stock by gift.

In computing the gain or loss from the sale or other disposition of property acquired by gift or transfer in trust on or before Dec. 31, 1920, the basis is the fair market value of such property at the time of acquisition. For example, a taxpayer received in 1919 a gift of real estate having a fair market value of $10,000; he sold it in 1928 for $15,000. The original cost to the donor was $12,000. The taxable gain, however, is $5,000.

YOUR HEALTH

Is It Worth While for the Man of 50 To Train for Good Physical Condition.

By Joseph P. Kane, M. D.
Medical Adviser, Gorgas Memorial Institute, Washington, D. C.

"Absolutely," is my answer to the many men of 50 who have rather forlornly asked me if it wasn't too late for them to better themselves. No one need imitate the athlete and undergo a long, exacting and strenuous course of physical training, but everyone may conserve or even enhance his body powers by suitable and constant body use.

A famous doctor of Philadelphia, who specialized in the upbuilding of men, when over 60 years of age saw of himself that by utilizing odd moments during the exigences of an active medical practice, he kept his circulation adjusted to all demands, some of them sudden and severe, kept his weight the same for over 40 years, and above all maintained the elasticity of his muscles closely to the form established during college days. He cited a case, to show how one may set about to attain a fine physical condition:

An active business man, aged 52, was sound organically, but he was too large. He was fairly active, but was conscious of a number of minor derangements common to his age and method of living. He had digestive discomforts, irregularities of sleep, also of heart action, he had an undue fatigability, a high susceptibility to colds, and stiffenings of the muscles miscalled rheumatism.

This man determined to rid himself of all these. Thirteen years later, at the time of the telling of the story, he was a model of vigor, of endurance, of resistance to cold and disease, and capable of accomplishing four times as before. His muscles were responsive and controllable and as normal as those of a man of 30.

All this was brought about by gradually inuring the skin to exposure and to thorough frictions by hands and brush; by exercising nearly nude, and by securing complete elasticity by simple, free movements; by stretching; by tensions in normal directions followed by full relaxations; by systematic deep breathing; and when opportunity afforded, by long walks. Also, he modified his diet along milk and vegetable lines, with plenty of fruit and nuts.

When your Children Cry for It

Mothers, who take one simple precaution, are seldom worried. With a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria in the house they can do what their doctor would tell them to do, when baby is fretful, feverish, colicky, constipated or stuffed-up with cold—give a few drops of this pure vegetable, pleasant-tasting preparation. It comforts Baby and soothes him to sleep in a jiffy. It's perfectly safe for the youngest infant. Use it freely—and as often as needed, specialists advise. A more liberal dose is all it takes to comfort and relieve older children, when feverishness, bad breath, no appetite, colds, etc., show they need a good purging. The mark of genuine Castoria is the Fletcher signature on the wrapper. Look for it to avoid imitations.

WEEKLY WINNERS IN STORRS EGG CONTEST

The springlike weather for the week seemed to have a beneficial effect upon the hens in the egg laying contest at Storrs, as the birds came through with a lay of 4,482 eggs, or a production of 64 per cent. This is 9.3 per cent greater than that of last year for the same period, and 103 eggs more than last week's total. The average number of eggs per bird to date is 63.7.

The Leghorns as a group were the highest producers for the week with a yield of a little over 70 per cent. The Rhode Island Reds were second with a lay of 62.5 per cent. The White Wyandottes on the other hand were the lowest producers with a score of 50.4 per cent.

Once again George Lowry's Leghorn pen from West Willington, Conn., won the week with a net of 65 eggs. This pen has now passed the 1,000 egg mark with 34 eggs to spare. At the present rate of laying, this pen should pass the 2,000 mark during the 22nd week, the 3,000 mark during the 47th week, and then have four weeks to make up any deficit that may have occurred in the previous weeks.

Hanson's White Leghorns from Corvallis, Ore., captured second place with 62 eggs. A pen of the same breed owned by William L. Gilbert Home of Winsted, Conn., was third with a lay of 61 eggs for the seven-day period. There was quite a scramble for fourth place with no less than three pens tying with 60 eggs each. Two of these were Leghorns and one was Reds. The Leghorn pens are owned by St. John's Poultry Farm, Oronogo, Mo., and Granite Springs Farm, Granite Springs, N. Y. The Red pen belongs to Zephirm LaBelle, Ballouville, Conn.

Charlescote Farm's Rhode Island Reds, which have been forging ahead during the past weeks have finally reached the top place in their class, thus relegating to second place the pen entered by John Z. LaBelle. Zephirm LaBelle's birds from Ballouville, Conn., have jumped to third place.

If the poultrymen throughout the United States do not want a 50 per cent increase in price on cod liver oil, they will have to take it upon themselves to see that the domestic fishing interests do not remove cod liver oil from the free list, where it is at the present time.

ROUND TABLE STUDY CLASS HAS PROGRAMME

A delightful feature of the meeting of the Round Table study class of the music department of the Woman's City club held Monday evening at their rooms in the Wauregan hotel was a programme of music presented by the Musical Art trio. The trio comprises Miss Ruth Dreschler, piano, George Gulle, violin, both of Norwich, and Zygmond Rondomanski of New London, cello. The topic for discussion for the meeting, which was in charge of Miss Margarete Suck, was Chamber Music and the current events was read by Mrs. William H. Dawley.

The programme as given by the trio included the following numbers: Sonata by Loeillet; Menuet by Haydn; At Evening by Pache; Gavotte by Bridge; Sleeping Beauty by Tschaikowski; Ases Tod from Peer Gynt by Greig; Romanze by Moskowski. The various numbers were excellently rendered by the trio and were heartily applauded by an appreciative gathering. A piano duet, Beethoven's quartet, Opus. No. 1, rendered by Miss Nellie Howie and Miss Margaret Suck was also well received.

Claims Train Hit Auto.

Alexander Miklowski of Versailles, driver of the machine in which four persons narrowly escaped death Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the Versailles station crossing, claims that his machine did not run into the train, but vice versa. He said that although he heard the whistle of the train he could not stop his machine until it reached the tracks owing to the icy condition of the highway 100 feet before the crossing. Mr. Miklowski further claims that he was traveling about 25 miles an hour before the accident and that the train did not stop until about 400 or 500 feet from the crossing. His car was carried along for a distance of about 20 feet.

CUSTOMER ALWAYS RIGHT, SAYS LOCAL BUSINESS MAN

F. Russell Smith of this city gave an interesting talk on "The Customer is Always Right," at the meeting of the Contact club Monday noon at the Wauregan hotel. Vice-President Abner Schwartz presided in the absence of President Ernest O. Rodier. Frederick T. Flemming announced that a letter accompanied by a check of $10 had been received from Miss Alice Stephens of the Norwich League of Women Voters, in appreciation of the club's co-operation in attending the Bird S. Coler luncheon last week. There was a discussion on the question of badges for the members and the matter was left with the secretary for investigation.

Mr. Smith in his address spoke in part as follows: "The customer is always right. We used to have considerable difficulty and lost some customers by trying to argue out the question. We found, however, that we got a great deal further in our endeavor to satisfy customers by letting them settle the difference of opinion and always assuming that they were right.

The first American laundry was established as the Contra Costa Laundry in Oakland, Cal., in 1851 during the gold rush. The same laundry has continuously operated under the same name and is today one of the most modern, beautifully, efficient and largest laundries in existence. As the industry grew from a shirt and collar business to a family laundry business the laundry owners realized that they must form a National Association and equip themselves with knowledge to handle the family laundry. For this reason the laundry owners National Association was established forty years ago to promote the laundry business and educate its members in the science of washing. After this association was formed the National Association established a fellowship at the Mellon Institute at Pittsburgh.

This institute consists of a staff of experts who develop the washing formulas and examine the texture and make-up of textiles. At the present time Dr. George Johnson, the head of the Mellon Institute, is considered the best authority on textiles and their washing and manufacture in the United States. The Laundry Owners Institute in Pittsburgh is used by the department of commerce of the United States in their research.

After the formation of the Mellon Institute the laundry owners realized that they must have a practical proving ground and with this in mind formed the American Institute of Laundry. The American Institute of Laundry consists of a half million dollar plant in Joliet, Ill., which does all the laundry in that town and carries out experiments under actual working conditons. There is also a school for foremen and superintendents in the institute and experts in all lines of laundering are sent out from this institute to the members of the National Association to solve any problems which they might have. The washing formulas and processes used by the members of the National Association are all developed by the Mellon Institute and the American Institute of Laundry.

With this background the Laundry Owners' National association decided two years ago to put on a national advertising campaign to acquaint the housewives with the methods used by modern laundries and to convince them that the laundry was the best place to send their family washington. After this national campaign of education each individual laundry plant had their own problem to selling laundry service in each city. The drivers who we now call salesmen are the contact between the housewife and the laundry. Our drivers are all instructed in the methods of washing and methods of finishing used in the laundry. They are also instructed in selling and although we have weekly conferences with the heads of the departments and the drivers we also employ a man from the National association to instruct them in the art of selling. We find that the appearance of our driver salesmen has a great deal of effect on the women who they are sent to sell and for that reason we urge them to be neat and clean and to keep their equipment in first class condition. We also encourage our employes to be our customers and at the present time most all of our employes are customers of the Troy laundry. In that way they can see the necessity for being very careful in their daily work for their bundle of laundry is the same as any one of our numerous customers."

SHARKEY CONTINGENT CLAIM STRIBLING IS PREPARING HIS ALIBI BEFORE BOUT

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25—(AP)—The lull that precedes the zero hour settled over the training camps of Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling today as the preliminary cannonading of the battle of the everglades died away. The shooting, if any appeared confined to the mysterious early morning pot shot at Jack Dempsey.

The plump sixteen-ounce training mittens of the Boston Sailor were packed away for other days after a desultory five round session that included two rounds of boxing the last Sharkey will get before he faces the southern pride in the ten round embroglio in Flamingo park Wednesday night. Stribling tacked his sparring gloves to the wall yesterday and his drill this afternoon consisted only of setting up exercises, shadow boxing and bag punching.

Both fighters worked under the tension that has gripped both camps since Stribling injured his side. If anything, the Sharkey entourage was the more upset and from all parts of the dog track where the Boston assembly holds forth came loud and vehement cries that Stribling was merely preparing his alibi in advance.

After "Pa" Stribling, father of the Macon slasher, explained Stribling's injury to the Associated Press, the physician in charge of the youth announced that the injury consisted of a dislocation of the fourth rib on the left side, followed by traumatic neuritis.

"Young Stribling came to me with a side injury Wednesday night," Dr. Cecil B. Ferguson said. "The fourth rib was dislocated. I put the rib back in place. Traumatic neuritis developed which has responded to treatment. The boxer is not yet entirely well but there is no reason why he should not be perfect condition Wednesday night."

After five rounds of exercises, Stribling went through his paces for newspapermen in his dressing room, bending, flexing his back and shoulder muscles with ease and with no indication of pain. The boxer said the trouble had disappeared, that he was in perfect condition, and would not even take his clothes off tomorrow after dressing in the morning. He weighs 183 1-2 pounds.

Sharkey worked easily and with no effort to do more than sharpen his punching equipment. Against Paul Hoffman, the first opponent, the Boston star "pulled" many of his punches and was content to shoot easy but accurate straight right hand shots to the heart.

Jack worked faster against Johnny Grosso and hurt his New York sparring mate, although he made no effort to do so.

"He's ready," said Grosso when the drill was over. "He's hitting harder than ever before."

Johnny Buckley, rotund manager of Sharkey, frothed about the training camp of his gladiator breathing forth fiery expressions of contempt for Stribling and the injury.

"Stribling has never fought a good man without claiming injury before and," he said. "When Paul Berlenbach hammered him around, Stribling had a dislocated vertebra in his neck and a broken vertebra when he fought Tommy Loughran in New York. There's nothing wrong with him now but he'll have plenty of injuries Thursday morning."

Sharkey, in perfect physical condition, scaled 192 1-2 before he worked today and 191 when he finished. He hopes to put on another pound or so before the battle. Tomorrw Sharkey plans the lightest sort of a workout with calisthenics and bag punching.

With the battle only two days away, Miami Beach strove to house the visitors pouring into town on every train. Hotels were crowded with fistic and society celebrities and the newcomers were forced into adjoining towns for accommodations. The ticket sale was reported well past the $300,000 mark.

ILLNESS IS NURMI'S EXCUSE FOR NOT RUNNING

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(AP)—Two letters written in Finnish were received at the headquarters of the Amateur Athletic Union, today from Paavo Nurmi in which the Finnish runner declared and reiterated that his failure to appear as scheduled at the national indoor championships in Madison Square Garden Saturday night, was due to illness.

One of the letters was written before the meet and had evidently been intended by Nurmi to give due notice to the A. A. U. officials that illness would prevent him from competing. The other repeated the statement that a severe cold made running impossible and protested against the summary action of the registration committee of the Metropolitan association of the A. A. U. in meeting on the floor of the Garden and declaring him disqualified from further competition until his absence shall have been satisfactorily explained.

After gleaning these facts out of the tumbling torrent of Finnish script, an interpreter undertook the task of making literal translation to be turned over to the registration committee which is to further the case on Wednesday.

Despite the contention of illness the view has been voiced in some quarters that Nurmi "took a run-out powder" because he did not choose to meet either Edvin Wide, the redoubtable Swede, or Eino Purje, youthful Finn, who competed in the two mile flat and two mile steeplechase events respectively, both in record breaking style.

A committee representing the New York County American Legion, called at the A. A. U. offices today and asked that the suspension be lifted so that Nurmi might compete as scheduled in a four mile event at its benefit games Wednesday night. Little opportunity for hope was given them.

Meanwhile Wide entered the Legion's one and one half mile event, however, and it was indicated Purje might take Nurmi's place in the longer race.

Flowers Scores T. K. O. Over Manley.

Jackie Horner, St. Louis, 151, won a decision over Bobby Grant, Cleveland, 145½ in ten rounds.

FINNEGAN PUNCHES WAY TO VICTORY OVER NEBO

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 25—(AP)—Honeyboy Finnegan, Boston southpaw with a stinging punch, slashed his way to a ten-round victory tonight over Pete Nebo, Florida Indian. Honeyboy scaled 133 and the Seminole was a half pound lighter.

GAMMA TEAM KEEPS SLATE CLEAN BY BEATING B. OF J.

The Gamma five kept their slate clean last night in the Church league when they took a hard fought game from the Brothers of Joseph, 15 to 9, thereby displacing the B. of J. team at the top of the league. The game was marked by close guarding on the part of both teams which tended to keep the close in the low figures. Economos of the Gamma team was the star with 11 points.

The C. B. C. five in another hard game won from Goal club 27 to 22, while the Baltic team had a soft time walking through the Trinity M. E. team, 28 to 8. The summaries:

SONNENBERG THROWS STASIAK IN STRAIGHT FALLS

CHICAGO Feb. 25.—(AP)—Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestling champion, successfully defended his title tonight, tossing Stanislaus Stasiak in two straight falls.

The first came in 49 minutes and 20 seconds. Sonnenberg suddenly cut loose with two flying tackles, the first hitting his opponent in the stomach. Stasiak had not fully recovered from the first blow when the title holder rammed him in the back with another head first tackle. While the Polish wrestler was endeavoring to recover from the butting tactics of the champion, Sonnenberg pinned him with a crotch and half nelson.

The second fall came fast, in one minute and 20 seconds. Sonnenberg clamped on three headlocks and followed with a like number of flying tackles. He missed the first and went sailing into the laps of the ring side spectators. The second tackle floored the Pole as did the third. Sonnenberg jumped on his opponent before he could rise after the third tackle and pinned him with a body blow.

Eight thousand persons paid $16,000 to see the show.

ACADEMY TO PLAY E. C. COACHES QUINTET

As a final warm-up game for their opening city title clash with the Y Seniors Saturday night, the Academy will play a picked team of Eastern Connecticut coaches Thursday night at the Y gym. This will give the Wildcats some stiff opposition and put them in top shape for Saturday's important engagement, which will also be played at the Y surface.

The mentors will have Joe Belair, who has coached some good amateur teams in Mystic, Bill O'Brien, coach at Stonington high, John H. Demarest, coach of the Y Seniors, Court Whitney, N. F. A. coach, and others.

The Academy will have its last stiff workout of the week today. There are no drills on Wednesday. The Y Seniors are also slated to put in some heavy work this week in preparation for their opening assault at the title on Saturday, now resting on the Academy's side.

Yale Ball Squad Numbers 75.

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 25—(AP)—Additional battery candidates and seekers for position on the Yale baseball nine, brought the total of the squad out for practice today to 75. A workout was held in the Coxe memorial cage and it expected that Coach Joe Wood will begin immediately to whittle down the number in order to whip the squad into condition. Clyde Engle, coach of the freshmen will call out candidates tomorrow.

WIDE STRAINS ANKLE IN WINNING 1½ MILE RACE

ELIZABETH, N. J., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Edvin Wide of Sweden and Eino Purje, of Finland, outdistanced handicap fields to win their events at the Warinanco A. C., games in the Elizabeth armory tonight. Wide won a mile and one-half handicap and Purje flashed home first in a three mile handicap, neither approached record time.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

A new wrinkle in football rules will be tried out next fall in the Westerly High-Central Falls High game to be played in Westerly, according to an agreement reached by Coach D. Harold Rogers of the Westerly school and Coach Lou Pieri of Central Falls.

On numerous occasions, football teams have rushed the ball within a few yards of their opponents' goal line during the first half, only to lose their opportunity to score because the whistle blew. Under the new agreement between Rogers and Pieri, the team holding the ball within a short distance of the opponent's goal will have an opportunity to take up play right where they left off at the end of the half.

There has been considerable discussion in football circles over the elimination of the kick-off to start the second half and hundreds of college coaches throughout the country have expressed themselves on the matter. As far as is known, however, the kick-off will be abolished in this coming high school game for the first time in a regulation contest, and the results will be watched by football officials throughout this section.

Naugatuck has struck a winning stride again. Pete Foley's team had won its last nine games up to last week. Naugy will defend its title in the Penn tourney next month.

Windham moved up to within a half game of Chapman Tech in the Eastern Connecticut Conference race by overwhelming Stonington Friday night. The present league standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chapman Tech	6	1	.857
Windham High	5	1	.833
Putnam High	4	2	.667
N. F. A.	1	5	.167
Stonington High	0	7	.000

Stonington's 63 to 10 loss to Windham set a league race for trouncings. Stonington has only one more game to play, that with the Academy at Stonington.

Putnam still maintains a mathematical chance of copping the title in the league race. But so does Chapman Tech and Windham.

Ashland (Ky.) high, national basketball champions last year, are having it tougher this year. This team has twice been beaten by Martinsville (Indiana) high, 27 to 16 and 30 to 13.

Warren Harding high quintet plays in this section twice over the week end, Friday against Windham and Saturday against Manchester.

AGGIES PREPARING FOR GAME WITH SPRINGFIELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 25—Coach Alexander sent his team through a stiff session here today in an effort to have his men at a peak when the Aggies tackle the strong Springfield basketball five at Springfield, Wednesday evening. Last year the Aggies succeeded in downing a team that invaded Storrs with a record of sixteen straight victories, but the 1929 Connecticut team has not shown the power of late that was exhibited throughout the year 1928.

This week winds up the winter sport at the Aggies. With but two more games to play, and a record of eight wins in thirteen starts, the team has done remarkably well.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEADS IN WINTER SPORTS UNION

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 25—(AP)—The University of New Hampshire with 27 points tonight had a commanding lead in the fourth annual championships of the intercollegiate winter sports union, which began here today.

McGill was second with 16 points and Dartmouth third with 11. Williams had one point and Middlebury, Bowdoin and Ottawa failed to score. McGill went into the lead in this morning's events taking first and third place in the seven mile ski race and first and second in figure skating. McGill won the first event of the day, the seven mile ski race, in 53:45. McGill also showed superiority in figure skating A. H. Bolton of that college taking first and H. I. C. Brown, second.

In the final of the 440 yard skating race, Dartmouth had three men who qualified, New Hampshire two, and McGill one. J. W. Lovell, of New Hampshire, won the event with R. E. Tettley, New Hampshire, second. In the two mile skating race, the two McGill entries set the pace from the start, but E. W. Mailman, of New Hampshire, took the lead from them later to yield it to tettley on the home stretch. Mailman was a close second.

H. A. Hazen of New Hampshire, won the two mile snoeshoe race in 14.1 3-5. G. S. Sawyer of Dartmouth was second.

Fifty contestants from six colleges are scheduled in the events. Tomorrow the downhill ski race, a slalom race which is also on skils, and ski-jumping contests will complete the events.

PLAINFIELD PROS CLASH WITH COLORED GIANTS

The Philadelphia Colored Giants play a return engagement at the Plainfield Community house on Wednesday evening with the Plainfield Pros. The Colored Giants need no introduction to the fans of eastern Connecticut as they have played in this part of the state on several occasions. The Giants were nosed out by Plainfield in the game played earlier in the season, 29 to 27. The Giants expect to even up the series in Wednesday night's game.

The returns of the Sharkey-Stribling fight will be received by radio at the hall which will give the fans two attractions in one.

YALE CREWS HAVE FIRST WORKOUT ON OPEN WATER

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 25—(AP)—Three boatloads of Yale varsity oarsmen held their first spring workout today in the New Haven harbor and the Quinnipiac river under the tutelage of Coach Ed Leader. Weather conditions were ideal for practice which will be continued outdoors regularly from now on. Five members of last year's championship eight rowed in the first boat today.

Five freshmen crews will be on the water tomorrow and the 150-pound crews and the class crews will report later in the week.

BOSTON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The signed contract of Robert Barrett, infielder drafter from the Buffalo club of the International league, was received today at the Boston Red Sox headquarters. Barrett, whose home is in Atlanta, Ga., batted for .310 last season.

MALONEY STARTS HIS TRAINING FOR HEENEY

BOSTON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Thirsting for revenge, Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, today started his final training drive for his bout with Tom Heeney, of New Zealand next Friday in the Boston Garden.

Maloney, about 18 months ago, was knocked out in the first round by Heeney and he has ambitions to dispose of the "Hard Rock" just as quickly in their coming clash.

Heeney, who has not fought since he was defeated by Gene Tunney in last July's title bout, was expected here tomorrow.

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Johnny Weismuller, holder of the world swimming records, appeared in a new role in Coral Gables municipal court today in his arraignment with A. S. Wolfe, Coral Gables, on charges of disorderly conduct based on sending false fire alarms.

Weismuller drew a $10 fine and Wolf a $25 penalty.

The two were turned over to Miami authorities on a similar charge. Three false fire alarms in Coral Gables and two in Miami last Friday night were charged against them by police of the two communities.

Jones Loses On Foul.

HOLYOKE Mass., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Gorilla Jones, of Akron, Ohio, lost on a foul to Nick Testo, of Troy, N. Y., in the fifth round of their scheduled 15-round bout here tonight. A low left did the damage. At the time of the foul, Jones was slightly in the lead by his fine skill, though Testo's rights were damaging the trojan. Jones weighed 155¾ to 152 for Testo.

WESTMINISTER

THE LATE DEACON GREENE MEMBER OF LOCAL CHURCH

Deacon A. E. Greene, who died at his home in Danielson Feb. 20, would have been 100 years old had he lived until Sept. 14. Over 60 of those years Deacon Greene spent in Westminster, where with Mrs. Greene he raised a family of seven children on the farm now owned by Thomas Colburn, and to which Deacon Greene and his family have made many visits since they sold the old home and moved to Danielson. Deacon Greene was a member of and a tireless worker in Westminster Congregational church for 60 years. He was a deacon of the church for a quarter of a century. Even after leaving Westminster, he retained his membership and with Mrs. Greene often came to attend services; even as late as last fall he was at the church for what was to be the last time. Deacon Greene was laid to rest in the cemetery adjoining the church he loved. Following the funeral at the Westfield Congregational church in Danielson Saturday, the body was placed in a receiving vault until spring, when it will be brought to Westminster for burial. The venerable deacon was always warmly welcomed when he came to Westminster; not only did he keep in touch with his old friends, but made many new ones. He was never so happy as when with other members of his family he visited familiar places in and around Westminster, living over again in memory days of long ago. Surviving Deacon Greene are his wife, five sons and two daughters.

Mrs. Sybil DeGrenier, whose death occurred in Norwich Feb. 18, was born and grew to womanhood on Westminster hill, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rathbun. Prior to her marriage with Louis DeGrenier she was teacher for several terms in the Westminster school. Mrs. DeGrenier's many Westminster friends were grieved to learn of her death.

The snowstorm Thursday proved to be the worst storm of the winter. The snow, driven by a northeast wind, drifted badly up this way. Commissioner MacDonald's men kept the trunk line open, but the outlying roads in many places were impassable until the drifts were shoveled out.

While Mrs. Ethel Bingham with her children attended church Sunday evening her son's overcoat, all the tools among which was a new set, and four leaves of bread were stolen from her car, which was parked in front of the house of a friend, near the church on Westminster hill. The mechanism of the car had also been tampered with.

COLUMBIA

Miss Esther Granstrom, of Manchester, spent the week-end in Columbia, at the home of Mrs. Robert Cobb.

Miss Lila Seeley, who teaches at Groton, is spending a week's vacation at her home, on Chestnut Hill.

The Columbia schools are on the 8-week's system, so will have this week for vacation, the new term opening Monday, March 4th.

Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn Rich, of East Hampton, were callers, Saturday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Porter.

Percy Carver has finished filling his ice-house.

A town meeting is to be held next Saturday afternoon in the town hall to lay the tax for the coming year, and decide on the date on which said taxes will be due. Another item of interest to all townspeople to be discussed is to see if the town wishes to celebrate its 125th anniversary, and if the voters will make appropriations for the same.

Several members of the local C. E. society went to Colchester, Sunday evening, to attend the February meeting of the Tri-County union. This union will meet in Columbia with the local society, the last Sunday in March.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Danny Hunts for Miner

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The curious are ever bold,
Respecting neither young nor old.
—Old Mother Nature.

Danny Meadow Mouse felt that he and Nanny were very well established in the Old Orchard. They had made tunnels this way and that under the snow and now Danny had discovered that there were some nice little tunnels under the ground. These were the tunnels of Miner the Mole. So Danny felt quite safe. If anyone should dig down through the snow after them they could go down into the tunnels of Miner the Mole and there they would be entirely safe, unless they should happen to encounter Miner himself.

Danny thought about this quite a lot. Although he had been in Miner's tunnels before he did not know as much about this underground neighbor as he felt he ought to know. He wasn't quite sure what became of Miner in the winter. He couldn't remember ever having seen Miner in the winter.

"I wonder if Miner sleeps the way Johnny Chuck does, or Nimblecheels, our jumping cousin, and Buster Bear and the Snake folks and the Frog people and a lot of others," said Danny to Nanny.

"I don't know," replied Nanny, "but I can tell you one thing, and that is that you had better not have too much curiosity. Don't go looking for Miner. Don't go looking for trouble. He may be asleep and he may not. Either way it is no business of ours."

Danny didn't say anything. Nanny eyed him suspiciously, but there wasn't anything she could say further. She had a very strong suspicion, however, that Danny would slip away the first chance he got to explore those tunnels. And this is exactly what Danny did do.

"Of course, he's asleep," said Danny to himself, as he started along a tunnel he had not yet explored. "Of course, Miner is asleep. If he were not I would have found him before now. I should like to see how he sleeps and where he sleeps. Nanny is silly. I can't get into any trouble down there. If Miner is asleep he will be perfectly harmless, and of course he is asleep. My goodness, this tunnel is beginning to go down deep! It is going down deeper and deeper. I didn't know that Miner went so deep."

"Hello! Here's a branch! Now which way shall I go?"

Hello, here's a branch! Now which way shall I go? I don't suppose it makes any real difference, so I will keep on the way I am headed."

So Danny wandered along. He didn't run as freely as he did through those little tunnels up near the surface. He was beginning to have just a wee bit of doubt. You see, there was a fairly fresh smell of Mole tickling his nose and he didn't know just what to make of it. So he would run a few steps and then stop to listen. Of course, down there in the dark he couldn't see a thing. Then he would run a few steps more and again stop to listen. And all the time he kept his ears open for any strange sound and he used that little nose of his as Mother Nature intended it should be used. Somehow, way down there he didn't feel quite so bold as when he was talking with Nanny up on the surface. A strange place always gives one strange feelings. It was just so with Danny. Several times he was tempted to turn back, but each time curiosity urged him on. He wanted to find Miner.

"I am strong for Luckies."

John Gilbert
John Gilbert
Celebrated Screen Star

John Gilbert
Popular Motion Picture Actor

"Motion picture actors are under a great strain—they need the comforting qualities of a good cigarette. That is why most of us smoke Lucky Strike. The marvelous toasted flavor of Luckies brings complete enjoyment and relaxation but does not hurt the throat or wind. I am strong for Luckies—they are the 'stars' of the cigarette picture. I would rather have a Lucky after a meal than rich pastries or desserts."

JOHN GILBERT

The modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. Everyone is doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure. Lucky Strike, the finest tobaccos, skilfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for that craving for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This surely confirms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.

MARKET OPENED STRONG, BUT RISE IN CALL MONEY RATE CHECKED ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—(AP)—The stock market resumed activity after its three day rest somewhat refreshed today, but a sharp tightening up of call money injected considerable irregularity into the day's proceedings.

The market opened with a burst of strength, but stepping up of the call loan rate from 6 1-2 to 9 per cent. as banks called about $55,000,000 for month end requirements, precipitated heavy liquidation, wiping out much of the early advance. A vigorous bidding up of the steel shares drove shorts to cover in the final dealings, however, and the market closed irregularly higher.

U. S. Steel attracted strong support, largely attributed to a commission house analysis suggesting that elimination of several major bond issues appears logical in the near future, releasing interest and sinking fund charges equal to about $3.40 a common share annually. The stock opened with a block of 20,000 shares at 185, up 3 points, and mounted nearly 5 points to 189 7-8, less than 3 points under its record price.

The developments over the triple-holiday, including the leaving of the federal reserve rediscount rate unchanged, and marked improvement in the New York Reserve bank's reserve ratio, appeared to have improved speculative confidence, but bankers held out little hope of easier money, predicting firm rates all this week, and a sharp tightening of credit around the middle of March, with the payment of income taxes and the shifting of balances incident to the $500,000,000 government refinancing. Total stock sales today of 3,456,130 were the largest since last Monday.

The day's news included several favorable earnings statements and dividend actions, and still another 1-4 of a cent increase in the price of domestic copper. A few more railroads reported highly satisfactory operations for January. Missouri Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio showing surplus after charges about 100 and 50 per cent., respectively, greater than for January, 1928. The expected merger of the Guarantee Trust company and the National Bank of Commerce, forming America's first $2,000,000,000 bank, was officially announced.

U. S. Steel was followed in its upturn by Bethlehem, which rose nearly 4 points to 100 3-4, the highest in 10 years. Crucible, Fallonsbee, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube were other steel shares making substantial headway. The coppers responded to the price increase, Anaconda touching a new peak at 137 1-2, and Greene Cananea moving up 4 points, but later losing most of its gain. American Zinc mounted over 5 points, approaching its previous top.

Otis Elevator jumped nearly 24 points in a small turnover, while Adams Express, Radio Corp. (old), and Crosley Radio mounted about 10 to 12 points, although the last two reacted later. Collins and Aikman mounted 11 1-2 points to a new top at 69 1-2 on more optimistic reports from the textile industry. Commercial Solvents, Real Silk Hosiery, Pennock and Ford and Continental Making A, achieved new high ground for the year, and Electric Auto Lite forged ahead on estimates that 1928 earnings would equal $8.50 a share.

Motors were inclined to heaviness, although Nash mounted about 3 points. In the rails, Missouri Pacific gained about 4 points. Utilities were generally heavy, American and Foreign Power falling back more than 12 points.

The New York tractions reacted when no decision was announced by the supreme court on the 7-cent fare.

The commodity markets were irregular, cotton mounting from 31 to $1.50 a bale on higher Liverpool and Alexandria cables. Wheat however, was depressed by lowed prices at Liverpool, and corn sagged sympathetically.

Foreign exchanges were quiet, with sterling and continental currencies generally firm. The Japanese yen dropped to the lowest point of the year however, at 44.53 cents.

POETRY

Country Store

Six boxes of oatmeal, three shelves of canned soup.
Two boxes each of horse liniment, peroxine, pain-killer, strup of squill, aromatic spirits of ammonia, and castor oil.
Four shelves of canned peaches, pineapple, sugar corn, tomatoes, and peas.
One case full of ladies' stockings, fifty-cent value, suspenders, a card of men's neckties.
A clothesline the length of the counter over top with working gloves pegged to it.
A case of candy on the opposite counter, with candies that sell two for a penny.
A shelf of coffee in packages, two shelves of assorted cakes and crackers.
An ice cream chest at the end of the grocery counter with three cans—chocolate, vanilla, strawberry—
Two rows of tin pans and buckets, shovels, plow lines, hung from the rafters.
Everything very much smoked, very much fly-specked.
And the huge egg stove in the center of the floor.
With the box of sawdust for tobacco chewers around its base.
And an old man droning at a high desk trying to get his accounts straight.

—Folger McKinsey, in Baltimore Sun.

The February Thrush

I know him, February's thrush
And loud at eve he valentines
On sprays that paw the naked bush
Where soon will sprout the thorns and vines.

Now era the foreign singer thrills
Out vale his plain-song pipe he pours,
A herald of the million bills:
And heed him not, the loss is yours.

My study, flanked with tiled fir
And budded beech with dry leaves curled,
Perches over yew and juniper,
His neighbours, piping to his world:—

The wooded pathways dank on brown,
The branches on grey cloud a web,
The long green roller of the down,
An image of the deluge-ebb:—

And farther, they may hear along
The stream beneath the poplar row,
By fits, like welling rocks, the song
Spurts of a blushful Spring in flow.

—From "Poems," by George Meredith.

DAVANZA SOUGHT IN NORWICH CAUGHT IN NEW LONDON ROOM THEFT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 5—Antone Angelo, lodger at the rooming house of Mrs. Mary Colangelo, of 1 Atlantic street, was awakened at 2:30 o'clock this morning when a man entered his room and began going through the pockets of his trousers which had been placed over a chair. He sprang from his bed, grappled with the man, and was able to hold him until Patrolmen Frank Philopena and George Bruhns were notified by other lodgers in the home. The burglar was taken to the police station where he was identified as Joseph Davanza, 39, who has a long local record and was but recently released from the Franklin street jail. Investigation disclosed the fact that he had entered the house by means of a ladder placed against one of the rear windows which he forced open. As far as is known nothing of value was stolen from the lodging house. However, it was found that $53 in cash and several cartons of cigarettes were stolen from the restaurant which Mrs. Colangelo conducts on the first floor of the building and the prisoner admitted having robbed the eating place before attempting to enter the upstairs room.

With the arrest of Davanzo the police department announced that during the past two weeks the restaurant and lodging house had been systematically robbed of goods valued in excess of $200. Davanzo was suspected of committing the thefts and an order to arrest him on sight has been in effect for that period. He is also suspected of having robbed a Golden street rooming house of $62. Following his release from the county jail a few weeks ago, he took a room in the Golden street house and immediately after the robbery disappeared. He was traced to Norwich and later to New Haven, where the trail was lost. Nothing more was heard of him until he was caught red-handed in the robbery of last night. In the police court this morning he was bound over to the May term of the criminal superior court on a charge of breaking and entering. Bonds were placed at $2,000. Being unable to secure them he was sent to Franklin street jail.

MEN RISK THEIR LIVES TO SAVE DROWNING BOYS

Two lads named Polizza, of 19 Tenth street, were saved from drowning Saturday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock, at Winthrop cove. The two boys, one 11, and the other 12, were coasting down the hill which leads to the water when they broke through the ice. Thomas J. Hanley, of 248 Coleman street, and Christopher F. Barry, proprietor of a gas filling station at Chrystal avenue and Main street, and another man whose name was not given out, ran to the river when notified of the accident by a boat owner who rushed up and asked for a rope. All of the men got into a boat and broke through the ice to the place where the boys had gone down. Hanley, who was standing in the rear, said, "Well here goes," and dived overboard into the icy water. He quickly grabbed the boys and had them hauled into the boat. They were taken to a Main street home where dry clothing and first aid treatment was given them.

PLUCKING NELSON EASY, BUT GANG ROUNDED UP

NEW LONDON, Feb. 25—Daniel H. Troland, 147 Bank street; Dominick Lombardo, taxicab operator, Patsy Capagna, 15 Denison avenue, Groton, and Lee Perry and Mrs. Elsie J. Rathbun, of Center Groton, were in Waterford town court this morning charged with theft from the person, the complaint charging them with stealing $60, a scarf pin and a watch and chain from Keith Nelson, of Pawcatuck and New London. The prosecution was not prepared to present the case, so a continuance was granted until Wednesday, next, and each of the accused furnished a surety on respective bonds of $1,000. When the case comes up Wednesday, there is every indication that it will be disposed of, for at least two have made confessions of the part played in relieving Nelson of his money and jewelry.

Nelson was in New London nearly a month ago and is a painter by occupation. He had about $100 on his person and started to drink. He went to the Hotel Winthrop where he chanced to meet Troland, who proffered his services to escort the painter to a resort where he could purchase liquor and enjoy the companionship of females. Nelson accepted the invitation and the two entered the cab of Lombardo, who drove then to the house in Center Groton, conducted by Perry. There drinks were obtained and during the course of events Nelson and the Rathbun woman went for a ride in the cab. While in the automobile Nelson was relieved of his pin and watch. When the return to the Perry house was made, Nelson was drunk and was carried in and placed on a couch. While in a drunken sleep Troland removed the money from Nelson's pocket and divided it with the others. The gang was considerate enough to allow $1.82 to remain in Nelson's pockets so that he would be able to purchase food when he returned to New London. Returning to this city, Nelson discovered his loss and when he could not recover his property he reported the theft at the state police barracks. Sunday night Lieut. Henry Albright rounded up the gang. Troland admitted taking the money and dividing it with his colleagues, while the Rathbun woman admitted the theft of the jewelry. The latter is in the keeping of a friend and will be returned to Nelson.

DOCTORS DISAGREE IN CASE OF CHAS. BJORK

Charles Bjork, of Norwich, charged with robbery, was in the police court this morning, but the case was continued a week. Bjork was arrested a month ago when he went to the residence of a relative on Raymond street, and during the absence of the members of the household, other than children, Bjork stole valuables belonging to the husband and wife. When he returned there the following day he was arrested by Detective Sergeant Smith. Bjork has admitted the thefts and has since been temporarily detained at Norwich State hospital for the purpose of determining his insanity. One physician has pronounced Bjork a kleptomaniac, while another has declared the young man sane.

Richard Glidden, arrested Saturday when liberated from the county jail where he had served a sentence for complicity in an automobile theft in this city and who is wanted by the police of Boston, for his connection with an automobile thieving ring in that city, headed by his brother, Horace Glidden, now serving a sentence in a Massachusetts penal institution, was presented in court today. The case was continued a week. In the meantime an officer will come here from Boston, and escort Glidden back to that city for trial. The Gliddens stole numerous cars in and around Massachusetts and then sold them wherever they could find a purchaser. One of the cars Richard Glidden sold to sailors at the submarine base.

George F. Green, Station 20, Waterford, was charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, also driving a car equipped with improper brakes. The former charge was nolled and on the latter a fine of $10 was imposed. John Jesmonit, who was drunk in the automobile when Green was arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin, Saturday, was given suspension of judgment.

H. Irvine Grady, 902 Chapel street, New Haven, was charged with violation of the city's parking laws in parking in restricted area, Saturday, on Masonic street. The case was nolled.

Ernest Johnson, 110 Potter street, charged with breach of the peace and intoxication, was fined $5 and costs. He went to jail. Johnson, who resides with Marian Lewis, caused the wrath of the woman Sunday night when he quarreled with her and then hurled her clothes to the street.

Charles and Lillian Blount, husband and wife, residing at 80 Potter street, were jointly charged with breach of the peace and intoxication, and were given suspension of judgment. The pair was arrested at 3:30 o'clock this morning.

John McDonough, Mystic and New London, was in Groton town court this morning charged with theft and upon pleading guilty, was sentenced to 60 days in jail. McDonough was arrested Sunday morning by State Police Officer John Smith. The officer was riding along a highway on the outskirts of the borough and observed McDonough walking with a weighty bag over his shoulders. Smith intercepted McDonough and when the latter was questioned he admitted having stolen his load, which comprised dishes, from the residence of Mrs. Amanda Allen, of Center Groton. McDonough has a long police record on charges of theft and intoxication.

Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander today issued a release of tax warrant against William T. Connor. A warrant was issued several months ago ordering the sale of the property of Connor because of back taxes not having been paid. Since then the tax has been paid.

A Buick automobile, owned by Joseph Labensky, 31 Colt street, was discovered Saturday night to be missing from the owner's residence and where the car had been parked. Labensky reported the fact at police headquarters. Two hours later the machine was found abandoned on Masonic street.

FIVE PIECES OF APPARATUS OUT FOR BURNING SOOT

A fire in a chimney in the residence, 16 Clover street, this morning, caused an excitable person to ring in an alarm from Box 28, corner of Lincoln and Connecticut avenues. Chief Thomas Shipman and five pieces of apparatus responded. The burning soot was extinguished with a liberal application of chemicals.

Miss Mabel Downes, 17, of Beckwith place, Groton, and Thomas Sinclair, 597 Ocean avenue, injured in an automobile accident on Ocean avenue, south of Thames street, Sunday morning, are still patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital. The former sustained a serious laceration of the left eye and the latter has six fractured ribs and a lacerated scalp. Miss Downes and Sinclair sustained their injuries when a commercial truck, owned by the Barclay Tile & Marble company, and driven by Miss Downes, and a Franklin coach driven by Sinclair collided. Both automobiles were damaged.

At the last meeting of the Junior branch, No. 12, American Sons of Herman, held in the lodge room, plans were made for the entertainment of visiting lodges coming here May 23, 24 and 25, for the state convention. At the meeting seven candidates were initiated under the supervision of President Dang.

Patients dismissed at Home Memorial hospital today were: Mrs. Ivan Crossman and son, of Noank; Shirley Felker, Waterford; Charles Bucko, 232 Coryial avenue, Richard Ventimilla, 33 Potter street.

Dr. B. N. Pennel, local health officer, was an honorary pall bearer at the funeral, in Hartford, of Howard A. Elliott.

Peter Dymarski, of 297 North Bank street, was arrested today on complaint of his wife who claimed that he beat her while intoxicated. He was charged with breach of the peace and is being held for trial in the police court tomorrow morning.

An investigation is pending in the bankrupt case of Solomon Rausch, who conducted a meat and grocery business in Bank street, opposite the old Rialto theatre. His liabilities are given as $5,881.50 with assets of but $879.25. Witnesses have been examined and every item in the manner which the business was carried on is to be checked up.

A woman residing near the Second Congregational church, turned in a fire alarm yesterday afternoon when she observed heavy smoke escaping from the chimney of the edifice. The call was needless as when the Northwest Hose company arrived it was found that the smoke was caused by the burning of soft coal in the furnace.

ABLE TO GO TO THEIR HOMES AFTER CARE AT HOSPITAL

Guiseppe Perrone, of Shaw street, and C. F. Klinger, of 632 Montauk avenue, were injured at 10:15 o'clock yesterday morning, when an auto and a truck in which they were riding, crashed at the foot of Quaker Hill, Waterford. Perrone was driving the truck and was proceeding toward New London, when it met the heavy sedan of Klinger traveling in the opposite direction. The two machines bumped with great force. Mr. Klinger was taken to Lawrence Memorial hospital where a two-inch cut in his throat was sewed up. Perrone received a fracture of the left leg. Both men were at their homes today. After an investigation of the accident by the state police no arrests were made.

SHEA ATTACKED MOTHER—COMMITTED TO NORWICH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 25—William Shea, 20, of 698 Bank street, was committed to Norwich State hospital late today by an examining board of physicians. The young man was clearly of unsound mentality, evidenced by his attack upon his mother this forenoon and his conversation at police headquarters following his arrest. Shea went to his home about 11 o'clock and attacked his mother, creating such a disturbance that neighbors summoned the police. Detective Sergt. John Cavanaugh and an automobile patrol officer went to the Shea residence and took him into custody. When searched at police headquarters Shea had $33, which he had taken forcibly from his mother.

Peter Garchidi has leased for two years at an annual rental of $300, the store, 90 Harrison street, and the cellar of the house, 41 Front street, to Victor Spizlali.

George H. Norris, 5 Mason terrace, Brookline, Mass., was at Ocean Beach this afternoon and, walking to the pier, found a pocket book containing $10.50. Norris delivered the money and purse at police headquarters for restoration to its owner.

Mrs. E. H. Smith, 7 Summit avenue, reported to the police today that her garage was broken into by thieves last night. What plunder was obtained, if any, has not been ascertained.

Andrew Verbello, 134 North Bank street, was struck by an automobile driven by Harry Mitzoff, Mystic, Saturday on Main street, near Church street. Verbello sustained a laceration of the scalp. It required several stitches to close the wound.

The Empire theatre, Bank street, was entered by thieves last night, but so far as known nothing of value was taken. The entrance to the theatre was gained by forcing a window and is believed to have been perpetrated by youths.

GROTON FERRY PROBLEM NO CLEARER THAN BEFORE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 25—The city council, sitting as a committee, this evening gave a hearing on a petition from George Crandall and David Sheehan, lessees of the Groton-New London ferry, for a change in the schedule of trips that a reduction might be made in the number of journeys of the boat across the river with consequent reduction of expense of operation. It is asked that the trips may begin later in the morning and be discontinued earlier at night. This would mean a reduction in the number of crew employed, saving of coal, etc. The ferry boat is a losing proposition; it is also obvious that it cannot be made a paying proposition. The lease of the ferry was given to Messrs. Sheehan and Crandall at their own figures. The lessees have now awakened to the fact that they cannot operate the line for the money taken in patronage, even with New London paying 75 per cent and the borough of Groton paying 25 per cent of the deficit above a specified loss. Messrs. Crandall and Sheehan represented that they would try to continue operating the ferry if allowed $10 a day in addition to what they are now allowed, but how they can do that even on their own statement is not apparent. They claim to be losing more than that amount daily and on Sundays the loss is claimed to be much greater. It was represented by Captain Crandall that last Sunday—an exceptionally pleasant day—the receipts were $17.91 for ten hours, while the expense of operation was $35. Captain Crandall declared that he did not have "cold feet" but said the lessees had got to the end of their rope and could not continue.

First Selectman Clark B. Whaley and Warden George R. Hempstead represented that the lessees of the ferry should arrange the boat's trips so that the ferry would run at hours different from those followed by the trolley and the busses. They thought this would accommodate Grotonians in greater degree than the present schedule and the receipts would be increased. Charles M. Adams, of Groton, declared that the fare reduction to five cents would be an attraction to many and that the change to have the boat leave at different hours than those of the busses and trolley would be a positive benefit to the boat lessees. He said he was a most consistent user of the boat, but that the accommodation was not as good as it might be.

Henry Gamber, of Groton, agreed with the other speakers that maintenance of the ferry was desired by Groton people as well as by those of New London. He said New London was the greatest beneficiary of the ferry.

Captain Crandall declared that the cost of the operation of the boat was $3.50 an hour. He added, "We can't stand that!" A change of hours to avoid competition with the busses and the trolley was strongly urged.

Mrs. Emily Spelr spoke, under the impression that the lessees of the ferry were paying the owners of the franchise for the right to run the boat; while the fact is the town of New London and the borough of Groton are paying for the loss occasioned by the operation of the boat.

By their own figures the lessees of the boat are losing some $20 a day, but they offer to continue operation of the boat if they are paid $10 a day in addition to what they receive now. It was manifest that the committee was not impressed by the presentation of the case and that if the two towns do not stand the loss the boat will be taken from the line.

GREENEVILLE

JOHN SERVICE, ONLY LIVING CHARTER MEMBER, G. A. R., IS 90

John Service, corner Twelfth street and Prospect street, one of the oldest residents of Greeneville observed his 90th birthday Saturday. He is the only living charter member of Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R. and is extremely active in spite of his advanced years. He was the recipient of many beautiful potted plants, choice cut flowers and a shower of birthday cards.

Saturday evening a surprise birthday dinner was given in his honor at the old Torrance homestead, 449 Boswell avenue with twenty-two relatives present. Mr and Mrs. John A. Niles and Mrs. S. S. Latrop acted as host and hostesses during the evening. A delicious menu was served with Mrs Berkoff caterer.

Among out of town guests present were Mr Service's son and family Mr. and Mrs. William Service and daughter, Marjorie of Waterbury.

Only Member Co. A Surviving.

Mr. Service is the only member of his company, Company A, 18 Reg. C. V., living today owing to the death of R. C. Greene of Plainfield, who passed away at his home in that place last week. Mr. Service has a pleasing personality and recalls at ease the stirring events of the war days. I enlisted in Co. A 18th C. V. the late Judge Torrance and myself were in the paper mill here in Greeneville the day the company was formed. We were asked if we would like to join and ours were the first names on the roll. Part of the 18th infantry was raised in Norwich, five companies, and the other part was raised in Windham county. In a short time we had the company nearly enrolled.

Got Money in Stamps.

John Breed offered $50 to the company that filled its ranks first. Our company was filled first and as money was scarce in those days we got the $50 in postage stamps. In addition, William P. Greene presented each of us $2.50. We left August 18, 1862 from Camp Aiken and went to Baltimore. We had all our equipment except our guns and those we had to wait for at Baltimore. We lay at Fort Henry all winter and in the spring of 1863 were called to the field in the Shenandoah Valley. In May we were ordered to the front.

Taken Prisoner.

In the battle of Winchester Mr Service was taken prisoner and was marched from Winchester to Staunton, Va., from whence the trip to Richmond, was continued by train. He was in the prison at Richmond for three weeks and was then paroled. He remained at Harper's Ferry through the following winter and later took part in the battles of Newmarket and Piedmont and was with the first Union troops to enter Staunton, Pa.

For a time Mr. Service was a guard at General Sullivan's headquarters and was at Martinsburg the next winter. He was still at that place when the war ended. His regiment was mustered out at Harper's Ferry, June 27, 1865.

NORWICH SCOUTS PRESENT CIVIC SERVICE MEDAL TO WILLIAM G. PARK

A civic service medal was Monday evening presented to William G. Park by the Norwich Boy Scouts, in recognition of Mr. Park's civic "good turns" during the year 1928. The presentation, made by Star Scout Nicholas Tarrant, a ranking scout of Troop No. 5, of St. Patrick's church, took place at the dinner at the Wauregan hotel, marking the opening of the Boy Scout annual financial campaign to raise a budget of $6,575.

The dinner meeting opened at 6:30 o'clock with Charles Coit, president of the Boy Scout council, presiding. Coyle's Harmony Boys provided a concert programme during the supper.

In presenting the civic service medal to Mr. Park, Scout Tarrant said: "The Boy Scouts of Norwich are proud of the good turns they do for the city and its citizens and like to recognize that there are citizens who also do their good turns for the community. Because the scouts are proud of the men who do their good turns, they have decided to recognize the work of its citizens for the community. The Boy Scouts have selected, as the recipient of the medal, one man who they believe has done more for the community in 1928 than any other citizen. As a representative of the Boy Scouts of Norwich, I am proud to present the Boy Scout civic service medal for 1928 to Mr. William G. Park, in recognition of his civic good turns."

The speaker of the evening was Hillard B. Holbrook, experienced leader in scouting in the Minute Man council of Waltham, Mass. Mr. Holbrook, during the course of his remarks, said that the Norwich scout programme is one of the best he has ever seen. Speaking of the budget of $6 575 which the campaign workers are out to raise this week, Mr. Holbrook said: "The money is going right back to the boys. It is money well invested. It is better to build boys than to mend boys."

A number of those present spoke of the value of Boy Scout work and pledged themselves to continue their interest in the Boy Scouts. The campaign will start today (Tuesday) when the workers will call on those interested in the scout movement for subscriptions and pledges.

CONNECTICUT WOMEN AGAIN ASK FOR JURY SERVICE

For the fifth time since 1920, Connecticut women are asking the general assembly to complete their enfranchisement by making them elegible for jury service says the current issue of The Woman Voters' Bulletin published by The Connecticut League of Women Voters.

In these nine years the subject has passed out of the experimental stage and into the state of an accepted institution. The response of judges lawyers and prosecutors whose opinion was asked by the League of Women Voters, has been so immediate, so general and so favorable, as to leave no doubt of the wholehearted acceptance of women jurors on the part of the courts.

It is traditional that Connecticut goes her own way, not caring what other states may do. Connecticut however, always stands ready to adopt methods and institutions that have proved of real value elsewhere, and in this instance the experience and the judgment of men like Chief Justice Scott Wilson of Maine and Mr. Charles P. Taft, 2nd, of Cincinnati, to mention only two, will certainly carry weight.

The states where jury service is compulsory for women are: California, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Minnesota Michigan Nevada, New Jersey, Ohio and Pennsylvania. The state where it is permissive are Arkansas, Delaware, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island Utah, Washington, Wisconsin, District of Columbia, Alaska. Among the countries which draw women for the jury are England, Canada (except P. Q.), Germany, Norway, Denmark. Laws of the permissive type have proved to be invidious and not effective in their operation. The law sought in Connecticut would carry exemptions for nurses and mothers of children under sixteen years of age.

The reasons why Connecticut women ask for jury service are well known. They feel, primarily, that this step is needed in order to make them full citizens. At present women share in only two of the three branches of government, the executive and the legislative. Connecticut has led every other state in the number of women elected to the general assembly; their ability and their value in the legislative branch is unquestioned. Locally the number of women holding executive office increases from year to year. In the court room women are present as lawyers, litigants, witnesses, probation officers, stenographers; there is no legal barrier to their presence as judges. But in the one capacity which rests on the principle of the democratic administration of justice, that of an impartial trial by one's peers, they are prevented by statute from serving. We feel that this is a loss not only to the court, but to the women themselves, whose outlook and knowledge of judicial procedure would be greatly broadened.

ASKS $125,000 FOR NEW GROTON AIRPORT

The military affairs committee of the general assembly is now engaged in drawing up a bill which will ask for an appropriation of $125,000 for the purchase of the Groton airport, upon which the state now holds an option. The tract, which has been named Trumbull field, in honor of the governor, comprises 225 acres and is owned by the Morton F. Plant estate from whom the state obtained its option.

It is indicated that the bill will be ready for presentation during this week and that a hearing will be held immediately thereafter. The bill is being drawn at the request of Governor Trumbull, who, in his inaugural message to the general assembly on Jan. 9, recommended the purchase of the airport. That the bill will be favorably reported by the committee and approved by both branches of the general assembly is almost certain.

The state took its option on the Groton tract, which is a part of the old Branford farms site, last spring, and last summer it was used as a base of operations by the air squadrons of the Connecticut National guard. It is an ideal airport, with its landing field, slightly inclined and devoid of bumps and ruts, stretching down to the waters of Long Island sound. The buildings standing on the site were so constructed that it was an easy and inexpensive task to convert them into barracks, kitchens, etc., for the use of the guardsmen.

Ranking national guard officials as well as the state's realty experts are of the opinion that the figure at which the airport has been offered to the state is very reasonable and Governor Trumbull has stated that aside from the prime importance of the field for aviation purposes from an investment standpoint.

The supreme court refused to review the sale of the Kansas City Star, Times and Weekly Star to its present owners.

COL. DORSEY MAKES PLEA FOR A STATE INFIRMARY

"It would be very difficult for the general public to appreciate the pressing need for an institution in Connecticut equipped to receive persons suffering from senile dementia and those suffering from chronic and incurable conditions," said Col. Henry S. Dorsey, New London charity commissioner and chairman of the legislative committee of the Connecticut Association of Municipal Relief officials regarding the bill recently introduced into the general assembly by the association calling for an appropriation of $2,000,000 for the erection of such an infirmary.

Colonel Dorsey said that there is no place for persons suffering from such conditions, and that charity commissioners and welfare workers throughout the state are confronted with quite a problem when they have to locate these persons somewhere.

Colonel Dorsey heartily approves of the legislative program sponsored by the organization, which is composed of charity officials all over the state and members of the boards of selectmen. Three bills in particular are being sponsored by this association relative to new buildings, as follows:

Appropriation of $1,200,000 to increase the present capacity of the Mansfield Training school and hospital to 1,500 beds; appropriation of $2,000,000 for the erection, equipment and furnishing of an infirmary of persons suffering from senile dementa and those suffering from incurable and chronic conditions; appropriation of $500,000 for the state tuberculosis commission for all sanatoria for the purpose of increasing the capacity of all such institutions by 200 beds.

Colonel Dorsey said regarding the appropriation for the enlarging of the Mansfield Training school that at present there are between 600 and 700 applicants awaiting permission to enter. This, according to the commissioner, is a serious situation, which makes itself felt in every county. Right here, he said, it is a problem to know what to do with the applicants for admission to the school.

BINGHAM WANTS HOSPITAL NEAR CONNECTICUT RIVER

The location of the new veterans' hospital for southern New England on a spot near the Connecticut river was urged by Senator Hiram Bingham, appearing before the federal hospitalization board at Washington. The senator said that he was appearing at the request of the Connecticut American Legion and the joint committee on military affairs of the Connecticut assembly.

"We have no quarrel with Massachusetts or Rhode Island except over the matter of Massachusetts diverting certain waters," Bingham told the board jokingly. "But we feel the new hospital should be located in Connecticut." The senator said that statistics reveal that the center of population of the district to be served by the hospital lies near the Connecticut river. He also pointed out that approximately four-fifths of the population of Connecticut is west of the river, and urged the hospital be located near Hartford or New Haven.

The board was asked to locate the new hospital at Westerly by Senators Gerry and Metcalf. Representatives Aldrich and Burdick of Rhode Island and Representative Martin of Massachusetts, Rhode Island State Senator Howard Thorne, and Walter Thorne, Thomas McKenzie, Samuel Davis and Thomas Mcenna of Westerly.

The board may decide soon in what state the hospital will be located but will make public no decision until the president has approved its recommendation.

Lafayette Main Loses Claims.

Lafayette Main, well known resident of North Stonington and frequent litigant in courts of the county, where he has achieved notice by dispensing with lawyers and conducting his own cases, has failed in his attempt to get the state to pay a couple of claims he has brought against it for damages. One was for $6,000 for damages to growing crops on his farms done by deer and the other for $7,000 to repay him for loss of a farmhouse burned, which he declared could have been saved if the state highway department had not diverted a nearby stream from its course to a more distant bed, and he could get no water from it to put out the flames.

WEEKLY NOON MEETING AT RADIATOR PLANT

An interesting talk was given by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, at the weekly noon meeting held at the Richmond Radiator company Monday under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. His topic was The Home Relations and he spoke in part as follows:

"This topic is suggested by the federation of churches for the Lenten season. We naturally ask what were the boyhood days of Jesus in Nazareth; what were His surroundings? We have one clear-cut incident of His boyhood; when He was with the doctors in the temple at Jerusalem. For a 12-year-old boy to cope with the doctors of the law was indeed an unusual thing; as if a boy of 12 should successfully argue with a professor at Yale university. Home is a place where we have intimate relations and of which we have distinct recollections. We remember the things we see and hear in the home more easily than what we see and hear in other places. There is no doubt that the impressions made on the child mind are the strongest. A noted religious leader is quoted to have said that if he could have the child up to seven years of age, others can have him afterward. Home is the place where we exchange the intimate things of life. Take a business man who has his worries; if he can tell his troubles to a faithful wife he is greatly relieved. For instance, you know what would happen if one of your boilers were filled with steam and there was no safety valve; home is a sort of a safety valve.

"The foundation of every true home is love, and unless love is there, it is not a home, no matter what else you may have. A visitor to a city of beautiful homes speaking of the most beautiful house said to his friend, 'That is a wonderful home'; his friend responded by saying, 'That is no home at all, it is only a house'; in explaining it he said, 'The son who lived there is in state prison; the husband and father is a very bad man, and the mother and wife has left the house; that house is not a home, it is a monument of hell'

"Money is needed but if money is all one has it is not a home. What will they not do for one another in a home where love dominates. The home is the place where we first see the light of day, and when we die we had rather die there. There is nothing horrible about death, especially to that one who has lived a good clean useful life. We read often in the scriptures regarding one who has died, 'and he was gathered to his fathers.' Death to a right-living person is not horrible, it is beautiful."

Following a raid at his place on North Main street on Feb. 16, Chioda was arrested by state police, and a continuance to Monday morning was granted when the case was presented in court a week ago. Eighty-two bottles of beer and two pints of liquor were seized by the state police in the raid.

Saturday night he discovered that one of the three bags of jewelry was missing. Mr. Berghinzo, it is said, is uncertain as to whether the bag was lost out of the coupe or whether it was stolen.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

LIST OF HOOVER CABINET LIKELIHOODS IS GROWING

William D. Mitchell of St. Paul Mentioned as a Probable Selection For the Post of Attorney General—Friends Report That Assistant Attorney General Donovan is Disinclined to Accept the Post of Secretary of War.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 —(AP)—A new name was added today to the ever-growing list of Hoover cabinet likelihoods. It is that of William D. Mitchell, of St. Paul, Minnesota, solicitor general of the United States, who came to the front as a probable selection for the post of attorney general.

At the same time there was a tendency in some usually well informed quarters to discard another name from the list of possibilities, that of William J. Donovan, now assistant to the attorney general, who was represented by some of his friends as being disinclined to accept the post of secretary of war.

Neither President-elect Hoover nor Mr. Donovan, who returned here yesterday, and has since had two conferences with the next president had anything to say regarding the report, but there was a widespread belief in political circles that Mr. Mitchell would be attorney general.

Although listed as a democrat the new solicitor general was appointed to office by President Coolidge on June 4, 1925. He was admitted to the Minnesota bar in 1896, was secretary of the first charter commission of St. Paul and was regional counsel for the railroad administration in 1919 during the term of President Wilson.

Friends of Mr. Hoover said the solicitor general had supported the next chief executive in the lost election and the two are known to be friends of long standing.

Those who insisted that the Minnesota man would get the post, for which Donovan Long was mentioned after the election, said this would be one of the "surprise" cabinet appointments which some of those close to Mr. Hoover have predicted.

It has been reported that the president-elect invited Mr. Donovan to become secretary of war after strong opposition had developed to placing him at the head of the law enforcement department of the government. Much of this opposition came from dry leaders who regard him as technically wet.

Immediately upon the return of Mr. Donovan from Santa Fe, New Mexico, he was invited to the Hoover home on "S" street, where he had a long conference with the president-elect. Their discussions were renewed this morning over the breakfast table at which time Mr. Donovan was said to have expressed his unwillingness to hold to war portfolio.

This conference was the first of a series which Mr. Hoover held during the day. Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, presented Albert Hislop, republican national committeeman from his state, and Senator Hastings and Senator-elect Townsend, of Delaware, called in the forenoon.

The vice-president and Mrs. Dawes paid a social call. The vice president remained for luncheon but Mrs. Dawes was obliged to fulfill a previous engagement.

The postmaster general and Mrs. New have been invited for luncheon tomorrow and Representatives Fish and Taber of New York have appointments for conferences with the president-elect.

While giving much time to conversations with congressional and party leaders, Mr. Hoover has been able to put in considerable work on his inaugural address which is expected to be in final form within a few days.

COOLIDGE TO HASTEN HIS DEPARTURE FOR OLD HOME

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 — (AP) — President Coolidge is preparing to withdraw from the inauguration day celebration as quickly as possible after his successor has been inducted into office. With Mrs. Coolidge he plans to go directly from the inauguration ceremonies at the capitol to the Union station and there to board a through train for Northampton, Mass., their old home.

It has been customary, although the tradition has not been of sufficient force to give it the nature of a precedent, for the retiring president to accompany the new chief executive to the white house for luncheon immediately after the exercises at the capitol. This practice has been broken in two recent instances—by Roosevelt and Wilson—and Mr. Coolidge feels that these justify him in not returning to the executive mansion.

For the trip to Northampton, Mr. Coolidge has chosen the "Montrealer," the fast limited of the Pennsylvania railroad which runs directly to the Massachusetts town. Officials of the road said today that the nature of the president's accommodations had not yet been determined.

NO SERIOUS DISORDERS IN CHICAGO ELECTION

CHICAGO, Feb. 26—(AP)—An election was held today and the most serious disorders reported were arguments among poll officials.

Fifty aldermanic jobs were at stake in the contest which attracted a light vote and stirred up no fights, kidnapings, sluggings or killings.

The board of election commissioners estimated less than a 50 per cent. vote would be registered, a drizzling rain in the early morning discouraging many who were unable to cast their ballots later in the day because of the four o'clock closing of the polls.

Most of the 1,700 watchers and the special police details were assigned to wards that usually prove troublesome. The "bloody twentieth," where Octovius Granady, Negro politician, was killed last year, and where acts of violence were numerous was efficiently patroled.

The anti-Thompson candidate in the "bloody twentieth," Alderman A. J. Prignano, moved his family into another part of the city, and put his house under police guard because he received so many pre-election threats.

The most excitement in this ward, controlled by Morris Eller, city collector, was caused by the arrest of an election judge, George Boscoe, wanted for murder. Police said he also had served a penitentiary term for criminal attack.

MARRIAGE LAW CONTROVERSY IN LETTER WRITING STAGE

HARTFORD, Feb. 26—(AP)—The discussion between Judge Epaphroditus Peck, of Bristol, marriage law expert of the judiciary committee of the legislature, and Miss Elsie Hill, national woman's party leader in Connecticut, which started at the hearing before the committee on a bill sponsored by Miss Hill to provide married women's domiciliary rights independent of her husband, has now reached the letter-writing stage. Following the unfavorable report on the bill, presented by Judge Peck, Miss Hill telegraphed for an explanation. Judge Peck replied to the telegram and now Miss Hill has written to him.

Judge Peck says he knows of no rule of law in Connecticut or any other state by which a man living with his family in one state and going to another state to do business in an office there, has a right to claim a residence in the state where he does business for the purpose of voting or for any purpose. On the ground that the fact that a man was living with his wife and children in one place would usually prevail over the fact that he may have some business location in another place, Judge Peck argued "the place of the wife's residence determines that of the husband rather more than his place of residence determines hers.

DRANK SOLUTION OF LYE AND POTASH TO END LIFE

BROCKTON, Mass., Feb. 26—(AP)—Walter Rusakow, 45, a show worker of Stoughton, died tonight at the Brockton hospital from the effects of solution of lye and potash which he drank last night. Police attributed his act to despondency.

BILL PASSED FOR BRIDGE ACROSS ST. LAWRENCE

VICTIMS OF THE BOSTON SUBWAY SLASHER NOW 27

BOSTON, Feb. 26—(AP)—Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley tonight ordered five policewomen to join 100 plainclothes policemen in the hunt for this city's "subway slasher." The superintendent ordered the policewomen to dress in fur coats and to ride on subway and elevated trains. Meanwhile the total number of slashing victims was increased to 27.

"The slasher," or as some authorities believe, the group of "slashers" claimed two more victims today, one of them the first man so far to be attacked. He was George Harris, 19, of Roslindale, who told police that a man came up to him on a crowded street late today, cut the lapel of his coat with a knife, and then escaped. He brought three witnesses of the act.

The 26th woman victim was Mrs. Margaret Peterson, of Dorchester, who reported that her coat had been slashed while she was riding on a street car to work.

Meanwhile, police arrested Ralph Repucci, 35, of the North End, after it was alleged, he had jostled an unknown woman on the elevated. He was arraigned, charged with assault and battery and sentenced to two months in jail. Two plainclothesmen testified they saw him riding on inbound and out-bound trains and then jostling a woman. Repucci appealed.

TESTIFIED IN HIS OWN DEFENSE AT MURDER TRIAL

BOSTON, Feb. 26—(AP)—Samuel Gallo, clothing salesman, on trial for the murder here, of Joseph Fantasia, on June 11, 1927, took the stand in his own defense late today and told the jury that he had lived for five months with Philomeno Romano, chief government witness against him.

A long scar on his left cheek, the result of a knife wound inflicted by Miss Romano after a quarrel, according to testimony today, gave him a seeming perpetual smile as he spoke. His voice was weak because, he said, of stab wounds inflicted in the Charles street jail yard last autumn by Gangi Cero, now under sentence of death for the murder of Fantasia. One of his lungs was punctured by the knife.

He had lived with Miss Romano for five months during 1926, Gallo said. "Then she packed up and left." Asked if he remembered when he saw her again, he replied: "I well remember the day—it was March 12—when I saw Philomena again." Previously Fred Sullo, a defense witness, had testified that Miss Romano slashed Gallo's face sometime in March, 1927.

LINDBERGH AND FIANCEE PLANNING FOR MARRIAGE

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 26 — (AP) — Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Miss Anne Spencer Morrow today continued in the quiet retreat of Cuernayaca to enjoy each other's company undisturbed and to plan for the event of which the world awaits announcement.

As on yesterday, they walked through the town, drove out into the picturesque nearby country and strolled in the garden patio of the country residence of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow. They shared some of their excursions with Mrs. Morrow and Anne's older sister, Elizabeth.

The aviator whom the public calls "Lindy" when he is not in his role of "Lone Eagle of The Air" is called "Charles" by all members of the Morrow family when in public. Under the same conditions he addresses his fiancee as Anne. Whether they have more intimate names between themselves is unknown to outsiders.

LONDON, Feb. 26—(AP)—The challenge of the Royal Air Force for a non-stop record will be an attempted flight from Cranwell, Lincolnshire, to Durban, South Africa a distance of approximately 6,000 miles. The original plans was to fly to Capetown in three hopes with a nonstop return flight.

KASSEL, Germany, Feb. 26 —(AP)—An "air train" consisting of a Raab-Katzenstein machine and two trailers made a trial flight here today. The trailers were uncoupled at a height of 1,200 feet and glided to earth separately. It is next planned to try a long over land flight with an "air train" consisting of several units.

STORM WAS CAUSE OF 28 DEATHS IN THREE STATES

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 26—(AP)—The village of Duncan, Miss., devastated yesterday by a tornado that took the lives of 17 of the 400 inhabitants, became a mecca for sightseers and souvenir hunters today.

While rescue workers were searching for victims of the storm that left dead and scores injured in its wake in Mississippi, Arkansas and Texas, crowds flocked to Duncan seeking souvenirs in the form of wreckage and snapshots. Several hundred Negroes thus engaged were conscripted for relief work.

Weather disturbances in the south continued today. At Troy, Ala., Emmett Slaughter, 19, was killed and Mrs. Sam Reese injured when struck by lightning during an electrical storm late today.

An official check of the dead at Duncan listed three white persons, four Chinese and ten Negroes. Two Negroes were killed on a plantation near Marks and three on another plantation near Jonestown, Miss. Arkansas had two deaths near Hewitt and four persons were victims of the tornado in Texas.

BANKERS STUDYING REPARATIONS OBLIGATION

PARIS, Feb. 26—(AP)—The "bankers committee" of the reparations commission spent most of today studying the possibility of turning part of Germany's reparation obligations into negotiable bonds. The committee, as originally named, included the most imposing financial personages among the experts. But it was learned tonight that the membership is variable, other persons being called into the deliberations according to the circumstances of the current discussion.

The amount of such a bond issue has thus far been left in abeyance, the discussion has turned largely on the possibility of guaranteeing the bonds so as to make them negotiable.

There was much speculation outside of the committee, however, as to the amounts that the different financial markets of the world might be able to absorb. It was evident that any total that might be agreed upon for the issue would be largely determined by the answer to that question.

REPORT AGAINST VARE TO GO OVER TO NEXT CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—(AP)—The report against William S. Vare, stricken senator-elect from Pennsylvania will go over to the consideration of the next congress. Action on the recommendation that he be denied a seat was deferred today because Vare's ill health has prevented him from taking advantage of the senate's previous offer to have him apear to defend himself.

Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, author of the resolution to deny Vare a seat, closed the issue for this session by announcing that he did not feel like pressing the question because of Vare's condition.

INCREASE IN COMMON STOCK OF U. S. STEEL

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—Common stock of the United States Steel corporation today was ordered increased to $1,250,000,000 from $753,321,000 ($100 par) by the board of directors, subject to approval of stockholders at the annual meeting on April 15.

Common stockholders will be offered the right to subscribe for additional shares. The proceeds will be used to retire the company's funded debt of $134,830,000 in 50 year 5 per cent. gold bonds of 1951 at $115 and $136,555,000 in 10 to 60 year 5 per cent. bonds of 1963 at $110.

The retirement of both bond issues will result in a saving of $29,247,350 annualy in fixed charges.

ACTRESS ALMA RUBENS INMATE STATE HOSPITAL

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26—(AP)—From the glitter of Holywood's film land where she once reigned as a star in the screen firmament, Alma Rubens today had gone to a state hospital, a victim of the narcotic habit, on complaints of her husband and mother.

At the Spadra, Calif., institution she will be confined for a period of not less than eight months nor more than two years by an order which was issued late last night at a special session of Superior Judge M. P. McComb's court. This newest skirmish in the beautiful actress' fight for freedom from the habit was enacted with extreme secrecy.

Marshal Foch Fights Unconquerable Foe

Great Soldier is Slowly Sinking From Lung, Heart and Kidney Complications.

PARIS, Feb. 26—(AP)—Marshal Ferdinand Foch tonight was said to be slowly sinking from an illness with lung, heart and kidney complications. The old warrior who, on a desperate day in 1914, declared "my right is crushed, my left is in retreat, I am attacking with my center," is at last apparently on the defense on all fronts with but little hope of another victory.

His five physicians will consult again tmorrow, two of them regard the case as virtually hopeless. The other three, remembering the marshal's favorite aphorism "a battle lost is a battle which one believes to have lost, for battles are not lost materially," said that the spirit of the same old fighter might carry the battle along for some time.

This last campaign of the former generalissimo of the Allied armies began on January 14. The 77-year-old veteran made several advances against the inroads of disease but none carried him to a point of safety. It was indeed hoped only a week ago, that he might soon be transferred to the milder climate of southern France.

Aside from his medical and nursing staff and his closest relatives, the marshal has had to fight his battle alone. Although friends, comrades-in-arms and statesmen of several nations have signed the register at the Foch home not even the most distinguished has been permitted to visit the sick room. The marshal's mind has been almost abnormally active and it is his character to chafe at any restraint so that his physicians feared that his strength would be strained by the stimulation of any visitors.

Even now, critically ill as he is, his physicians do not dare to say all in their formal bulletins for the marshal, still in his role of commander-in-chief, reads these communiques. Thus today's bulletin did not mention that his temperature had risen above 101 degrees.

SYSTEM TO GAIN GOOD WILL OF "SUCKER" LIST

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—Testimony of Lawrence Ragona, a filing clerk for the now defunct Cameron, Michel & Co., who described an elaborate super-filing system which he said the company used to gain the good will of "sucker" list prospects was the high light in today's session of the federal court trial of Herbert C. Locke and John T. Locke and their associates. The Lockes and seven others are charged with having used the mails to defraud customers out of $5,000,000 in copper mine schemes.

Ragona said the company had one of the finest filing systems of its kind in the world and that it contained detailed information on copper subjects dating back 30 years. The service was maintained, he said, for the purpose of obtaining the good will of clients which was "what we were supposed to play for."

He also said that the concern advised investments and dealt in other copper stocks of the first water, to keep their clients "pacified."

HAT FACTORY IN BETHEL DESTROYED BY FIRE

BETHEL, Conn., Feb. 26—(AP)—Fire of undetermined origin tonight destroyed the factory occupied by the Clifton A. Wright Hat company, makers of hats, and Hutt and Wasserman, hat finishers. Firemen were summoned by neighbors but when they arrived, it was impossible to save the building or contents. Unofficial damage was placed between $50,000 and $75,000.

The plant is the largest in the town and employed approximately 150 persons. Machinery and material for hats in the process of manufacture constituted the major loss.

Stabbed Four Persons In Times Sq. Subway

Six Foot Iron Worker Went Insane—Knocked Unconscious by Policeman.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—A six-foot iron worker, who police said went suddenly insane, stabbed three men and a boy and threw hundreds of homegoing workers into a panic in the crowded Times Square subway station tonight before he was knocked unconscious by a policeman.

The iron worker, John Kitt, 28, a German, who has been in America but two years, was standing on the platform with the other passengers when he suddenly drew a long knife and slashed the three men and a boy.

Other passengers fled for the stairways, several women being knocked down and trampled in the rush.

A dozen policemen responded to the calls for help and one felled Kitt with his nightstick. The iron worker was taken to Bellevue hospital where it was said, he was suffering from a possible fractured skull.

Nathan Freiman, 15, and Leon Lavay, of New York, two of the victims, were taken to New York hospital suffering from wounds in the back and arms.

POINTS WITH PRIDE TO HAIRDRESSERS' COMMISSION

HARTFORD, Feb. 26—(AP)—The state can "point with pride" to the hairdressers and cosmeticians commission, Senator Harold R. Durant told the judiciary committee of the legislature today, in advocating a change in the law to give the president of the board $2,200 instead of $1,000 a year. Instead of the customary call for opposition to the bill, Chairman Peasley of the committee invited anyone present who "viewed with alarm" the project to tell the committee about it. No one accepted the invitation.

$24,000,000 DRY FUND CUT FROM DEFICIENCY BILL

Senate Appropriations Committee Yesterday Refused to Add the Harris Amendment to the Bill—The Measure Carries More Than $200,000,000 For Emergency Demands—The Prohibition Fight Will Be Renewed on the Senate Floor Today.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—(AP)—The senate appropriations committee today reversed its position on the Harris proposal for a $24,000,000 increase in prohibition funds and voted down an attempt to add this amount to the second deficiency appropriation bill.

The second deficiency measure, carrying more than $200,000,000 to meet a number of emergency demands scattered throughout the country, was reported to the senate tonight and the prohibition fight will be renewed on the senate floor tomorrow.

Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, the author of the dry fund amendment, announced he would ask the senate to add the $24,000,000 to the bill in the place of the $2,700,000 increase for prohibition enforcement put in the measure by the house upon the recommendation of President Coolidge.

The senate added this amount to the first deficiency measure, now abandoned, by almost a two to one vote but leaders were confident tonight that in view of the $2,700,000 increase for dry enforcement that the Harris fund would be defeated. Republicans on the committee lined up solidly against the Harris provision and they were joined by two democrats.

The committee also rejected the amendment of Senator McKellar, democrat, Tenn., for publicity of hearings on tax refund cases. This amendment to the first deficiency bill also was strongly opposed by Secretary Mellon.

The senate committee added a number of provisions to the bill, including $6,000,000 for purchase of seed grains in the hurricane area including the states of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama; $150,000 for a survey of a Nicaraguan canal; $100,00 for part of the government's share in the Mount Rushmore, South Dakota, memorial project; $250,000 for equipping submarines with safety devices; $10,000 for a Coast Guard academy at New London, Conn., and $30,000 for an international street at Nogales, Arizona.

Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, is prepared to ask the senate to strike from the bill all of its provisions which were included in the first deficiency measure, now dead. While not particularly interested in the $24,000,000 prohibition item he does want to force a revival of the first measure as a matter of legislative principle.

The $250,000 amendment of Senator Glass to the first deficiency measure for a prohibition investigation by a presidential commission has been incorporated in the second bill.

The senate committee voted also to make $200,000 of the increase in prohibition funds available for enforcing the narcotic act.

SHAW OFFERED TO WRITE PLAYS FOR SALVATION ARMY

LONDON, Feb. 26—(AP)— Bernard Shaw today revealed that he once offered to write plays for the Salvation Army but that the army turned him down.

Shaw talked about the army in an interview telling how he came to write his play "Major Barbara" which turns upon the army's work. It will shortly be revived in London.

"You must remember" said Shaw, "that I was a street corner man myself for twelve years. I preached socialism all over London, often when my meeting was finished I strolled around to other meetings. I was struck by the dramatic power of some of the Salvation Army lasses in their propaganda and also by the excellent quality of their bands."

Shaw described how he pleased General Booth through a letter to a newspaper praising the Salvation Army instrumentalists and how he later conceived the idea of writing little plays for dramatically gifted Salvation Army lasses to use in promoting their work. He found objection to theatricals among salvation.

"When my offer reached Mrs. Bramwell Booth," continued Shaw, "she very sensibly said she would prefer a check. In the end it was clear my proposal only embarrassed the army so I went ahead with it myself."

Incidentally Shaw said that in his preface to "Major Barbara" he predicted the difficulty through which the army has just passed

She showed two diplomas won by her, the first from the School of Chiropody and Dermatology of New York, the second from the Charles Handel Correspondence school of St. Louis, Mo., on the "master key" system of psychology.

CHANGE OF TARIFF METHOD SUGGESTED AT HEARING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 — (AP) — Changes in the method of assessing ad valorem tariff rates on the value of imported articles on the ground that the foreign valuation now used frequently fluctuate widely and work to the detriment of American industries, were suggested to the house ways and means committee today, at hearings on the administration provisions of the law.

Use of American valuation as a rate base on iron and steel articles bearing ad valorem duties was proposed by Thomas J. Doherty, of the American Iron and Steel institute. This method of valuation, proposed by the house six years ago but rejected in the senate, would be based on the price at which the domestic article, comparable with the imported product, is sold at wholesale in this country.

CASE AGAINST HADDAD NOLLED; NO EVIDENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 26—Two cases of assault were presented in police court this morning. Solomon Haddad, of 63 Union street was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Marion Haddad. Owing to the woman's failure to appear in court to testify the court was forced to nolle the case. Prosecuting Attorney H. S. Prior to the disposition of the case for lack of evidence, Haddad denied that he had ever struck the woman.

In the second assault case Armand LaCouture, of 10 Pleasant street, was arraigned on complaint of his wife, Mrs. Rose LaCouture. He pleaded not guilty. His wife testified that her husband caused trouble when he was drinking and that on one occasion he had thrown a bread knife at her. She complained of having difficulty with her husband and said that while they were residents of Lowell, Mass., her husband had served over two months in jail for non-support of his wife and their four children. Judge Foss imposed a sentence of 15 days in the county jail, suspending execution of judgment for three months and ordering the accused to pay the costs of the case.

OBITUARY

William Bushnell

William Bushnell, 64, died in St. Joseph's hospital late Monday night from complications arising out of a shock which he sustained four days ago. The deceased was born in Salisbury, February 15, 1864, a son of Frederick and Mary Lyon Bushnell. He had resided in this vicinity for over 40 years, 20 of which were spent in Willimantic. He was employed at the American Thread company plant for many years up to four years ago when he accepted a permanent position in Israel's Railroad street restaurant. Some time ago he became counterman in Krug's Palace diner, on Union street, and was at his employment there when he sustained the shock. The deceased is survived by his wife and a cousin, Samuel Bushnell, of Salisbury. His residence was at 46 West Park street.

Much interest in their work is being displayed by the students at the Willimantic Trade school. All of the class instructors report rapid progress and point to a quantity of handiwork on display at the school as proof of this statement. There are 101 students registered at the school at present. The plumbing department which was not opened until recently owing to inability to secure a suitable instructor, is now in full swing with a class of about 25 pupils. The painting and masonry classes have been arranged so that they can now accommodate an additional registration of about half a dozen pupils. The painting class members have already done considerable exterior painting on buildings in the city.

Another item of progress noted at the school is in the Trade School band which is under the tutelage of Charles N. C. Wheeler, noted band leader. It is hoped that the band will be in a position to appear in a public concert before the end of the school years. There are 18 members of the band.

The necessity of postponing the special council meeting scheduled for Monday night owing to a lack of quorum, created the first situation of its kind in the history of Willimantic. Throughout the years since Willimantic has been a city a council meeting has never been known to be called off because of this reason. The death of Alderman W. E. Jackson, and the absence from the city of Aldermen O. L. Winard and A. J. Duteriel left but four aldermen available to duty, that number being necessary for a quorum. The present illness of Alderman W. E. Webber, however, made the quorum unavailable.

INSTEAD of exercise

Too busy for exercises or games? Don't worry! Learn the simple secret, millions know—of the exerciser in the vest-pocket box for a dime!

Cascarets give your bowels as much exercise as they get from an hour with the punching bag. Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives don't act like Cascarets. These things only produce mechanical or chemical action. You have to keep taking them because they weaken your bowels.

Cascarets strengthen the bowels. They are made from Cascara Sagrada, which stimulates the peristaltic action and exercises the bowel muscles. Nothing else does this. That's why Cascarets give lasting relief from those symtoms of sluggish bowels, such as headaches, biliousness, bloating, sallow skin, indigestion, no appetite, etc. Sales of over 20 million boxes yearly prove their merit!

DANIELSON

KILLINGLY MAY HAVE TO HAVE HIGHER TAX RATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 26—There may or may not be a lively debate about fixing the annual tax rate when the adjourned annual town meeting of Killingly is held during the coming month, but it is a prospect. The fact that the grand list has shrunken by a quarter of a million dollars from the total of a year ago is the factor that makes some aprehensive that a higher tax rate may be necessary. There are those who point out offsets to this loss, in current expenses, and hold that the budget that will be submitted to the voters as a basis for fixing the next tax rate can be trimmed down if necessary so that advancing the taxation rate will not be necessary.

What the budget will call for is not known as yet. There is one feature about budgeting in the town of Killingly, however, that rather ties the hands of the selectmen and school committee, in some degree, in fixing what many hold should be done at the beginning of a financial year. Killingly's financial year begins August 1. The budget estimates are not submitted until about mid-March. Under this arrangement approximately 7 1-2 months of the financial year have elapsed and a great accumulation of expenditure made before estimates are submitted to the voters for the fixing of the tax rate. Nothing can be done about what has been spent in the 7 1-2 months, and contracts for one thing and another may have been made carrying through at least until June, such as for teachers' salaries. As some hold, the town has largely been obligated for its yearly bills before the voters ever pass upon the budget covering any particular financial year. There are some accounts that vary in an unpredictable way from year to year, such as shoveling snow, care of the poor, and other items, but sometimes these offset each other. For instance, up to this time Killingly has paid out practically nothing for snow removal this winter, whereas in some years the cost has run in excess of $5,000. However, the advantage gained here this year is largely offset by the unusual demands the selectmen have been meeting for aid for the poor.

The budget this year is going to be of particular interest. If the selectmen can budget the accounts they handle and the school committee do likewise so as to enable to get along without an increase in the tax rate it will be a matter of great satisfaction to everyone. Higher taxes make no great hit with anyone, insofar as can be ascertained.

FUNERAL.

Mrs. Rebecca Barrett.

This afternoon at the home on Mechanic street funeral services for Mrs. Rebecca Barrett were conducted by Rev. J. Rees Jones, rector of St. Alban's church, and by Rev. Leonard R. Richards of Christ church, Pomfret, formerly of Danielson. The bearers were Alfred L. Reed, Sidney P. Marland, Abner S. Young, Joseph Farron, F. E. Kennedy and Henry Thompson. The body was entombed at Maplewood cemetery, Norwich. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Reviewing some of the industries Killingly has had in the past it was recalled by those who have long memories and retain much told them by even earlier residents of the town that the Peep Toad mill in the Valley district, near East Killingly, was once a hoe factory. This quaint old structure, still in good state of preservation, dates back at least 100 years, and may be considerably older than that. Its last use, many years ago, was for cotton manufacturing operations. Very few of the present population of the town ever heard of its being a hoe factory, but such it was. It is of a style of construction of particular interest to antiquarians.

The schedule of Holy Week services arranged by the Danielson Federation of Churches is announced as follows: On Tuesday evening, March 26, the service is to be held in the Baptist church, and the Laymen's league will have charge. The Thursday evening, March 27, service will be in the Methodist Episcopal church. This is to be a union communion service. The preacher will be Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Baptist church. Good Friday evening the service will be in the Baptist church, with Rev. Harding W. Gaylord of the Congregational church preaching. Special musical programs will be arranged for all of these services.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM DOG FOUND TO HAVE THE RABIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 26—The first rabid dog discovered in Putnam has been captured and killed, according to a statement given The Bulletin this afternoon by Dr. F. T. Baldwin, assistant deputy commissioner of the department of domestic animals. Dr. Baldwin in his statement said the dog was bitten on Feb. 8 and soon after the disease developed. The dog acted strangely and the owner brought it to the veterinary hospital of Dr. Baldwin, who at once suspected the disease, killed the dog and sent its head to Hartford for examination and diagnosis. Late this afternoon the state department of domestic animals informed the Putnam representative that the examination disclosed the presence of rabies, the plate being returned "positive."

This is the first victim of the disease to be discovered in Putnam, according to Dr. Baldwin. The dog came from the Walnut street section of the city and probably was attacked by the mad dog, killed several weeks ago and which was the ultimate reason for the state official setting the quarantine.

Dr. Baldwin said this afternoon that scores of dog owners are now having their dogs undergo the vaccination treatment, which allows them their freedom 21 days after the operation has been performed.

Two Willimantic men were taken to the police station last evening by Sergt. George Liard and were booked on charges of intoxication. During their stay in the local lockup they hinted that they "got drunk on purpose so they could go to jail" for an extended stay. It was apparent that someone placed a little tell-tale "bug" in Judge Geissler's ear this morning, as he gave them no opportunity to make known their desires but settled the matter in one sentence, "Drunk—Guilty—and get out of town and stay out."

Little interest was manifest today by landowners in the rural districts of Woodstock, Ashford and in the Thompsons, when announcement was made by the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce relative to their opposition to the proposed toll express highway, if constructed, which will run from a point in Tolland county across the state to intersect the Massachusetts state line in the northeastern section of Windham county. It is thought by many in this city that if the legislature should grant permission to the incorporators of such a project that the path of construction would pass through Windham county in this section. At first farm owners in the Woodstocks were unfavorable to the bill because of the land grants which would have to be sold to the road builders. With the chamber of commerce opposed to the plan, which opposition will do much to reject the bill, there seemed to be little comment today from the rural communities.

Francis Curran, of Holy Cross college, Worcester, has returned to his studies after a visit with relatives in this city.

The headquarters company, local military unit of the state National Guard, held their weekly drill at the armory last evening. The company commander, Capt. J. J. McGarry also enlisted two recruits at drill last evening and enlisted one on the previous week.

The chamber of commerce directors' meeting was held last evening in the chamber of commerce rooms in Union square. During the meeting many plans for the coming season were discussed and reports of the chairmen of various committees were heard.

The Bridge Widows met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Lewis T. Champlain, on Grove street. High scorer for the evening was Mrs. L. H. Mellor, who succeeded in carrying off first honors. Mrs. Herbert Johnson was awarded the consolation prize. The Widows will hold their next get-together at the home of Mrs. J. Dyer Potter, on Grove street, on next Monday night.

A social session was held in Odd Fellows' hall Monday evening by the members of the Putnam grange. A programme of instrumental and vocal numbers were presented by grange artists. The presentations were all highly received by the audience. Following the close of the programme the committee served refreshments.

Romeo Poulin, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fayette Poulin, of Fabyan, died last evening in St. Vincent's hospital following a major surgical operation performed last week to relieve an abscess that developed behind the lad's ear. He was stricken about a month ago and complications which developed rapidly required him to undergo three serious operations.

The death of the young man was received as a shock to his many friends in Fabyan and North Grosvenordale, where he had obtained his education. He was graduated from Tourtellotte Memorial high school in North Grosvenordale last June and in September entered Assumption college in Worcester to prepare for his ordination to the priesthood. Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers and three sisters, all of whom reside in Fabyan.

Word has been received here by friends of Pvt. Henry E. Bugbee, of the United States marine corps, stationed in Cape Haitien, Republic of Haiti, who was recently promoted to a private first-class in the corps. Private Bugbee enlisted in the service two years and a half ago and left at once for a southern training station, from where he joined the foreign convoy for service in the island possessions. He expects to be home in this city again some time this summer on an extended leave.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Diamond and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Diamond, of Putnam, who have been on an extended tour of the southern states, are leaving fore their home in this city this month.

WESTERLY

CIGARETTE NOW BLAMED FOR GRAY LINE BUS FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 26—Early Tuesday relatives and friends of the seventeen passengers who received cuts and burns in the burning of the Grey Line motor passenger bus Monday noon on the Noose Neck Hill road, continued to arrive in Westerly. They went to the Westerly hospital where their injuries are receiving treatment from the augmented hospital staff and nursing forces. In the three patients on the danger list, Allen B. Willoughby, 66 of Holderness, N. H., bound from Boston to St. Petersburgh, Fla., and employed by Laurence J. Webster, 250 Beacon street, Boston; Mary Elizabeth Slack, 62, of 41 Hawthorne street, Cambridge, Mass., and Mildred Reed, 11, of Arlington, N. J., who have serious burns, there was reported no material change in condition late Tuesday.

As an example, that misfortunes do not come singly, John J. Reed, of 122 Richmond place, Arlington, N. J., brother of Edward Reed, the father of the seriously injured Reed girl, and also a patient at the Westerly hospital, arrived in Westerly Tuesday morning on the New England express. On his arrival he discovered that he had lost his billfold and reported the loss to railroad officials. A search on the train before its arrival in Providence showed no trace of the missing pocketbook. Among the contents were four $5 bills, a $1 bill, a union card and an automobile driver's registration.

Laurence J. Webster of Boston arrived Tuesday at the Westerly hospital to look after the interests of his employe, A. B. Willoughby, who is reported as having just been discharged from a hospital where he has received treatment for pneumonia. Tuesday night the patient's condition took a turn for the worse and he was reported as being very low and no one was allowed to see him. With Mr. Webster came a son-in-law, E. Armstrong of Newburyport, Mass., who remained in Westerly while Mr. Webster returned to Boston. Mr. Willoughby's wife was sent for from Holderness, N. H., to arrive in Westerly on Tuesday night. For many years Mr. Willoughby has been employed in farm projects by the engineering firm of Stone & Webster, Boston.

State authorities began investigation of the cause of the disaster and many of the passengers were questioned at the Hope Valley barracks and at the hospital.

Residents of Hope Valley who saw the Grey Line bus pass through that village made the report that flames were seen beneath the machine as it passed along Main street. Another theory was that the fire started from an overheated heating device in the front end.

Gass, the operator of the bus, is being held by the state police, and it was claimed that he will later be charged with operating a bus when his license had been refused. An inspector from the state board of public roads reported that Gass's operating license in this state was suspended in Feb. 7, 1927, and it was refused in Nov. 1928. He had no jitney license, the inspector reported. Gass remains at The Westerly hospital with a badly burned right hand.

Mrs. James Connell was the last of the passengers to report at the Hope Valley barracks and although somewhat hysterical when found walking aimlessly about the streets of Hope Valley by Dr. Gongaware, was able to tell a rational story before being taken to Westerly to make the 5.02 express on the New Haven railroad for New Rochelle, after being supplied with funds by the state police.

Some of the passengers hold to the theory that the fire started from within the bus and was caused by a cigarette thrown on a paper on the floor.

President P. L. Thomas of Boston, head of the Grey Line system, and Attorney Barrett Elkins of 73 Tremont street, Boston, counsel for Driver Gass and the bus company were here in the interests of the injured passengers to see that everything possible is done for their comfort. Extra nurses were summoned in at The Westerly hospital to assist in the care of the patients, several of whom require day and night service.

The state police said that Gass would be brought before the third district court Wednesday morning on a charge of operating a motor vehicle in this state without first having procured a license. A representative of the company said that Gass is considered one of the company's best operators. He has been employed as a driver for 2 1-2 years and never has had an accident. He has a license to operate in Massachusetts. Connecticut and New York. It was stated but his Rhode Island license had been suspended and later refused. It was held that a jitney license cannot be procured in this state without the applicant first having obtained an operator's license.

It is reported that at first but one of the trees just to the northward of the Colonial club house will be cut down to permit excavation to be carried on.

"BEAUTIFUL smooth skin is the great heart winner." George H. Melford, famous movie director, thus expresses the experience of 39 leading Hollywood directors.

"The public certainly takes to its heart the actress with a skin that shows flawless—faultlessly smooth—under the terrific test of the close-up lights," he continues. "Such a skin is a prime factor in making her a star."

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. It keeps their skin exquisitely smooth for that most important of all tests: the all-revealing close-up. And all the great film studios have made it the official soap for their dressing rooms.

BLOCKING REAPPORTIONMENT.

According to reports from Washington the reapportionment bill has suffered from the too eager efforts of some of its friends. Some in the senate who are anxious for its passage have because of their newness and the lack of understanding of the slow and tedious procedure in that body endeavored to speed up action. They have attempted short cuts only to find out that they have been attempting the impossible.

This is unfortunate for the bill as one which ought to be adopted. It concerns the membership of the house, which body has acted favorably upon it. The senate is simply called upon to ratify the action of the house but there is the opportunity for the senators of those states which would be adversely affected by the change to prevent it from going into effect through delay.

There isn't any question but what action should have been taken years ago. Obstruction during the decade has been made for the same reason that it is being placed in front of ratification now. There are states which do not take kindly to the idea of losing one or more of its representatives. It isn't a pleasant anticipation and yet there ought to be no state which would want to send representatives to congress to which it wasn't entitled. As a matter of fairness, governed by the population in the respective states, there should be a reapportionment. Many which are entitled to representation and are not getting it should get the benefit of the change. Where states are now getting more than they are entitled to there should be a reduction. This readjustment has been delayed by congress and the proposed legislation would make it impossible for any such situation to develop in the future inasmuch as it is provided that where congress fails to act the work of reapportionment shall be carried out by the secretary of commerce.

Through legislation before it congress is in a way to overcome a bad situation. The insistence upon maintaining an unfair advantage is the chief reason for blocking action upon the reapportionment bill, and even what is believed would be a majority vote in the senate is threatened with denial by the failure to permit the matter to come to a vote.

FAILURE TO SENSE PERIL.

Strange as it may seem there are those who still fail to comprehend the danger of running an automobile engine in a closed garage. That is, those who have tried it have passed on in large numbers but additions to the list are being made almost daily. It means a needless loss of life which should be prevented by the mere knowledge of the sacrifices which others have made of themselves. And yet there seems to be a total disregard of the fatal effect of such a combination.

During cold weather it is the natural inclination to work about a car with the garage door closed. Yet therein lies the danger. The carbon monoxide gas insidiously fills the room and quickly and painlessly wipes out the life of the individual. There is apt to be little or no warning. Occasionally there are those who have felt the effects of the gas creeping over them and managed to get out into the air in time to be revived. In such cases, it can be safely said, the person involved does not attempt to repeat his experience. His personal encounter is sufficient, and the lesson in his case should be adequate for all others who may have read about it or learned of it otherwise. The sad part of it is that it is not.

Someone has made the suggestion that there should be tacked up in each garage a notice which calls attention to the deadly effect of the exhause gas when the door is kept closed. The mere mental reminder conveyed by such a placard ought to be sufficient warning for even the most daring, and it would doubtless be the means of saving many lives. On the other hand those who are able to comprehend danger ought to be as able to recognize the peril connected with working in a garage where an auto engine is in operation as they would in realizing that they ought to keep their hands off of a live electric wire carrying a large voltage.

This failure to sense peril exists on too great a scale. It is responsible for too many of the accidental deaths to say nothing of the many more serious injuries. The mere starting of an auto in a garage should be signal enough to the individual to throw open the door and let in the necessary fresh air.

BUYING MONADNOCK.

Many are the beauty spots of New England which have made a lasting impression upon those who have viewed them once, twice or many times. There is probably none which has stirred the feelings much more than the study of Mt. Monadnock as it rises majestically in the New Hampshire landscape. That state has many charms and there seems to have been a belated recognition of their existence in many instances.

Only just recently has there been raised a sufficient sum by which the preservation of charming places in Franconia notch has been secured. Those who have been so successful in obtaining public support for that work are now engaged in acquiring sufficient acreage at the base of Mt. Monadnock to make it a public property.

It is not exactly a new project for much land has already been acquired but there remain about 500 acres to be secured before there can be insured the complete public ownership at the base which would permit those who want to climb it to visit it at will.

In the preservation of outstanding New England attractions no mistake is made in including Mt. Monadnock. From all indications there apepars to be no reason why it is not destined to stand as impressively for coming centuries as it has for the past, but there are opportunities of excluding the public which can be overcome much better now than in some future period when conditions may have changed.

There is no question but what the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests has great opportunities for work. There are noticeable natural wonders, peaks and an endless number of beauty spots which are deserving of protection. It is a well forested state but there are wooded localities which should be preserved for the attractiveness which they offer. New Hampshire is displaying a commendable interest and activity and as was the case when Franconia notch was being acquired there will be many outside of that state who will be spurred to contribute for the success of the effort. The impression created by the various points makes it easy to respond, and Monadnock is no exception in the rather long list.

SAFETY IN AUTO BUSSES.

That there will be a thorough investigation of the burning of the motorbus at Hope Valley, when one man lost his life and many others were injured, is to be expected. It is not a frequently occurring accident, but there is furnished every necessary reason for determining now what the trouble was and putting into effect measures which will prevent it in the future.

The motorbus is today carrying a large number of people daily on short and long runs. It is taking the place of the railroad in many respects. Safety measures of great variety have been insisted upon by utility commissions and the railroads themselves for the protection of the traveling public until it is maintained that it is much safer to be riding on the rails today than on the highways.

In the interest of safety to humanity it is to be expected that as great safety for the patrons of busses will be demanded even though the busses are operated upon the highways. This should apply to the prevention of accidents by way of collision, running into obstructions and ditching as well as dealing with the problem of fire.

While fire prevention for busses is getting attention there cannot be overlooked the importance of providing for the escape of those who may be caught in the bus by fire as were those at Hope Valley. There seems to be uncertainty as to what caused the fire but the completely destroyed car is evidence that one occurred and it indicates that such possibilities in the future deserve the most careful consideration. It is another instance which emphasizes the importance of greater safety in the operation of busses.

A CANAL SURVEY.

A vote by congress favorable to a survey for additional canal facilities doesn't insure a new canal and it doesn't necessarily mean that there will be immediate action taken looking to the enlargement of the existing canal. It does however mean that such preliminary work as must be done in case of new construction of any kind will be authorized. It will set in motion a study of conditions connected with the Nicaragua route and a gathering of the facts surrounding any increase in facilities that may be made at Panama.

Those things must be known before there can be intelligent action taken in regard to either move. For a long time it has been apparent that the business being done in the Panama canal was reaching its limit. The growth has been steady and it will not be long before something must be done if shipping between the two oceans is going to be saved from delays.

In getting down to the merits of the two developments which are contemplated there is nothing like having the facts as they exist today. There will be opposition to either for various reasons, but a survey should make it much easier, for those who must, to make the decision when the time comes for such action.

Thus while the measure before congress asking for such a survey, favorable action on which has been taken by the senate, will start no ditch digging, yet it calls for a study that must be made before any decision as to where the work shall be done is reached. It should determine which plan of procedure is advisable and give some enlightenment upon the respective costs.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The campaign for the Boy Scouts is one in which most people will insist upon having a part.

Unless we are mistaken the town hall is going to be a popular place tonight, and it should be.

The man on the corner says: When it comes to spring tonics it is impossible to overlook baseball.

Evidently the people are waiting with much interest to learn what the fact finding commission has got to tell them.

Tonight's special city meeting promises to be one of the biggest public gatherings of the winter. Go early and get a chance to hear and be heard.

Try as it may there is no chance that the special session of congress will adjourn before the baseball season opens which always puts a handicap in the way of a quorum.

THE BROKEN CONTRACT

The president of the company was enjoying himself hugely at the expense of the secretary.

"I think you ought to call in a medium or something, George," he suggested. "How many secretaries is it now you have lost by the matrimonial route?"

"It's no laughing matter," growled the secretary. "Every time I get a girl trained to the work so I will not be bothered with details she goes and gets married."

"Perhaps," suggested the president slyly, "you ought to—to—well, choose a type of secretary who would not be so matrimonially eligible. Like what's-her-name at the checking desk." The secretary shuddered. The president shrugged his shoulders.

"Well, if you won't you'll go on losing efficient young women."

"Not on your life," said the secretary warmly. "The next girl I hire is going to be bound by contract not to marry for two years at least."

"That's an idea," remarked the president. "At least you won't have to hire another one every six months."

Several days later Miss Rodney, who had charge of the girls in the general office, took the secretary's new secretary to lunch. "Have you heard that there's something of a superstition growing up around the place you've taken?" she asked over the dessert.

"Superstition?" queried Miss Wallace, the newcomer.

"Well, I call it that. You know for several years every girl who has taken that position has been with us only a few months when she has married and left Mr. Harris, the secretary, with the job of training a new girl." Miss Wallace dimpled.

"Oh, yes. Mr. Harris told me about that. But he didn't use the word superstition. He called it a —qualified—nuisance."

"Poor Mr. Harris," said Miss Rodney. "It has been rather hard on him."

"He's doing his best to eliminate the chance in my case," said Miss Wallace.

"How?"

"Well, first he almost made me take oath that I was not engaged, had no intention of becoming engaged, had no desire to be engaged, and, practically, would never entertain such a suggestion from any young man of my acquaintance—at least for two years."

"Two years!"

"Yes, I'm under contract to stay in my present position for two years—provided, of course, that my services are satisfactory."

"Well, I never," breathed Miss Rodney. "The poor man must be desperate. Then you may not leave the company's employ for two years?"

"That's right," responded Miss Wallace. "Provided my services are satisfactory."

News of Miss Wallace's contract soon leaked out. Some sporting souls wanted to wager that within six months—the longest tenure of any girl in the last three years—Mr. Harris would be seeking a new secretary. When six months had passed, the doubters advanced their time limit to a year. But the year passed and Miss Wallace remained.

Then, one fine June day, Miss Wallace asked Miss Rodney to take lunch with her.

"I'm leaving shortly," said Miss Wallace, over her coffee cup.

"What?" Miss Rodney arrested a forkful of butterscotch pie.

"To be married," completed Miss Wallace.

"But—but your contract?" weakly protested Miss Rodney.

"Oh, that's all right. It said, you know, I was to remain for two years, or as long as my services were satisfactory."

"Well, they are, aren't they?"

"Not—not any longer."

"That's preposterous," said Miss Rodney loyally. "Of course your services are satisfactory."

"No, really, they haven't been for two months," insisted Miss Wallace. "How can they be? With George—Mr. Harris—pestering me to name the date every time he comes near my desk."—Chicago News.

"LENT AND MY HOME"
Memory Verse for Wednesday

"And the two shall become one flesh; so that they are no more two, but one flesh." (Mark 10:8). (Read: Peter 3:1 to 9).

MEDITATION: A good marriage is the most perfect unity on earth. The greatest blessing that can come to a man is to have a good wife; the greatest blessing that can be bestowed on a woman is to have a good husband. Marriage sanctified by mutual love is the foundation of society as it creates the home, imparts life, and predestines the future of the world. The sweetness and the piety of the home, the joy of little children, the strength and beauty of life are all bound up in this wedded union. "To love and to cherish, till death us do part;" Men and women should never forget and never neglect.

PRAYER: Holy and loving Father who hast instituted marriage and ordained it shall be sanctified by mutual love and fidelity, we pray for all those whom Thou hast joined together in this sacred bond that they may be kept undivided even unto death. So preserve the homes of the land in beauty and peace, in all reverence and piety. Amen.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—As smart a floor strategist as the house of representatives has ever known passes out of the picture with the retirement of Finis James Garrett of Tennessee. He is a good parliamentarian. Two dozen years of unbroken house service, a big share of it as either acting or actual democratic leader on the floor, would make any man that. Garrett has something more. He has that knack of thinking fast on his feet in debate.

Led Famous Fight

Many of his house colleagues recall Garrett's swift moves in the fight to seat Sol Bloom, "The Music Man," back in 1924. The republican committee majority ruled in favor of Walter Chandler, republican contestant for the 19th New York seat, recount having shown a majority of 128 for Bloom against which Chandler raised the cry of irregularities.

It was a hot fight. Remember that this was in April of a presidential election year. The party complexion of the New York delegation hung in the balance. With Chandler seated, it would be republican by one; with Bloom in, democratic by one. And it was possible, with a three-way presidential race looming, that the house might elect the next president. New York's vote in such an election was being decided in the Chandler-Bloom contest.

When the vote came, the late Representative Oldfield of Arkansas, as whip, had mustered all but three democrats, while here were 15 republicans missing. Also, a group of seven irregular and two regular republicans joined the democrats in support of Bloom. The committee majority report was overthrown, 210 to 198. The next vote seated Bloom, 209 to 198.

Quick Thinking

Garrett shot to his feet, shifting his vote from "aye" to "no." Then he popped in simultaneously a motion to reconsider the vote and to table the reconsideration motion. Speaker Gillett and Majority Leader Longworth had been caught napping. If Garrett's move succeeded, Bloom was in to stay. The job could not be undone when the missing republicans showed up. And Gillett accepted Garrett's double motion "without objection." A belated point of order failed to save the day, Crisp of Georgia promptly renewing Garrett's motion, and Bloom was in for keeps.

And now Garrett goes to a life job on the customs court, a lame duck. He was defeated for election to the senate yet he is not a Hoover landslide victim. He ran for the senate because, after 24 years' service in the house from the ninth Tennessee district, he knew he could not be elected again.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Deductions for depreciation form an important item in the returns of many taxpayers and are the subject of frequent inquiry. The revenue act of 1928 provides "a reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, war and tear of property used in the trade or business, including a reasonable allowance for obsolescence." For convenience, such allowance usually is referred to by regulations relating to the income tax as depreciation.

In claiming a deduction for depreciation several fundamental principles must be observed. The deduction must be confined to property actually used in the trade, business, profession or vocation. In general, it applies to the taxpayer's capital assets—buildings, machinery, etc.—the cost of which cannot be deducted as a business expense. A building or machinery gradually becomes old and worn out. On account of this depreciation the value of such assets is decreased. Loss is thereby sustained for which the taxpayer is entitled to recognition in making his return of income.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

City Should Pay

Mr. Editor: I do not know even the light of the countenance of Earl Taggart, about whom "Fair Play," plus Overburdened Taxpayer" writes; but this thing is certain: If Mr. Taggart went to Boston and Atlantic City, on the business of the city of Norwich, then the city of Norwich should pay the bill of expenses thereto, thereat and therefrom—every penny of it.

A city like the Rose of New England, boasting two white ways, one of them twice as white as it needs to be, and also permitting several dark-lanterned bridges to continue dark and dangerous, would surely want any one of its representatives to travel first class and to tarry at first-class hotels. All of that goes without saying—or did—until "Fair Play," plus "Overburdened Taxpayer," one and likely indivisible, points his finger, trembling with withering and scorching scorn, at what seems to be simple and routine expenses, quite compatible with the lofty character of a city like Norwich, often proudly the Rose of New England velept.

Efficiency in G. & E. Department

Mr. Editor: In reading the Letters to the Editor in Tuesday's Bulletin, D. Merritt expressed his opinion as to the efficiency of the gas and electric department. I wonder if he considers a loss in bad debts amounting to $9,232.68, for a period of one year as efficiency, against a loss of a similar plant in Wallingford, Conn., which shows a loss from bad debts, amounting to $831.80 over a period of 29 years.

He also states that it was through C. W. Taggart that the credit of the gas and electric department was put on an A-1 basis, so that it was able to purchase coal for the operation of our plant. I wonder if D. Merritt realizes that the coal companies are selling this coal to the city of Norwich and not to Mr. Taggart.

Hard On The Poor

Mr. Editor: I live alone in a few rooms and work hard for my weekly wages, which are not large, and I have been waiting all these months hoping that a reasonable rate for the laboring class will be established, and I hope that we will learn something at the meeting Wednesday night.

After working hard all day, when I come home at night I have my household duties to do and put up my lunch for the following day and if I have to go back to the kerosene lamp it will mean that I will have to spend another hour each week cleaning and filling the lamps. A dollar or two a month increase does not mean much to the general manager or the commissioners but a poor person who has to work hard for his money should not be made to pay for the luxuries enjoyed by the wealthy.

Norwich, February 26, 1929.
WOMAN VOTER.

Well Satisfied With Service

Mr. Editor: I notice in a letter to The Bulletin, by Mrs. Chase, that the service wires which run to my house on Gallow's Hill road, on fence posts, are dangerous, and that one touching them would be instantly killed. These wires are 110 volts, the same as the wiring in my house and as I have stood on the damp cellar floor and touched both wires, I know that these wires are not dangerous. About two years ago I put in my own lightplant as I was too far from the lines of the gas and electric department. At the time I was in the hospital my plant broke down. I had no lights and was without water for kitchen and bathroom as the water-pump would not work without power. There was low voltage lines at the next house. I applied for service and within a few days the wiring was brought to the house. The gas and electric company told me that this wiring will be put on the poles of the Telephone company as soon as arrangements can be made to set the taller poles. I am well satisfied with the dependable service of the gas and electric department.

Norwich, Feb. 26, '29.
JOHN EYBERSE.

Where Are The Satisfied?

Mr. Editor: If you will kindly allow me a small space in your paper, I wish to give three cheers for D. Merritt. Out of a long list of letters published in the last day or two, his is about the only one that has not registered one, or several, kicks, against the gas and electric department. Why do we not read more letters from satisfield users?

Because the majority of people, when satisfied, are like contented cows, in that you don't hear a sound out of them.

Naturally I must be in favor of the present rates, as they have cut my electric bill very nearly in half.

I am in no way paid for writing this, just hoping I do not have to go back to the old rate.

LEON L. HAYDEN.

Costing Taxpayers Thousands

Mr. Editor: If the general manager of the gas and electric department is not man enough to appear at the city meeting tonight and explain the operation of the gas and electric department, maybe D. Merritt can give us some information.

If one of the gas and electric commissioners, during the strenuous time of war, could go to Washington and arrange for coal when industries throughout the country could not get delivery of coal, I believe that the general manager has done nothing more for the community than any other person holding his position.

I would like to ask D. Merritt if the general manager is a stockholder in any of the coal companies supplying the department with coal.

If $8,000 a year is not a reasonable salary for the general manager, pay him $9,000, or $10,000, but when he takes our money to pay his dues and his son's dues to the chamber of commerce and pay for a garage at his home and furnish his family with a touring car and give advertisements to his friends in other cities, then Norwich, as well as outside of the state, I believe it is time that the citizens criticised the operation of this department. Furthermore, it is an absolute fact that the gas and electric department is costing the taxpayers thousands of dollars in unpaid taxes for if the department was owned by a private corporation the taxes on $3,000,000 would be more than twice the $50,000 paid into the city last year and this means a real loss in taxes, or in other words, a cost to the taxpayers.

I doubt if there is a concern in New England who has a petty cash account of more than $8,000 in one year and when the general manager takes his wife and son and many others, to Atlantic City, and pays for this trip out of the petty cash, I believe the citizens have a right to know.

The department sells electricity for three cents a kilowatt to a privately owned company in which the general manager is an officer and stockholder, but the real owners of the plant, who live in the city limits, cannot buy electricity for three cents without first paying a meter or demand charge.

I hope that D. Merritt will attend the city meeting and learn something.

"Old Man Rat," a Nervous Wreck, Paralleled by Too Many Humans.

By W. V. Gage, M. D., Denver.

McCollum's experimental work on laboratory rats extending over a period of more than 20 years tells us with pitiful plainness that the tissues of our bodies must be susceptible to the same influences as are those of the omnivorous rat, except as to one item: The rat seems to be able to get along famously without vitamin C, the one that protects us from scurvy, in their food. This might explain why it was that in the old sailing days the shipboard rats survived and flourished while the unfortunate crews of the same ship were down with scurvy.

McCollum's most interesting later experiments, since the variations in proteins have come to be better understood, and since the vitamins have been more or less successfully catalogued, involved both extremes of the life cycle of the rat. The laboratory rat lives about thirty-six months, but McCollum was able in innumerable instances to take rats in almost any stage of their life cycle and bring about premature old age in a given rat simply by the exhibition of foods that were deficient. A perfectly healthy young rat could be transformed in a few weeks into a rough coated, bleary-eyed, nervous, trembling, cowering thing that shivered in the corner of its cage; and this same prematurely "old man rat," which had been rendered a nervous wreck paralleled in too many instances among human beings, could in just a few days, upon an adequate and healing food supply, again be restored to youth and normalcy.

Experiments conducted along lines that had to do with food and its influence upon impregnation and maternity show conclusively that in rats various foods compel oestrus, impregnation, absorption of the products of conception, miscarriage, abortion or normal birth. McCollum was able at will to cause absorption of the products of conception, or allow the pregnancy to proceed to almost anv point when the mother could be made to abort by a variation in diet. He could predict mathematically the number, if any, of viable offspring, and the length of their life span as influenced by their prenatal experience; and lastly he was able to produce infanticide and cannibalism on the part of the mother rat.

The above only goes to show the vital influence of diet on health and normalcy. If you are a nervous wreck, consult your physician about what you are eating and the way you are living.

An Underground Chase

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Respect the rights of other folk
And in their business never poke.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

Danny Meadow Mouse was deeper down in the ground than he realized. He was quite below the frost line. Jack Frost couldn't possibly get down there. He was running along through the tunnels of Miner the Mole. Danny had not known before this that Miner ever went so deep. Miner's tunnels with which Danny had previously been acquainted had all been just under the surface. In fact, they were so near the surface that Miner pushed the ground up as he dug his way along. So Danny had always been used to running along right in the grass roots, as it were. But these little tunnels that he was exploring now were way, way down deep.

If Danny had not been so sure that Miner must be somewhere asleep for the winter he wouldn't have been quite so bold. It did trouble him a little that he kept getting the smell of Mole, and that that smell seemed fairly fresh. He couldn't understand this. He thought it must be that he was near Miner's bedroom. So he moved very cautiously. Still, he didn't find that bedroom.

And then suddenly his ears caught a sound ahead of him. Someone was coming along the very tunnel he was in. Danny's little heart seemed to skip a beat. He turned around, for there was room in that tunnel for him to turn, and he started back. He could hear someone coming behind him.

"It's Miner," thought Danny. "It can't be anybody else. He must have waked up. My, I wish I could get out of here! I don't like being so far down in the ground."

It was Miner who was coming after Danny. Danny was mistaken in thinking that Miner had been asleep. Miner the Mole is not one of the sleepers. He simply had carried his tunnels down deeper, so as to be below the frost. The earthworms had gone way down there so as to get below frost, and it was in pursuit of these, on which he lived, that Miner had driven his tunnels this way and that so far underground.

If Danny had looke back and seen anything, he would have been a surprised Meadow Mouse. He would have found Miner the Mole running backward after him. Yes, sir, that is what he would have found. You see, that tunnel wasn't big enough for Miner to turn around in, so the only thing he could do was to back up until he reached a place where he could turn around. And Miner can back surprisingly fast in one of those tunnels of his. Have you ever seen an electric engine? You know it runs either way. It looks alike at both ends. Miner doesn't look alike at both ends, but he runs either way. That is why that wonderful thick fur of his is so different from the fur of most other animals. You know you can smooth it either way. That is to say, it will lie down either way. It has to be that way, or he couldn't back up in a hurry, for it would be most uncomfortable to be brushing his fur the wrong way. But as long as there isn't any wrong way, he is all right.

Then he started after Danny head first, instead of tail first

It wasn't until he reached a place where another tunnel branched off that Miner had a chance to turn around. Then he started after Danny head first, instead of tail first. Miner doesn't look as if he could move very fast, but he can down there underground move a great deal faster than you would think. So Danny fled and the worst of it was that he wasn't sure just where he was going. The one thing he wanted was to get back to the surface, but he was not well enough acquainted with those deep tunnels to be sure that he was taking the right one.

PLURAL MEMBERSHIPS ARE ABOLISHED BY CHAMBER

The Norwich chamber of commerce has abolished the plural membership plan and in its place there will be created an activities fund. According to a statement issued by the campaign executive committee, hereafter memberships will be carried by individuals only.

The statement says that individual memberships at $25 per year will be continued and subscriptions to the activities fund will be solicited from the larger interests in the community. This plan has been adopted by such representative cities as Detroit, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Richmond, Atlanta, Providence, Patterson, N. J., Albany, N. Y., Troy, N. Y., Pontiac, Mich., Ft. Wayne, Ind., Roanoke, Va., and many others.

The activities fund committee has collected extensive information and data from cities in New England and throughout the United States showing what firms and corporations in these cities are subscribing annually to the activities fund of their chambers. The local campaign committee issued the following statement Tuesday regarding annual subscriptions to chambers in other cities:

"The figures given below reveal why competing cities raise large budgets for their chambers of commerce. Realizing that investments in chamber of commerce work pay dividends in the form of civic improvements, better living conditions, better recreational facilities, better freight rates, improved transportation, industrial development, prevention of injurious legislation and passage of needed new laws, increased population, increased tourist business, increased property values, increased business, and increased opportunities for all citizens, individuals and firms in progressive American cities are supporting their local organizations through substantial subscriptions to their activities funds.

"Below are some typical annual subscriptions of representative firms in other cities to the budgets of their chambers of commerce:

"Manufacturers—General Motors, Detroit, $10,000; Dodge Bros., Detroit, $10,000; Westinghouse, Pittsburgh, $8,600; Buick Motor Co., Flint, Mich., $7,500; General Electrical Co., Schenectady, $5,000; Coca Cola Co., Atlanta, $3,000; U. NORWICH WOMAN GAVE TRAVEL TALK AT THE ARCANUM CLUB

Club night held Tuesday evening by the Arcanum club on Webster Heights had an attendance of approximately 100. A splendid entertainment was provided by the committee. This was preceded by an appetizing supper served at 6.30 o'clock, the menu being: Roast beef, mashed potato, mashed turnip, corn, pickles, pie and cheese, coffee and cigars.

Following the supper Tyler D. Guy, president of the club, called on Wilbur S. Williams, chairman of the entertainment committee, who introduced the entertainers. As her first selection Mrs. Helena M. T. Church sang Thou Wondrous Youth and for an encore number, Lazin' Along by Perry. She later rendered The Bird and The Rose by Horrocks and Little Maid of Arcadee by Sullivan. Mrs. Church was ably accompanied by Mrs. Charles L. Saxton at the piano and by George Guile on the violin. All of the numbers were beautifully sung by Mrs. Church and were enthusiastically received.

The speaker of the evening, Mrs. Albert M. VanWagenen spoke interestingly upon a recent six week trip through eight countries in Europe and Africa. She took her listeners from city to city, explaining the particular points of interest and gave them a word picture of the Rock of Gibraltar, the first port of call. Mrs. VanWagenen spoke of the City of Algiers, Africa, Naples, Pompeii, Island of Sicily and Venice.

From there she went to Milan, Lake Lucerne, Fontainebleau and then to London, returning to Paris, Lyons and to Marseilles from where she sailed for the return trip to Boston. An interesting part of the talk was the description of the Rock of Gibraltar, which, she said, is called the Gateway of the Mediterranean and has a most picturesque harbor. She told of the trip up the steep streets of Gibraltar.

After a vivid description of the city of Venice with its 175 canals and 375 bridges Mrs. Van Wagenen pointed out the numerous buildings of note in Paris.

At the conclusion of her talk Mrs. VanWagenen was warmly applauded and as a token of the appreciation of the club members Mr. Williams presented Mrs. Van Wagenen and Mrs. Church beautiful bouquets of roses.

The entertainment committee comprised Wilbur S. Williams, chairman, Julian L. Williams and John W. Durnan.

ENDORSE COMING CAMPAIGN OF COMMERCE CHAMBER

In letters to the Norwich chamber of commerce, State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown and Albert M. Van Wagenen, heartily endorse the coming membership and financial campaign of the chamber. Attorney Brown in his letter says:

"The question at issue in the present campaign to finance the chamber of commerce doesn't turn on whether we are to have a chamber or not. That would be silly. Any thinking man knows that such an organization is absolutely necessary in a progressive city.

"The question is, Are we going to have just a kind of one, or are we going to put man power and money power behind it to such a degree that it may render a first class service in the promotion of Norwich?

"I am heartily in accord with the present movement designed to enable the chamber to carry into effect a most valuable and appropriate programme of work."

In his letter, addressed to Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, general chairman of the chamber campaign committee, Mr. VanWagenen says:

"The chamber of commerce is to be congratulated in securing you as general chairman for the campaign soon to start.

"I feel highly honored to be associated with you on the campaign executive committee and accept your appointment. Just how much good I can do your committee is problematical, in view of the fact that this campaign is coming at rather a busy time.

"You may be assured however, that I shall be very glad to serve as best I can, as I feel that a chamber of commerce is needed and that they have done much good work."

25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY OF N. STONINGTON COUPLE

Members of the North Stonington grange and other friends met recently, at the Grange hall, to celebrate the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Geer, of the Pendleton Hill road.

The hall, and especially the stage, was attractively decorated for the occasion with streamers, hearts and flowers in white and silver.

After leading a grand march, Mr. and Mrs. Geer, the bride and groom of twenty-five years ago, were escorted to the stage. At this time, Dudley Stewart, the master of the North Stonington grange, on behalf of their friends, presented to Mr. and Mrs. Geer, $25 in silver. They also received a number of useful and attractive silver articles.

When refreshments were served, a special table was arranged on the stage, for Mr. and Mrs. Geer, and the members of their immediate family. In the center of the table was a large cake with 25 lighted candles.

Dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening. A delightful feature of the occasion was an old-fashioned polka, danced gracefully, by Mr. Greer and her father, William Main.

Mr. and Mrs. Geer have been life long residents of North Stonington. They, with their son, Bourdon Geer, are active members of the local grange.

"DRY" ENFORCEMENT MEANS MORE HOSPITAL PATIENTS

HARFORD, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Increased attempts at prohibition enforcement are expected to be accompanied by an increase in the number of patients at the Norwich state hospital, Superintendent Dr. Elijah S. Burdsall, informed the appropriations committee of the legislature this afternoon. Dr. Burdsall and Henry H. Gallup, trustee of the institution for the mentally afflicted, requested a biennial appropriation of $1,690500, whereas the board of control had recommended $1,599,490.

An attempt on the part of Connecticut judges to "check up" and enforce prohibition by commitments to the Norwich hospital for terms of three or six months for inebriates, has recently raised the average number of habitual drinkards received from 60 to 100 monthly, Dr. Burdsall said. At present there are 2,236 inmates of the institution, but the increased number of inebriates expected during the next two years will bring the average well over 2,500, he estimated.

"Is it the attempt at enforcement, or is it the stuff that these people drink under so-called prohibition which is responsible?" Senator E. W. Christ, senate chairman of the committee, asked Dr. Burdsall.

Both are contributory causes, the superintendent replied. The "hooch" which is drank does give a more immediate reaction, and thus more often leads to an arrest and commitment to the institution, he said. At the end of the three or six months period, however, Dr. Burdsall added, the inebriates are as completely recovered as they would have been if accustomed to drink better liquor.

LARGE CONGREGATION AT SECOND UNION SERVICE

"Seeing that all these things shall be dissolved what manner of person ought we to be," was the text of a very stirring and eloquent sermon delivered by Rev. Henry Howard, D. D., pastor of the Firth Avenue Presbyterian church, at the United Congregational church, Tuesday evening. This was the second of a series of sermons being given by Dr. Howard at the church this week under the joint auspices of the Young Men's Christian association and the churches of the city.

In spite of the inclement weather there was an unusually large congregation present when the meeting opened at 7:30 o'clock, Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church, offered the opening prayer and pronounced benediction. Frederick T. Maples led in the singing and William S. Huber was at the organ. The service was in charge of Secretary Edwin Hill of the Y. M. C. A.

In his sermon Monday night, Dr. Howard spoke from the text, St. Matthew, 6th chapter, 25-34 verses: "Be not anxious for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; not yet for your body, what ye shall put on, etc."

The concluding sermon of the series by Dr. Howard will be given at the church this (Wednesday) evening.

Mooney was examined by Dr. John W. Callahan, but he was found to have escaped injury. At the time of the accident it was raining. The machine is owned by the Union Cab Co., John Bennett proprietor.

In the evening, at 7:30, vespers will be held followed by benediction, and on Monday and Tuesday evening, vespers will also be held. Rev. Mr. Pulit will be assisted by several priests from out of town.

ART ASSOCIATION HEARD TALK ON ITALIAN ENGRAVING

The Norwich Art association held its February meeting in Slater hall annex Monday evening. The president, Miss Alice Coggswell, called the meeting to order, and the usual routine of business was followed. Several new members were admitted to the association. After adjournment of the business meeting, the association had the privilege of listening to Fitz Roy Carrington, head of the print department of Knoedler & Co. of New York. His subject, "Italian Engraving—The Florentines," was illustrated by the slides, loaned by the Fogg Museum of Harvard.

Mr. Carrington carried his audience back to the 15th century, when Europe, awakened from her long slumber, put forth the Renaissance, and this golden age of the Renaissance is depicted in these prints Florence was a city of 70,000 burghers; it was a city royal, and against this background one must regard these engravers. Mr. Carrington carefully described the prints as they were depicted on the screen. Forty-six Florentine prints now on exhibition in the Converse Art gallery are lent by Knoedler & Co. This exhibition is open to the public for the remainder of the week. A number of art and Academy students were guests of the association.

FURTHER CONSIDERATION OF AUXILIARY POST ROAD

Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald has recommended, in a letter to Governor John H Trumbull that the legislature should further consider the proposed auxiliary post road. Mr. Macdonald stated in his letter that the Boston post road, widened under present plans, will adequately meet the requirements of traffic until 1956, and that the auxiliary highway parallel to it which was sanctioned for construction by the general assembly of 1927 would cost in the neighborhood of $10,000,000 and should therefore be given further consideration by the legislature.

As it was incorporated in the trunkline system by the 1927 legislature in chapter 232 of the public acts of 1927, the auxiliary post road, sometimes referred to as the Merritt Boulevard, would parallel the present highway between Stratford and the Hutchinson river parkway passing through Westchester county to New York city. It would furnish an almost direct route, approximately 33 miles in length, from Stratford to the state line and thence directly to New York. This project has no relation whatsoever to the petition now pending before the legislature for a privately constructed and operated toll highway across the state.

Immediately after the passage of the act calling for the construction of the road, which went into effect on July 1, 1927, the highway department began making detailed studies of the proposition. Airplane photos of practically the entire area were made and several highway "lines" were experimented with. Two routes over which the road might possibly pass were selected. Both of these routes, in order to avoid expensive grading and cutting, would necessarily proceed over almost entirely new rights of way. The estimated ultimate cost of the project, including the purchasing of the new right of way over either route, was fixed at $10,000,000.

SHARKEY AND STRIBLING CONFIDENT ON EVE OF BOUT AT MIAMI BEACH TONIGHT

By Edward J. Neil,
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 26—(AP)—The bulldog of the latest heavyweight crop, Jack Sharkey, and Young Stribling, restlessly waiting the gong to-ring, restlessly waiting the gong tonight that will send them forth before 35,000 persons in Flamingo park, tomorrow night to determine which shall continue along the road that leads to the heavyweight title Gene Tunney left vacant.

For the first time since the match was made six weeks ago, the battlers themselves took over the spotlight that has focused previously for the most part on as picturesque a setting as the prize ring ever has seen. Since the fighters started training here three weeks ago they have competed for attention with Jack Dempsey, promoter of the show, with the host of celebrities and social leaders who throng the southland in the winter time, in addition to developments in the fight picture that often overshadowed the match itself.

But for tonight at least, the setting and surroundings were forgotten in contemplation of the battle Tex Rickard planned before his death, a battle Dempsey undertook to promote to a success as a tribute to the man who made him a millionaire. Where the naming of a referee, the arguments over rules, a minor injury to Stribling and even a pistol shot at Dempsey taken in the dark once held the chief attention, tonight the fight was the thing.

From every cource came indications that the match financially and socially already was an assured success. During the day money rolled into the box office with the same regularity that special trains, motor caravans, and other means of transportation looses new crowds on the already over-populated resort town.

William F. Carey, head of the enterprise as the vice president of the Madison Square Garden corporation, announced late in the afternoon that the receipts to date were $325,000 and might reach $400,000 before the principals entered the ring for the ten round epic civil war of the north and south.

On the basis, the profit on a venture that at first seemed doomed to failure, will range between $75,000 and $150,000.

The rules that will govern the fray were the subjevt of a conference today among Jack Dempsey, Referee Lou Magnolia, of New York, and the managers of Sharkey and Stribling. The chief seconds will be "Pa" Stribling, father of the Georgian, and Johnny Buckley, mentor of the Boston sailorman.

Most interesting of the regulations is that governing knock downs. Dempsey, tragedian in the "long count" episode with Gene Tunney, in Chicago, insisted that there be no misunderstanding, the referee is charged with responsibility of seeing that a fighter scoring a knockdown goes promptly to a neutral corner.

If the fighter does not do so, the count will be halted to enforce this rule, and then picked up where the count was left off. In other words, if the count has reached four and the fighter on his feet is not in a neutral corner, the referee will escort him there, then return to resume the count at "five."

The conference of officials also decided to bar tossing in a towel as token of defeat. Decision as to any foul blows will rest entirely with the referee. There will be no judges.

Although Sharkey is invading the stronghold of the Southern Pride, the betting odds favor him at 6 to 5 to win. The Boston Tar is the favorite of the eastern critics who have seen Stribling whipped by Paul Berlenbach and Tommy Loughran, both light-heavyweight champions. But Stribling is favored by southern and western sportsmen, coming here from the cities where the Georgian has piled up a tremendous string of knockouts.

In style the men are a contrast. Sharkey is the bulldog type, a heavyset, free swinging puncher who comes in fast behind a deadly left jab. Despite the strength Stribling has been developing steadily since his childhood training as an acrobat, Sharkey is by far the huskier of the pair, both in appearance and action. He has ten pounds advantage in weight. During a career spotted with both brilliant and mediocre exhibitions Sharkey has proved himself the best boxer in the heavyweight division when in top form.

Stribling has done little among the major heavyweights to indicate that he can cope with the power, speed and skill of Sharkey's best attack. While the Macon youngster has been touring the fistic hinterlands mowing down minor opposition, Sharkey has met and defeated George Godfrey, Harry Wills, Jimmy Maloney, Jack Delaney and K. O. Christner. He lost a terrific battle to Jack Dempsey was outpointed by Johnny Risko and fought a draw with Tom Heeney.

Stribling, lean, tall and thin of waist, also is a master boxer. He is adept at feinting with every part of his body from head to knees, carries his left hand at his side in puzzling fashion, and punches sharply with both hands to the head. During most of his important matches, he has chosen to fight at close quarters, doing most of his damage when one hand was free. The Georgian has piled up an impressive string of knockouts, as testimony to the power in his right hand and his backers expect him to land it tomorrow with telling effect, despite reports that it has been damaged.

Condition, if it is the deciding factor, favors Sharkey. The Boston sailor appears "in the pink." Stribling, too, closed his training impressively but the southerner, just a week before the fight, injured a rib. He also has lost a little weight. What effect these factors will have on the result, only the evening within the ring tomorrow will tell.

AGGIE TEAM READY FOR SPRINGFIELD TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 26—The Aggie team was given the day off here today, in order to have the men in the best possible shape for the contest with the Springfield team Wednesday night in Springfield.

Hard luck is still hanging on the tail of the Aggies, with two of the Aggies' stars in their beds with high temperatures. Ryan, the only member of the five that has played every game this season, is in the infirmary with a temperature of 101,-and it is a certainty that he will not be in the lineup that faces the Red and White. He has been the most consistent performer on the floor for Connecticut, and loss of his services will hamper the chances of defeating the strong Springfield team that has tasted defeat but once this season, and that against the Providence five.

Schildgen, who did not get into the game until half the schedule had been played because of an injury, is also confined to his bed. He had just hit his top stride in the Vermont game, but he has not reported for practice for the last two days. He has slim chances of making the trip to the Bay State tomorrow night.

These men being incapacitated, puts out of the game three of the men that started the season for the Aggies, as Chubbuck has been out for the past week and a half. Alexander will uncoubtedly let Ryan remain in bed, so as to have him in the best of condition to face the Rhode Island State aggregation on Saturday night in the last game of the season.

The lineup that will face the Physical Directors will have Darrow and Lamoureux at the forwards, Matzkin at the pivot position, with Duffy and Schildgen at the guards. If Captain Schildgen does not start, Dall will replace him.

NURMI AND WIDE OUT OF COMPETITION FOR PRESENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—Paavo Nurmi and Edvin Wide, two-thirds of the visiting foot-racing delegation from northern Europe, both were literaly out of the running tonight, the Finn, because of the disapproval of the Amateur Athletic union and the Swede in obedience to the dictates of a twisted ankle.

Wide was forced definitely to cancel an engagement to compete in a special one and one-half mile race at the New York County American Legion games here tomorrow night in which he was to have taken the suspended Nurmi's place. Wide found it necessary to withdraw today when his right ankle which was twisted in an exhibition run in Elizabeth, N. J., last night became badly swollen.

Whether it would also prevent him from running as scheduled in a meet at Buffalo Saturday night Wide could not say although he said he would not take any chances and did not propose to run until the ankle was thoroughly healed.

With Wide thus on the shelf and Nurmi in enforced retirement pending the decision of the A. A. U. tomorrow on his application for reinstatement, the third member of the visiting triumvirate, Eino Purje, youthful Finn, found himself in great demand. It appeared likely that he would come to the rescue and provide the much-sought international flavor for the Legion meet, running a mile and a half in an attempt to beat the world's record set by Wide in 1927.

As for Nurmi, the famous Finn will go on the carpet in his own defense at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the offices of the A. A. U. At that time the registration committee of the Metropolitan association is to decide whether to remove the suspension imposed when Nurmi failed to appear for the national championship.

Nurmi's defense hinges upon a letter which he says he wrote and mailed the day before the meet giving notice of his withdrawal because of a cold which made it impossible for him to run in his true form.

The Swedish schoolmaster, however, added another race to his schedule for the season by agreeing to meet Ray Conger, conqueror of Nurmi over the mile route, in a second "Mile of the Century" at the Knights of Columbus games in Madison Square Garden March 16.

BEAUREGARD TO FIGHT AT GARDEN IN MARCH

Al Beauregard, the Taftville bantamweight, is slated to perform at Madison Square Garden the latter part of this month. Beauregard's opponent has not been selected as yet but he has been promised a good boy in his class. Beauregard in his last fight at the Garden made a very favorable impression and was immediately booked for another bout. At the present time Al is at his home in Taftville and is training for the coming bout.

DONOHUE DEFINES AMATEUR BOXING

STATE CAPITOL, HARTFORD, Feb. 26—(AP)—The so-called "boxing bill" signed by Governor Trumbull today goes into effect at once, as provided. It gives the state athletic commissioner control over all amateur boxing and wrestling, except in educational institutions, and establishes an age limit of 18 in boxing and 16 in wrestling.

The bill was sponsored by the Connecticut A. A. U. and by various promoters, principally the operators of the New Haven Arena, largest in the state. While there is no penalty provided for violation of the age limit provisions, the same penalties apply to the general conduct of amateur wrestling and boxing as to professional wrestling and boxing, under the old statute.

Commissioner Thomas E. Donohue, on receiving word the governor had signed the bill, issued an explanation of the meaning of amateur boxing by way of indicating how he will enforce the provisions of the new act. He said that substitution of the word "wrestling" for "boxing" in the explanation would give his definition of amateur wrestling as alluded to in the act. The explanation of amateur boxing reads:

"For the purposes of this act, an amateur boxing exhibition shall be and is hereby defined as one in which no contestant has received or shall receive in any form, directly or indirectly, any money prize, reward or compensation either for the expenses of training for such contest or for taking part therein. Nor shall any person appear as contestant in such amateur exhibition who prior thereto has received any compensation or reward in any form for displaying, exercising or giving any example of his skill in or knowledge of athletic exercises or for rendering services of any kind to any athletic organization or to any person or persons as trainer, coach, instructor or otherwise, or who shall have been employed in any manner professionally by reason of his athletic skill or knowledge."

Commissioner Donohue added that he will begin exercise of his authority at once. He said he was glad that control over boxing and wrestling in educational institutions was not vested in him. Educational institutions were exempted from such control by an amendment to the original bill, this amendment having been submitted by the Connecticut A. A. U.

BASKETBALL TALK

There Ought to be a Crowd

Saturday night's city title game between the Y Seniors and Academy should be the acid test for basketball's drawing power in the city, at least, for this season. It is a real attraction and ought to draw a good crowd.

Yers About 2 to 1 Favorites

The Y deserves to be about 2 to 1 favorites for the opening game, anyway. This year, the Academy is a younger team than usual and incidentally, has the worst record of any basketball team at the local school. The Seniors are also very young when taken in their class, the team averaging probably about 20 years, but they have proven themselves better by comparison than the Academy on several occasions this year.

An Innovation

The New London Whalers' idea of using two separate teams in its chase for the state Y title is proving successful, even though it is quite unique.

Norwich Best with Home Products

Norwich, when compared to New London in basketball, as regards home products, leads. New London, shorn of its two service teams, or even one, would be rather easy pickings for the Seniors, whose entire five regulars are horest-to-goodness natives.

Not a Great Year.

Basketball has not had a great year in Norwich. The Academy has not been able to win, the C. F. C. has played only a few games as against an extensive schedule in the past few seasons and the Y Seniors faltered at the wrong time after a whirlwind start.

Windham's Big Game.

Windham, no doubt will pack them in Friday night for its home game with Warren Harding High, one of the best schoolboy fives in the state. The Thread Cityites have made extensive preparations for this game and to win it would make the season successful. Windham still posses a chance of making the Yale tourney and a victory over the Mead outfit would be a big boost for them.

Different This Year.

Jim Kelly and Les Pingree, who were two of the best five the Academy ever had in basketball last spring, the team that won all city and town honors, will be on the opposite side in the coming series between the Y Seniors and Academy. Kelly and Pingree play on the Seniors this year.

KAPLAN LOSES ON FOUL IN EIGHTH

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Freddie Mueller, of Buffalo, won on a foul from Louis (Kid) Kaplan, of Meriden, in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-round boxing match here tonight. The referee announced the low blow as unintentional. Mueller weighed 139¾. Kaplan 134½.

At the time of the foul, Kaplan was leading on points, according to ringside critics. Kaplan, much faster than Mueller, piled up many points during the early rounds and was going strong when the bout ended. Mueller did most of his scoring at inside fighting.

Georgie Day, of New Haven won on a technical knockout from Clyde Jones, of Jersey City in the fourth round of a scheduled eight round match. The weights were announced as Day 135¾, Jones 133¾.

Pete De Grasse, a Cherokee Indian from New York, was given the referee's decision over Hughy Devlin, of New London, in an eight round contest. De Grasse weighed 117½. Devlin 121½.

Frankie Marino, New Haven, defeated Joey Duggan, New London, in six rounds. Marino weighed 127¾. Duggan 125½.

Jack Kelly, Waterbury won a close decision from Amedio Grillo, of Italy, in the opening bout. Kelly weighed 171. Grillo 173¾.

RANGERS HOLD LEAD BY BEATING SENATORS

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—The New York Rangers clung to their slim lead in the American group of the National Hockey league by downing the Ottawa Senators 2 to 0 in a hard fought game here tonight.

The victory left the Rangers one point ahead of the Boston Bruins who also turned in a victory. It ended Ottawa's winning streak at four straight.

New Yoark scored in the first and second periods and played a great defensive game to stave off Ottawa's closing rush. In the first period Paul Thompson shot a fine pass to Murray Murdock for the opening score. In the second Butch Keeling got around the Ottawa defense on a single handed play to beat Connell.

PENN TEAM GETS SET BACK BY COLUMBIA

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Pennsylvania's march toward the eastern inter collegiate basketball title was given a setback tonight by Columbia, the New Yorkers tripping the Quakers 35 to 23.

It was Penn's first defeat in a league game this season after seven league victories. A victory tonight would have clinched the title for the Red and Blue.

Columbia was in the lead most of the time and was always in command of the situation. The visitors led, 13 to 10 at the half. Penn tied the score at 15-all early in the second, but Columbia again pulled away and was never threatened. Obey and Urback played brilliantly for Columbia and Smith, the visitor's great defensive ace, tied up Schaaf completely.

"I'M GOING TO GIVE MY BEST"—STRIBLING

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Young Stribling, through his father-manager, "Pa Stribling," made the following statement tonight:

"You can say for me that I am going into the ring to give the very best I've got, as usual. I am confident I am going to beat Sharkey and will do my best to finish him quickly. I have trained hard for this fight. Realizing that the outcome means much to me. Nothing short of a knockout will satisfy me. I expect the fight to be like my statement—short!"

Jack Sharkey said:

"So far as I am concerned it is going to be just another fight. Naturally I think I will win. I am fit and have been so for a month. I expect to win by a knockout and then—I want another chance at Dempsey."

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 26—(AP)—C. H. Owry, of Swarthmore, Pa., and Philip Walter Kobbig, of Millburn, N. J., were elected captains of the Brown freshman wrestling and swimming teams by the regular members of the respective squads this afternoon. PLAINFIELD PROS PLAY RETURN GAME WITH COLORED GIANTS TONIGHT

TONIGHT'S LINEUPS

Plainfield		Colored Giants
Kasper	rf	Berthards
Fiedale	lf	Davis
Williams	c	Cooper
Dissinger	rg	Chambers
Bernet	lg	Yancey

As is the general rule when the two above teams clash on the basketball floor there is action in big handfuls and tonight's game at the Plainfield Community house is to be no exception. The Plainfield Pros and the Colored Giants met earlier in the season with the result that Plainfield nosed out the Giants 39 to 37 in a free-scoring game. At that time there was more or less discussion as to the relative merits of the teams, many claiming that the Giants fooled around too long before opening their attack. However, the Giants are still smarting under that defeat and will be out to take Plainfield by a top-heavy count tonight.

The Giants, who have played in the eastern part of the state on numerous occasions, both in basketball and baseball, are no strangers to local fans and need very little introduction. The antics of Babe Berthards and the giant center, Cooper, will be remembered as very entertaining. As for basketball the Giants are second to none when it comes to playing the game.

Plainfield will use the regular lineup which has been functioning so well during the past few weeks. Plainfield will be at the peak of perfection this evening and the Giants will have to step out in full stride to take them and even the series.

So that the fight fans will not miss the big show at Miami Beach where Mr. Stribling and Mr. Sharkey exchange fisticuffs tonight, the management has made arrangements to have a powerful radio at the hall for the returns. The radio has ample power to fill the entire hall so that none will be disappointed.

A fast preliminary game opens the evening's entertainment at 7:45 and dancing will close it.

BROWN IS DROPPED FROM DARTMOUTH SLATE

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 26—(AP)—Official announcement that Brown and Dartmouth would not meet in football during 1930 and 1931, was made here today by Harry R. Heneage, supervisor of Dartmouth's athletics. He said football relations with the Rhode Island university which has been a fixture on the Green's gridiron schedules for many years, would be interrupted after the 1929 game on November 9, to enable Dartmouth to play a two game series with a California college.

NOT NEGOTIATING FOR TITLE BOUT IN S. AMERICA

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26—(AP)—Max Waxman, of Baltimore, manager for Joe Dundee, said here today that he was not negotiating for a bout between Dundee and K. O. Brisset in Buenos Aires for the world's welterweight title. He said he had not received an offer and would not accept it if one were made.

NEW HAMPSHIRE WINS FOURTH ANNUAL TOURNEY

LAKE PLACID CLUB, N. Y., Feb. 26—(AP)—The University of New Hampsuire today won the fourth annual championship of the Intercollegiate Winter Sports union, with a total of 43 points. McGill university was second with 26 points, Dartmouth third with 15, Ottawa fourth with three, and Williams fifth with one.

New Hampshire led yesterday and today Ernest O. Pederson won all three events, the downhill ski race, the slalom race, and the ski jump. Pederson's time in the downhill ski race was 2:11 2-5. He beat B. Crayson Bell, of McGill, by three seconds. In the slalom race, a race downhill around turns against time, Pederson's time was 32 3-5, and G. B. Summer, of McGill, second, finished in 34 1-5. Pederson's point score in the ski jumping contest this afternoon was 218.8, making standing jumps of 171 and 161 feet. J. In an exhibition, all eastern ski jumping records were broken when Sigurd Uiland, of the Norge Ski club of Chicago, made a standing jump of 200 feet. Lars Haugen, of the St. Paul Athletic club, also made a standing jump of 195 feet. The eastern record is 190 feet, made at Brattleboro in 1925. Today's exhibition was unofficial.

DUNLOP'S SURETY BOND
Mileage Guarantees

USUALLY the poorer the tire, the longer the mileage guarantee. And what does the mileage guarantee get you? Usually a chance to argue and waste a lot of valuable time and temper.

What you want is a certainty that your tires will keep rolling. That is what you get with this new Surety Bond. It's backed both by Dunlop AND the American Surety Company.

It is as clear as crystal. In effect it says that for the first 12 months we will take all responsibility for your Dunlops giving perfect service.

It doesn't matter whether a tire fails through accident, or collision, or blow-out, or misalignment, or stone-bruise, or road-cuts, or rim-smash, or side-wall injuries, or tube-pinching, or valve-tearing, or faulty toe-in, or under-inflation. We repair it free, OR you get a new tire at a reduced price, depending on the time you have run it.

It's as wide as the horizon and as sure as sun-up. You need not waste either tires or temper. We don't have to refer your claim to anybody. We make good here and instantly.

You just know the Surety Bond will be fulfilled. You just know that Dunlop Tires must be finer and stronger and better . . . otherwise how could they be backed by a Surety Bond like this?

Come in and read a copy. You will find it refreshing in its directness and its liberality.

U. S. STEEL WAS FEATURE OF NERVOUS SESSION OF STOCK MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(AP)—Prices fluttered about nervously on the stock market today, as call money again went up to 6 per cent, but were inclined to rally from higher levels, under the leadership of a few high priced issues sent up by utility pools.

Heavy trading developed in U. S. Steel, in anticipation of the recapitalization plan announced by directors after the close of the market. The stock rose to 139 7-8, within less than 2 points of its record price, but fell back to 136 7-8, a net loss of 2 1-2 points, as word was spread about Wall street that action on the plan would be delayed. The announcement gave no indication of the size of the "melon" to be cut, merely disclosing a plan of increasing the authorized common stock for the purpose of retiring funded debt without giving the terms at which additional stock would be offered to stockholders.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent, and rose to 9 as banks called $40,000,000 in loans, the rate went no higher at the loan desk, although money grew increasingly tight-late in the day and was unavailable under 9 1-2 per cent, in the outside market, presenting an unusual situation, as the outside rates rarely rise above the official rate. Time money and commercial paper were firmer.

During the next three days banks are expected to withdraw from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 more, to meet month end requirements, and predictions of 12 per cent money, and even higher rates, were common. In the past banks have usually increased their borrowings at the federal reserve to tide the market over settlement date strains, but are now under the restraint of the firm reserve policy of curtailing credit available for speculation.

The days news included marking up of the export price of copper 1-4 of a cent to correspond, with the increase in the domestic price yesterday. Trade reports stated that producers were reluctant to sell, even at the current prices, and 19 cent copper was predicted for early March. Andes Copper placed its common stock on a $3 annual basis, and Youngstown Sheet & Tube reported an increase of about 30 per cent in earnings during 1928. President James A. Farrell of U. S. Steel said the trade outlook was satisfactory, that steel prices were on a reasonably satisfactory basis, and that plants were operating practically at capacity.

The copper shares were again popular, and oils encountered stronger support than from some time past, despite an upturn in crude production again, and reports that coming figures for crude stocks in storage would show another huge increase.

Adams Express was tossed up 33 points to a new high at 475, and Radio was sent up 24 points to 390. Allis Chalmers, A M M, Byers, Commercial Solvents and American Express mounted 8 to 13 points, the last touching a new peak.

In the coppers, Anaconda Chile and Inspiration mounted 2 to 4 points to new tops and Kennecott, selling at its 100 per cent stock dividend, was heavily accumulated. Atlantic Refining, Houston and Mexican Seaboard led the oils with extreme gains of 3 to 6 points, while Sinclair, Marland, and Standards of New York and New Jersey made moderate gains.

Buying of amusement shares was spurred by unconfirmed merger reports. Motion Picture Capital, Corp, and Loews mounted 3 and 5 points to new highs for the year, while Fox Film A and Warner Brothers were well bought. General Railway Signal entered new high ground on reports of increased net sales. Motors were irregular. Chrysler and Nash encountering selling pressure, while Packard moved up 4 points.

Steel fell back 3 points on profit taking, and Otis Elevator dropped 10. Allied Chemical, American and Foreign Power, Atchison, Collins and Aikman, Filenes, Crosley, National Cash Register and Wright Aero were also under pressure. Johns Manville sold off 4 points, then rallied. American Woolen shares touched new lows for the year.

The commodity markets were generally steady, cotton improving on reports of cold rains in the south, and corn gaining on good export demand.

Foreign exchanges were somewhat inclined to heaviness, resulting from the high money rates in New York. Sterling was slightly lower.

JEWETT CITY

PHIL MALADY'S HEFTY PIG ONCE FIGURED IN SMART SET

A short time ago, Philip (Red) Malady, Jr., whose home is on the historic Bishop farm at the one-time crossing of the same name, dressed off a fatted hog that tipped the beam at 265 pounds. Mr. Malady owns top wide acres of this fine estate, and among other accomplishments he understands the raising of pigs for market.

Along late last fall, among other family gatherings enjoyed in town, a woman gave a select masquerade, home dance. To inspire enthusiasm and enliven competition in uniqueness and originality of costume, the hostess offered a prize for the leading outfit. A Jewett City man got away with the awards, hands down. His top rigging would have compared well with the one-time famous Berry Wall, while his ground gear had Charlie Chaplin's makeup tied to a post. The prize was a wee bit of a pig, so small that the winner took the mite of a chap up to his friend Malady's farm in a shoe box.

Mr. Malady's wife was at that time justly proud of new, highly polished, extra slippery, hardwood floors. While Mr. Pig Winner and Mr. Farmer talked over the terms for fattening the small porker, he slipped out of one loose end of his pen. Stage setting, Act I. Two fat men, one frantic woman, one wee piggy, weight two pounds, stripped. One polished floor. Opening scene. Lively scrimmage. Back of the wood box, under the stove and around the table legs. No use. Couldn't catch him! Act II and curtain. A bright idea dawned on the woman of the play. Get a pan of milk. A dish was accordingly produced and new milk poured in. Would the little truant have a swallow? Of course he would, but even as he was preparing to partake, with his little "snoot" submerged something tickled, with a resulting sneeze. Milk was everywhere, the pig was greased, with that maple floor transformed into a rink. The fat man, on all fours, slid about in the milk, but his grim determination was all for naught. Did they catch him then? Not so! Sleepy now, his nap behind the wood box resulted in his capture.

No pig ever raised in the town of Plainfield, or any other field, ever had anything on him, and Mr. Farmer stacked up a pile of close to 100 bucks, when he came to reckon with the butcher.

TOWN MEETING AT PACHAUG VOTES A THIRTY-MILL TAX

First Selectman Daniel F. Fox called a duly warned town meeting to order in the Town hall at Pachaug Tuesday afternoon. Byron Kinne was chosen chairman and John Welsh clerk. By unanimous vote a 29-mill tax was laid on the property of the town of Griswold. In January the borough of Jewett City tax was fixed at eight mills.

Property owners in the borough will pay 38 mills tax on their holdings.

The Ladies' society of the Congregational church is to meet at Mrs. L. G. Buckingham's home Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. This is a new plan which has been adopted, which will allow the young women who are employed during the day, and older women whose home cares keep them busy during the afternoon, to attend these meetings, which are of so much benefit to the church.

THE BEND SCHOOLHOUSE TURNED TO ANOTHER USE

Closely identified with the earlier history of the town of Lisbon, figured the "Bend" schoolhouse. Reckoning down the long list of the men of Lisbon who have merited unusual distinction in years gone by, many have gained their rudimentary impressions of that well-remembered trio of R's in the little Bend schoolhouse. Inquiry seems to find no one able to recall that of all its many colors of paint, that there ever was a red coat. Whatever handicap this may have been, many of the worth-while men who have gone out from Lisbon would say, were it possible, that here their first young ideas were taught to "shoot" in the elementary acquirements that advanced them well on the path toward successful service in many distinctive lines. Now the grand new school at Newent has very properly closed the long story of the Bend school history. Today, it figures in a new role, that of a granite cutter's shop. Here now its ancient blackboarded walls resound to the sounds of a maul and chisel, rather than to the young Lisbon generations, as they audibly chiseled through the months of compulsory education required by the state.

MISS ROSS PROMOTING HUMANE TRAP PROJECT

Miss Kate M. Ross, of West Hartford, daughter of G. A. Ross, keenly sensitive to the suffering of trapped animals, has written a plea entitled, "Wanted—A Humane Trap." In it she says:

It has been stated that if a man should set a steel trap in his back yard to catch a chicken he would be arrested for cruelty to animals, yet it has been estimated that from 40,000,000 to 60,000,000 fur-bearing animals are caught yearly in traps in the United States alone. This can well be believed as practically every woman in the country has fur on her coat in winter, and often in the summer as well.

The American Humane association has employed a man whose business it has been for the past three years to study trapping at first hand. He knows whereof he speaks when he calls the steel trap "a fiendish device." It not only causes suffering to wild animals, but is a menace to dogs. Dogs have been found after being in traps for weeks at a time, nearly dead from starvation, and with legs crushed or broken.

Some persons seem to have the mistaken idea that the humane societies wish to stop trapping altogether. The aim is to secure a humane trap. Few are aware that the American Humane association has offered prizes for a humane trap. Last year more than 100 traps were submitted, three of which took prizes. The prize trap has the advantage of not breaking the animal's leg; all three are being manufactured, but are not very generally used. The trap contest is still open and this year closes May 10.

It is significant that the National Association of Fur Industries has offered a prize of $10,000 for a humane trap. There are, however, ten conditions to be met. Anyone wishing to know these conditions can secure a copy by writing to David C. Miller, General Director, National Association of Fur Industries, 242 West 30th Street, New York City.

Not from a humane magazine but from The Sportsman comes this quotation: "At its best the steel trap is hideously cruel . . . We consider it a blot on our civilization and on common decency . . . The steel trap must go."

Teachers in Shelby (N. C.) public schools are under contract not to marry during school term. "No time for honeymoons," board officials explained.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 26—Raymond Daniels, 18, residing at 21 Reed street, was in police court today charged with theft. The prosecution was not ready to proceed with the case, so a continuance was ordered until tomorrow. Daniels, being unable to procure a surety on his bond, was committed to jail. Daniels is a waiter, but it is seldom that he consents to work. Last night he was observed loitering in front of the Y. M. C. A. cafeteria, of which Otozi Takakaski is proprietor. Patrolman Edward Skazulas, who saw him, was suspicious that Daniels was planning a robbery and concealed himself so that he could watch the suspect. After a wait of about half an hour, Daniels suddenly disappeared, he having entered the cafeteria by means of a window that was open for ventilation. Skozcylas summoned Patrolman George Labous and entering the restaurant Daniels was found there having $1.71, which he had taken from the cash register.

Peter Dymerski, 207 North Bank street, had his case continued till tomorrow because Dymerski was confused about the hour that court convened and arrived just as court was taking an adjournment.

MRS. ABBIE MARSHALL BAILEY MAY HAVE JUMPED OVERBOARD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 26—Mrs. Abbie Marshall Bailey, 37, colored, residing at 171 Poquonoc road, Groton, is missing from her home and the supposition is that the woman has ended her life by drowning, undoubtedly by jumping from the pier at Ocean Beach. The woman has been missing since 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and all efforts to obtain trace of her have failed. She has not returned to her home and her father, Alexander Marshall, believes that his daughter has ended her life, for she had often threatened to do so. Mrs. Bailey, who was released from Norwich State hospital recently, came to New London, yesterday, with her father. The latter boarded a bus that left this city for Groton, at 3 o'clock, and the daughter stated that she would follow him home on the bus that would leave an hour later. This she did not do. Late yesterday afternoon Guy H. Norris, of 5 Mason terrace, Brookline, Mass., went to Ocean Beach and, in the course of walking about there, strolled on the pier, where he found a pocketbook containing $10.50 and a note with the request, "notify Alexander Marshall, 171 Poquonoc road, Groton." When Mrs. Bailey failed to arrive home during the night the U. S. Coast Guard, state pier, was requested to institute a search for the woman and a crew has been engaged during today in dragging in the vicinity of the pier.

The officer was walking on Main street and, at the corner of Hill street, stepped on an icy surface and was thrown violently to the walk, his head striking with force. Patrolman J. P. Sullivan thought an automobile had struck a pedestrian, was very much surprised to find that a man had collided with an auto. Shirley was not seriously hurt, beyond severe injuries to his shins.

Municipal Purchasing Agent John W. Sheedy has an article in the current issue of Public Management, with a cut of the writer.

The streets of New London today were dreary. Most of the time the walks were covered with slush from the rain and snow which fell almost continually.

James Shields, engine dispatcher, and Harry Campbell, train dispatcher, in the employ of the New Haven railroad, this city, visited Hartford tonight.

The rain which started early this morning and continued throughout the day and night, has caused practically all the snow of last Thursday to disappear. All that remains now to show the effects of the winter's most severe storm are small stretches of ice in the highway and a few unshoveled sidewalks. Strange to say, in most cases where the sidewalks have not been relieved of snow, they are those owned by the city's wealthiest real estate owners.

With the approach of the inauguration at Washington, it is positive that there will be a lesser number of residents of New London to attend the event this year than ever before. To date there is no certainty that any citizens will make the trip to the exercises.

F. Kedzie. Every indication points to the possibility of the trawlers bringing in even heavier catches between now and the close of the season.

CHAIN-MAIL ORDER HOUSES MAY OPEN LOCAL BRANCHES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 26—If the chain and mail order houses which are said to be casting about for locations here find what they want and locate in this city, they, with the chain stores already established here, will monopolize a good portion of the business of New London and that which comes to it from outside. Rumor is that a nationally known company is seeking property in New London and that a representative of the corporation was here today studying plans and property that had been submitted for consideration. It is known that Philadelphia parties have secured an option on Bank street property and the last information is that they are acting for a mail order house of Chicago and Philadelphia. The property they seek would give them rail, water and highway facilities of the best and would enable them to receive and deliver goods at the smallest cost and with a facility that few sites would offer.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

The Pathe picture "Annapolis" depicting life at the United States Naval academy, which will be shown at the Breed theatre on Sunday, next, is said by reviewers everywhere, to be one of the finest screen productions of the season. Several players of note are featured. They are John Mack Brown, Jeanette Loff and Hugh Allan. In addition the cast includes William Bakewell, Byron Munson, Maurice Ryan, Charlotte Walker and Hobart Bosworth. It was directed by Christy Cabanne under the supervision of F. McGrew Willis. This picture is packed with thrills and there is much enjoyable comedy.

Credit Association

The three commercial banks of this city, the Thames National bank, the Uncas-Merchants National bank and the Bankers Trust company, have united in forming a credit association for the interchange of credit information, which it is felt, will be of advantage to each of the institutions in the making of loans.

Connecticut College Concert

Wednesday, March 6, will be notable in musical circles hereabouts for on that evening, Joseph Lhevinne, the celebrated pianist, will appear at Bulkeley auditorium, New London, under the auspices of Connecticut college, in one of his renowned recital programs.

The wonder spell wrought by Lhevinne's playing is heightened by a glowing imagination that creates tonal pictures, vivid, stirring, or tenderly appealing. With prodigious strength he evokes ponderous tone masses from the instrument, with luscious singing touch he weaves a heart song. Through Lhevinne both man and poet speak.

Palace Theatre.

One of the finest vaudeville shows shown in the city in a very long time comes to a close at the Palace theatre today. This program is headed by one of Meyer Golden's productions, Whirl of Splendor, one of the very best song and dance revues in vaudeville today with beautiful wardrobe and stage settings. Lloyd and Allen, the two hard to get gentlemen, Edwards and Sanford, in just fooling around, Princess Whitecloud, in songs of India, and opening this well balanced progam are the Two Tumbling Clowns, who come to us direct from the Paramount theatre, New York.

You can still catch 'Broadway Fever," if you hurry!

Today that amusing comedy drama is playing for the last times at the Palace theatre, where Sally O'Neil, Roland Drew and Corliss Palmer, in the principal roles, have been attracting enthusiastic crowds.

"Broadway Fever" is the story of a little stage struck southern girl and the adventures she encounters in her climb to fame via the footlights in New York. Edward Cline directed the picture, which is from a story by Lois Leeson.

Another five-act all-star program opens at this theatre tomorrow and will contain plenty of laughs to give the kiddies areal treat. Of course the management has selected for the photoplay Rin-Tin-Tin's latest picture.

"Land of the Silver Fox" teems with vigorous action, while the setting of the frozen wilderness of upper Hudson bay affords a background of rare beauty.

The story gives Rin-Tin-Tin splendid opportunity to display his skill, daring and agility. It offers color and emotion for the human cast, too. Leila Hayams and Carroll Nye as a pair of lovers held apart by treachery arouse sympathy, while John Miljan and Thomas Santschi are formidable and provokative villains.

The story of "Land of the Silver Fox" has to do with the silver fox trapping industry, concerning itself especially with the efforts of the manager of a trading post to thwart the long-delayed marriage of his ward to a young trapper. The scheming postmanager connives with a notorious killer to do away with the boy and steal a stock of pelts, but through the watchfulness of Rinty the scheme is frustrated and the obstacles in the lovers' path cleared away. This film, adapted by Howard Smith from a Charles Condon story was directed by Ray Enright.

Rin-Tin-Tin in "Land of the Silver Fox" comes to the Palace theatre tomorrow for a run of three days.

An ad added feature the management of the palace theatre have installed two mammoth radios and will broadcast the full returns of the Sharkey-Stribling fight direct from Miami to its patrons tonight. This fight will be announced by the king of fight announcers, Major White, and sure will be a real treat to all the fight fans of the city. Come in and watch a real good show and sit in comfort and listen in on a real fight. The radios have been installed by W. H. Nelson of 252 Franklin street, this city.

Broadway Theatre.

The microphone is the severest audience in the world.

The little inanimated instrument that hangs over the heads of Hollywood's motion picture stars during the filming of talking pictures brought forth this opinion from Ruth Chatterton, one of the leading stars of the stage.

Miss Chatterton, who has faced theatre audiences in virtually every large city in America without a tremor of self-consciousness, admits that the microphone was a "mental hazard" to her during the first few days she rehearsed on the sound stage for her role in "The Doctor's Secret," the Paramount all-talking picture based upon Sir James M. Barrie's play, "Half an Hour," which comes to the Broadway theatre tomorrow.

"When I look back upon it all now," she remarks, "it seems amazing that a shining little instrument could affect one the way it did me.

"The sensation, of course, disappeared by the time we had started production, although I must admit that it is far more difficult to work in front of the 'mike' than it is on the stage. We miss the reactions of the audience, for one thing. The microphone is cold and unresponsive, whereas any theatre audience gives out invisible responses to a player's performance. That is why the microphone is such a severe audience."

Featured with Miss Chatterton in "The Doctor's Secret" are H. B. Warner, John Loder and Robert Edeson. The all-talking film was directed by William C. de Mille, who also prepared the scene adaptation from Barrie's play.

What Dr. Caldwell Learned in 47 Years Practice

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years and believes that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, up fevers and colds.

It costs a thousand dollars more to equal CHRYSLER Performance in any other car

New Chrysler "65" 4-Door Sedan $1145

CHRYSLER engineers from the outset disregarded all other performance standards and all other design. They set themselves to establish definitely the most modern principles and fundamentals of engineering and to apply them in a brand new way.

The same processes which based the new Chrysler style on the canons of classic beauty worked step by step to provide performance unlike any other in the industry—founded on a new and fresh interpretation of the basic principles of engineering design.

It is because of this Chrysler plan and the achievement of this plan, that an entirely new motor car performance has been brought into being.

The extraordinary acceleration, smooth speed, ease of handling and control, compactness, comfort, durability and long life, together with the unusual safety and stamina which characterize Chrysler, have all been combined in a car whose qualities can only be approached by other cars costing hundreds, yes, even a thousand dollars more

It is no wonder that Chrysler engineers working with that singleness of idea and surety of approach to every problem, should create a product built as none was ever built before and better than any other.

CITY MEETING TONIGHT TO ACT ON FACT FINDING COMMITTEE REPORT

The report of the "fact finding" committee will be submitted to the electors of the city at a special city meeting in the town hall this (Wednesday) evening. Mayor Leo Roy Robbins will call the meeting to order at 8 o'clock. Indications are that the meeting will have a capacity audience as there is widespread interest in the report of the fact finding committee. The committee's report will be distributed in pamphlet form at the town hall.

Tonight's meeting is the result of a spirited controversy on the part of the electors of the city over the rate changes for electric current put into effect by the gas and electric department last fall. In answer to public demand Mayor Robbins called a special city meeting last November to allow for expressions of opinion on the new schedule. Spirited opposition to the new rates was voiced by a number of those present. The lengthy discussion at that time, ended with an affirmative vote, calling for the appointment of a fact finding committee, to investigate the new schedule of electric rates and to make a report with recommendations at a special city meeting to be held not later than January 15th. The committee found it impossible to complete their investigation and prepare their report in time for it to be submitted January 15th and, at their request, were granted an extension of time.

The board of gas and electric commissioners, at a meeting Monday evening, approved an answer, made by Charles W. Taggart, general manager of the municipal plant, to the report of the fact finding committee, a copy of which has been placed in their hands, it was learned Tuesday. The commissioners' answer to the "fact finding" committee's report, covers a score or more of typewritten pages and is addressed to the electors of the city. It will be published in part Thursday morning.

The commissioners in a statement issued Tuesday evening said; "The gas and electric commissioners, at a meeting held Monday evening had before them the report of the fact finding committee and give it the fullest consideration. The commission have had this report for several days. The commission extended to the fact finding committee every possible facility for making the fullest investigation. The commissioners approved the report of the superintendent of the lighting plant and make such report their own finding of fact. The commissioners verily believe that the lighting plant of the city, including the franchise, is fairly worth between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. The commissioners keenly feel, as administrators of this property of the city the responsibility that rests upon them.

"The city has bonds now outstanding for the original purchase and for improvements made to amount of $858,000. There is a sinking fund of $190,756.66, held in trust to meet the maturity of these bonds. This bond issue of $858,000, includes the $400,000 on the plant at the time it was condemned. This issue has been refunded and $100,000 paid on the principal sum. This $100,000 came from earnings of the city's plant. In addition to this $100,000, there has been turned into the city treasury for the general expenses of the city since 1925, the sum of $190,180. Before the year 1925, the lighting plant had turned into the general treasury of the city the sum of $24,138.66, thus making a total of earnings of the plant which has gone to meet the general expenses of the city the sum of $214,138.66."

FLYING EAGLE PATROL TO GROW VEGETABLES

Flying Eagle patrol of the Boy Scouts of the Sacred Heart church, Norwich Town held their second meeting Monday evening at the home of Norman Bellevue from 7 to 9. The greater part of the time was spent in discussing business plans, one of which definitely decided upon was to have a large vegetable garden, each boy helping in the care and the selling of the vegetables. The money received from the sale of the vegetables will be used by the patrol when necessary for carrying on their scouting.

A ping pong contest was held, Charles Ryan being the winner. Charles Starback was his runner-up and played a very good game. A basketball team was formed. Edward Connell was elected captain, Richard Cormier, center, Charles Ryan, right forward, Edward Connell, left forward, Stanley Adams, right guard and Walter Starback, left guard. The dues were raised from 3 cents and 5 cents to be collected at each meeting. The boys sang several Scout songs, the visitors present joining in the singing.

The meeting closed with the boys repeating in concert the Scout oath and law, also giving the salute to the flag.

Quick Relief From Constipation

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver — constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

JOHN W. DUNN'S DEATH FOLLOWS HEROIC DEED

The exemplary and useful life of John W. Dunn came to a close at his home in Baltimore, Monday, following an illness with pneumonia, contracted in saving the life of a man from drowning at Philadelphia Navy yard, last week.

Mr. Dunn was born in Norwich, the son of Bernard and Abbie Sheehan Dunn, and spent his early years in Norwich. The family moved, some years ago, to South Manchester, Conn., where they now reside.

Joining the navy when quite young, his advancement was rapid, for during the World war, he rose to a lieutenancy. After the war he joined the merchant marine.

Surviving are his parents, his wife, Anne Dunn, a native of Brest, France, a son, John, Jr., two years old, two brothers, Walter, of Springfield, Mass., Joseph, of New Brunswick, N. J., three sisters, Mrs. Mabel Sylvester, Mrs. Sadie Valder and Miss Catharine Dunn, all of South Manchester. He was a nephew of the late Patrick Sheehan, Mrs. Michael Donovan, Mrs. John Conor, of Norwich, and Mrs. Patrick Clifford, of Holyoke, Mass. An aunt, Mrs. Nellie Cull, and an uncle, William Dunn, reside in Norwich, together with several cousins.

Burial is to be in Baltimore.

Many of Mr. Dunn's Norwich acquaintances first learned of his heroic death when in Tuesday's brief telegrams, they read the following dispatch: Word has been received of the death of John W. Dunn, captain of the port of Baltimore, Md., who resided in Manchester until two years ago. His death was caused from pneumonia due to an heroic act when he plunged into the harbor to save a drowning person.

"The Changing Conception of God," was the theme of Rev. Mr. Foster's sermon. The text "In Him we live and move and have our being is found in Acts 17.28. The basis of the interesting discourse was the conception of God, as found in the book of Genesis and that by the prophet Elijah, the conception of God as found in the book of Jonah and that of the prophet Isaiah, also the conception of God as taught by Jesus in the gospels and the talk by the apostle Paul in his address at Athens.

HAD 120 VISITORS IN ATTENDANCE CONTEST

There was an attendance of 145 on Sunday evening, in the First Congregational chapel when the third in a series of meetings of the Christian Endeavor attendance contest was held. Reginald Avery, captain of the Reds was the leader, assisted by Miss Esther Durr. The theme considered was "Why Is Christianity the Only Adequate Religion?" Several members and guests spoke along the line of the general theme. Senior Deacon Dwight W. Avery offered prayer. The meeting opened with the song Stand Up for Jesus, Miss Rose Durr accompanying at the piano. Miss Durr also played for the duet, Softly and Tenderly, Jesus is Calling, by Misses Ruth and Louise Sterry, as well as the other hymns given which included: Jesus Calls O'er the Tumult, Nearer My God to Thee, What a Friend We Have in Jesus and for the hymn in closing, God Be With You 'Till We Meet Again. Four members of the society, spoke briefly or read papers answering the questions: Does Christianity present to the world a God adequate to meet our needs?, Reginald Avery; Under what type of leadership did Christianity come into being?, Miss Esther Durr; Does Christianity set moral standards that are high enough to demand the support of the best people?, Miss Grace Wheeler; Does Christianity come into being? Miss become the kind of persons that they know they ought to be?, Robert Stott, Jr. When reporting for the contest, Mr. Avery had a total of 53, including visitors for the Reds, while Miss Lucille Browning, captain of the White side, was in the lead with 92, including 78 visitors. There were 120 visitors in all. Thus the contest at present stands about 75 in favor of the White side. Both captains thanked members and friends for the interest shown in the contest, and invited all to attend the closing meeting Sunday evening next.

The last half of the meeting was given over to four adult speakers who spoke impressively on the following topics: Influences of Taoism, Confucianism and Buddhism on Chinese Life and Character, James F. Connolly; Mohammedism, Burton W. Jopson. After extending a cordial welcome to the visitors and commending the work done by the young people, the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey discussed briefly some of the Principals of Christianity. First, That We Worship in Christianity a Universal God; second, The Value That Christianity Puts Upon Man; third, The Character of Christianity in Its Superior Form; Christianity is the Power of Living; while Rev. HOOVER'S WAR SECRETARY TO BE JAMES W. GOOD, IOWA

Good is a Former Member of the House—Had Charge of Western Headquarters During the Hoover Presidential Campaign—Assistant Attorney General Donovan Flatly Declined to Become Governor-General of the Philippines—Make Up of the Cabinet is Now Complete With Exceptions of Secretaries of Agriculture, Commerce and Labor.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—(AP)—As President-elect Hoover neared the end of his cabinet making today William J. Donovan, of New York, passed definitely and somewhat abruptly out of the political picture of his administration. At the same time authentic word came that James W. Good of Iowa, would be secretary of war and William D. Mitchell, of Minnesota, attorney general.

Donovan, at present assistant to the attorney general, had been considered in connection with both of these places finally was eliminated after extensive discussions; flatly refused the post of governor general of the Philippines and will retire to private life on March 5.

From all accounts the president-elect sought repeatedly to have Donovan succeed Henry L. Stimson in the Philippines, but the Buffalo attorney refused consistently to reconsider it, and after a third conference today took leave of Mr. Hoover. It was emphasized that there had been no open break between the two who long have been friends and who were closely associated in the Hoover campaign for the presidency.

As matters shaped up tonight, friends of Mr. Hoover believed the cabinet selections now stood:

Secretary of state, Henry L. Stimson, of New York.

Secretary of treasury, Andrew W. Mellon of Pennsylvania.

Secretary of war, James W. Good, of Iowa.

Attorney general, William D. Mitchell of Minesota.

Postmaster general, Walter F. Brown, of Ohio.

Secretary of navy, Charles Francis Adams of Massachusetts.

Secretary of interior, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, of California.

This still left in doubt the secretaries of agriculture, commerce and labor, although there were increasing reports that William N. Doak, of Virginia, would succeed James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, in the labor post. Agriculture and commerce were regarded as still open with final selections to be made within the next 36 or 48 hours.

Good who will succeed Dwight F. Davis, in the war department on March 5, formerly was a member of the house and for a long time chairman of the powerful appropriations committee. For this reason it is assumed that he will be one of the chief points of contact between the new president and congress.

During Mr. Hoover's quest for the presidency, the Iowan had a prominent part in the pre-convention campaign with headquarters in Washington and he had charge of the western headquarters after the Kansas City convention, taking a leading role in the drive to hold the great agricultural west in the republican column.

Mr. Mitchell is a democrat, but voted for both President Coolidge and Mr. Hoover and was appointed to his present post of solicitor general of the United States by the now retiring president. He had long been identified with the conservative faction in the long political struggle in Minnesota in which first the Non-Partisan league and now the farmer-labor party have played so prominent a part.

As the story of the long negotiations between the president-elect and Donovan is being told, Mr. Hoover had considered the assistant to the attorney, for attorney general, but had found so much opposition from the dry forces in the south and other sections that he regarded it as necessary to look elsewhere.

It was represented that Donovan was not in sympathy with the dry law and that no matter how persistently he might drive forward to enforce the prohibition statute there would be constant criticism from the dry forces.

In looking about for another man, the president-elect sought advice from many high quarters in the hope of finding an eminent lawyer, without big business connections, and one not subject to criticism from the prohibition forces. He finally selected Mr. Mitchell who has accepted the post.

After Mr. Hoover returned here from Florida, Donovan, who was in New Mexico on official business, was asked to return to Washington for a conference. Upon receiving word that he would be offered the governor generalship of the Philippines, he stated that he could not consider leaving the United States at this time. After more exchanges of messages, the Buffalo lawyer returned here and had his first conference with the next president last Monday. He was urged to succeed Stimson in a post which Mr. Hoover regards as one of the highest importance, but declined.

The discussions finally turned in the war portfolio, which Donovan stated he would accept if it was thought his services would be useful. The discussions were continued yesterday at the request of the president-elect after Donovan had prolonged his stay here for a day longer than intended. Again there was an impasse.

Meantime some friends of the next chief executive sought to bring their influence to bear on the attorney to go to the Philippines and finally a third conference was held this afternoon. Again this discussion revolved around the appointment to the Philippines and again Donovan insisted that he could not leave the country.

That terminated the discussions, Donovan leaving the Hoover home to announce to waiting newspaper men that he was out of the cabinet picture, that he would not be governor general of the Philippines and that he would return to the private practice of law in Buffalo within a month or so after he has completed his work in connection with the Boulder Canyon commission.

HAVANA, Feb. 27—(AP)—Eight men, three of them prominent professional men of Havana, were arrested early this evening charged with plotting to assassinate President Gerardo Machado y Morales and to bring about armed American intervention through the medium of insurrection throughout the island.

The men arrested and held without bond are: Dr. Alejandro Vergara Leonard, Francisco Vilabrle Corderos, Dr. Jose A. Inclan, Dr. Tomas Gelabert, Dr. Edouardo V. Chibas, Enrique Cerrat, Angel Ortiz Cabanas, and Fernando Vergara.

The police show seized reports indicating a well organized plan for revolt and evidence that a campaign had been conducted within the Cuban army for recruits to the ranks of insurgents. Several cases of treason are expected to be brought against members of the army.

In the formal charge prepared by Alfonso Fors, chief of the judicial police, it is stated that various persons conspired to assassinate the president and to create a chaotic situation with the object of overthrowing the entire Machado government.

FRENCH PLANE CRASHED IN GULF OF MARTAVAN

RANGOON, India, Feb. 27—(AP)—Virtually within reach of their goal, Joseph LeBrix, French aviator, and his two companions on an experimental mail plane flight to span the distance between Paris and Saigon, French Indo-China, within five days, crashed in the Gulf of Martavan, when already more than eight days out of Marseilles.

The plane was destroyed but LeBrix and Sergt Maj. Antoine Paillard escaped uninjured. The wireless operator, Jousse, injured his leg. The mail was saved.

Villagers rescued the aviators from the bay and conveyed them in an oxen-drawn wagon to the police station at Theinzeik. The flyers, who had covered 1,000 miles in ten hours, needed another ten hours to negotiate the ten miles between the seashore and Theinzeik. They arrived here today by railroad and it is expected that they will reach Saigon by next week's mail steamer, Porthos.

Fight Bill To Abolish Office Of Coroner

Violent Assault on Bill Was Led by State's Attorney Alcorn of Hartford.

STATE CAPITOL, Harford, Feb. 27—(AP)—State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn of Hartford county, led a violent assault on the bill abolishing the office of coroner and giving its powers to the state police commissioner, when it was called for hearing by the judiciary committee of the general assembly this afternoon.

Mr. Hoyt attacked the measure as being a "vicious and villainous" proposal, opined that if Mr. Clark, of Haddam, its introducer, "is sincere, then he is either uninformed or is unwittingly being used by some person or group seeking despotic power," prophesied indignities to the citizens of the state through powers allowed the police commissioner and declared that the argument of economy advanced as the chief reason for passage of the bill is "merely the cloak, the cover and the smoke screen that is usually invoked for all such vicious ideas."

Mr. Alcorn said that state police commissioner "and I mean the man at present in that office," has too much power already, and if the judiciary committee reported favorably on a bill "giving him such state wide authority as the measure provides, the committee wouldn't be able to sleep nights."

"Police departments, judges, state's attorneys, all other arresting and prosecuting and judicial officials are pushed aside just to give the state police commissioner power," Mr. Alcorn charged. "All have to wait, because of the power given the commissioner, until he says a crime has been committed before they can act on such a crime."

Mr. Alcorn also attacked the provisions made for the commissioner's appointment, and removal at will, of the 160 medical examiners as "being a vicious proposal."

"There would be no saving of money, either," he said. "This is merely an effort to put the state police commissioner in the saddle and to let the public suffer. If they want to save money, why not clip off $100,000 from the $1,000,000 appropriation for the state police department? It seems that, in Hartford county, I have to fight not only crime, but also such motives as are behind bills of this kind."

TRUSTEESHIP DISCUSSED BY REPARATIONS EXPERTS

PARIS, Feb. 27—(AP)—The trusteeship for reparation bonds, if any are finally issued, was the chief subject under discussion by the reparations experts today.

The talk tended to bring out whether the trustee who holds the bonds issued by Germany on reparations and to apportion them among the reich's creditors, should be of an individual or corporate nature. The whole subject, it was said in expert circles tonight, still was in a sort of nebulous state but the discussions appeared to be moving toward a decision on important points.

What size German bond issue the world's markets could absorb was a question which it had been intended to keep altogether subsidiary but it has been thrust forward as a consideration which the French delegates must have in view if they expect to anticipate the German annuities by selling them to investors everywhere.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN IS A "PRETTY SICK MAN"

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27 (AP)—Charlie Chaplin, noted screen comedian, was described as a "pretty sick man," by his studio representatives here today. Chaplin was stricken with ptomaine poisoning Monday while preparing to work on a new picture. He recovered temporarily Tuesday, but last night suffered a relapse.

Efforts to communicate with the actor's home or Dr. Cecil Reynolds, his physician, were unavailing. The only authoritative source of information, his studio offices, said the actor had a temperature of 101 degrees and that his physician and a trained nurse were remaining at Chaplin's home.

Uunder provisions of the bill, the state will pay half the cost of transportation of elementary pupils in the smaller towns. No town, however, will receive more than $40 for each pupil from the state fund, and should the total expense be $80, the addition will be borne by the town.

Senate Holds Out For $24,000,000 Dry Fund

All Provisions of the House Measure Were Stricken From Deficiency Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—(AP)—The controversy between the house and senate over providing an additional $24,000,000 for prohibition enforcement was revived tonight by the senate which sidetracked, for the time at least, carefully laid plans of house leaders to let this amount die in the hands of a conference committee.

The huge enforcement item was embodied in the first deficiency bill and the house last week took all items except the dry law allotment, out of the measure and incorporated them in a second deficiency supply measure. Tonight the senate undid what the house had done by eliminating all the items of the first deficiency bill from the second measure.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, offered the amendment to strike from the second deficiency bill all provisions contained in the first measure. Chairman Warren of the appropriations committee accepted the Robinson proposal which was then aproved without even a roll call.

The house leaders, after arranging for the death of the $24,000,000 item which was opposed by Secretary Mellon, embodied $2,700,000 in the second bill for enforcing prohibition.

After the senate action tonight a number of republican members expressed confidence that despite the now complicated situation, an agreement would be reached with house leaders between now and adjournment.

$900,000 SUIT BY HARTFORD NAT'L BANK AND TRUST CO.

HARTFORD, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Charged with dereliction of duty, the directors of the National Associated Investors, Inc., have been sued for $900,000 damages by the Hartford National Bank and Trust company, receiver of the corporation through the "blue sky" manipulations of its promoter, Roger W. Watkins, now a convict at the Wethersfield prison.

The long-threatened suit came to light today when Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Lord served attachments upon the properties of Elbridge M. Wightman, vice president and secretary of the North and Judd Manufacturing company, and Ernest M. Harwood, in New Britain.

Major Anson T. McCook is counsel for the receiver, but declined to permit the details of the suit to be published until it had become a public record.

The defendants, who are prominent in the state's political, business and social life, are charged with being derelict in their duty as directors, and as such are charged with responsibility for the losses sustained by the corporation.

The directors named in the suit are Clifford B. Wilson, former mayor of Bridgeport and former lieutenant-governor of the state, who was president of the corporation; former Lieut. Gov. J. Edwin Brainard of Branford; at present a member of the house of representatives; former Attorney-General Frank E. Healy, of Windsor Locks; law partner of William E. In sustaining the demurrer, Judge Booth wrote in his memorandum that the superior court would be unable to grant relief unless the Ecclesiastical society was made a party to the action.

LINDBERGH AND FIANCEE IN AN AIRPLANE MISHAP

Colonel Lindbergh's Right Shoulder Was Dislocated When the Plane Capsized at Valbuena Field, Near Mexico City—Miss Morrow Was Not Injured—A Physician Reset Lindbergh's Shoulder and Later He and Miss Morrow Inspected the Wrecked Monoplane—Accident Was Attributed to the Loss of a Landing Wheel.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 27—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh suffered a dislocation of his right shoulder today, when the plane in which he and his fiancee, Miss Anne Morrow, were returning from an air trip of several hours, capsized on landing at Valbuena field.

Colonel Lindbergh's first act was to clutch his right arm which appeared to pain him and smile reassuringly at Miss Morrow. The latter was somewhat agitated and the colonel seemed to be chiefly concerned with telling her that there was nothing to worry about.

"Are you hurt?" Miss Morrow asked and the colonel replied: "Don't bother about me. It is nothing. Are you all right?

Miss Morrow was dusty, dishevelled and trembling but tried to smile and replied: "Yes, I'm all right."

Colonel Lindbergh grinned boyishly and turned toward a group of reporters who had begun to aim broadside of questions at him. He said and repeated several times: "I have nothing to say." A few minutes later he changed his mind and modified his refusal enough to remark:

"This is nothing at all. It is not an accident, it is simpy a mishap."

Mexican army officers had received orders meanwhile to destroy all photographic records of the accident. They did this with thoroughness and zeal, exposing all films to the light and confiscating all still motion picture cameras.

Miss Morow seemed to become more and more nervous during the few minutes immediately after they had been dragged from the over turned plane. She appeared to have suffered a severe shock. Colonel Lindbergh glanced several times quickly in her direction and then, without saying anything, caught her by the arm and hurried her toward the hangar 500 yards away.

A Mexican army truck happened to pass going in the same direction. Colonel Lindbergh bundled Miss Morrow into the truck and they rode to the hangar near which an automobile from the American embassy was waiting. Without looking to the right or left they quickly climbed into the automobile and the colonel, despite his painful shoulder, took the wheel and dove to the embassy.

Dr. Sidney Unfelder, an American physician residing in Mexico City, was summoned to the embassy residence. Little could be learned regarding the results of his examination beyond the fact that he had replaced the dislocated shoulder and had advised the famous flier to remain in bed for the present.

The accident terminated a three hour flight. It was the first time the aviator and ambassador's daughter had been in the air together since the announcement of their engagement. Their destination and the circumstances surrounding the loss of a landing wheel remains secret closely guarded by both.

When they left the field this morning they flew in the direction of Cuernavaca, fifty miles south of Mexico City. They returned from the same direction but refused to say whether they had landed in Cuernavaca or not. Colonel Lindbergh offered no clue to the lost wheel beyond saying that it was dropped in some field near Mexico City.

LINDBERGH AND MISS MORROW INSPECT PLANE

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 27—(AP)—Colonel Lindbergh and Miss Anne Morrow inspected their wrecked monoplane at Valbuena field tonight less than one hour after the colonel had been under an anaesthetic for the purpose of resetting his dislocated shoulder.

An attempt had been made to administer the anaesthetic at the American embassy residence, but the colonel was taken later in the afternoon to Lady Cowdray sanitarium, a British institution. At 8:45 p. m. he was brought back to the embassy residence and appeared to be entirely well. Thirty-five minutes later he entered an automobile with Miss Morrow and started for the flying field.

GROUNDWORK FOR TARIFF REVISION COMPLETED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—(AP)—The groundwork for tariff revision—one of the two major problems to be considered in the early days of the Hoover administration— was completed tonight with conclusion by the house ways and means committee of seven weeks of continuous public hearings on the subject.

Republican members of the committee will meet in executive session Saturday to map out a program for subcommittee sessions which will be held behind closed doors. These sub-committees will make recommendations as to specific changes to be effected.

The week-end also will find the house agriculture committee gathering to consider plans for drafting a farm relief program, enactment of which, along with tariff revision, were two of the campaign promises of the incoming president.

Aproximately 1,100 witnesses were heard after the hearings opened January 7. Most of them urged higher tariffs.

INDISCRETION THE CHARGE AGAINST JUDGE WINSLOW

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—(AP)—A presentment from the federal grand jury investigating bankruptcy and charges against Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow of this district said today that there was no evidence "of personal corruption in judicial office but much evidence that serious indiscretions were committed."

"Some of these indiscretions," the presentment said, "tended to cause identification with the name of a particular lawyer practising in bankruptcy and receiving appointments as receiver."

Congressman Fiorello H. La Guardia, New York, who was instrumental in obtaining a pending congressional investigation into Judge Winslow's administration, has charged Judge Winslow with showing judicial favor to attorneys in bankruptcy cases.

SWOLLEN OHIO RIVERS STILL THREATEN FLOODS

CLEVELAND, Feb. 27—(AP)—The swollen Ohio and Tuscarawas rivers, laden with ice blocks, threatened parts of eastern Ohio with floods tonight and farmers in several lowland districts were prepared to move their families and stock.

The vicinity of East Liverpool and sections along the Tuscarawas in Stark and Tuscarawas counties were the most seriously menaced. The Ohio river at East Liverpool was steadily approaching flood stage and the Tuscarawas was prevented from inundating part of Dover only by levees strained to the point where there was some apprehension that they might give way.

Elsewhere over the state where rivers and streams climbed out of their banks following yesterday's heavy rains and sudden thaws, conditions were approaching normal.

SEARCH FOR ABDUCTOR OF FORMER SWEETHEART

CROMWELL, Conn., Feb. 27—(AP)—Search was being made today for Daniel Damico, aged about 19 of New York, who yesterday abducted Rose Crescimoni, 17, his former sweetheart, while she was standing in front of the Middletown Knicker company where she is employed.

MARSHAL FOCH CALLED HIS SPIRITUAL ADVISER

PARIS, Feb. 27—(AP)—Marshal Ferdinand Foch, desperately ill with a complication of lung, heart and kidney ailments, today decided to put his spiritual house in order. He called to his bedside Father L'Hande, a famous preacher of the Jesuits, the order to which the marshal's brother belongs.

The patient insisted, however, that the matter of extreme unction, the rite of the Roman Catholic church for the faithful who are in danger of death, be not discussed.

Father L'Hande would not reveal what the marshal had told him, that being a secret of his priestly office. But he added:

"We talked about Napoleon's campaign in Italy."

The visitor said the marshal had been worried because his brother had not responded to a call from the bedside, being unaware that the priest is bedridden by illness at Montpelier.

"The two are like twins," said Father L'Hande, "both are born aggressive leaders, but whereas one has won fame by battling with armies of men against other men, the other has waged the war of religion against iniquity.

"Yet religion is the strength of the marshal also and you may tell America through the Associated Press that I found him perfectly lucid. His brain is working at full speed although his body has collapsed."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—(AP)—The hum of activity enveloped both the white house and the executive offices today as preparations were pushed forward by the President and Mrs. Coolidge for their retirement from public life.

NO WEATHER FORECAST FOR INAUGURATION DAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—(AP)—If the thousands who expect to see Herbert Hoover inaugurated president of the United States wish to know what the weather is going to be they will have to consult the family almanac because the weather bureau refuses to forecast or broadcast on the subject.

When the day comes for the regular forecast for March 4, the weather bureau expects to make it, but not before. Officials said that the bureau over a period of ten years had been 59 per cent. correct but that the public would forget that record in case of a mistake on March 4. No such chance is going to be taken because March weather is proverbially fickle.

Jackson, which was scheduled to be held in this city Thursday, was announced today by Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson. Coroner Bill stated that the departure of an important witness who would be away for a few weeks, brought about the postponement. He did not divulge the name of this witness, but stated that upon the return of this person he would resume the inquest. Important witnesses who were expected to be summoned to the inquest included the three investigating officers, County Detective Edward J. Hickey of Hartford, Officer Arthur Hurley of this city and Rowe H. Wheeler of Monson, Mass. It is also expected that Mrs Juanita Jackson will be recalled.

Leaving from the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Marrotee of 175 Jackson street, the funeral of Mrs. Margaret Gilman was held this morning with a requiem high mass in St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Relatives from Fall River, Mass., Providence and Woonsocket, R. I., Putnam, Coventry and this city were in attendance.

W. W. Taylor, eastern agent for Herry Ford, stated today that he had made another "find" in this fertile territory of antiquated machinery. Elmer Fancher of this city and Michael Carusillo of Mansfield City, who have been dismantling antique machinery in Danielson and at the Kirby plant in Mansfield Hollow, are now engaged in dissembling two pieces of machinery in the basement of the Sadd block on Main street. These pieces were purchased from Truman R Sadd, owner of the block, who used the machines for generating electricity to light the entire building when he conducted a five and ten cent novelty store in the block some years ago. One machine is of an old horizontal design of unknown make, while the other is a motor generator manufactured in Fort Wayne, Ind. On behalf of the automobile magnate, Mr. Taylor secured another antique this week in the nature of a high wheel bicycle manufactured over 40 years ago and claimed to have been used by a champion rider on the Springfield, Mass., race track. The bicycle was secured from Morrill Bradbury of West Stafford.

Mrs. George H. Freeman of 25 High street is a patient in St. Joseph's hospital, recovering from an unsuccessful suicidal attempt at her home late Tuesday, when she drank a large potion of "Lysol," a poisonous antiseptic. The woman told hospital attaches that she was tired of suffering from marital difficulties and had decided to "end it all." In her attempt to take her life she consumed about half a bottle of the antiseptic but she responded quite readily to treatment at the hospital.

MISS LEONARD IN SCHOOL MRS. COOLIDGE DESCRIBES

The story of the Clarke school for the deaf in Northampton, Mass., as written by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge in the current number of The Pictorial Review is of unusual interest to Griswold residents, Miss Bessie N. Leonard, a native of Griswold, whose brother is Fred S. Leonard of this place, has been principal of the school for several years. Miss Leonard was "teacher-in-charge of the primary department in my day," as Mrs. Coolidge expresses it in the story. Mrs. Coolidge taught in this school for three years following her graduation from college. There are now about one hundred and sixty pupils, divided into the departments, primary, intermediate and grammar, each housed in its own building. In addition to these, there are Hubbard Hall which contains the chapel, library, administration offices and classrooms; the Gilmore gymnasium, the carpenter shop, a small isolation hospital and the cottage in which Miss Caroline Yale lives. Miss Yale was for thirty-six years the beloved principal of the school and is now principal emeritus living at the school and giving it the advantage of wise counsel and advice as well as directing the work of the training school. Among the pupils who have gone out from the school are architects, engineers, accountants, an aeroplane builder, dentists, salesmen of various sorts, tailors, wood carvers, writers, research workers, landscape gardeners, in fact scarcely any occupation is closed to the pupils if they have first learned to realize that they have the same natural ability as other children, and that with proper training and education they may become as able as their hearing brothers and sisters. It was at Clarke school that Alexander Graham Bell began to work on a device which he expected to be an aid to the deaf and which eventuated in the telephone. He was a lifelong friend of Clarke school and was its fifth president of its board of trustees. But by far the greatest legacy he left was his contribution to the system of oral speech for the deaf. He became particularly interested in the deaf through his marriage with Mabel Hubbard, daughter of Gardiner Greene Hubbard, founder of the National Geographic society in Washington, D. C. She had lost her hearing through scarlet fever, but her speech was preserved by the oral methods of Dr. Samuel Gudley Howe, carried out by her mother.

Miss Leonard's advance in this unusual type of educational work, has extended over a period of 25 years. During her first experience in the Wright-Hummason school in New York Miss Leonard was instructor to the now nationally known Helen Keller and taught her mathematics. After leaving New York, teacher and pupil had not met for more than a year. Miss Keller receives no hint by the means of sight or hearing. These two women met one day in a distant city, no sign was given or word spoken. The educational system was subject to its finest test. Miss Keller placed her finger tips on her one time instructor's lips, saying instantly as recognition was transmitted "Miss Leonard."

NEW MAIOFES BUILDING A GREAT IMPROVEMENT

Work is practically completed on the construction of the new Maiofes building, on Lebanon avenue. The carpenters are busy putting in counters and mouldings. The interior is being painted a pearl gray. Electricians commenced the installation of a wiring system in the building Monday. Townspeople and visitors comment on the fine appearance of the building, which fills the space left vacant for a number of years, following the destruction by fire, of the old Kinney building.

Miss Margaret M. O'Connell, of East Hartford, is making a few days' visit with her sisters, on North Main street.

Roadways Flooded

With the mercury reaching 50 degrees, Wednesday afternoon, snow in this vicinity gradually disappeared in veritable rivers which filled the culverts. In many sections of the village, pedestrians found it unusually difficult to get about. One of the badly flooded areas was in the vicinity of Fette's corner, on Norwich avenue, both sides of the road, from the Alpert store to the C. F. Brown residence, being covered with water and slush nearly a foot deep and ten feet wide. Similar conditions were found in parts of North Main street. The outstanding couse apparently was the great banks of snow plowed back to the shoulders of the road by the state highway department which, upon thawing, was more than the culverts could care for.

Employes of the S. N. E. T. Co., have been busy the past few days stringing a big cable on the poles along North Main street.

Mrs. Raymond O. Kendall was in Hartford, Wednesday.

PATRICIA MARIE LYNCH

Conn. Mother Proves Claim

Children don't ordinarily take to medicines but here's one that all of them love. Perhaps it shouldn't be called a medicine at all. It's more like a rich, concentrated food. It's pure, wholesome, sweet to the taste and sweet in your child's little stomach. It builds up and strengthens weak, puny, underweight children, makes them eat heartily, brings the roses back to their cheeks, makes them playful, energetic, full of life. And no bilious, headachy, constipated, feverish, fretful baby or child ever failed to respond to the gentle influence of California Fig Syrup on their little bowels. It starts lazy bowels quick, cleans them out thoroughly, tones and strengthens them so they continue to act normally of their own accord.

Millions of mothers know about California Fig Syrup from experience. A Connecticut mother, Mrs. Nicholas Lynch, 162 Wethersfield Ave., Hartford, says: "California Fig Syrup is certainly all that is claimed for it. I have proved that with my little Patricia. Her bowels seemed to be weak. I started her on Fig Syrup when she was a few months old and it regulated her quick. I have used it with her ever since for colds and every little set back and her wonderful condition tells better than words how it helps."

Don't be imposed on. See that the Fig Syrup you buy bears the name "California" so you'll get the genuine, famous for 50 years.

POLICE CHECKING ON ANOTHER STORE BREAK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 27—Chief John McFarland was engaged today in checking up on another break reported by Benjamin Goodman of the People's Dry Good store on Main street, just south of the railroad crossing. Mr. Goodman estimated his loss to Chief McFarland at between $35 and $40 taken from the cash register. Mr. Goodman's daughter, who had been in charge of the store Tuesday afternoon closed it at 6 o'clock and left to attend an evening session of the Trade school at Putnam. When Mr. Goodman returned from a road trip shortly after 9 o'clock, he reported to the police, he found some raincoats strewn about on the floor, but none missing, a pair of fur gloves moved from where they are usually kept to another place and a pair of used gloves that the intruder is assumed to have left. Entrance was gained by a rear door. The outer door at the rear opens into a vestibule at the end of which is the store door usually closed with a bolt and two heavy hooks. This store door was found unlocked, though the bolt and hooks were not damaged, and Miss Goodman declares she is positive she securely closed this door before leaving the store. The circumstances were puzzling to Chief McFarland today, as he sought for a solution of the affair.

This break is the third reported here within the month in addition to an attempted one. In one of the other breaks a key was used to open a door and at still another place, on Furnace street, a key that failed to open a door was left in the lock by the burglars.

DAYVILLE DOG HAD POSITIVE CASE OF RABIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 27—Dog Warden Charles E. Ayer has a report from Hartford setting forth that the head of one dog killed and sent in for examination showed positive evidence of rabies, while the head of another dog that was killed at Dayville should negative results on test. It is rather a strange fact to officials handling the dog quarantine in Killingly, Putnam and Brooklyn that the Dayville dog, which is known to have been attacked by the first rabid dog that came into Killingly a few weeks ago, was not suffering from rabies, though it became very ill while in quarantine the past week end and was believed to be suffering from rabies when killed. On the other hand a fine setter dog owned in Attawaugan, not known to have been bitten, became ill, was taken to Dr. F. T. Baldwin of Putnam for examination and was killed by him on suspicion that the animal was rabid, and for test proved this to be a fact.

The situation is such, it now appears, that there is no guarantee that other cases of rabies will not develop in the not distant future. The quarantine now in effect is being so well observed that the danger of more dogs being bitten is practically eliminated. Numbers of dogs that have been vaccinated against rabies and that are now doing a 21 days quarantine period will be at liberty in some instances late the coming week. Aside from these dogs, there will be very few roamers for from two to three months, it is now forecasted.

Mrs. Frank Kuznemko of South Canterbury went before a justice's court of the town of Canterbury this afternoon to answer to a charge that she has been manufacturing intoxicants illicitly with intent to sell. State Officers Donald J. Geddes and Elton Nolan visited the Kuznemko home late yesterday afternoon and seized a still in actual operation. They also took along with them when they went away a gallon of so-called moonshine found on the premises. The raid and arrest of the Kuznemko woman followed complaints that came in relative to alleged illegal activities going on there.

So-called deer bills that the present legislature will pass upon are of as much interest, it appears, to farmers in eastern Windham county as they are to the hunters who would like an open season of at least one week each fall for hunting these animals. The deer already are beginning their damaging raids on young fruit trees in nearby territory, and creating losses that are serious to the owners of the orchards. On the strength of numbers of reports, it would appear that the deer are increasing in number. Comparatively few of them have been killed legally during the past three or four years and not too great a number by hunters who have mistaken them for rabbits or pheasants. The deer are becoming a serious problem, and there are many advocates of an open season to thin them out.

Those named to represent Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., at the 38th Continental congress to be held in Washington, D. C., April 15-20 are the regent, Mrs. Lena C. Tripp, Mrs. Nellie A. Cundall, delegate, Miss M. J. Mendell, alternate to the regent, Mrs. Clara E. Keach, alternate to the delegate, and the following alternates: Mrs. Ida F. Blanchard, Miss Elizabeth R. Woodworth, Mrs. Jennie Hibbard, Mrs. Elizabeth C. Kingsley, Miss Louise Kingsley, Mrs. Mary A. Taintor, Mrs. Mary E. Kenyon and Mrs. Ethel G. Ingalls. The chapter's delegates to the 36th annual state convention to be held at Windsor, March 19-20, are, Mrs. Lena C. Tripp, Miss M. J. Mendell, vice-regent, Miss Marion D. Chollar and Mrs. Helen S. Dowe; alternates, Mrs. Mary A. Taintor, Mrs. Ella H. Back, Mrs. Clara E. Keach, Mrs. Alice R. Field.

State trunk lines that have alternately been covered with snow or ice throughout the closing month were practically free of snow by this afternoon. Rain aided the highway crews to clear away the snow that accumulated during Tuesday, and a foggy period early this morning was another aid.

TOWN TAX OF 25 MILLS PREDICTED FOR KILLINGLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 27—An estimate today was that the town tax likely will be 25 mills this year. There is hardly any chance that it will be less; it may be a mill more. Last year the rate was 24 1-2 mills. It develops that Killingly must pay a county tax of $9,490.62 in April, whereas last year the county tax was approximately $2900. On account of the very heavy expense for the poor this year, for one thing, and several other unusual expenses and circumstances reduction of the tax rate appears to be close to an impossibility. A town meeting voted an appropriation of $1,000 for the Hawkins street extension and $2500 for the School street drainage system. There is also a deficit created by the refunding to the amount of $1651.43 on property taxes of the 1927 list, a continued appropriation of $3600 for the account of the schools, and $2,000 for the recent audit of the town's accounts, all, with the county tax, amounting to $18,242.05, a very considerable amount of what might be termed special expenses.

It is pointed out that whatever appropriations are made must, by law, be covered by a tax rate that will raise the required money. The point is stressed that the town is raising new money for new business. Cash on hand, which the town has borrowed from banks or individuals, belongs to the fiscal story of other years. Old, past due, taxes in whatever amount cannot be figured, it is held, to help on the present budget, for to whatever extent borrowed money or uncollected taxes are counted upon to assist just so much will the final balance show the town's finances have slipped back, in spite of "keeping within the budget."

Another point made today was that only two months of business have been done on any fiscal year before the voters have had a chance to pass upon a tentative budget, for it must be kept in mind that an acceptance of the town report, as printed, at the October annual town meeting is in effect an agreement by the town to accept the recommendations of the selectmen and school committee as to expenses for the current year. Every town report carries a statement of money required for any given year, though this statement is tentative and near as what the expenses are to be can be judged.

The law requires all deficits in budgets to be recovered by adequate appropriation in the following year, so that if the error is made by counting old taxes or cash on hand that is owed to banks as clean and clear assets, there is the danger of going even farther behind, because enough money will not have been raised. Such a situation would have to be corrected later. "New Money For New Business" has been suggested as a slogan covering such a matter as is herein discussed.

EAT AND EXERCISE ENOUGH

Eat varied foods enjoyably sweetened, and exercise

"PEOPLE ought to get out into the air," said a famous health authority, when we asked him to give us the facts about exercise and diet.

"Recommend walking," he said, "and golf, tennis and fishing—anything that gives people enjoyable exercise in the open."

"Exercise that is a duty," he said, "becomes a hardship and is soon abandoned. Have an outdoor hobby that takes you outdoors each day, and gives you pleasure."

"We believe that enjoyment is good for us," he said. "Enjoyment tends to improve the whole physiology of the body."

Discussing the subject of diet, this health authority said, "Sugar is the vehicle of roughage, mineral salts and fruit vitamins. Sugar modifies the fruit acids and makes the fruits palatable. At least 90% of constipation is due to a lack of roughage. Eat a raw and a cooked vegetable, also a raw and a cooked or canned fruit each day. Rotate them with season, price and taste."

So we see that sugar and common sense are at the foundation of good eating. Eat healthful foods daily, sweetened for enjoyment. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

BODY OF F. G. HOWARTH BROUGHT HERE FOR BURIAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 29—The body of Frank G. Howarth, who died of gas asphyxiation at the Hartford yacht club some time during the late hours of Saturday evening was brought to this city for burial today.

The body of the former Putnam lawyer was met at the 1.43 o'clock train by a local undertaker and was escorted to St. Mary's cemetery. The Putnam Rotary club observed its fifth birthday today and in commemoration of the event, State's Attorney Howard Bradford, one of the charter members of the business men's organization delivered a very interesting and inspiring talk on the history of the Rotary club from the date of its birth until the fifth year of its life, upon which it is entering now. In his talk Mr. Bradford stated that the club was officially recognized in March 1929. Its membership consised of 24, eleven of whom are still within its fold. Mr. Bradford's statistics indicated that E. L. "Pat" Kelley holds the attendance record, and it is one of which he may be proud in possessing. In the five years of the club's existence Mr. Kelley has attended every meeting and every social function, sponsored by the Rotarians. He has also served diligently upon committees and has been an ardent worker in the interests of the organization.

Following the talk delivered by Mr Bradford the Rotarians went into executive session, presided over by Rev. James F. English, president. Visiting Rotarians attending luncheon today were Van Thompson, Henry Gilbert, William Sangster, all of Danielson.

The epidemic of influenza which for the past two months has swept Putnam seems to have fully abated with the arrival of the warm wave, as the state health report received by Health Officer Peter A. Gardner today cited but four cases existing within the limits of the town and city. Mr. Gardner said today that all cases reported by the state this week are those which were included in previous reports. Four narrowly escaped death early this afternoon when a Reo sedan, driven by Captain of Police Forrest Hall of Brighton, Mass., capsized on the Day Kimball hospital bend of hospital hill on the outskirts of the city. Capt. Hall and his family were returning to their home in Brighton from a visit to Florida. The hill was coated with snow and ice from yesterday's storm and was in a dangerous condition. As the car approached the bend it commenced to skid, striking a post at the side of the highway and turning on its side. The wife of the officer and his children were unharmed by the impact. A local garage crew with apparatus towed the car in where it was repaired. Capt. Hall and his family continued to their home by train from Putnam.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Bradford were in Worcester today.

A third dog, victim of rabies was taken into custody by the state and local officials of the department of domestic animals. The dog was taken to the veterinary hospital of Dr. F. T Baldwin, assistant deputy commissioner of domestic animals for observation, pending a report from Hartford as to what steps will be taken to dispose of it. Further details regarding the stricken dog will be announced Thursday. Dr. Baldwin said tonight.

The Masons are hopeful of scalping their tournament opponents the Elks Thursday evening to win a 7-7 tie, which resulted Monday evening at the close of the week fray held at the Masonic rooms. The Masons were successful in maintaining a one point lead throughout the evening and were believed to have captured the encounter when one table resulted in the tie leaving the score 7-7. The game to be played, to decide the winning lodge, will be held Thursday and will be played between M. H. Geissler and E. C. Morse for the Masons and George Lewis and Omer J. Milot. Milot and Lewis are favorites to win the contest since they have played in every tournament contest between the two lodges for the past three years and have received but one defeat.

"I light a Lucky and stay slender—"

Hope Hampton, Famous Star of the Opera, Stage and Screen.

"Luckies have helped me win the laurel crown of my musical career—singing in opera. Stage presence demands a slim, youthful figure. Rich foods cannot tempt me. I light a Lucky and stay slender. The toasted flavor of a Lucky soothes the craving for goodies. Then, too, a Lucky never irritates my throat. Even, after smoking many, my voice is still clear."

HOPE HAMPTON

The modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. Everyone is doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure. Lucky Strike, the finest tobaccos, skilfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for that craving for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This surely confirms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.

FACT FINDERS UPHELD.

Norwich has been waiting to hear the report of the fact finding committee for some time and, when it heard it, it was evidently so well impressed and so anxious to have something done in accordance with the recommendations for the correction of the conditions which the committee found that it quickly ratified the committee's work and adopted resolutions calling for action preliminary to changes.

That Norwich was interested was demonstrated by the citizens in attendance. That sentiment was in accord with the findings was indicated by the unanimity in the action. That the session was so short and so deliberate was surprising to not a few. That the citizens are emphatic in demanding changes was quietly but positively disclosed. Whether this was the result of the manner in which the expressed wishes of the citizens in city meeting have been upset remains to be seen, but the steps taken indicate a determination to pursue a course that at a time that will insure compliance with their wishes.

The fact finding committee gave sufficient time to the inquiry to offset any claim that it had reached a hasty judgment. As the result of its study it calls for the practice of economy in the conduct of the gas and electric department, a checkup of business operations in the various departments, the changing of methods of doing business in certain particulars, a closer check on the management by the commissioners, the discontinuance of the policy of paying high commissions and the introduction of strict business principles, all of which will make possible a substantial reduction in the price of gas and of electricity. When the committee calls attention to the fact that the loss sustained by the operation of the steam plant, which the commission admits is $15,000 but the committee believes is greater, it raises a point which has been urged for several years.

These facts have been brought to light as the result of a schedule of rates which was saddled upon the owners to the discomfort of a great many. Because of this the committee believes a new schedule should be put into operation and makes recommendation to that effect. The aim is to correct an injustice and at the same time correct conditions in the department which ought not to prevail.

Now that the city meeting which was ready to act has again displayed its sentiments, and called for an audit of the department accounts for the past five years, it is to be hoped that the stockholders of the plant will have a chance to get compliance with their wishes. Once they were given the facts they were not long in making up their minds, even though the outcome must have been different than the commissioners expected when they suggested the appointment of a fact finding committee.

THE TOLL HIGHWAY.

Action by members of the Connecticut chamber of commerce doesn't necessarily represent the sentiment of the members of the general assembly, and yet when members of the former body, business men of the state, hear the arguments pro and con relative to the proposition to construct a toll highway across the state to connect New York and Boston and unanimously declare their disapproval, it is quite apparent that there is not much chance of such a project getting the favorable consideration of the legislature.

Such a toll road is ahead of its day. Sentiment is being sounded to learn the reaction, but it becomes evident from the demands that are being made in order to construct such a road that no state will be willing to grant the rights sought under present day conditions. The right to take property by condemnation proceedings is one which is not being carelessly and freely handed out, especially when it would be likely to arouse much opposition on the part of landowners and at the same time would be creating competition with an established railroad system upon which much dependence is placed by a large part of southern New England.

There are places where there would be less objection to the idea of a toll road. For the quick handling of traffic it has its advantages and to a large extent would relieve the highway construction costs that are now imposed upon motor vehicle owners. For the special privileges there would be a charge. It would be a business proposition until such a time as a state might be ready to take it over, but only when such a plan can be carried out much the same as a rail line is acquired, and when there is a much greater demand for it can there be any hope for success. If the legislature feels any different about it than the state chamber of commerce we shall be surprised.

WHALEN'S METHODS.

What is going to be the reaction of Police Commissioner Whalen of New York to the protest that has been presented against his strong arm police measures in the metropolis?

Commissioner Whalen was put into office to effect a change. Instead of laxity and a failure to round up murderers it was his purpose to let it be known that law and order were to be respected, and the methods he adopted were supposed to take care of the situation. He was out to let the crooks know that they could expect no protection. The method he considered necessary was quite in contrast to what had prevailed. Evidently he believed that drastic action was called for. As the result of the manner in which his orders were carried out it is possible that they got much more literal treatment than he had intended. Possibly not. At any rate there are those who consider that there has been a disposition shown to trespass upon constitutional rights and this has been called to the commissioner's attention.

What the result of his study of the situation will be should be disclosed shortly. There is the possibility that he will find that the tendency has been to be more spectacular than anything else, that injustice has in some instances been done by such methods without really striking at those intended to be reached.

Reaching the crooks and the gangsters is the recognized need by the commissioner if New York is to be prevented from becoming crime ridden like some of the other large cities. Methods are often adopted to meet situations. If the commissioner can show justification for the methods which he has adopted he will be able to successfully meet the protests which have been presented to him. He has a situation before him with which the man on the inside ought to be quite familiar. Nevertheless the protests thus far indicate the chance that it is possible to overdo as well as underdo enforcement work. The troubles of a police commissioner are not all furnished by the crooks.

THE PRESIDENTIAL RETREAT.

From all indications the attempt that was made by President Coolidge to obtain approval and an appropriation for a retreat for the president within driving distance of Washington has failed for this session. He has nevertheless planted the seed. He has given expression to his own feelings which may well represent those of his successor and it is not improbable that another congress may take a different view of the matter. At least the plan and appropriation have not been voted down.

One senator expressed his disapproval of the idea. Another was disposed to criticize the character of the building on Mount Weather which it was intended to use. But in neither case was there the willingness to give the senate as a body a chance to vote upon the proposition.

The idea of a summer home for the president has repeatedly met with disfavor because of the difficulty in selecting a place that would be satisfactory to the various occupants of that office. What might suit one would be distasteful to another.

When it comes to a place where the president may go for the week end to escape the heat of Washington and to obtain a change for a night or a week end, President Coolidge, than whom there can be expected no president will stick closer to his work, has given good and sufficient reasons for the establishment of such a retreat. He spoke for himself with full knowledge that he would have no opportunity to benefit therefrom, and it is thus apparent that his advocacy was in behalf of his successor. Delay means that time will be lost in making available what is by no means unreasonable in the way of accommodations for a president, and what will eventually be furnished.

TIME SHARING STATIONS.

Perhaps the radio commission will welcome the decision of the court of appeals in the District of Columbia in upsetting its decision concerning the station WGY. On the other hand it is not improbable that an appeal will be taken to the United States supreme court.

The radio board has had no picnic. It has been faced with the impossible much of the time. It has cleared up troubles of one character to create those of another. When satisfying demandings in one section it has created dissatisfaction in another.

When it came to meeting the demands for broadcasting rights it was faced with the difficulty of satisfying more than was possible. It therefore divided time between stations and in doing so it reached the decision that WGY ought to share its time with another station. WGY is an old and important station. It serves a wide territory and is depended upon by many. It is engaged in much valuable experimental work in regard to radio and the order to share time with another encountered a protest.

In the appeal that was taken to the court the contention of the station is upheld. The decision of the commission is upset and unless the supreme court decides differently WGY will return to the list of full time stations.

This decision, if sustained, should furnish to the commission a basis for future determination of such questions and yet it has reason to anticipate plenty of appeals as the result of the success by WGY. If the commission finds that its method of splitting time will not get the support of the court the problem in reaching decisions may be to a degree simplified.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If numbers tell there was plenty of real interest in the report of the fact finding commission.

The man on the corner says: We hope no one presumes to advise Lindy about the dangers of one arm driving.

Report has it that Mr. Hoover's inaugural address will be brief. He knows the possibilities of Washington weather March 4.

If the idea of a cigarette tax in Connecticut is for the purpose of providing smoking rooms or smoking equipment for the cigarette users there might be no objection but a tax on such for general purposes would be most unpopular.

ONE JUMP AHEAD.

"Nothing but bills," grumbled Bob, squirming beneath the postman's morning contribution. "A nice way to begin a day; oversleep, get a late start to the office and then pump head first into all this 'Let us remind you' stuff."

"But, Bob, here's something that's not a bill," encouraged Dot, fishing among the mail and drawing out an elaborate gilt-edged envelope. "Looks interesting; addressed to both of us, too. Can you make out the postmark, dear?"

"New—No M—Me——"

"New Mexico!" Dot clapped her hands. "Maybe it's the oil stock. Oh, I'll bet they've struck a well. Open it, Bob, quick." A grunt from Bob slitting the envelope; then a groan.

"Look at this," he wailed, tossing Dot the contents.

"'Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Medbury announce——' Oh, dear——"

Disappointment and exvation filled her voice. "Another wedding invitation. That's worse than a bill. Why, it's absolutely abnormal this year. Everybody's been getting married or graduating. I declare, it's a nuisance. And the nerve of these people! We never even saw them. They're Aunt Prude's second cousins. I call it an outrage." Bob disappeared in the coat closet.

"That's right, a man can always put on his hat and coat and leave the woman to shoulder the load," Dot lamented. "And this is your affair entirely. The Medburys are nothing in my life. And, what's more, if this Helen that is getting married was the last or the only child it would be different, but she is the oldest, and there are seven more. Just figure for yourself what the next ten or twelve years will bring us from that direction aline if we recognize this invitation."

"Oh, heck," growled Bob, squirming into his coat. "Stick this invitation in the furnace and forget it. I'm fed up on such bunk, too. Good-by, Twinkles. If you're going to buy something but it for yourself."

Dot, stirring gravy that evening, saw her husband emerge from the garage door with a bundle under his arm. She guessed at random. "Sheep shears to trim the lawn. He's been threatening to buy some for ages. He's leaving them on the back porch. Hello, darling," she greeted as he opened the door.

Bob kissed her and disappeared through the dining room door.

Conversation at the table dragged. Three times they mentioned the beauty of the day, four times they remarked the excellency of the roast, five times they prospected on the morrow's weather.

"I did a crazy thing today," Dot said over her dessert.

"What was it, Twinkles?"

"You said to treat myself to something. I found a sport dress that was only $10 more than I had intended to pay for one. I bought it, and then I went walking down the street, thinking how generous you were, and I remembered the wedding invitation, and I was afraid maybe I'd acted spiteful, and I happened to look up and there in a shop window wa a set of lemonade spoons marked town to $8 and—and I went in and got them. Why, Bob, what's the matter? You look so queer." Bob gulped.

"Great guns! I went into a hardware store to buy sheep shears and I kept thinking about the Medbury kid being one gift shy of what she'd counted on, and just then I looked up, and there was a counter full of silver bread trays on display, and I up and bought one. I figured I'd better break the news gently to you so I left it on the back porch.

"No use looking so sick, Twinkles. It's done, and after all, we're a jump ahead. We'll send the lemonade spoons and put the bread plate by for the next Medbury event. What do you say?"—Exchange.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Depreciation may be claimed on all business property, which includes not only buildings and machinery of a permanent character but automobiles, farm tractors, mining and mill equipment, office furniture and books. A lawyer, doctor, or other professional man may not charge off as a current expense the cost of a library used wholly in his profession, this being a capital expenditure and the library a capital asset. But he may deduct an allowance for depreciation, based upon the useful life of the library.

A new provision included in the revenue act of 1928 is that in the case of property held by one person for life with the remainder to another person, the deduction for depreciation shall be computed as if the life tenant were the absolute owner of the property and shall be allowed to the life tenant. In the case of property held in trust, the allowable deduction shall be apportioned between the income beneficiaries and the trustee in accordance with the pertinent provisions of the instrument creating the trust, or, in the absence of such provisions, on the basis of the trust income allocable to each.

Scarlet Fever Increase Expected in Next Three Months—Rules for Prevention Given.

By Dr. O. O. Hammonds, Commissioner of Health, State of Oklahoma.

During the next three months scarlet fever always shows a large increase. It is a very treacherous and undesirable disease. Scarlitina and scarlet rash are the same thing, although the terms are used to describe a mild form. Severe and sometimes fatal complications arise, however, from even a mild case.

The first symptoms appear from three to seven days after exposure. They appear suddenly, with vomiting and sore throat. Within 12 to 24 hours a scarlet rash will show up, first on the chest, then on the neck and face, and finally over the entire body. It is a fine bright red rash, which disappears for an instant when pressed by the finger. The rash fades in from three to five days and then peels off in larger scales. The complications to guard against are involvement of the heart, kidneys or ears.

The most contagious stage is when the child first begins to peel, but the disease is contagious for at least four weeks, or until all discharges from the nose, throat or ears have disappeared. A strict quarantine must be maintained during this entire period. No one but the nurse and physician must enter the room.

Here are a few rules to prevent contagion: Avoid exposing the child to anyone who has a contagious disease. No one with a cold, sore throat or other symptoms of a contagious disease should be kept with a young child, or should prepare its food. Keep special handkerchiefs for each child, and never let him use anyone else's. Clean the child's finger nails daily, and always wash his hands before each meal.

The mild and water supply should be carefully guarded. Unless known to be absolutely pure, milk should be pasteurized and water boiled.

Through the Green Mountain State

Mr. Editor: This is the fourth of a series of articles relative to the beauty spots through the Berkshires and other sections of New England. In speaking about Adams, Mass., I told you it was named in honor of Samuel Adams, the father of the American Revolution, but it was formerly called East Hoosuck and was incorporated as a town in 1778. In this village or town is located the state hatchery for trout and every year there are hatched over 600,000 young trout that are used to stock the streams throughout the state. As a visitor you are welcome here at any time, and everything in connection with it is carefully explained even though you may not be a disciple of Izaak Walton. Also here is located the Berkshire cotton mills, one of the largest in New England, so I was told. But as I recall the Ponemah mills at Taftville they seem bigger to me.

But we start again for Bennington and go by trolley preferably. We see a fine bronze tablet that was erected to the memory of William Lloyd Garrison, the great writer and lecturer on the emancipation of the Negro. He, it appears, was a printer at one time on a small paper that was published at Bennington. The people, through their civic pride, erected this as a memorial. This stands nearly opposite to the Wallomsac Inn that I told you about in a previous letter and this is the oldest hotel in the state of Vermont, being somewhere around 155 years old. Close by is a beautiful old church which you can see by the cornerstone was erected in 1806. Near to this is the quaint old cemetery, and here is a monument that was erected to the memory of the Hessians who were slain at the battle of Bennington on Aug. 17, 1777. To the right of this is a memorial that was erected to the memory of those heroic Green Mountain boys who gave up their lives in the same battle. As I stood and viewed this I could not help but think of those brave men who gave up their lives and through this supreme sacrifice we today live and enjoy what they gave to us.

From here we move on and visit the hospital, the grounds and buildings given by one of the citizens of Bennington and were said to have cost over $500,000. They stand on a wonderful elevation and the location is ideal. From the nurses' quarters one can see across the valley for at least 50 miles. It was a beautiful, clear day and the stream that was seen in the distance looked like a piece of silver ribbon as it flowed along its course. Stretching away in the distance we could see the mountains and follow their outlines until they were lost on the distant horizon. To the right of the hospital grounds we could see the vast estate of F. C. Colgate and his great apple orchard that is said to contain between 25,000 and 30,000 trees and all in a bearing condition. A friend of mine, Mr. Kane, who lives here, told me that these trees are carefully sprayed and he gets from $2 to $3 a barrel more than other dealers, for all fruit is sorted and must be perfect. As we returned we passed the new Catholic church, a splendid building and across the way was the parish house surrounded with fine old trees, some of which are many years old.

I think the remark that was attributed to Thomas Bracket Read, of Maine, can be just as well applied to Vermont, when he said this state was noted for three things, among many others—good air, good water and lovely women.

Now we move toward the center of the city, rather tired, and we know this is another day well spent. We see the moon just rising beyond the mountains and flooding the valleys and hills with its wondrous light and here I recall Longfellow's poem, The Day is Done:

The day is done and the darkness
Falls from the wings of night,
As a feather is wafted downward,
From an eagle in its flight.
For like strains of marital music

CHILD TRAINING

Philip Calls the Roll

Minerva Hunter

Philip the youngest of five children, had not only his parents to adore and serve him, but brothers and sisters as well. Philip's ringlets held the sunlight; Philip's cheeks wore a rosy tint; Philip's eyes shone and Philip's piping voice brought homage. What was more, Philip was beginning to realize his kingship. In his precious baby way he ruled the other children with a firm, unyielding hand. Whatever he wanted he got. No matter who was using a toy, Philip usually merely mentioned his desire for it and it was his. Should the rightful owner hesitate, at least one of the other children remembered personal grievances against the offender and used little Philip as an opportunity to even matters. Expressions of disapproval became so vehement that the delinquent repented speedily and Philip profited. It was amusing, but led to no good end, so one day while Philip had his nap, the mother talked with the four older children.

"We love Philip, don't we?" she began.

Warm agreement in varied forms met this question.

"Who loves Carl Craig?" was the next question.

"Nobody could!" came the quick answer.

"Why?"

"He always wants his way," Henry said.

"He's selfish with his toys," David answered.

"He wants our toys, too," Mary added.

"O, Mother, why. Mother," Katie almost whispered in her surprise, "surely you do not think our Philip is at all like Carl Craig?"

The comparison startled the other children, still when they thought about it, the two had several traits in common.

"But, Mother, Philip is just a baby," Mary defended.

"And so sweet," David added.

"We do not mind giving up to him," Henry assured her.

"But Philip is growing older," Katie meditated aloud. "He must not grow up like Carl Craig!"

"Every one must love our Philip," Mary declared warmly.

Henry and David agreed.

"It is better for those who love him to correct him, than for those who do not care for him to try to get even with him," their mother reasoned. Then she and the four children laid a plan to help Philip overcome his unsocial habits.

When Philip waked up he was in good humor. For more than an hour he played in a most friendly manner, then he took a sudden notion that Henry's toy elephant was exactly what he wanted, though Henry was playing with it himself at the time.

"Give it to me," Philip demanded in his queer little voice that everyone loved.

Henry played on, though it was evident to the other children that he had lost his desire to play with the elephant.

"Henwy, Henwy, Henwy!" Philip wailed.

Henry weakened; only the thought of Carl Craig and the family's plan for Philip held him firmly to his course.

Seeing that Henry refused to give him the elephant, Philip turned to his older sister and chief ally. "Katie, Katie, Katie" he implored and added an energetic "Wow, wow!"

Katie read her book, seeming not to hear.

"Mawy, Mawy, Mawy! Wow, wow!" Philip yelled, turning to his other sister.

Mary went on dressing her doll without looking up.

David, David, David!" Philip screech in despair.

David walked to the window and looked out.

Philip had called the roll. No one was present to take his part. He felt he must do something to win approval. Picking up his fire engine, which he knew Henry liked, he offered it to him. When Henry accepted it and thanked him, Philip did not ask for the elephant nor touch it.

Suddenly there was a sound of glad voices. What a relief to have the first lesson over and Philip not hurt. Really he seemed helped. Bless him!

"Let's play tag," Katie suggested. This was Philip's favorite game.

"You be IT," four happy voices said to Philip.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27—It hardly seems four years since Charlie Dawes of Chicago and other points west touched off about the only fireworks of the Coolidge-Dawes inauguration. What Dawes said to the senate was very exciting. If you don't believe it, look up your four year old papers. For once the vice president came within shooting distance of totally eclipsing the president on inauguration day.

Here's the way the "lead" described what happened:

"Charles G. Dawes, assuming today the office of vice president of the United States, fractured so many senate precedents that he left that body gasping in astonishment.

"His inaugural address turned out to be an attack on the senate rules permitting a one-man filibuster. On top of that, Mr. Dawes brushed aside the old method of swearing in new senators in groups of four; abruptly recessed the senate for the inauguration of President Coolidge . . . and then left that body without a duly constituted presiding officer for the rest of the day to get itself adjourned until tomorrow as best it could."

Curtis Strictly Proper

And now comes Charlie Curtis of Kansas to relieve Dawes of the vice presidency. Will this senate veteran function a la Dawes or strictly in conformity with time honored custom? Decidedly, the new president of the senate is no precedent shatterer. It is a safe bet that his inaugural will walk the chalk line of strict propriety and be totally lacking in those high lights contributed by General Dawes to a usually drab performance.

Mr. Dawes was very earnest about it. He said it was his duty to call the attention of the senate to its "defective methods" and the senate's to correct 'em. He waved his finger and shook his fist at the senators as he did so. They seemed far from pleased. House members, however, paying their quadrennial call on the senate for inauguration purposes, rocked with glee at the plight of their senate colleagues. Even cabinet officer guests laughed at the specticle of the senate being hectored right out loud and in public and for once being unable to talk back.

Filibusters Continued

Nor did the senate change its rules. Four years later as he leaves office General Dawes will take with him poignant recollections of a whole series of filibusters of the one man and up variety. So that famous Dawes broadside at the rules seems four years later to have been about as futile as the Dawes presidential aspirations some senators darkly hinted at as having inspired his attack.

"LENT AND MY HOME"

Memory Verse for Thursday

"And shalt talk of them when thou sitteth in thy house." (Deuteronomy 6:). (Read: Deuteronomy 6:6 to 12).

MEDITATION: Here if anywhere is to be found the secret of the Jewish people and their remarkable history. Their religion was founded on the home. Its primary observances were domestic not public. It was the subject of conversation in the family circle. So it was made familiar to the children from their earliest years and they never could forget. By contrast how reticent we are on the subject of religion and especially in our homes! Silence may easily be interpreted as indifference, or at least as a confession that religion though necessary is not interesting. I must see to it that this thing which is of the greatest concern to me shall enter more into my talk at table and by the fireside.

PRAYER: Almighty Father, by whose compassionate care even the solitary are set in families, I pray that Thy presence may not be hid in the seclusion of my home. In the sacred intimacy of the family make me a faithful witness to the hope that is in me, and to the beauty of my most holy faith. Amen.

"Evil Eye" Frightens Greek Woman

ATHANS —(AP)— Among the less educated Greeks, and especially the woman, superstitions still survive.

There is a general prejudice against doing anything on a Tuesday, not (as in Italy) because that is the day of Mars, but because Constantinople, the capital of the Greek empire, was taken by the Turks on a Tuesday—May 29, 1453—a date deeply imprinted on the heart of every patriotic Greek.

As in Italy, there is still the ancient feeling about the "evil eye," which we find in the "Eclogues" of Virgil and in the "Idylls" of his Greek master, Theocritus. A Greek friend presented me with a blue bead to fasten to the collar of my little dog, as a preservative against the "evil eye," and cart-horses and cab-horses (where there still are such animals) carry strings of blue beads round their necks.

Indeed, now that automobiles have largely replaced horse traffic, this quaint mediaevil custom has been transferred to those very modern and, indeed, American vehicles—for most automobiles in Greece are from the United States and have enriched the Greek language with a new word, "fordaki," meaning "a little motor-car."

It is common to see these cars running about the Athenian streets with blue beads wound round some prominent part as, or in addition to, a mascot. I remember, before the advent of motors, how the Athenian carts bore painted on one side a hand pointing in the direction in which the carts were going, and this explained as a preventive of the "evil eye," just as the outstretched hand is still considered in Naples. I have seen, too, a peasant woman in Corfu beg a stranger, who have praised the beauty of her baby, to spit upon it and avert the envy of the "evil eye."

The introduction of the Gregorian calendar into Greece February 16 (O. S.), 1923, has met opposition from superstitious people, who attributed this or that disaster to the shifting of Saints' days 13 days ahead. Hence the attach upon the archbishop of Athens by a barber, who cut off part of the archepiscopal beard!

Similary, in England, the superstitions said that "there had been no apples since the style was changed" in 1751, and the London mob shouted to the ministry, "Give us back our 11 days."

Little Talks on Thrift

Save And Keep Up With The Times If You Would Win Success

At this period of the year much thought is given to the life and accomplishments of Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday anniversary is Feb. 12th. We believe it can be said in all safety that no man ever lived to whom thrift meant more than it did to this genius of the prairies.

When a young man, Lincoln ran a small general store in Salem, Ill. He failed in this business with debts of $1,100. Then he disposed of the store to two men, taking their notes. They sold out everything of value and slipped away. Lincoln, the failure, was left with his $1,100 debts, which in that day was a very large sum of money.

He went to work with thrift and industry. He skimped and saved. One of his creditors became obdurate, sued him and obtained a judgment. Lincoln's horse, saddle, bridle and surveying outfit were sold at auction.

Through the entire period of Lincoln's early manhood, from 25 to 40, he struggled with this debt. At last it was paid.

Lincoln could have taken an easier way like the two men who left him with the bag to hold. He could hav disappeared from Salem. But the world would have lost its greatest statesman and humanity one of its noblest benefactors had he done so.

Throughout his entire life up to the time he became president of the United States he stood face to face with failure. Without thrift and industry he would have gone down to defeat.

At this time of the year when the civilized world is giving special thought to this man of the prairies it is of value to note that the towering strength of his genius would have been lost to mankind had it not been for his persistence in the practices of thrift and industry.—By S. W. Straus, president American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

We Can't Have Everything

A few days ago Ruth, age four, was having her hair curled as she was preparing to "go visiting." Ruth enjoys the process, but, of course; it was rather monotonous for her mother, who had to do all the work.

"Ruth, I wish your hair had a few natural curls in it," said the mother beginning to lose patience.

"Well, mother, I guess I can't have everything," sighed Ruth. "You see, I have a pretty face.

In Bridal Attire

The home of a minister is the scene of many weddings due perhaps to the popularity of the minister and the beautiful service he performs, which impresses the couple being married with the solemnity of the vows being taken.

On a recent occasion the minister saw an amused look on the face of the bridesmaid, one of almost bordering on a titter. He did not know the cause of it until the service ended when, looking around, he saw his baby granddaughter arrayed in a hat and other requisites of the bridal party.

NEW YORK PASTOR CONCLUDES LENTEN SERVICES

Before a capacity congregation, Rev. Henry Howard, D. D., pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, New York city, delivered his final sermon Wednesday evening in a series of three at the United Congregational church, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian association and the churches of the city. The meeting opened at 7:30 o'clock with prayer offered by Rev. A. H. Abbott, pastor, and the Scripture reading from the 13th chapter of St. John was given by Rev. Dr. Howard.

Secretary Edwin H. Hill of the association, leader of the meeting, announced that the management was grateful to those who contributed their services for the delightful series of meetings and said that Wednesday evening's offering would be given to the Ministers' association for charitable and other purposes. Frederick T. Maples led in the singing and William S. Huber was at the organ.

Speaking on the subject, Service, Rev. Dr. Howard said, "I want you to feel that these services are to generate within you the wonderful spirit of sacrificial service." He spoke of the sacrificial service of the grape vines, as an illustration of his statement. "Everything serves from the atom right up to the sun. It is a wonderful system. That law of give and take runs through all the worlds. There isn't a star in the universe that isn't serving and contributing. Take your own solar system for instance. Which is the greatest member of the system? The sun. The sun is shedding its light to save lives. The church is a system."

In speaking of Mother's day, Rev. Dr. Howard said that, "one love that is more like the great love of God is mother love. I love to think of the love of God, just pouring out from the infinite heart. In the way of sacrificial service He left us an example to follow and tread in the long suffering way and grow like Him. We owe it to Him. We owe it to ourselves. We are under that three fold bound duty. We always respond to that call of duty."

The service came to a close at about 8:30 o'clock with the benediction pronounced by Rev. Dr. Howard.

CITY MEETING ACCEPTS FACT FINDING REPORT AND CALLS FOR AUDIT OF G. AND E. ACCOUNTS

Without comment, a resolution accepting the full report of the "fact finding" committee, and approving the recommendations in the report, was unanimously adopted at a special city meeting Wednesday evening at the town hall. The meeting, which had an attendance of at least 1,000 men and women, not only adopted the fact finding committee's report but also adopted resolutions instructing Corporation Counsel Edmund W. Perkins to investigate such portion or portions of the report that may indicate a possible misapplication of the funds of the gas and electric department by any of its officers or agents; employing Charles S. Eaton to make a complete audit of the G. and E. department accounts from Jan. 1, 1924, and make an inventory of supplies and merchandise now on hand and instructing the court of common council to adopt a by-law or ordinance confining the activities of the gas and electric department to the manufacture, sale and distribution of gas and electricity.

All of the resolutions were adopted almost as quickly as they were read by City Clerk Weston C. Pullen. There were no remarks, either for or against any of the resolutions introduced and adopted at the 45-minute session.

That there was widespread interest in the committee's report was evident from the fact that the crowd began to gather early. By 7:45 o'clock practically every seat in the hall was taken and a few minutes later there was standing room only.

Mayor Addresses Meeting

As the town clock struck 8, Mayor Lee Roy Robbins called the meeting to order. City Clerk Weston C. Pullen read the warning, after which Mayor Robbins briefly addressed the large gathering. Ladies and gentlemen, said the mayor, I want to reiterate and emphasize the purpose of this meeting, which is to hear, consider and act on the report of the fact finding committee. I am sure that after the November meeting all left the hall in good humor. There have been enough letters in the press, since, to keep you in good humor. I want to request speakers to refrain from dealing in personalities.

The mayor called attention to the lengthy printed report of the fact finding committee and a lengthy printed answer to the committee's report prepared by the board of gas and electrical commissioners, copies of both having been distributed at the door.

It may be, said the mayor, that you can digest both reports and act intelligently on them tonight. But I ask you to seriously consider adjourning this meeting to a future date so that you may have time to study the reports. Mayor Robbins warned town citizens present that the meeting was strictly a city meeting and asked them to refrain from voting on any question.

The Fast Finding Report

As the mayor concluded his remarks, Albert Boardman, chairman of the fact finding committee, presented the committee's report. The lengthy report was read to the meeting by City Clerk Pullen, after Mr. Boardman had called attention to a slight change in the printed report to conform with a similar change in the original report. The complete text of the report follows:

To the Citizens of the City of Norwich:

On November 7th a meeting of the citizens of the City of Norwich voted to have a committee confer with the Commissioners for the purpose of ascertaining what might be reasonable rates for gas and electricity to be supplied to users by the Gas & Electrical Department of the City of Norwich, beg to report as follows: The Committee has had numerous meetings, as a Committee, and jointly with the Gas & Electrical Commissioners, and in order to reach an intelligent conclusion decided it would be necessary to investigate the operations of the various departments of the Gas & Electrical plant, as well as its business methods in order to find out if some economy might be made that would permit a reduction of the Gas & Electrical rates.

After a thorough investigation of the Gas & Electrical plant, the business methods of the office, the various storehouses and stockrooms, of the merchandise and materials carried by the department, the Committee has reached the unanimous conclusion that a substantial saving can be made by:—The Practice of Economy, and a clear check up of business operations of the various departments.

It might prove interesting to submit the following figures for your consideration:

From 1921 to 1928

Gross revenue of the department increased approximately 63%.

Gross payrolls increased approximately 120%.

Petty cash expenditures from $2,000 to nearly $10,000 year ending 1928.

Petty cash expenditures $6,000 six months ending 1929.

The spreading about of the various storehouses, and numerous rooms for office work has increased rent expenses from a modest rent of $1,200 per year back in 1920 to more than $5,500 now. This has developed a condition of decentralization instead of concentration of the operations of the office and sales department. While some increases in these items may be justified owing to the increase in gross revenue, the proportion of increased expense seems unreasonable, if not extravagant.

The department has been, and is, furnishing power to the Bozrah Electrical Company, at less than .03 the K. W. H. without demand charge, although three meters are used to furnish these services. The amount paid by this company is far less than many individual users pay each year within city limits. It appears to your Committee that since there is a loss in transmission from the plant to where this current is measured outside the city limits that this cannot be a profitable proposition for the City of Norwich and should be discontinued unless a fairer basis is established. As the citizens of the City of Norwich own the plant they should be given as much consideration as any outsider, and should be given the preference, if preference is to be given.

The commissioners' lack of knowledge of the affairs of the department, and the absence of checking up of the management opens an avenue for many abuses, extravagances and lavish expenditures of money that would not occur if a close check-up of the departments in general were exercised. And great economy could be effected by this practice. An exact detail of the business of the department should be analyzed monthly by the Commissioners to assure greater efficiency and economy.

Your Committee has found that for several years outside work has been done on a non-competitive basis. This work consists of excavating, pipe laying, service connections, etc., and is done on a cost plus 10% basis. The amount involved has amounted to more than $75,000 for the past three years. Two men are working permanently for the department on this basis. It does seem to your Committee that this is very unbusinesslike. The work should be let on a competitive basis, and no single individual given any preference. No man should be employed permanently from another employer and paid percentage on his wages. All should be employed by the department and receive their wages from the department.

Appliance Dept. Shows Loss

The appliance department from the figures gathered, show a substantial yearly loss without a sufficient increase in load revenue, to warrant its continuance under the present method of administration. Figures show that the gross profit is approximately 27½% while salaries and commission expense for sales, amounts approximately to 25%, leaving only 2½% for cost of installation, rent, advertising, delivery, freight and other expenses; not taking into consideration bad debts and interest on money invested. It seems to your Committee that this method of doing business is contrary to good business practice.

This department should be segregated from the business of the other departments, so that it would be possible to determine its exact standing from the point of profit and loss.

The practice of paying ridiculously high commissions in the sales department should be entirely discontinued, and if this department is continued at all, it should be placed on a sound business basis.

No merchandise should be put out without an agreement and down payment on same, and an agreement as to how the balance is to be paid.

Commissions should be paid only on bonafide sales.

The Committee believes therefore, that if strict business principles be put in vogue in the various branches of the Gas & Electrical Department, with a close check up of its operations and expenditures, that a substantial reduction can be made to the users of the gas and electricity furnished by the department.

A visit to the plant on North Main Street reveals a condition that should be taken care of without delay. There are two fire hazards that should be removed as soon as possible. We believe that there is enough space there for the erection of a building that will protect thousands of dollars worth of transformers and other materials which are now in the open. This would also provide a suitable place for the outside workers to work on rainy days, instead of being paid by the department without being able to do anything under present conditions. In addition to the above, the following recommendations are suggested by the Committee:

That all expenditures be under the supervision of a finance Committee from the Commissioners, as well as the management. That no increases of salary to anyone connected with the department be made without the approval of the Board of Commissioners.

That all expense items be under their supervision.

That advertising in various ways in and out of the city be discontinued.

That all outside work be submitted for competitive bids.

That all cars, as far as possible, be owned and operated under the close supervision of the Gas & Electrical Department, and that a thorough check-up be made of mileage and expense, by someone besides the operators themselves.

Outside Collections

Your Committee feels that considerable saving can be made by discontinuing the practice of outside collections. We feel that all payments should be made to the office of the department. We cannot see the necessity of hiring any collectors for this work, and if delinquents do not pay, we have the alternative of discontinuing the service. All delinquents over three months should be referred to the commissioners for their decision. We believe that the Commissioners will be fair and just, and any delinquents who are deserving will not suffer. In comparison with other towns of the same size, the department's losses are altogether too high.

We believe that the books and accounts of the department should be audited in detail and every single item of costs and expenditures should be published in book form and distributed to the citizens annually. This to include the names, the duties, and the salaries or wages of each person employed by the department.

The practice in the past of employing so-called experts seems to your Committee unwarranted in many cases, and has cost the department many thousands of dollars which could have been saved. The high salaries paid for the management of the plant should take care of problems of this kind. Hardly a month passes without some expense item for expert advice.

According to recent reports 1927-1928, we purchased from the Uncas Power Company, now owned by the Eastern Connecticut Power Company, 4,005,000 K. W. We generated at the hydro plant in Greeneville 3,863,400 K. W. and at the steam plant in Norwich we generated 2,264,060 K. W. We have a contract with an outside power company to furnish us power which expires in 1933. We are purchasing this power for one cent K. W. Our own hydro plant at Greeneville is operating at an even lower production cost, while on the other hand, according to Manager Taggert's own statement, we are operating the steam plant at an annual loss of about $15,000, over what this power could be purchased for. In the opinion of this committee the figures are even more. The board of Gas & Electrical Commissioners admit this loss, and your Committee would strongly recommend that they take steps as soon as possible to remedy this condition.

In conclusion before suggesting rates, we say that notwithstanding the above conditions and policies of the department, your Committee is unanimous in the opinion that the plant has steadily improved and grown in value and is today one of the most valuable assets of the City.

RATES

There are a number of methods of charging or assessing rates. All have advantages and disadvantages.

The oldest and simplest is the flat rate, of so much per lamp; but as some use more and some less, it has generally been superceded by the meter rate, each person paying for the amount of current used at so much Kilowatt hour. The meter rate is doubtless the simplest and fairest way of charging. We can tell pretty close to what number of K. W. H. of energy is in demand and figure the cost per K. W. H., and it is energy for light or power that we are all using and expect to pay for.

Service charge is a first or base charge, assessed on cost of wiring and metering. This in your committee's opinion should be as low as possible.

A demand charge is somewhat similar to the flat rate charge, being based upon the total amount of current you would use if lamps or other demands for current were in constant use.

There are occasions when a service or demand charge would seem to be the only possible one to make, as when a service is connected for occasional or intermittent use.

Sometimes two or more of these methods are combined.

We are supplying energy or electric current to four different classes of customers: municipal, commercial, residential and power users.

Municipal and town lights can be charged on a flat rate of so much per lamp, as the number of lamps and hours used can be readily figured together with the total amount of energy furnished.

Then there is the commercial, principally store lighting. The stores were among the first to use electric lights, and are one of the greatest users and best payers today. There are but a few over a thousand commercial meters, but in 1927-8 they used 1,717,031 K. W. H. and paid $139,907.90. Some stores use between one and two thousand K. W. H. per month.

The use of electricity for lighting extended to the householder. This class of users has steadily increased, and it is here doubtless that we must expect the greatest increase in the future. There are over six thousand meters in residences today. In the year 1927-8 they used 1,783,146 K. W. H. and paid $180,894.27. The average per resident is less than 25 K. W. H. per month, very few residences use over one hundred K. W. H. per month.

Other things being equal, an increased demand makes possible a low rate. Only under exceptional circumstances should energy be sold at less than cost. It certainly should not be sold for less than cost to one of a class if thereby it becomes necessary to penalize others of the same class.

Our average cost to produce and deliver one Kilowatt of electric energy is between five and six cents, so that you cannot ordinarily sell it to one user for three cents without penalizing some other user.

Large Power Users

Our latest acquisition as customers are the large power users; mills and factories. In 1927-8 they used

BILL TO CONSOLIDATE ALMSHOUSES IN STATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, Feb. 27—The state department of public welfare is sponsoring an act to enable cities and towns to consolidate for almshouse care. At the present time, there are 47 municipally owned almshouses in the state, many of which are caring for a negligible number of inmates, making the cost of overhead expensive and allowing for no provision for the chronic sick. Other towns find the number of inmates too few to maintain an almhouse and are forced to board their dependents in private families with no supervision by the state.

A consolidated institution would provide ample care for chronic sick as well as an inexpensive home for the aged dependents. Some towns in other states have found that the sale of their almshouse property has frequently brought double the cost of their share of capital outlay in entering such a consolidation.

Many prominent officials of towns, hospitals, homes for the aged, and others have recently expressed their approval of such a plan. This act is senate bill 223 and will be heard before the judiciary committee on March 7 in the afternoon.

The proposed bill reads as follows:

Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives in general assembly convened:

Any town or city may unite with any other towns or cities within the county for the purpose of caring for almshouse inmates in a joint institution; or the county with the consent of the towns and cities therein may unite for the purpose of caring for almshouse inmates in a joint institution.

This institution shall be under the management of a board of management consisting of one representative from each town or city entering such agreement appointed by the town or city. Each representative shall have at least one vote for towns or cities under 5,000 population and an additional vote for each 5,000 population over 5,000. A representative of the state department of public welfare shall be a member of each such board of management and shall have one vote.

The board of management of each almshouse district or association shall have authority to acquire land for building and farm use, shall erect a suitable plant for the care of inmates from member towns, shall purchase necessary equipment for furnishing the building and such equipment as is deemed necessary for the operation of the institution including the farm building, stock, etc. Each institution shall provide a ward for the care of the chronic sick of each sex.

The board of management shall engage a superintendent and matron and such other medical, nursing and other personnel as it deems necessary, all employes shall be responsible to the board and serve at its pleasure.

The board of management at its first meeting shall appoint a chairman, a secretary, treasurer, and such other personnel as are necessary for the efficient operation of the board.

The cost of the capital outlay shall be born by the member towns of the association according to population. All inmates shall be cared for at per capita cost to each town.

The traveling expense of members of the board of management incurred while attending meetings of the board shall be born by the city or town which the member represents.

As soon as the buildings shall be furnished and ready for occupancy, the several almshouses heretofore maintained by the several towns and cities for which the district house is establishde, shall be abolished and the inmates moved to the district house.

The board having charge of each home shall have power to make such rules and regulations as are necessary and not inconsistent with laws of the state. All present laws applying to local almshouses shall apply to the district houses.

Whenever any city or town, not a member of the association, desires admission to the association, the board of management shall decide what the admission fee, as a fair share of the capital outlay, shall be. A majority vote of the board of management shall be sufficient to admit new members.

Any member city or town desiring to withdraw from the association may do so by giving written notice one year before the date of withdrawal. Any member city or town withdrawing from the association shall forfeit all moneys paid except by vote of the board of management.

The association may be dissolved at any time by a three-fourths vote of the board of management.

The board of management may accept any private chronic sick patients who are residents of member-towns if it so desires at a rate it may determine.

An annual report of the board of management of each home shall be made for the year ending September 30th to the state department of public welfare and to the selectmen and city councils of respective towns or cities. The report shall include a record of the number and age of the inmates, the condition of health of each of them, the town or city of his or her residence, the average number during the year, the amount received from each town or city composing the district, and the amount expended, and an itemized statement of all expenditures. It shall also show an inventory and appraisement of the property on hand at the commencement of the year, and shall give an account of receipts from the farm and disbursement on account of it and such matters as may be required.

All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

Don't Get Up Nights

"Danger Ahead" if You Do.

R. S. Fessenden, Shrewsbury, Mass., says: "I will tell or write my full experience with Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula). How the irritation was relieved, that caused getting up 6 or 7 times each night." It acts on bladder as epsom salts do on bowels. Drives out foreign deposits and lessens excessive acidity. This relieves the irritation that causes getting up nights. The tablets cost 50c each at all drug stores, Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio, or locally at Lee & Osgood's.

UNCAS-ON-THAMES IS MAINTAINING ITS REPUTATION

In the report of the state tuberculosis commission from July 1, 1926 to June 30, 1928, inclusive, submitted to Gov. John H. Trumbull and members of the general assembly, is the following regarding Uncas-on-Thames:

The largest of the state's sanatoria is Uncas-on-Thames, picturesquely situated on a hill two miles south of Norwich. To the east, one gets fascinating glimpses of the Thames river. To the west lies a wide enclosed valley where before the white man came to Connecticut, a famous battle between powerful Indian tribes was fought. Uncas-on-Thames has now 222 beds for patients. As a rule every bed is occupied and there are many sick men and women on the waiting list. In spite of the recent enlargement of this institution it has maintained well its deserved country-wide reputation for having skillful and devoted medical physicians, inspiring nurses and cheerful patients who in surprising numbers win their fight for life.

The following is a list of the nursing groups who have visited Uncas-on-Thames during the past two years as well as some medical groups.

Representatives of the public health nursing department and visiting nurse associations of Hartford, New Haven, Putnam, Norwich, Waterford and New London, the industrial nurses of Plainfield and the members of Wellesley faculty, Wellesley, Massachusetts.

SHARKEY WINS OVER STRIBLING IN CLOSE AND SLASHING BOUT

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

FLAMINGO PARK, Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 27—(AP)—The fistic hopes of W. L. (Young) Stribling, heavyweight pride of Georgia and the south, skyrocketed tonight in the balmy tropical air—flaring high, then falling, extinguished in a sputtering blaze by the ramming fists of the big Boston sailor, Jack Sharkey. In a slashing ten round fight that was thrillingly close from start to finish, Sharkey had his hand lifted aloft, the victor, on the decision of Referee Lou Magnolia of New York.

Thus leaping back along the comeback road that leads toward the crown cast aside by Gene Tunney last year, Sharkey outpointed and out boxed his southern rival in a fast finish before a crowd of close to 40,000 in the most picturesque and colorful sports spectacle the old south has ever witnessed.

Colorful Crowd

This crowd of wealth, fashion and fame, seated in a pine board arena fringed with palm trees and bordering the ocean, contributed to one of the biggest, yet most astonishing fight spectacles of all time. In this rich setting, approximately 35,000 of the spectators paid $400,000—a "gate" that meant more than the fulfillment of the fondest dreams of Tex Rickard whose death passed on the completion of the task to Jack Dempsey and his associates of the Madison Square Garden corporation.

With such a background, Stribling and Sharkey fought to decide which was to continue the upward march. Sharkey, a top heavy favorite, won but only after as close a call from defeat as he has ever had. Only the most desperate, determined sort of rally enabled the Boston sailor to overcome the big early advantage that had been piled up by Stribling.

Outweighed by ten pounds, his recovery from rib and arm ailments somewhat doubtful, Stribling put up a spectacularly courageous fight before a southern crowd, a throng of "home folks" who had come to see their fistic idol battle for high stakes.

Stribling Takes the Aggressive

For more than half the fight, Stribling was the aggressor and the more dangerous puncher. In one round, the fourth, the southerner gave the crowd probably its biggest thrill when he staggered his big foe with a crashing overhand right to the temple.

But the handicap in weight, the fact that he tired and that his left arm "Pa" Stribling later asserted, was almost useless from the effects of neutritis after the fourth round—all these took a heavy toll in the strength and fighting power of the lithe, trim and good looking Georgian. He fought a game but losing battle from the sixth round on, severely punished by a smashing body attack, blood flowing from his mouth and his ribs a splotch of fiery red.

It was so close, however, at the finish that the big crowd stood in tense silence for the few minutes it required for the referee, Lou Magnolia, to pry them from a last clinch and then lift Sharkey's hand aloft. As the sole arbiter, the decision was in the New Yorker's hands.

Crowd Is Stunned

The crowd at first seemed stunned. It's sympathies obviously were mostly with Stribling from the start, for reasons of sentiment, of youth and of sectional pride. Then there was a cheer for Sharkey but a bigger one for the gallant youth whose head was bloody and unbowed to the last. On the Associated Press score sheet, Sharkey took five of the ten rounds, while Stribling appeared to have an edge in four.

Sharkey Takes Five Rounds

One, the eighth, seemed even. Stribling won the first, fourth, fifth and sixth but his big round and big moment of opportunity was the fourth. Sharkey had the upper hand in the second, third, seventh, ninth and tenth.

Sharkey's body attack unquestionably gained him the verdict, despite a slow start, woeful wildness at times and slowness in seizing his chances to score. The sailor boxed coolly, at times too much so, it seemed, when greater aggressiveness might have produced a telling attack.

Stribling, always them ore daring, plunged into his rival from the start but he, too, was often wild and slow to follow up openings, except when he had hurt Sharkey in the fourth. The Georgian damaged his own chances by repeatedly hitting near the danger line. He was warned at least a half dozen times to keep his blows up and since the New York system of scoring prevailed these incidents were put in the Stribling debit column by the referee.

Magnolia who seemed to have no hesitancy lifting Sharkey's hand disclosed afterward that he scored the rounds as follows: six for Sharkey, three for Stribling and one even.

Much of the time, Magnolia was kept busier than the fighters, prying them apart as well as issuing warnings to Stribling, and Sharkey also was cautioned twice for hitting low.

Stribling, at the start, employed his habit of holding with the left and slashing with the right but he ceased doing so after a few sharp warnings.

No Knock-Downs

There were no knockdowns nor any near knockdowns. In the first few moments, Sharkey was dragged to one knee as Stribling hauled him around in a clinch. In the fourth, when Stribling's right administered probably the hardest as well as most spectacular blow of the fight, Sharkey's knees sagged for a moment. The sailor backed but recovered quickly and did not appear to be in distress when the round finished.

Stribling's repeated rushes in the early half of the fight seemed to baffle the slower moving Sharkey. The sailor dodged, wrestled and ducked as they slugged and mauled. He countered with stiff jolts to the mid-sections and ribs as Stribling, always playing the long shot, aimed his snake like right for the jaw.

As early as the third, blood flowed from Stribling's mouth but he rallied to carry an offensive through three straight rounds, the fourth to the sixth.

The Georgian cuffed and flailed, jabbed and danced, while Sharkey stayed back, relying on his counter blows and his defense. Sharkey too, seemed to sense that Stribling could not maintain his swift pace for long.

Tide Turns to Sharkey

The tide turned in Sharkey's favor near the end of the sixth, when he forced Stribling back with a two fisted drive, cutting the southerner's face and leaving red blotches in his rival's side with terrific body blows. Try as he would during the next four rounds, Stribling could not altogether block this body attack or regain command. Once, in the ninth, Stribling caught Sharkey's jaw with another long right but it glanced off without more than momentarily halting the sailor.

The fight, as it turned out, hinged on the last two rounds so far as the referee's decision was concerned and Sharkey carried both, though not by one sided margins.

As a matter of fact, many ringside critics expressed the belief Stribling was entitled to the verdict, or at least a draw. Few of them considered that Sharkey's victory was convincing enough to put his heavyweight stock on a much higher level than it was before.

However unsatisfactory the verdict may have been to partisans or critics, the fight itself undoubtedly furnished its thrille to the big crowd that came here from throughout the south and the rest of the country to see an unique a spectacle, as colorful as show as the prize ring has ever witnessed. It was a notable gathering from all walks of life that filled the low flung arena.

It was a picturesque background and it was financial, as well as social success far beyond the expectations of the experts as well as the promoters.

Sharkey, along with the victory, took $100,000 as his share of the purse while Stribling's percentage may net him close to $75,000. Of the "gate" of $400,000, it is estimated the Garden corporation will profit by about $150,000.

The Preliminaries

The crowd saw a knockout victory scored in the first preliminary by Charley Pond, of Fort Worth, Texas, known to the ring as the Texas Ranger. He floored a bigger rival, Chief Newberry, of Asbury Park, N. J., for the count of 10 in the third round of a four round match.

The Chief and the Ranger mauled each other in more or less primitive style. Not much science was involved, nor much punch until the Ranger cut loose with a right that sent the Chief down for the final count near the end of the third round. Pond weighed 177 1-2, the Chief 196 1-2.

Andy Callahan, fast sharpshooting little Irish southpaw, from Lawrence, Mass., stopped Joe McKenzie, Norfolk, Va., lightweight, in the third round of another four rounder. Callahan outpointed and outpunched his rival from the start, McKenzie taking three counts before Referee Frank McCracken, of Philadelphia, halted the match and awarded the verdict, on a technical knockout, to Callahan, after one minute and thirty seconds of the third round elapsed.

Another scuffle of heavyweights, going the four round limit, resulted in a decision for Rush Heise, Ohio boxer, billed as a representative of Columbus, Georgia, over Mike Firpo, stocky Tampa pugilist. Heise, the aggressor, had Firpo groggy several times and earned the verdict of Referee Leo Shear, of Chicago. Heise weighed 180, Firpou 188.

A battle royal furnished a novelty for many of the crowd. Twelve Negroes entered the ring for a fight to a finish, each contestant being eliminated when he went down. Four fell out in short order and four more followed in the next two rounds. "If you don't fight you don't get nothing," said the Negro referee, who was kept busy dodging the flying gloves to perform many of the accepted functions of the third man in the ring. Two were summarily ejected for loafing, leaving three. The trio was reduced to a duet when two jumped on the most formidable of the three and floored him. The two survivors were rugged and lasted until the final bell.

Pat McCarthy, roly-poly Boston heavyweight, gained the decision over Sully Montgomery, of Fort Worth, Texas, former Center college football star, in a slow, mauling bout that went the four round limit. McCarthy outboxed and outpunched Montgomery to gain the verdict of Referee Howard Livingston, of Miami. Montgomery's left eye was badly gashed. He weighed 212, but did not do as much with his poundage as McCarthy, who scaled only 178.

Sid Terris, 243 pound North Carolina heavyweight, bearing a lightweight name, scored a knockout victory over Paul Hoffman, Dutch heavyweight, with only 14 seconds to go in the fourth and last round. Hoffman, weighing only 186 pounds outboxed his big rival throughout the first three rounds but was knocked down and then floored again for a final count by a series of smashes, right hand blows to the head.

DIXON CHAIRMAN OF DAVIS CUP SELECTION

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27—(AP)—Fitz Eugene Dixon, appointed chairman of the Davis cup selection committee, is a banker and sportsman who has been prominent in tennis circles for a number of years, and has competed in many tournaments.

Along with Charles S. Garland, of New York, former chairman, and Dean Mathey, also of New York, Dixon will shortly tour the south where spring tournaments are being held. Dixon also will go to France and England with the American teams for the foreign championships next summer.

"We all feel gratified that Mr. Dixon has consented to take the position," said Joseph W. Wear, Philadelphia, chairman of the Davis cup general committee.

"There will be no formal trials in the south as were held last year. Instead the selection committee will visit the various cities where the southern tournaments are being held and get a line on the players from these."

DUNDEE AND MELLO TO FIGHT AGAIN MARCH 8TH

BOSTON, Feb. 27—(AP)—A return non-title bout between Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, and Al Mello, of Lowell, at the Boston Garden on March 8, was announced today.

Boston Garden officials said this bout would be conducted for charity and that a group of Boston society folk would take an active part in the arrangements. The proceeds, expected to exceed $60,000 with prices ranging from one to seven dollars for seats, will be turned over to the Boys' club of Boston and the Boston Children's Friendly society.

When Dundee and Mello met here several weeks ago, the Lowell welterweight won by a decisive margin.

DEMPSEY SAYS IT WAS A GREAT FIGHT

FLAMINGO Park, MIAI BEACH, Fla., bFe. 27.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, at his first bout when he was not a boxer or a mere specator, liked his view of a fightfight from a promoter's seat. "It was a great fight," he said immediately after the tenth round ended, then choosing an unpugilistic term he added, "lovely."

"I liked the fight, I liked the crowd and I liked the experience," said the former champion, "in fact I liked everything about it here tonight."

"I am very happy to have seen the dream of my old pal, Tex Rickard, come true in such a way as this.

"All I can say is I am delighted."

Falk Traded to Indians

CHICAGO, Feb. 27—(AP)—Bib Falk, heavy hitting White Sox outfielder, has been traded to the Cleveland Indians for Martin Autry, catcher, it was announced tonight.

A. U. REFUSES TO LIFT SUSPENSION ON NURMI

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—(AP)—After an interview with Paavo Nurmi, the registration committee of the Metropolitan association of the Amateur Athletic union tonight failed to life the indefinite suspension imposed upon the Finnish runner for his failure to appear for the national championships meet Saturday.

Nurmi was questioned at length and made statements to the committee which that body said would be investigated further and his status determined finally at a future meeting, no date for which was set. The decision of Saturday night is to remain in force in the meantime.

Nurmi said that when he was in Detroit where he raced on February 20, the temperature was below zero and the cold which had troubled him for nearly a month was aggravated. He said that returning on the train to New York; he made up his mind not to run in the national championships, but that his friends did not take him seriously and that he was compelled to send personally a letter announcing his withdrawal which he declared he posted in New York at 2 p. m., on the day before the meet.

This letter was not received at the New York office of the A. A. U., until Monday.

Learning of his suspension on Sunday morning when a room-mate read the New York papers to him, Nurmi sent a second letter to the A. A. U., expressing regret that his "sickness had come at the same time as the championship meet. Because of the courtesy you have shown me, I would have been to the best of my ability at your service."

Nurmi presented a doctor's certificate that he was ill and requested that his case be investigated by an impartial body.

Nurmi was only one of many athletes summoned before the committee on charges of failure to appear at various meets which they had entered. Ray Barbuti, former Syracuse star and only American winner of an Olympic flat race, and Phil Edwards, of New York university, were cleared of any violation of A. A. U. law. Barbuti announced his intention to retire immediately from the track and devote all his time to business.

The following athletes, all of the New York Athletic club, were suspended for failures to appear: Frank Cuhel, Joe Tierney, Frank Husey, Weems Baskin, Willie Goodwin, Ralph Luttman, Merrill Anderson and Edward Lovejoy.

Helen Mearty, diving star of the Women's Swimming association, of New York, was suspended from competition in amateur ranks "because of unauthorized exhibitions with professionals in the south after the violation had been brought to the attention of the athlete and her club."

The committee announced it would ask the board of managers to take disciplinary action against any club advertising the appearance of an athlete at a meet, unless his signed entry blank was in possession of the club.

ACADEMY AND MENTORS CLASH AT Y TONIGHT

With their coach making part of the opposition, the members of the Norwich Free Academy basketball team will strive earnestly to return to winning form tonight when the Wildcats meet the coaches in the main contest of a double bill arranged for the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The winners of Windham County Y team will meet Middlesex County champions in the preliminary contest which will start at 7:30.

The coaches will have practically the same team on the floor that battled with Y Seniors on even terms until the last few seconds of play, only to lose in a whirlwind finish put forth by the Yers. With O'Brien, coach of Stonington high, former Aggie star, and Coach Whitney of the Academy, former Middlebury player, the Mentors boast of a strong and competent pair of forwards. Conklin, coach of the local Emps, former captain of Killingly high team, will hold the pivot position down. In Demarest, former Springfield star, coach of Seniors and Davis, coach of the C. F. C. team, are two of the best defensive players in this section of the state. Ellison, coach of the Baltic Ind., former all-state high school player in 1922, will top the roster of teachers' resources.

Although the Wildcats have not had an impressive season the boys have had stiff opposition and in spite of the fact they have not been beaten until the final whistle has blown. Therefore because the coaches have not played together before and are somewhat out of condition, a hard, fast game with plenty of thrills is expected

The dust cloth has been used to carry away the dust from the bleachers which is usually done by the patrons of the contests. The basketball sport followers so far this season have not exposed their interest in the game But tonight a large crowd is expected to fill the large gym at the Y.

This is the last game before the city title game Saturday.

TWO RECORDS SMASHED AT LEGION TRACK MEET

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—(AP)—Eino Purje, young Finnish track star who substituted for his ineligible countryman, Paavo Nurmi, suffered his first defeat in America in a one and one-half mile handicap race at the New York County American Legion track meet at the 102nd Engineers armory tonight. Conceding handicaps up to 200 yards to a field of 35, Purje finished third behind F. C. Bayley of the New York A. C., former Dickinson college runner, and Philip Schaciette of Manhattan college.

Purje's unexpected defeat climaxed a sensational meet in which two records were broken.

New York university's sprint relay team broke a 17-year-old record by winning the half mile invitation relay in one minute, 34 2-5 seconds, a full second faster than the mark of 1:35 2-5 made by the old Xavier A. A. in 1912. Running for New York university were Sol Furth, Dave Myers, Bernie Robbins and Irving Gold. The Newark A. C. with Jimmy Pappas, Walter Reich, John Talbot and Oliver Proudlock handling the baton, was second, six yards behind New York university. The New York Stock Exchange was third.

PLAINFIELD PROS TAKE ANOTHER CLOSE GAME FROM COLORED GIANTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PLAINFIELD, Feb. 27.—For the second time this season the Plainfield Pros topped the Philadelphia Colored Giants by a scant margin, the score being 36 to 33, at the Community house here tonight. Although they have beaten the Giants in two games the Plainfield advantage is but five points. The game tonight was won by two points, 29 to 27.

At no time during the game was either team in a commanding position, and time after time the score was deadlocked. Plainfield played brilliant basketball in the first half which ended with the locals on the long end of a 21 to 13 count. Opening the second half the Giants promptly evened the count and the score see-sawed up to the closing minutes of play. With the score tied and but a few minutes to go it looked like an overtime game. However, it remained for Dissinger to pull his club through with the victory. After the Giants had scored on a foul putting them in front by a single point Dissinger dropped in a long shot from midfloor and then promptly shot two from the foul line to clinch the game. Brusso shared the spotlight with Dissinger with 14 points. Cooper was high scorer for the visitors.

In the preliminary game the Buddies won a tight contest from the Willimantic team, 18 to 13. The summary:

SHARKEY PRAISES STRIBLING AS A WORTHY OPPONENT

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Where once there was nothing but contempt and score tonight there was a feeling of deep and mutual respect in the camps of Jack Sharkey, and Young Stribling.

"Anybody that walks into that fellow will get killed," Sharkey announced in his dressing room when the skirmish was over. "Stribling is the kind of a fighter who can murder you with a right hand punch if you come into him. He carries a left hand so low its always deceptive, his style is confusing, and when you go in there that left is in your face and the right bangs you on the jaw."

Sharkey was amazed at Stribling's ability to take punishment and was considerably put out at the gloves worn in the contest. "They're only four ounces in weight instead of six," he said. As he extended left and right hands that were split along the knuckles. "The mittens were soliight the leather broke and I was hitting him harder than I ever hit anyone before in my life—practically with my bare hands. That boy can take it.

"Stribling didn't hurt me at any time in the fight. I was riding away from that right hand punch in the fourth round that knocked me off balance. He's strong, though, and fast. He's a fit opponent for any man."

Johnny Buckley, manager of the Boston belter, declared that he was now ready to claim for Sharkey the heavyweight title Gene Tunney left vacant. At the same time Buckley offered a sweeping challenge to Jack Dempsey to quit his promotorial ventures and settle the question of supremacy once more in the ring. Buckley believes Sharkey is now ready to reverse the knockout verdict the old Manassa mauler scored two years ago

While "Ma" Stribling, mother of the Macon youth and one of his trainers argued vehemently that her boy had ben robbed of the decision "Pa" Stribling was more easily satisfied. He believes that the "boy" at least has proved himself a heavyweight of major ability.

Stribling alone showed marks of the struggle. A black and blue lump formed under his left eye in the dressing room and his right was discolored. His lips were cut from Sharkey's left jabs.

"All I want is another chance at that fellow," he said. "He's a good fighter, but he didn't hurt me any. Next time he won't get away from my right hand. I'll be in better shape then. That bad rib had my left arm dead after two rounds."

Sharkey will leave for Boston tomorrow at 9 a. m.

Miss Hicks Wins Match

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Feb. 27—(AP)—Miss Helen Hicks, 18-year-old New York golfing sensation, started her drive toward her fourth championship this season by defeating Mrs. C. L. Ronalds, Canadian star, 6 and 5 in the first round match today of the South Atlantic women's championship.

THE FIGHT ROUND BY ROUND

Round One

Stribling landed the first rap, a light left to the head as they danced carefully about the center of the ring watching for openings. Sharkey missed several left jabs in close quarters where he ripped a solid right to Stribling's ribs before the southerner tied him up. There was little action as the tall grey hound of the south danced with the New Englander and they measured blows. Stribling grinned as Sharkey's right bounced off his chin and in an exchange at close quarters. In another clinch Stribling smashed his right hand four times on the side of Jack's head and Sharkey slipped to the floor but came up without a count. They were clinching with Stribling pounding on Jack's head with his right hand at the bell.

Round Two

Sharkey bounced from his corner and flew to close quarters into a storm of Stribling's overhand rights. The tall lanky southerner handled Sharkey like a small boy despite the Bostonian's heft and bulk as they tumbled into another corner. There was a puzzled look about Sharkey's eyes as Stribling roughed him in a clinch, smashed a full right on his chin and then laughed when the sailor's left hook crashed his own chin. Sharkey kept in the open but Stribling chose to rush Sharkey from the ring. The battle grew rough and ready, as both slugged with little respect for the rules. The crowd was hissing at the bell, apparently booing Stribling's head-down rush.

Round Three

Sharkey danced after Stribling as the southerner stepped around him menacingly. The burly Bostonian forced Stribling to lead but the best the southerner could do was a long tap to the ribs. Sharkey began to solve Stribling's style as he stepped in with a whipping right uppercut that smacked loudly on the Macon boy's body. A full swing left hook caught Stribling in the pit of the stomach and cut down his speed. Another cutting left hook by Sharkey bruised his foe. Stribling's lip was cut and the southerner was spitting blood at the bell.

Round Four

Sharkey was full of confidence now and began to weave and feint, shooting lefts to Stribling's head. As they roughed about the ring, Jack pulled his lighter foe to close quarters and buried both fists into the Georgian's body. Stribling rushed Sharkey and nearly threw him through the ropes. Referee Lou Magnolia warned Stribling for his rough work and ordered him to keep his punches up. The southerner caught Sharkey with a smashing right to the chin that nearly floored the sailor. The big gob, half dazed, bounced back into a right that buried under his heart. Sharkey danced away fighting for time, and was back to normal when the bell topped Stribling's next rush.

Round Five

Sharkey recovered quickly in his corner from the right that dropped on his chin like a lightning dart. He tore after Stribling with a rain of left jabs and slugged rights and lefts to the body until the referee warned Sharkey as the left hook in close was near the danger line. They fought closely and the referee was kept busy calling them apart when they were not dancing about the ring, poking left jabs at each other. Sharkey blinked as the Georgian lifted a cackling left hook to his chin, Stribling fought in deceptive fashion, leaping in suddenly with straight left jabs that kept the sailor blinking. Another bruising exchange at close quarters brought more blood from Stribling's month but he was lashing back furiously with both hands at the bell.

Round Six

Jack bounced out and missed half a dozen shots at Stribling's weaving body. As he missed another long lash the Georgian lifted a left to Jack's chin. Stribling's speed and strength in his lean arms bothered Sharkey but he danced close and drew blood from the southerner's nose with short lefts. Again they were warned as Sharkey bowed into Stribling's body with punches that sometimes shaded the belt line. Stribling bounced his left into Jack's face but ran into a two-fisted storm as the furious sailor retaliated with a charge that drove Stribling around the ring. The bell ended the rally.

Round Seven

The fight was anything but sensational as the boxers measured each other carefully, and grappled at close quarters. Stribling threw another long right into Sharkey's chin but drew the referee's censure again from a left hook that seemed to have landed fairly on Sharkey's body They opened up for a moment with a brisk exchange, but Stribling had Sharkey missing constantly and he blocked many of the Boston boy's best blows, as a sigh of boos began to drift down to the ring from the five dollar seats. Stribling bounced his right again off Sharkey's chin but took a bad bruising as the heavier powerful sailor cuffed him viciously with both hands in return. Despite the brief exchange the boos were growing louder when the gong rang.

Round Eight

The bouncing babies went back to left jabbing at long range despite the catcalls. Both seemed to have tremendous professional respect for each other, and any blows that might have caused damage were carefully blocked or parried. There was a brief flurry along the ropes, but Sharkey missed a half dozen lefts. As they broke into the open again Jack tried to pummel the Georgian's body but Stribling bounced away. Another warning from Magnolia, and very impressively Magnolia tore them apart and waved for Stribling to stay above the belt. There was less and less action as the round dragged out.

Round Nine

Sharkey tried hard to get in close and when he stung Stribling with a solid right to the body Stribling fought back with a volley that pitched Sharkey again into the ropes. They wrestled and heaved around the ring in a light embrace but as they broke into the clear again Stribling smashed a beautiful left hook and sent a right to Sharkey's chin. Jack broke away but Stribling chased him and nearly put him on the floor with another left to the head. Sharkey fought back with a barrage of punches but never touched the elusive southerner. As they came to close quarters Stribling tried a left hook in the northerner's body and had him slowed, and back-peddalling when the bell sounded.

Round Ten

There were more warnings for the fighters from the referee before the gong opened the last round. They came out jabbing carefully again, the sailor peering stolidly from his lowered eyes while Stribling bounced on his toes, and evaded every punch Sharkey threw at him. Jack finally caught the southerner and pinned him to the ropes with a left to the body and right to the head which smeared Stribling's face again with blood. The Georgian fought right back, nailing Sharkey with two cutting left hooks to the pit of the stomach. Again they boxed until Sharkey loosed a long overhand right that bounced from Stribling's chin. That called for more booing at close quarters and they were slugging on the ropes in tight embrace when the final gong ended the rather featureless quarrel.

DANIELSON CLASH WITH MARLBORO BEARS FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 27—Real class is the promise for the basketball fans that come to the town hall here Friday night to watch the Danielson Towners take on the Marlboro Bears. The Bears are a highly touted team. They rate alongside the flashiest of the teams that have shown here this season, with the possible exception of the Philadelphia Colored Giants. They are the kind of a team that brings the customers packing in and keeps them in a thrill of excitement from the first whistle to the last. It so happens that the Bears are almost identical with a team that has represented Plainfield on the court in numbers of games. Their lineup includes such stars as Brusso, Casper, Whitey Bernot, Tisdell and Riopel. Danielson anticipates a whirlwind struggle is ahead of them if they are to win over the Bears. A capacity house is forecasted for this game, which promises to be one of the very best of the late-season contests.

Eleanor Holm, fifteen year old marvel from New York, easily retained her senior championship in the 300-yard medley.

She swam the distance in 4:25 2-5, a second slower than her own world's record, but she was 30 feet ahead of her nearest rival, Lisa Lindstrom, a teammate, at the finish Joan McSheehy, Whitinsville, Mass., was third.

Tonight's events gave the New York Women's Swimming association a flying start toward the team championship it has held since team competition was inaugurated years ago. The New York team ran up a total of 13 points in the events.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 27—(AP)—The export concensus, taken among ringside criticis after tonight's fight, showed a big majority in agreement with the decision in Jack Sharkey's favor. The ratio was about 12 to 1.

The average of opinions on rounds also agreed substantially with the verdict of Referee Lou Magnolia in scoring six for Sharkey, three for Stribling and one even. Opinion ranged, however, from score sheets showing eight rounds to two on Sharkey, to the scattering few who gave Stribling an edge of one or two rounds.

DUNDEE MUST DEFEND TITLE OR LOSE IT

CHICAGO, Feb. 27—(AP)—Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, world's welterweight champion, today was ordered to sign for the defense of his title by March 31, or vacate his throne. This was the ruling of the National Boxing association through its president, Paul Prehn.

Prehn said unless Dundee obeyed the order, the winner of the Jackie Fields-Young Jack Thompson bout at the Chicago Coliseum March 22, would be recognized as the welterweight titleholder by the N. B. A.

Thompson holds a two round knockout victory over Dundee, but was deprived of the title as he was forced to weigh in over the welterweight limit of 147 pounds.

DARTMOUTH RALLIES TO BEAT OUT CORNELL

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 27 (AP)—Making a fine rally in the last ten minutes of play, Dartmouth's basketball team remained in the running for the eastern collegiate championship by defeating Cornell tonight by a 33 to 28 score.

The victory gave the Green six wins and three losses so far this season and a mathematical chance of tying Pennsylvania for the title. Cornell dropped further back into fifth place with five defeats and only two victories.

Fine shooting by Heine and Spaeth gave Dartmouth the game after Cornell had taken an early lead and held it most of the way. Captain Layton and Hall played a fine game at the start to put Cornell ahead.

BOSTON, Feb. 27— (AP) —Tom Heeney, New Zealand heavyweight, arrived here today to finish his training for his bout with Jimmy Maloney, of Boston, at the Boston Garden Friday night. SUMMARY OF DAY IN THE LEGISLATURE

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, Feb. 27—The hopes of the hunters were dashed today when the closed period on quail was extended for another two years. They had hoped that in view of the fact that they had voluntarily requested a closed season on grouse for a year, that they might have a chance at the quail which has been protected for several years.

The time within which the Windham Memorial hospital, incorporated by an act approved April 19, 1927, may organize and may certify such organization was extended until February 1, 1931.

The appropriations committee was holding hearings on maintenance for the Mystic Oral school and Fort Griswold tract.

The committee on federal relations had a bill before them requesting the transfer of the United States steamship "Hartford," from Charleston, South Carolina, to New London, Connecticut.

The finance committee were considering several bills concerning bonded indebtedness of municipalities and the issuance of bonds.

The fish and game committee had before them bills that would permit the taking of bird and coon dogs out for training during September and October. The bills forbid the use of firearms during this period of training.

The hearing before the committee was so large that it was necessary to adjourn to the hall of the house. An act that would place a closed season on foxes met with stiff opposition.

HOUSE

The house was called to order at 11:16 by the speaker, Samuel A. Eddy. Prayer was offered by the chaplain.

On bills rejected in the senate concurrent action was taken by the house. They included: S. B. 63, an act that would abolish the city court of Hartford; H. B. 461, an act that would establish a new court in the city of Hartford, combining the duties of the police court and the city court of Hartford; H. B. 470, an act that would abolish the police court of the city of Hartford.

H. B.s 454, 455 and 456 on report of the committee on appropriations were rejected as the items asked for are included in the appropriations for the Mansfield Training school. On motion of Mr. Clark, chairman, a bill passed by the senate was passed appropriating $2,250,000 for the building and furnishing of a state office building on Capitol Ave., Buckingham and Washington streets, in the city of Hartford. An additional appropriation of $248,500 for the purchase of additional land for this purpose.

S. B. 6, an act providing a pension of $50 for twenty-four months, to Josephine Bill, widow of Ezra G. Bill, was passed in concurrence with the senate.

H. B. 645, an act providing for minimum speed law of 35 miles per hour on open country roads was rejected on unfavorable report of committee on motor vehicles.

HOUSE

House bills 143, 144 and 154 which had previously been favorably reported and were on the calendar starred for action, were recommitted to the committee on fish and game. Speaker Eddy, at the close of the session as a personal privilege, previously remarked, "That anyone who attended the governor's reception yesterday, who had an umbrella that did not belong to him, might return it to the speaker's desk and no questions would be asked."

Matters on the calendar ready for action were passed. They included:

H. B. No. 125. An act amending the charter of the Hartford Orphan asylum.

H. B. No. 294. An act amending the charter of the Boys' club of Bridgeport.

H. B. No. 378. An act extending the time for the organization of the Windham Memorial hospital.

Substitute for H. B. No. 809. An act extending the time within which Stanislawa Trzaska may file a claim against the estate of Andrew Trzaska.

Substitute for H. B. No. 413. An act providing for the appointment of a woman probation officer by the borough court of Greenwich.

H. B. No. 545. An act concerning close season for quail.

Substitute for H. B. No. 597. An act amending the charter of the borough court of Greenwich.

H. B. No. 274. An act concerning a compilation of the laws relating to education.

At 11:58 the house adjourned till Thursday at 11:15 a. m.

SENATE

The senate was called to order at 11 a. m. by Lieut.-Gov. Ernest E. Rogers. Prayer was offered by Chaplain Ayer. Judge Rollin U. Tyler, of East Haddam, and Dr. William L. Higgins, secretary of state, were guests of the senate and sat on the rostrum.

The state senate today approved two appropriations paving the way for the purchase of the site and the construction of the new state office building at Washington street and Capitol avenue. On favorable report of the appropriations committee, under suspension of the rules the senate adopted the bill appropriating $248,500 for purchase of land on Capitol avenue, Washington and Buckingham streets adjacent to present state property. Similar action was taken on the bill appropriating $2,250,000 for the building itself. Senator Ernest W. Christ, chairman of the committee, moved both measures be transmitted to the house at once and this action was taken.

The senate rejected two motor vehicle measures on unfavorable report of that committee. The first, senate bill No. 235, introduced by Senator Hart, of Bridgeport, provided for the installation of a uniform system of traffic and signs by the motor vehicle department on the highways of the state. The other bill, senate bill No. 475 introduced by Senator Goldstein, of Bridgeport, provided for the licensing of dealers in used motor vehicles, trailers and semi-trailers with penalties.

The bill introduced by Representative John A. Markham, giving insurance companies the right to reduce the par value of their capital stock to no less than $10 a share without further recourse to the legislature, was rejected in the senate. It authorized such a blanket reduction if approved by a vote of at least two-thirds of the stock represented at a meeting called for the purpose.

Senator Milne in reporting unfavorably on the bill said:

"The par value or face value of stocks of insurance companies of this state has always been based on individual charter privileges granted by the general assembly. The proposed bill is a decided innovation, substituting a new plan of control of these values by general law rather than by special legislative act, which your committee does not feel is wise in such an important insurance center as Connecticut.

"The bill itself was not sponsored by any of the insurance companies and there was but one appearance in its favor, and it is the unanimous decision of your committee that the bill be rejected."

On adverse report from the committee on motor vehicles the house rejected bill No 645, providing that vehicles on open country roads shall maintain an average minimum speed of 35 miles an hour. Mr. Hanbury, of Newington, said the present laws take care of minimum speed requirements.

Big Ulcer All Healed

"Now I can Walk." Says Mrs. Southcott.

"Here is another letter that makes me proud," says Peterson. "One that I would rather have than a thousand dollars.

"It seems like a miracle, but it's true, every word of it.

"I know it because I get similar letters almost every day from people who have used Peterson's Ointment for old sores, eczema and piles.

"Is it any wonder I am proud?"

Dear Sirs:

"I was an untold sufferer from an old running sore and ulcer. I had tried most everything without any relief from pain. A friend told me of your wonderful ointment and the first box took away the pain that had not left me before in years, and after using just nine dollars worth of the salve I am cured. The ulcer was 9 inches by 6 1-2 inches, is all healed and I can walk. Never, never will I be without Peterson's again.

"You may use this to recommend your ointment if you wish. I cannot say enough to praise it." Yours truly, Mrs. Albert Southcott, Lyndonville, N. Y. Generous box 35 cents.

Studebaker Automobiles

Much is heard these days of the so-called miracles of transportation. The airplane, the dirigible, the transcontinental Limited and the ocean greyhound are all, in turn, held up as the highest expression of the mechanical genius of man. Yet, in a point by point comparison of performance, reliability, stamina and economy — the fundamental standards by which any form of transportation may be judged —which of those more spectacular mediums of travel can compare with the modern motor car?

In the matter of performance, what feat in the air, on the land or sea can even approach the performance of the Studebaker President in traveling 30,000 miles in 26,326 consecutive minutes? Three years of ordinary driving crowded into nineteen days and eighteen nights at an average speed of faster than a mile a minute! The fastest trains average little better than 40 miles per hour running time —and every few hundred miles they stop to change engines. And, when the engine goes off the run, it is taken to the roundhouse for a thorough going over before the next trip.

Before an airplane takes off, skilled mechanics have inspected every part of its motor and fuselage with infinite care to make certain that everything is in perfect order. When the 'plane lands, after a few hundred miles, more mechanics again carefully inspect the "ship" and make adjustments and repairs. After about 10,000 miles, the motors of most 'planes must be torn down and completely rebuilt.

The motor car which established the new world's record for performance received no such attention during its run. It was started on its way, given gasoline, oil and grease at intervals and kept going. Its motor was given no repairs during all that 30,000 gruelling miles of travel.

Naturally, one cannot expect the railroad train to compete with the motor car on the speedway—but the motor car has competed with the railroad train in the latter's own element, and won. Within the past few years, two Studebaker cars have run across the country and beat the best time of the crack limiteds by a matter of several hours. The motor cars had to use whatever roads were at hand, no matter what their condition, whereas the railroad train had a smooth "road" of steel all the way. Further, the railroad used scores of engines in making the trip whereas the motor cars had to make it with their original power plants.

The average "life" of the airplane today is approximately 500 flying hours, or about 50,000 miles. After that, it is time to junk the motor, at least. Opposed to that, there is the record of hundreds upon hundreds of Studebaker cars which have traveled from 100,000 to 300,000 miles and are still in service.

On the coldest days in winter, the motorist steps into his car, touches the starter and drives away. What aviator would attempt to duplicate such performance with his 'plane, what engineer with his locomotive, what sea captain with his ship? Yet that is the sort of service we have learned to accept from our motor cars as a matter of course. An airplane must be warmed up very gradually for a considerable period before taking off, fires are lighted in the locomotive hours before its scheduled start and fires burn constantly under the boilers of the ocean liner even when in port. The automobile motor, however, which does not start away at the first whirr of the starter is immediately dubbed a "lemon".

The pilot of the airplane must prove himself mentally and physically above average, pass a rigid course of instruction including long periods in ground school and a "student ship" before he is granted license to fly. The railroad engineer has to put in years learning his vocation and the captain of the ocean liner must devote his life to mastering his job.

How long does it take the average man or woman to learn to operate an automobile? Is it not an engineering achievement of unusual note that a machine capable of traveling 65, 75 or 80 miles per hour can be so designed as to be perfectly safe in the hands of the average man or woman after only a few hours' instruction?

Recently Studebaker conducted a contest to find the oldest Studebaker car still delivering transportation. The winner of this contest was almost old enough to vote—and there were scores of others which had been in active service for more than a dozen years. Very frequently we hear of Studebaker cars, so old that their owners do not care to drive them any longer, being dismantled and the motors put to work at other tasks. Such motors are running mining machinery out in Colorado, powering boats on a score of lakes around the country, running saw mills in the woods and fulfilling an almost endless variety of other tasks which are entirely removed from motoring but in which there is a demand for rugged power and untiring stamina.

Because it is so close to us — so much a part of our very lives—many of us are inclined to accept the motor car and its development as a matter of course. Yet, after all, what is better qualified to be termed the crowning achievement—the highest expression of the mechanical genius of man in transportation—than this same family motor car

A Few High Spots On The New Packards

This year's automobile show sees the E. B. Patterson, Inc., exhibiting with the most complete line of cars in the company's history. Packard now is building straight eights exclusively in three distinct price classes actually with four if individual custom cars with bodies built in the shops of some of the country's best known body builders are to be considered.

The Packard "line" embraces the Standard Eight, built on two different wheel bases; the Custom Eight, with a slightly larger and more powerful motor than that of the Standard Eight, and with a wheel base of 140 inches, and the DeLuxe Eight, called the most luxurious car Packard has ever built.

The DeLuxe Eight is a new car just announced last month with a surprise showing at the automobile salon. It is one of the largest cars built, having a wheel base of 145 1-2 inches. With such a chassis and the long, rakish Packard lines the custom body builders were given, it was remarked at the salon, an opportunity to outdo all their previous efforts in luxurious body building.

The Packard Standard Eight since its introduction last summer has been proving one of the most popular cars the company has ever built and the Detroit factory has been pressed harder than ever before in its history, because of this popularity, in an effort to make the supply somewhere near equal the demand.

It was believed last year that the last word had been reached in the Packard Six as exhibited in the automobile shows then. However, cars now exhibited show that Packard has done far more than just add two more cylinders to its engine, which in itself would have been, automobile men say, a considerable step.

Bodies of the Standard Eight have been given much in added comfort as well as appearance. A wide selection of color combinations is offered. Seats have been made deeper and given scientific contours which, with softer spring and upholstery, go far toward the elimination of driving fatigue.

The new motor actually develops on the test block ninety horsepower. Its designers are said to have added much in the way of smoothness of operation with a number of important features, such as a vibration damper and a sturdy crankshaft with nine main bearings. The motor is equipped with a crank-case ventilating system which carries harmful vapors out of the engine and does away with all burned gas odors inside of the car. Examination of the power plant shows that Packard has retained the important feature of a piston lubricating system. By this arrangement, oil is delivered to each piston when the choke is used, as when starting. It is at this time that the greatest wear occurs in an automobile engine.

Shocks Absorbed

One feature of the new Packards has been hailed as one of the most important developments in automobile engineering in years. It has been called the Packard shock-absorbing system and consists of a number of devices all designed in close relation with each other to eliminate road shocks. Through this system Packard has succeeded, it is asserted, in eliminating front wheel "shimmy" and steering wheel "whip," something on which motor car engineers have been concentrating since the advent of low-pressure tires.

The system is found in all of the cars of the complete Packard line. Not the least important units in it are the new Packard designed and built two-way hydraulic shock-absorbers and a new trunnion spring bracket which is used to tie the rear end of the left front spring to the frame. The flexibility of this bracket is declared to dampen out disturbances set up in the steering gear of low-pressure tire-equipped cars, long recognized by engineers as the cause of "shimmy".

Packard was the first builder to recognize shock absorbers as vital parts of the car instead of accessories to be added. The new Packard absorbers are built-in parts of the chassis. It is recalled by motor car men that the Packard was the first car to have both front and rear bumpers as built-in parts.

Ten different body models are offered on the Standard Eight chassis, built in two different wheel bases, one 126 inches and the other 133 inches.

The Packard Custom Eight is equipped with a motor of more than 105 horse power. It, too, has the important piston oiling arrangement and in common with all cars in the entire line the Packard chassis oiling system which has been extended to lubricate even the shock absorbers simply by pulling a small handle located at the dash.

Luxury In Fittings

The Custom Eight has a luxury of fittings in keeping with its size and appearance. It is built in a complete line of nine different body styles, all on a wheel base of 140 inches. With this car a driver, it is asserted, may exercise a complete indifference to the roughest kind of roads with no sacrifice in comfort.

Packard's last word, the big De-Luxe Eight, is a car frankly built to cater to a limited few. Its makers have announced that for the present, at least, it will be held to a comparatively limited production.

Apparently, the company has scoured the markets of the whole world for upholstering fabrics, for silks, fine grained rare woods and other fittings for the DeLuxe Eight. The widest choice is given in upholstering selections and Packard announces it will use any kind of painting colors that a customer may wish to select from all the shades of the spectrum.

Packard has established a individual custom body shop of its own at the Packard factories to build the De-Luxe custom bodies. Four different open car types are offered and all are of the smart sport type. All DeLluxe models have a new and unusual treatment of the after end. Gas tank, the ends of the frame and rear portions of the springs have been entirely boxed in with a metal apron which adds much to the appearance of the whole car.

Chromium plating is used throughout the complete Packard line and each car has a built-in radiator screen. General appearance of all type carries the distinctive Packard vogue with exterior changes so subtly made as to give much in added beauty without depreciating former cars in the hands of owners.

RADIO EASES MONOTONY OF LONG RIDE ON TRAIN

ST. ALBANS, Vt. (AP)—Radio-equipped chair cars have made a hit on one of the crack trains running between Boston and Montreal.

So popular has the radio equipment become with travelers that they more than justify their continuance on the Ambassador, international day train, says J. W. Hanley, general freight and passenger agent of the Central Vermont railway.

The chair cars on this train are especially wired for radio. A powerful receiver is installed in each car, with 24 outlets; a pair of headphones at each chair.

A specially trained operator is on duty and he operates the set almost continually during the ten-hour run.

SCHOOL FOR RADIO FANS IS OPENED IN ATLANTA

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A school for radio fans has been started by Georgia School of Technology here.

A special glass for radio builders and fans has been opened at the evening school, where students are given training in radio building, repairing, receiving and broadcasting. Practical experience comes through demonstrations for the students at the school's radio station, WGST. It operates on 336.9 meters, 890 kilocycles.

"The school is primarily for radio men, but has attracted in terest among fans as well," says Prof. L. D. Tabler. "The evening school students are given practical as well as theoretical problems. They learn to build, repair and operate radio sets.

"Regular students at Georgia Tech are given both class room and laboratory work in radio. Members of the signal corps of the campus military unit take a year's work in radio. Increased time permits regular students to tackle a heavier schedule of work than the evening school students, of course. But even in the evening school, the students say the training permits them to operate their own sets better, bring their old sets up to date, and build and repair sets."

AMATEURS TO FORWARD MESSAGES TO HOOVER

WASHINGTON, (AP)—On the eve of the inauguration of Herbert Hoover amateur radio operators throughout the United States will start sending messages of congratulation from the governors of the state to the new chief executive.

Beginning at 5 p. m., eastern standard time, March 3, the messages will be sent simultaneously on several frequencies until 5 p. m. March 4, after which they will be delivered in a bunch at the white house. Members of the Washington Radio club, local unit of the American Radio Relay league, will keep a continuous watch on several wavelengths.

The amateur stations here will call CQ, GPR and DEW3 each time before listening for the messages, and all amateur stations on the air will be prepared to relay the dispatches. Similar messages from the governors to President Harding and President Coolidge were successfully transmitted to the capital by amateurs in 1921 and 1925.

Since the Nobel prize awards were first presented, in 1901, 140 individuals have been thus honored.

Now---No premium price on the STRAIGHT-EIGHT

G. M. Williams, President Marmon Motor Car Company, who inaugurated the present straight-eight program at Marmon, and as a result has made possible the straight-eight of moderate cost.

Everyone used to think of an eight-cylinder car as necessarily costing $2500 to $3000. This has been changed. By study and concentration on the straight-eight exclusively, Marmon has simplified design, reduced costs and made the straight-eight a practical, economical and long-lived car for all to own. There is now a Marmon straight-eight (the "68") as low as $1465.

With the premium price now completely removed, there are thousands who, this year, will enjoy straight-eight performance of a type heretofore restricted entirely to far higher-priced cars.

Marmon Prices—The "68", $1465; the "78", $1965. All prices at factory. De luxe equipment extra.

The finest and smartest cars on the streets of the world

It is a very tangible value in Cadillac-La Salle that all over the world Cadillac-La Salle ownership carries with it the unquestioned admission that the owner is driving the very finest motor cars which his highest ambition can attain.

OTHER cars have sought in vain to achieve the high social prestige that has been inseparably Cadillac's for a generation. But you have only to pause where the smartest people congregate, you have only to check the social register, and you will inevitably discover a preponderance of Cadillacs and La Salles.

And the simple bald fact about this is that men and women who know motor cars know too that if they want a car to ride and drive as Cadillac-La Salle ride and drive they must eliminate everything else from consideration.

For the truth of all truths about Cadillac-La Salle, and something that you know full well, is just this: it is because of inherent and surpassing excellence that there is no substitute for the priceless possession and prestige of a Cadillac-built car.

Where else—in all the world—will you find the same measure of comfort, of riding and driving ease?—where else such vital provisions for safety and freedom of mind?

The Cadillac-La Salle Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission. A vital essential in time of emergency, this transmission permits lightning-like shifting of gears with a finger-touch, at any speed, without pausing in neutral. It is quiet, simple, positive and effortless in operation and removes even the faintest suggestion of clashing gears.

Cadillac-La Salle Duplex-Mechanical System of Four-Wheel Brakes. Though these new brakes are amazingly powerful and positive in action, slight effort is required to operate them. Just a touch of the toe on the brake pedal and they respond instantaneously.

Cadillac-La Salle Security-Plate Glass, with which Cadillac-La Salle windows, doors and windshields are equipped, remains intact in the event of collision or if struck by stones flung up from the wheels of passing cars.

Included in the present Cadillac-La Salle line are twenty-three refreshingly beautiful Fisher bodies and fifteen exclusive and luxurious custom models, Fleetwood designed and Fleetwood built, exemplifying the very last word in chic, smartness and luxury.

La Salle is priced from $2295 to $2875; Cadillac, from $3295 to $3995; Fleetwoods up to $7000—all prices f. o. b. Detroit. Cadillac-La Salle dealers welcome business on the General Motors Deferred Payment Plan. Enjoy the car now and pay out of income.

POETRY

Imogen

Lady of Tender Age

Ladies, where were your bright eyes glancing,
Where were they glancing yesternight?
Saw ye Imogen dancing, dancing,
Imogen dancing all in white?
Laughed she not with a pure delight,
Laughed she not with a joy serene,
Lapped she not with a grace enchanting,
Demurely girt in silken sheen?

All through the night from dusk to daytime
Under her feet the hours were swift,
Under her feet the hours of pleasure
Rose and fell with a rhythmic lift;
Music set her adrift, adrift,
Music eddying towards the day
Kept her along as brooks in springtime
Carry the freshly falling May.

Ladies, life is a changing measure,
Youth is a lift that endeth soon;
Think ye never so fast at pleasure,
Twilight follows the longest noon,
Nay, but here is a lasting boon,
Life for hearts that are old and chill,
Youth undying for hearts that treasure
Imogen dancing, dancing still.

—Henry Newbolt.

The Maiden and the Lily

A lily in my garden grew,
Amid the thyme and clover;
No fairer lily ever blew,
Search the wide world over.
Its beauty passed into my heart;
I know 'twas very silly,
But I was then a foolish maid,
And it—a perfect lily.

One day a learned man came by,
With years of knowledge laden,
And him I questioned with a sigh,
Like any foolish maiden—
"Wise sir, please tell me wherein lies—
I know the question's silly—
The something that my art defies,
And makes a perfect lily."

He smiled, then bending, plucked the flower,
Then tore it, leaf and petal,
And talked to me for full an hour,
And thought the point to settle—
And I—I know 'twas silly—
Could only weep and say, "But where—
O doctor, where's my lily?"

—John Fraser.

REDS STILL IN THE LEAD IN SUNDAY SCHOOL CONTEST

The contest between the Red and Blue teams at the Baptist Sunday school is proving exciting for the youngsters. The Blue team, captained by Gordon Whitehouse made a valiant effort this week to overtake the Red team under Priscilla Buck, but did not quite gain its objective for the Reds are still slightly in the lead. It is a new experience to many of the children to try to enlist others and enthusiasm is high.

Before the morning sermon Mr. Verney told the children a story taken from the history of the French and Indian wars in Colonial America, illustrating the truth that in our lives we need to guard against those things which do not seem to be very bad but which are someway not quite right. The sermon, "Jerusalem," presented Jesus Christ as a virile, strong, courageous man, who aside from the divine side of His nature presents the highest type of manhood the world has ever seen. This led up to the closing thought that following Christ will strengthen and build up any man so that he will be more manly for being a Christian.

Mr. Verney announced as his subject for next Sunday "The Gates of Faith," the last in a series of sermons which he has been preaching on "The Gospel Bridge."

MR. AND MRS. JOHN H. GEER SURPRISED ON ANNIVERSARY

A very pleasant surprise awaited Mr. and Mrs. John H. Geer Wednesday evening on their 25th wedding anniversary. They were taken to the North Stonington Grange hall where they found about 150 Grangers and friends waiting to welcome them.

After the grand march the curtain was drawn and Mr. and Mrs. Geer were ushered upon the stage. Under a canopy of silver and white, Worthy Master Dudley W. Stewart in behalf of their friends presented them 25 silver dollars. Mrs. Geer received a bouquet of 25 carnations, also numerous other gifts. After receiving the congratulations of their friends there was dancing, music being furnished by Mrs. Rose Parnigoni and Charles Palmer. During the evening a male quartet sang several selections. A special feature was an exhibition of an old-fashioned dance, the heel and toe, by the bride of 25 years, and her father, William L. Main. Sandwiches, fancy cookies and coffee were served. Mr. and Mrs. Geer were presented a silver cake, decorated with 25 white candles, made by Mrs. Ellsworth Gray.

Several from this place attended the Pomona meeting at North Stonington Thursday. Worthy State Master Minor Ives, assisted by Mrs. Ives, installed the Pomona officers. Dinner was served at noon by the feast committee of North Stonington Grange. Although the day was very stormy there was an attendance of about 100.

STOCK MARKET MOVED FORWARD ON GOOD INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—(AP)—With the call money market failing to develop the severe stringency widely expected, the stock market moved forward on a broader front today than at any time since the reaction two weeks ago, spurred on by several favorable industrial developments.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent. and held at the rate all day, as adequate funds, attracted by yesterday's 9 per cent. rate made their appearance. Predictions of 12 per cent. money with banks withdrawing funds to meet month end requirements have been freely made in Wall street. Time money, however, was firmer with none available under 7 3-4 per cent. and bankers failed to see any possibility of substantial improvement in the credit situation for some time.

The extensive resumption of bullish activity was in the face of the meeting of the federal reserve directors tomorrow afternoon, as a higher rediscount rate is regarded as unlikely with the treasury refinancing coming March 15. Total sales were carried to 4,365,600 shares, crossing the 4,000,000 mark for the first time since Feb. 13.

One of the brightest spots in the days news was the cutting of a melon by Mathieson Alkali through a three-for-one stock split up. Copper prices were boosted a whole 1-2 to 18 3-4 cents a pound, domestic and 19 cent copper was expected before next week. The iron and steel trade reviews were unusually optimistic, pointing to further firming up of finished steel prices and stepping up of steel mill production from 3 to 5 per cent., to 90 to 95 per cent. of capacity. The first 37 railroads reporting January net operating income showed an average increase of 42 per cent. over the month of 1928.

Copper, chemical, amusement, automotive, express and independent steel shares all made good progress. U. S. Steel however, encountered some selling in disappointment over the vagueness of the recapitalization plan announcement and closed nearly a point lower.

Adams Express shot up 28 points, touching 500 for the first time. Its express interests pass to the railroads this week, leaving it strictly an investment trust. Mathieson Alkali jumped 25 points a new top at 218, but lost some of its gain in profit taking.

Greene Cananea led the coppers with an extreme gain of 8 points. Anaconda, Chile, Andes and Inspiration broke into new high ground. In the steels, Bethlehem made another new at 101 1-4, and Republic at 90 7-8. Nash, Packard, Marmon and General Motors mounted 3 to nearly 7 points. American Can nearly equalled its previous high for the year, and Chesapeake & Ohio was a strong point of the rails, selling up 4 points.

John Manville, Allied Chemical, Fox Film A, Pacific Coast Co., Peoples Gas Radio, Safeway Stores and Timken Roller Bearing climbed 6 to 10 points.

There were a few soft spots Allis Chalmers, Advance Rumely, Crosley Radio, General Refractories, Interstate Department Stores, and National Tea losing from 2 to 4 points.

The commodity markets were irregular cotton mounting about $1 a bale on unfavorable weather reports from the south, and wheat sagging under pressure of lower Liverpool cables.

Foreign exchanges were quiet and inclined to heaviness, although sterling cables were slightly firmer during most of the day. The peseta touched a new low for 1929 at 15.26 cents.

BOND MARKET.

NEW YORK Feb. 27—(AP)—The bond market generally improved today under impetus of active buying in the copper and steel liens and a few selected rail. Some weakness, however, cropped out in the utilities and first grade rails. Trading was centered practically in the issues influenced by the day's news developments, and sales again fell below $10,000,000 mark. Money was firm.

The widest gain was made by Anaconda Copper 7s, which soared 5 points to a new peak at 218 in sympathy with strength in the stocks and a further advance in red metal prices. The 6s were firm at around 105; Chile Copper 5s, however, sold off fractionally at the close. U. S. Steel sinking fund 5s, which the corporation is planning to retire at 110, advance to 109 1-4 and closed at 108 7-8 for a fractional gain on the day. Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s were well bought above 100 on optimistic reports for the industry for the immediate future.

Reports that Walworth company has been buying in some of its bonds sent the debenture 6 1-2s up more than 3 points to a new top at 99 1-8. Loew's Income 6s with warrants attained a new peak at 124 and closed at 122 for a net gain of a point on merger rumors. Allegheny Corporation 5s sold off fractionally, but American International 5 1-2s improved.

International Great Northern adjustment 6s, interest on which will be guaranteed by the Missouri Pacific if its unification plans are approved, shot up more than 3 points. Missouri Pacific issues, however, were slightly lower. Lehigh Valley convertible 4 1-2 dropping 4 points to a new low for the year.

International Telephone convertible 4 1-2s mounted more than a point on heavy buying in sympathy with a sharp rise in the stock. Public Service of New Jersey 4 1-2s advanced 1 1-2 points, while losses were registered in N. Y. Telephone General 4s, and Postal Telegraph 5s, the latter touching a new low at 91 3-4 on a fractional decline.

Pirelli 7s recovered more than a point of yesterday's loss in the irregular foreign list.

U. S. government obligations were mixed.

Trading was on a smaller scale in the curb bonds. Associated Gas & Electric 4 1-2s advanced more than a point in sympathy with strength in curb utilities.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27—(AP)—Wheat met with heavy selling today, and a consequent sharp break in wheat prices led also to a lively downturn in corn. Word was received that country holders of wheat in Canada were liquidating and there was much notice taken of announcement from Washington that despite severe conditions the domestic winter wheat crop has apparently escaped any widespread serious harm.

Closing quotations on wheat were weak, 2 3-8 cents to 2 3-4 cents net lower. Corn finished 1 cent to 1 3-4 cents off, oats 1-4 a 3-8 cents to 1 1-8 cents down, and provisions varying from 15 cents decline to 5 cents advance.

A downward trend was evident in the wheat market right from the beginning. Initial downturns were associated with the fact that Liverpool wheat quotations had failed to respond to yesterday's advance here. Subsequently, selling pressure was increased by the government weekly crop report from Washington which indicated that although the influence of winter weather on the main producing domestic wheat area is still indefinite the present outlook seems from signs that would point to more than the average amount of winter killing. There were also trade estimates current that four northwestern states have 200,000,000 bushels spring and Durum wheat back on farms.

Lowest prices of the day, though, in the wheat market here came only after a sinking spell in the wheat trade at Winnipeg had made itself manifest.

The influence of the Winnipeg setback was increased by the fact that earlier the Winnipeg market showed strength. Late advices from Winnipeg, however, said the Canadian growers' pool was selling, that the export demand for Canadian wheat had been halted because of much cheaper Argentine offerings, and that Canadian country marketings yesterday were 753,000 bushels against 566,000 bushels a year ago. With the export basis for United States No. 2 hard wheat six cents to eight cents above an export parity at the Gulf of Mexico, the future delivery market here showed a decided lack of power to rally, and the close was at almost the day's bottom level.

Corn was firm early, but the traders who at that stage were buyers turned to the selling side later when the wheat market tumbled down grade in earnest. Corn prices, however, received good support on the decline that ensued, and the Chicago cash corn were rather firm early, but eased down afterward.

Provisions were steadied by upturns in the value of hogs.

City Meeting Accepts Fact Finding Report

3,996,318 K. W. H. for which they paid $152,874.88, about three cents per K. W. H. Thus you see that they used over twice as much energy as either residential or commercial as both combined while they paid only half as much. The rate to power users is very low, only a few places in the country selling at a lower rate. In a way even at this price it might be considered as clear profit as they use large quantities for a continuous number of hours, and mostly at hours when the demand would otherwise be light and the excess of energy go to waste.

In 1927-8—

Commercial used	1,717,031 K.W.H.
Residential used	1,783,146 K.W.H.
Both used	3,500,177 K.W.H.
Power used	3,996,318 K.W.H.
Commercial paid	$139,907.90
Residential paid	180,894.27
Both paid	$320,802.17
Power paid	$152,874.88

Increased use and improving methods of making and delivering electric energy are allowing of ever lower rates. A municipal plant should sell at as low a price as possible. Our former rates compared favorably with other cities of our size; but the new rates with their service and energy charges seem to us to be very unfair; thus from ten sheets of November, 1927, 663 out of 1,193 residents used less than 26 K. W. H. that month. Over half would be penalized. Sheets for August 1928 show that 893 out of 1,058 or nine-tenths of users would be penalized in the summer months. Many who find the present rate favorable during the winter months would find their average rate for the year higher under the new rate than under the old rate.

The following show some of the inequalities under the present rate:

From Residential Sheets October 1928.

One person paid—
$1.85 for	0 KWH—not 3c per KWH
$1.45 for	1 KWH—not 3c per KWH
$2.15 for	2 KWH—not 3c per KWH
$3.57 for	179 KWH—not 3c per KWH

From Commercial Sheets October 1928

One paid	$27.00 for	0 KWH
One paid	$2.50 for	1 KWH
One paid	$2.30 for	15 KWH
Another paid	$2.30 for	15 KWH
Another paid	$11.80 for	15 KWH
One paid	$20.65 for	60 KWH
One paid	$15.53 for	223 KWH
One paid	$10.35 for	100 KWH
One paid	$8.98 for	121 KWH

SMALL POWER SALES

4 KWH	$2.00
2 KWH	$4.00
15 KWH	$2.80—$4.30—$9.29
55 KWH	$3.50—$4.50
56 KWH	$10.03

The experts agreed on rates to the manufacturers, which so far as we know are satisfactory. The reduction estimated at about $10,000 per year; so your committee has made no particular study of power rates. The revision of commercial and residential rates while purporting to sell at three cents per K. W. H. would seem by the addition of area and energy charge, to have been an effort to increase the receipts by penalizing many users.

Your committee would offer the following rates to be adopted as most favorable to all. These rates would be even lower than the old rates to nearly everyone. If previous suggestions as to possible economies are followed there need be no loss to the department.

Residential

1 to 10 KWH	$1.00 minimum
11 to 50 KWH	7c per KWH
11 to 100 KWH	6c per KWH
11 to 101+ KWH	5c per KWH

Commercial

1 to 10 KWH	$1.00 minimum
11 to 100 KWH	7c per KWH
11 to 500 KWH	6c per KWH
11 to 501+ KWH	5c per KWH

Your committee has not had time to make a careful analysis of small power users, but are satisfied that unfairness of charges are due to excessive service and demand charges.

Where special expense is necessary for wiring, transformers or meters, the expense should be paid by the customer, or a charge per month made proportionate to cost.

We would recommend a return to the previous rates for this service until a more careful study can be made.

The only change we would suggest in Gas Rates would be a reduction from $.13½ per C cu. ft. to $.12½ per C cu. ft. as the rate between 100 and 7,400 cubic feet.

Mayor Calls for Action

"You have heard the report of the fact finding committee," said the mayor. "What is your pleasure?"

Frank L. Arnold introduced the following resolution accepting the report as read:

Resolved—That the report of the fact finding committee appointed at a special city meeting held Nov. 8, 1928, be and the same is hereby accepted and the recommendations therein contained approved.

The resolution was quickly seconded. "Are there any remarks?" asked the mayor.

Mr. Boardman stated that he didn't know until Wednesday afternoon, that there was to be another report distributed at the meeting. He said that Manager Charles W. Taggart, of the gas and electric department, had called him up Tuesday evening to ask if he had any objection to the gas and electric commissioners making an answer to the fact finding committee's report and that he told him he had no objection.

Mr. Boardman said he hadn't time to read the gas and electric commissioner's answer and that if his committee had had the report in time they would have considered it in connection with their own report. With regard to the G. and E. commissioners' rates, Mr. Boardman said they want to sell electricity to some at less than they make it and consequently to others at a higher rate. After explaining that the sales of electric appliances depend on a cheap rate for those appliances, Mr. Boardman commented briefly on the electric rates recommended by his committee.

No one expressed a desire to speak on the resolution and it went to vote, being unanimously adopted.

George E. Pitcher then introduced the following resolution:

Resolved—That such portion or portions of the report of the fact finding committee as may indicate a possible mis-application of the funds of the gas and electric department by any of its officers or agents be referred to the corporation counsel of the city for his full investigation and report thereon to the court of common council.

There was no comment either for or against this resolution and it was quickly and unanimously adopted.

Audit of G. and E. Accounts

A resolution introduced by John B. Stoddard, calling for an audit of the gas and electric department accounts was introduced, seconded, and unanimously adopted, as follows:

Resolved—That Charles S. Eaton, of this city, be employed to make a complete audit of the accounts of the gas and electric department from January 1, 1924, to date, and a complete inventory of its supplies and merchandise now on hand and make a report of his findings to the court of common council.

Moves To Stop Appliance Sales

The final resolution, having for one of its objects, the stopping of the sale of appliances by the G. and E. department was introduced by H. H. Gallup. It follows:

Resolved—That the court of common council of the city of Norwich be and it is hereby instructed to forthwith adopt such by-laws and ordinances relative to the control and use of its gas and electric plant, as will carry into effect as soon as possible the recommendations contained in the report of the fact finding committee and such a by-law or ordinance as will provide that the board of gas and electric commissioners shall not engage in the sale or distribution of gas and electric appliances, fixtures and merchandise but shall confine their operations to the manufacture, sale and distribution of gas and electricity.

As in the case of the previous resolutions there was no comment, pro or con, and the resolution, with the exception of one lone "no" was unanimously adopted.

At this point Henry F. Powers called attention to the fact that the meeting had voted to employ Charles S. Eaton to audit the G. and E. accounts but that there was no salary stated. He felt that the employment of an auditor should be on a competitive basis.

The resolution, however, was already adopted, as Mayor Robbins pointed out.

As no other resolutions were forthcoming, a motion to adjourn was adopted and the meeting came to an end at 8:45 o'clock.

The members of the fact finding commission are Albert Boardman, chairman, Martin Cohen, secretary, John A. Holland, Adelard Morin, and M. L. Bergetresser.

MANY TOWNS ASK FOR PUBLIC SCHOOL SUPERVISORS

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, Feb. 27—There are now 93 towns in the state which have voluntarily asked for supervising agents for their public schools and are now being supplied with that service, which is, in the opinion of the state board of education, an important feature of the development of rural education. There are 28 such supervisors, divided into administrative, primary and general supervising groups, and the 93 towns they serve have 467 schools with 977 teachers and a registration of 21,530 pupils. Of these schools, 16 are high schools, with 74 teachers and 1,344 pupils, and 334 are one-room schools. In the last year the number of one-teacher schools has decreased by 19, "an excellent gain under the conditions now existent," according to the state board of education, and the number of normal school graduates teaching in these country school houses is increasing, "a significant measure of progress."

The division of rural education of the state department of education, of which N. Searle Light is director, is devoting considerable attention to the supervising agent, believing that much can be accomplished through such officials. A report from the division shows that in January, the 28 agents held 1,209 office hours for consultation purposes, attended 89 teachers' meetings, 50 town school committee meetings, 170 school committee conferences and 17 public meetings in these 93 towns. They investigated 73 attendance cases, where pupils have been absent from school without excuse; made 1,283 visits of more than one hour each to the several schools, 521 visits of less than an hour, gave 438 demonstrations and held 436 conferences with individual teachers. There are ten offices for the supervising agents about the state, and at those places the agents hold to a regular schedule of office hours each week to receive teachers, parents or others interested in rural education problems.

The supervising agent service is secured only by a town voluntarily. If a community has 25 or fewer teachers in its public schools and desires the services of such an agent, application is made by the town school committee to the state board of education, and the division of rural education appoints the agent. The latter is in effect the executive of the town school committee, is directly responsible to that committee and has no authority except that vested in him by that committee. In some cases the committee directs the agent to proceed on his own initiative to carry out his work and report from time to time to the committee on the work done. In other towns, the committees have made a practice of first determining themselves just what the agent shall do and then have him directed to do it. The agent is also in a measure responsible to the state department of education.

In regard to teachers in one-room schools, the report shows that in 1925, only 47 per cent of the teachers were normal school graduates, but in 1928, 74 per cent had normal school certificates. "The situation is improving 'in excellent style,' declares Mr. Light. He does note, however, that in the last year "the percentage of beginners showed a marked increase," meaning that the number of teachers teaching for the first time increased in the one-teacher schools. In 1927, 11 per cent of the teachers were "beginners," and in 1928, 26 per cent. "This," says Mr. Light, "may be the inevitable result of the limited salary range obtaining in these schools." An examination of the salary situation in the smaller towns shows Mr. Light that "the handicap imposed upon the one-teacher school locally is little if any less than in former years." Service in larger schools successively carries larger salary compensation as well as more favorable working conditions. "We have not succeeded in creating anything like the same salary future in the one-teacher schools. Promotion in salary is dependent upon obtaining employment in larger schools. Finally, the handicap of the small town in holding good teachers is pictured clearly in the relationship of these salaries to the average for the state as a whole, including the small towns. Most of the salaries in excess of the state average are paid to principals. A table in the report shows that the majority of one-room school teachers receive between $925 and $1,125 per year, while salaries of the other elementary school teachers range from $975 to $1,775 or more.

The visitation record of the supervising agents during September, October and November, 1928—the first three months of the present school year, shows that the agents made 3,423 visits in that time. The largest schools served by supervisors are the Hamiston school in Cheshire with 19 teachers and 488 pupils, and the Deep River schools, a 12-year school including both elementary and high, with 22 teachers and 586 pupils. In addition to the 28 agents there is one special supervisor of elementary art and nature study, visiting the 93 towns with "the result that the art program is developing as an integrated part of the schools activities rather than as a separate subject."

ADDRESSED C. A. C. STUDENTS ON SOVIET RUSSIA

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 27—At the regular college assembly held here today the principal speaker was Gen. Victor H. Yakhontoff, who outlined the conditions existing in the Soviet Russia of today. The general has been a man of affairs in the past few years, having much to do with the government of both old and new Russia. He served as an active officer in the czar's army before the fall of the old empire. With the taking of the reins of government by the Kerensky forces he was engaged as an assistant secretary of war.

Regarding the consular service of this eminent talker, he served as the military attache for Russia in the embassy at Tokio. He speaks the Japanese language fluently, and proved a valuable man in this department of government in the old Russia.

ADDRESSED ROTARY CLUB ON STREAM POLLUTION

William C. Copeland, engineer for the state board of water commissioners, was the speaker at the noon day meeting of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday at the Wauregan hotel. Mr. Copeland's talk dealt with "Stream Pollution," and proved highly interesting. Mr. Copeland said that while the water commission had power to say that an individual, a manufacturing plant or a municipality must put in a sewage disposal plant by a certain date, the commission was asking municipalities to make a survey of the situation. He said that eventually cities and manufacturing plants would all have filtration plants but he did not expect this before five or six years.

In part Mr. Copeland said:

The subject which we have under discussion today has to do with the public welfare of the state. It concerns the cleanliness of our state waters as they effect the rights and privileges of the individual, the cities and the manufacturers.

As an example I refer to a case which now is very acute on a tributary of the Shetucket river. The conditions there are as follows: Several manufacturing plants are located upon and use the water from the stream for manufacturing purposes, or would like to if it was clean enough. But one industry dumps tons of refuse into the river daily and as a result manufacturers below are subject to a loss of 20 to 25 per cent of their product, to say nothing of having to give up the manufacture of certain regular and profitable lines of goods.

The commission was created for the purpose of improving the condition of the state waterways from the viewpoint of pollution.

Under the act the commission is given the power to issue peremptory orders to all individuals, corporations (and this includes municipalities) and manufacturers, restraining them from discharging objectionable wastes into the streams and waters of the state. Any such an order would in every instance involve the expenditure of large sums of money, and for that reason we often hear the question asked: "On what grounds can the expenditure of huge sums of money for sewage treatment be justified?"

There are many sound reasons why individuals, municipalities and manufacturers should not discharge their filth into the public waterways to be dumped on the communities below. Leaving out of consideration the health menace involved and putting aside the appalling lack of thought for neighbors down stream, there are sound economic reasons for requiring that raw sewage and trade wastes should be treated before discharge into the state waterways. Some of these reasons are briefly outlined below.

1. Up to the present time Connecticut cities have been able to secure an abundant supply of excellent water from unpolluted upland streams. Development of additional supplies for the futre is, however, becoming daily more difficult. And at the present time there exists what might be described as a "water hunger." All over the state we see municipalities reaching out farther and farther into the country at constantly mounting costs to tap some additional supply of clean water. You have seen what this has meant recently to the city of Norwich, for only two years ago you spent a great sum for a pipe line to tap a new water supply in the hills. We have seen what this has meant to the city of Waterbury where it has been necessary to tunnel through two mountain ranges and under Bantam lake to bring water from the Shepaug river into the city reservoir. New Haven has recently finished a dam at a cost of a million or more dollars and even so is acquiring more land far away to the north and east of the city to augment its supply.

In the opinion of competent engineers the time is rapidly approaching when recourse will have to be made to some of our larger streams, but before this can be done the sewage reaching them must be removed.

2. Manufacturers are finding their operations interfered with by polluted waters and their overhead heavily increased through the necessity of having to bear the cost of water purification. That is particularly true where many plants are located in close proximity along a single stream. The manufacturer finds himself faced with the necessity of developing his own water supply with all the cost this involves, or of moving to some state where a clean water supply is available. The state water commission now has many problems of this nature under study.

4. The state department of health has called attention during the past few years to the pollution of bathing beaches. Some have been closed to bathers because of the presence of sewage and more will be closed in the future, unless immediate and energetic measures are taken to control this growing evil. This recreational value of public waterways is not to be lightly dismissed. If any doubt exists in your minds that this is a highly prized privilege, why do so many of you citizens have summer cottages at the shore? A visit to a municipal bathing beach on a hot summer day will soon remove it.

To quote Dr. Henry Baldwin Ward, one of our famous conservation leaders and a scientist, who has made extensive studies of pollution conditions in various parts of the United States, "The imperative need today is to start the prevention and correction of the pollution menace at a thousand points all over the country. The primary need is action rather than discussion. We must conquer pollution or pollution will destroy us."

The speaker was accorded a hearty vote of appreciation. At the business session Joseph W. Curtis presided and Alex McNicol was the song leader. It was announced that the Lawrence Tibbett concert would be held on March 15th. There were reports from the chairmen of the various committees. As it was the monthly business session there was little other than routine business.

"SNOW BIRD" CREATES SENSATION AS KNIFER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 27—Mrs. Blanche Moore, colored, of Ithaca, N. Y., married was arrested today on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon and is being held in bail of $300 for trial in the police court tomorrow. Mrs. Moore's conduct gives indication of her being a "snow bird" for during several hours after her arrest her talk in her cell was both profane and vulgar and was not the result of drink. The police contend that she is a drug addict. Mrs. Moore who is temporarily residing on Federal street went to the Crown Cleaning company, 207 Main street about 10.30 o'clock and engaged in an altercation with Leonard Watson and Bertha Epps, the latter of 55 Hempstead street and both colored. During the brawl, Mrs. Moore seized a knife and started to attack Watson and the Epps woman, partially succeeding before she was placed under restraint. The police were notified and the woman was arrested by Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolman George Perkins.

THINK DOG PERHAPS UPSET THE BOTTLE OF KEROSENE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 27—Carmine Riozzi of 110 Thames street, Groton, was severely burned about the hands and head and his wife had most of her clothes burned off in a fire this morning which broke out suddenly. Shortly before 6 o'clock this morning Riozzi in lighting the kitchen stove poured kerosene into the kindling in the fire box. Upon dropping a lighted match on the wood an explosion occurred which blew the lid and top from the stove and sent sheets of flame in all directions. Property damage amounted to more than $200. The flames quickly ignited the room and the only escape from the home was at the rear. Riozzi rushed to the front room as soon as the fire occurred but before he could escape from the kitchen he was severely burned. Mrs. Riozzi's clothing caught fire when she and a daughter rushed in to see what had happened. Had it not been for the prompt action of her son, Michael, she probably would have been severely burned. He seized her and was able to smother the flames. An alarm was turned in and the Pioneer Hose company quickly responded. The only manner in which Mr. Riozzi and his daughter could escape from the burning house was to jump from a window. Mrs. Riozzi and two sons were taken from the building by firemen who placed a ladder against a second story window. When the firemen rushed into the house they were able to quickly subdue the flames. Crouched in a corner of the kitchen they found a shepherd dog which was in the room at the time the blaze started. The quick spread of the flames was attributed by firemen to the fact that the dog might have knocked over the bottle of kerosene which Riozzi had just used to light the fire. The dog was uninjured.

TROLAND, MRS. RATHBUN AND PALS GET OFF WITH FINES

NEW LONDON, Feb. 27—Daniel H. Troland, of 147 Bank street; Dominick Lembardo, public service operator; Patsy Capagna, 15 Denison avenue, Groton, and Lee Perry and Mrs. Elsie Rathbun, Center Groton, were presented in the Groton town court this morning jointly charged with theft from the person. Troland was fined $50 and costs and the penalty imposed in the cases of the others was $25 and costs. All of the accused paid. The gang was accused of stealing $60, a scarf pin and a watch and chain from Keith Nelson, Pawcatuck and New London, painter, and as evidence of their guilt, today, the money and jewelry was returned to Nelson.

Nelson was about the streets of this city several weeks ago and had been drinking. In the course of events he met Troland, who offered to give Nelson a "good time," which included drink and the company of a comely female. Nelson agreed to the suggestion of Troland. The pair entered the cab of Lombardo and were driven to the home of Perry, where they joined Mrs. Rathbun and Capagna. Drinks were served freely at the Perry house and when Nelson became intoxicated he was taken for a ride in Lombardo's cab. During the ride Mrs. Rathbun relieved Nelson of his watch and pin. When the ride was ended and the couple returned to the Perry house, Nelson was beastly drunk. He was carried into the house and placed on a couch where he slumbered a long time. Then Troland completed the robbery by relieving Nelson of his money. When Nelson returned to New London and realized that he had been robbed of his money and valuables, he endeavored to secure their return, but being unsuccessful he made complaint to the state police at Groton barracks. Lieut. Henry Albright arrested the gang Sunday night and it was then disclosed that Troland stole the money and divided it among the others, while Mrs. Rathbun confessed to stealing the jewelry.

Peter Dymerski, 207 North Bank street, charged with breach of the peace and intoxication, was fined $10 and sentenced to 30 days in jail, but execution of the sentence was suspended.

The only other case tried was that of a man charged with intoxication. He was arrested yesterday on North Bank street and today a fine of $5 was imposed.

STATE REFORM SCHOOL— BUT SUSTENCE SUSPENDED

As the young man has a police record and has given evidence of becoming a criminal, he was committed to the state reform school at Meriden for one year, but execution of the sentence was suspended. Daniels, a waiter, was arrested Monday night by Patrolmen Edward Skoczylas and George Labeau when he gained entrance to the Y. M. C. A. cafeteria, corner of Meridian and Church streets, stealing $1-.71 from the cash register.

Emily J. Cole camp, auxiliary to the United Spanish War Veterans, held a bridge party last night at the state armory with five tables in play. Winners of prizes were Mrs. Emily Nichols, Mrs. Lucy Vera, John Shea, Walter Thompson and Mrs. Matthew Baker.

SEARCH FOR BODY OFF PIER HAS BEEN SUSPENDED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 27—The coast guard today discontinued dragging the waters at Ocean Beach, in search for the body of Mrs. Abbie Mitchell Bailey, 36, of 171 Puquonoc road, Groton, who is believed to have committed suicide by jumping from the wharf at the beach, Monday night. Mrs. Bailey was recently discharged from Norwich State hospital. A pocketbook was found on the wharf which contained several letters addressed to the Poquonoc road house where she lived. This led authorities to believe that she had committed suicide. Dragging for the body which began yesterday morning, was ordered discontinued as it was thought that even if she had jumped overboard the strong currents in the vicinity would have carried the body away.

A Third Deserter

With two deserters already reported from the British freighter Canadian Miller at the state pier, a third member of the crew packed his kit and left the ship last night. A description of the man was immediately reported to the police and a request to watch out for him was made. The freighter is expected to leave this port Friday for Halifax.

Last night, at 8:40 o'clock, when a still alarm called out the Ockford Hose company to extinguish a fire on a pole in front of the New Haven Dairy Co. Pequot avenue, the blaze had started by a short circuit in the power wire on the pole.

Patients dismissed today from Lawrence Memorial hospital were: George Connelly, U. S. C. G.; Mrs. Edward Stevens, of Westbrook; Barbara Lawrence, of 11 Thatcher street, and Mabel Downes, of Groton.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Connecticut College Concert

No scenes of enthusiasm aroused by a pianist within many years have equalled those of Josef Lhevinne's recent New York appearances. Vast audiences have prolonged his programmes by encores, and then demanded him again and again in extra pieces until a second concert of thirty minutes or more had succeeded the first one.

Rare enthusiasm has been evinced in the New York reviews regarding Lhevinne's performances. The Sun declared him, "One of the chosen circle of foremost pianists of his time," paying tribute to "a performance lovely in its chiselled perfection"; in the New York Herald-Tribune there was mention of "his apparently effortless technic," and the statement that he was "applauded with fervor," and, "had been recalled many times," adding of interpretations, "his most telling effect gave the impression of wonderful silverpoint etchings."

Mr. Lhevinne appears at Bulkeley auditorium on Wednesday evening, March 6, in the final concert of the current season College Series. This opportunity to hear him will be of interest to all lovers of the best in the art of music and the auditorium will be taxed to its utmost capacity.

Norwich Shoe Store Honored

When the merchants of Norwich, Conn., recently combined for a fall opening, Smith's Shoe Store, Inc., Walk-Over agency there participated and won first prize for the best looking shoe store windows. About 20 of the Norwich automobile dealers loaned new cars with drivers for a parade, headed by a band paid for by the merchants. The Walk-Over agents had two charming young women in the back seat with a small table in front of them on which Walk-Over shoes were displayed. The store received some good publicity, both in the newspapers and from spectators who viewed the parade and the store windows.

The personnel of Smith's Shoe store was very much pleased to have their store picture and write-up in the Walk-Over Shoe Prints. This placed them with some of the finest stores in the world. This magazine goes to every Walk-Over dealer in the world, thus helping to advertise Norwich as well as Smith's Shoe store, the Walk-Over store for Norwich.

Ward & Co. in plenty of fun, laughs and humor, Jimmy Reynold in Watch My Dust, Moore & Montez the pair that will hold you spell-bound and opening this show the best shooting act on the stage today, George Gallis trio in a study of Stars and Stripes.

Rinty is a brow-beaten dog rescued from a cruel master by Blackton (Carroll Nye), by the payment of three silver fox furs which the latter had intended to sell to make possible his marriage to Marie du Fronque (Leila Hyams), an orphan of the snow country, who is now ward of the friend of her late father, James Crawford (John Miljan), manager of the North Bay Trading company. Crawford, while pretending to be willing for Marie to marry Blackton, himself wants her.

Blackton, returning to camp, tells the girl the reason he cannot marry her, and presents the dog. Not only she, but the Indian squaw and pappoose at the camp become attached to Rinty. Crawford, to hide his evil intent, now hires Blackton at the post.

The squaw dies with the coming of winter, and the young folks engrossed with caring for the pappoose, make the dog lonely by neglect of him. Crawford sends Blackton with a load of furs, and employs Butch Nelson (Thomas Santschi) to waylay and murder him. Rinty, however, chews the ropes that bind him and follows, arriving in time to prevent Butch from carrying out his commission.

The furs are discovered. Nelson's calls are heard, and when all hurry out to him, the dying man confesses his guilt. Crawford is led away.

A final scene shows the lovers married, the pappoose in fine fettle—and Rin-Tin-Tin, with Nanette and their seven puppies—having the time of his life!

Palace Theatre.

Theatregoers of this section who have been bemoaning the passing of the "spoken drama" from the local stages will find real pleasure in the announcement that the Chicago Stock company will play a week's engagement at the Palace theatre beginning Monday.

The organization has the distinction of being the oldest traveling theatrical organization in America, this being its 33rd year of existence. Its visits to various cities nearby are looked upon as red letter dates on the theatrical calendars and Norwich is fortunate in being able to secure them for a week on this, their 33rd annual tour.

The company will open their engagement here Monday matinee and evening with a presentation of the Cort Theatre comedy success of last year, "Tommy".

Other plays to be offered by the company during their stay in Norwich include "Jimmie's Women," "How Women Ruin Men," "The Noose," "That's Her Weakness Now" "Married and How," and "Why Girls Walk Home."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

The dramatic vehicle that swept Maude Adams to new hights of glory has now been transplanted to the screen as an all-taking motion picture.

The rights to Sir James M. Barrie's renowned play, "Half an Hour," were acquired by Paramount and made into a full all-talking production under the title of "The Doctor's Secret," and will be presented at the Broadway theatre starting today.

Ruth Chatterton, H. B. Warner, John Loder, Robert Edeson, Ethel Wales, Wilfred Noy and Nanci Price comprise the cast which is stage trained. William C. de Mille, famous stage and screen director, not only directed the production but adapted the story as well.

While there is a whimsical touch evident in most of Barrie's plays, such as "Peter Pan," it is not so evident in "The Doctor's Secret." This is a play of dramatic intensity, filled with suspense and ruthless realism, and pierced with flashes of almost sardonic humor. It is one of Barrie's finest plays, "Half an Hour," and with its being transplanted to the screen as audible entertainment film fans and lovers of the drama may be assured of perfect enjoyment.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Safe at Last

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

'Tis only when all dangers cease
That safety brings a sense of peace.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

Danny Meadow Mouse could not see where he was going. It was dark—pitch dark—down there underground in one of the tunnels of Miner the Mole. But it really made no difference to Danny. He could run just as fast down there in the dark as he could had it been light. You see, there wasn't any danger of bumping into anything. Behind him came Miner the Mole. Miner knew that someone was in his tunnel, and he was in a great rage. He couldn't see, either. But then he couldn't have seen had his tunnel been flooded with light. His eyes merely tell him the difference between light and dark. He cannot distinguish objects. He doesn't need to. He spends practically all of his time underground, where eyes really are of no use at all.

Danny came to where the tunnel branched. "Oh dear," thought Danny, "which way shall I go now? Shall I go to the right or shall I go to the left?"

He stopped undecided. But he couldn't stop for more than a second. In that second he used his nose and he caught just a faint whiff of Mouse scent. He knew then that that was the way he had come in. He hesitated no longer, but started along the left branch. Again he came to where the tunnel branched, and this time he did not dare stop to use his nose. As luck would have it, he took the wrong turn. He realized it after a while, for he knew that by this time he should have reached the surface, and here he was still running and running quite deep underground.

"Well, anyway," said Danny, "I'm safe now, and I've found out what I wanted to know."

"Oh dear," thought Danny. "Oh dear! Probably this tunnel will end suddenly and then Miner will catch me. Why did I come down here? Why didn't I have been contented above ground? Oh dear! I wonder where this leads to?"

But there was nothing to do but to keep right on running. The passage took a sudden turn and began to go up. This was better. Danny began to be more hopeful. And then it suddenly joined another tunnel. Should he turn right or should he turn left? He turned right. That was his good fortune. You see, that really was the tunnel he had been running along in before he had turned off at the fork. That branch had simply swung around and joined the main tunnel again.

"Anyway, this tunnel is up near the surface now," thought Danny. "If I keep on I guess I'll be all right."

Danny kept on, and he was all right. It was only a minute or two later that he knew just where he was and that it was only a little way to the opening under the snow, by which he had entered. When he popped out of that opening Danny drew a long breath. He had no fear of Miner the Mole up there. Miner couldn't follow him along his own little tunnels because Danny's tunnels are smaller than Miner's. Danny darted into one of these tunnels and then waited. A moment later Miner the Mole peeped out. But once above ground, Miner seemed to have lost all interest. Yes, sir, he seemed to have lost all interest. He didn't seem to like the snow, and after a moment or two he disappeared down in his hole again.

"Well, anyway," said Danny. "I'm safe now and I've found out what I wanted to know."

"What was that?" inquired Nanny Meadow Mouse, coming up just then.

"I wanted to know whether or not Miner the Mole sleeps all winter," said Danny. "I know now that he doesn't."

"And I hope you know enough to keep out of his tunnels," spoke up Nanny.

Gettysburg, battlefield shrine of the United States, draws more than 2,000,000 tourists annually. This was estimated by battlefield officials following publication of the quarterly report of the battlefield guides. During the quarter which ended in September guides conducted 472,112 persons over the field where this great battle of the civil war was fought.

Who else wants cheerful windows?

"With Sunset it is possible to have a more attractive home, a more extensive, up-to-date wardrobe, at small expense. Bright, colorful Sunset helped me transform a rather colorless home. Gay curtains, harmonious draperies and pillows, and rejuvenated rugs put the sparkle of newness into old rooms. I have dyed unbleached muslin and other inexpensive fabrics, and the results have been surprising. Unbleached muslin especially looked like expensive material. I toned down a highly colored rug, rehabilitated several bedrooms with colorful bed draperies, curtains and cushions, and colored linens for the dining room.

"Besides being economical, Sunset is a great time saver. From my old dresses, I frequently make garments for the children. Sunset-dye them and they seem to be despised 'hand me downs.' I brighten their faded sweaters, hose, and 'off color' bathing suits. In kindergarten work, Sunset is ideal for coloring wooden heads, pegs, raffia and baskets, for coloring sand for project work, and for picture tinting. Using Sunset is the simplest, quickest, and most economical way I know of to beautify and brighten home and wardrobe. It has saved me many a dollar, and created an atmosphere of cheer in our home." — Mrs. M. Burns, 2661 Eastwood Ave., Chicago, Ill.

For fast dyeing use Sunset, 15 cents a cake. For beautiful tinting use Dytint, wonderful new tint, big box, 10c.

Suffered With Eczema in Large Patches. Healed by Cuticura.

"Eczema broke out in large, red patches on my hands and feet. I suffered with it during one winter. It was of a dry nature and itched and burned causing me to scratch and rub until I broke the skin. I could not sleep on account of the irritation. I had to wear rubber gloves when I put my hands in water.

"Cuticura Soap and Ointment were recommended so I purchased some and got relief right away. I continued using them and in three weeks' time the trouble entirely disappeared. I was healed." (Signed) Miss Flora E. Stevens, Box 5, Chaplin, Conn.

The life of Edward L. Turner came to a close at his late residence, 314 Central avenue, Wednesday afternoon. He was born in Chaplin, Sept. 30, 1845, the son of Jesse S. and Eliza Clark Turner, natives of Mansfield, Conn. He was united in marriage with Jeanne C. Boothwick on April 26, 1867, by Rev. CLAIM PROPOSED RATES WOULD CUT G. AND E. REVENUE $70,000 ANNUALLY

That the revised schedule of gas and electric rates, submitted to the special city meeting, Wednesday night, by the "fact finding" commission would cut the gas and electric department's revenue from $65,000 to $70,000 a year, is the claim of the board of gas and electric commissioners. "It is inconceivable that the committee should recommend a rate which will so vitally affect a property that they and all taxpayers of the city are materially interested in," state the commissioners in a lengthy report, compiled in answer to the fact finding committee's report. The report, covering over a score of typewritten pages, and addressed to the electors of the city, was prepared by Charles W. Taggart, general manager of the municipal plant, and was approved by the board of gas and electric commissioners as their own finding of fact.

With regard to the gas and electric rate schedules as submitted, by the fact finding committee to the city meeting, the gas and electric commissioners' report says:

"From the application and study made of these schedules, applied to the department's business, it is inconceivable that the committee should recommend a rate which will so vitally affect a property that they and all taxpayers of the city are materially interested in. It would appear that there has been no careful study of the effect the proposed schedules will have on the income of the department. It is safe to state that the department's revenue from the business to which these proposed schedules apply will be reduced not less than $65,000 to $70,000 annually.

In answer to the fact finding committee's statement, embodied in their report, that from 1921 to 1928, the gross revenue of the department increased approximately 63 per cent. and the gross payrolls approximately 120 per cent., the commissioners state that the percentage of increase in the gross revenue was 48.11 per cent., for that period and the percentage of increase in the payroll was 79.28 per cent.

That the committee's recommendation failed to suggest a remedy for the problem of increased rent expense, due to the "spreading about of the various storehouses and numerous rooms for office work," is charged by the commissioners. The commissioners refer to the fact that in the annual report of the department as of April 30, 1927, a recommendation was made that adequate store-room, garage and shop facilities should be provided and that "immediate steps should be taken to provide these much needed additions."

The commissioners state that the modest rent ($1,200 a year in 1920, as compared with $5,500 at the present time) mentioned by the fact finding committee in their report, could not be renewed and the department was compelled to move its office. The committee should have stated that a part of this increase is for garage space, the commissioners set forth. They also state "it is believed that this condition can best be taken care of by the erection of an adequate service building properly designed for public service work," and further, "that the department should own its office building and not be subjected to the uncertainties incidental to rented buildings."

Answering the fact finding committee's charge that the department is furnishing power to the Bozrah Electric Co., at less than three cents a K. W. H., and that the amount paid by the Bozrah Co., is far less than individual users pay each year within the city limits, the commissioners comment as follows: Why the committee make note of this particular customer is now known. The department has one other customer that is served in the same way and the department is also purchasing current under the same arrangement. The rate which the department received is not less than 30 mills per K. W. H., but is exactly 30 mills, which is three mills less than the average rate that the department receives for energy sold its power customers. This differential is justified by the fact that these customers take current at distribution voltage, i. e., 4,600-2,300 volts; further that the department has no investment in transformers or other equipment in furnishing this service.

In answer to the committee's charge that "The committee has found that for several years, outside work has been done on a non-competitive basis, etc.," the commissioners state that this statement is correct in so far as the work being done on a non-competitive basis is concerned. The committee statement as to the amount paid is not correct, the amount paid being $38,976.11, and not $75,000, as stated, they claim. It is, however, they continue, common practice with public utilities to treat their distributions work in this manner. In Norwich you have the example of the Southern New England Telephone Co., letting their work to such firms as the Blakesly Contracting Co., of New Haven, and Fred T. Ley, of Springfield. So in our case, we have let work on a cost plus basis to a contractor who is capable of handling our particular type of work. We have had costly experience in letting work on competitive bids from finding after the contract was let that the contractor was not equipped for, nor experienced in doing this particular work.

The fact finding committee, in their report, stated that the appliance department from the figures gathered, shows a substantial yearly loss without a substantial increase in load revenue, to warrant its continuance under the present method of administration, and, further, that, "the practice of paying ridiculously high commissions should be entirely discontinued, and that if the department is continued at all, that it be placed on a sound business basis." To this the commissioners reply by quoting from a paper read at the International Association of Municipal Electricians at New Orleans, last October, upholding the sale of appliances by municipally owned plants.

The commissioners further state that, "the sales department has operated on exactly the same basis since 1920, there being no change in salary or commission paid during the eight years. There has been a change in personnel due to the employe who was on this work ruining his health and dying. It cannot be truthfully stated that there has been no substantial increase in load revenue. The facts are that the gross income increased $239,983.28. Commissions are not now, nor ever have been, paid only on bonafide sales."

Regarding the committee's expression of opinion that considerable saving can be made by discontinuing the practice of outside collections and that all payments should be made at the office of the department, doing away with the necessity of hiring collectors for this work, the commissioners state that they fully agree with the committee tha all payments should be made at the office. However they add, we do not believe that the procedure suggested (regarding delinquent customers, over three months behind in payments) will materially decrease the expense, due to the necessity of preparing monthly, a list of delinquents for the commission. In addition, they point out, there is an expense for removal and re-setting of meters, a part of which has to be placed on the delinquent customers.

The recommendation of the committee that the books and accounts of the department should be audited in detail and that the practice of employing so-called experts seems unwarranted in many cases, brings the following reply from the commissioners: "The recommendations of this section are surely inconsistent. In the first paragraph the committee recommends that the accounts be audited in detail; in the second paragraph they advise the discontinuance of expert advice. In our opinion, an audit requires the employment of accountants and feel sure they are classified as experts. These statements should be further clarified by the committee.

During the several conferences with the committee relative to rates, the commissioners say, it was stated by the committee that he consumers did not want to use more current. It is very interesting to note that this assumption is not correct. During January, the use for lighting and domestic purposes increased 70,000 K. W. H., over the same month last year. This should be proof that the consumers are accepting the benefits which our present rates give, in their assertion.

"FIRST IN WAR" SENTENCE SPOKEN BY GEN. HARRY LEE

The question of who said "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen" having been discussed in Philadelphia at the last Washington's birthday date, the Evening Bulletin submitted the matter to the "ardent collector of Washingtonia, and author, "Dr. James Hosmer Penniman, a former Academy student in Norwich.

The Evening Bulletin states that all lovers of historic Philadelphia and its landmarks may be proud to recall that the well remembered sentence was first spoken in the Zion German Lutheran church, Fourth and Cherry streets there, in 1799. In its day, this was considered the largest and handsomest church in North America. The structure, which seated more than 3,000, was torn down in 1868 to make room for the present Zion church, which recently combined with old St. Michael's.

An old print owned by Dr. Penniman preserves the scene in this church when on Dec. 26th, 1799, 12 days after Washington's death, Major-General Henry (Light Horse Harry) Lee, chosen by congress to be the orator of the day, delivered his famous eulogy.

Bishop White, of the Episcopal church read the funeral service, after which General Lee, in eloquent phrases reviewed the life of "the most illustrious and most beloved personage this country has ever produced." "First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen," he continued, "he was second to none in the humble and endearing scenes of private life. Pious, just, humane, temperate and sincere, uniform, dignified and commanding, his example was edifying to all around him as were the effects of his example lasting."

The Evening Bulletin reproduces Dr. Penniman's priceless old print of the scene in the church. The audience included members of both houses of congress. The famous print reproduced was made by H. L. Everett from the painting by R. E. Hoeffler. With the print is also reproduced the "eagle and cocked hat" portrait of the first president, painted by the English artist, Robert Edge Pine, who came to Philadelphia in 1783. The etching of the painting is also in the possession of Dr. Penniman. An autograph shown with it is a rare signature of Martha Washington, the general's wife.

NORWICH TOURISTS MEET AGED IDAHO CYCLIST

According to the Washington, D. C., Star, H. A. Huffstutler, 69, of Idaho Falls, Idaho, who set out from Los Angeles, Cal., on Sept. 23, for a trans-continental trip by bicycle, recently arrived in Washington, D. C. The aged cyclist will stay temporarily at Washington before continuing his trip to New York city, the objective point. The bicycle upon which he rode across the continent is 13 years old.

Soon after Mr. Huffstutler left Los Angeles on his long grind he was met near Phoenix, Ariz., by a party of Connecticut tourists, William C. Kendall and Edwin Abel of Norwich, James Wicks of Providence and George W. Meyer of Lisbon, who had been to California and were returning home. At the time, Mrs Huffstutler was very reticent to talk about himself, but finally conversed freely and told the Norwich people of his proposed trip.

PUTNAM DRIVER LOSES LICENSE FOR YEAR

A list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out Wednesday by the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of these drivers operating motor vehicles.

MORE LETTERS COMMEND COMMERCE CHAMBER CAMPAIGN

Letters have been received by the Norwich chamber of commerce from Past President H. D. Larrabee and President Joseph C. Worth of the chamber, both endorsing the coming financial and membership campaign of the chamber. The letter from President Worth, addressed to the citizens of Norwich, is as follows:

"The Norwich chamber of commerce is an organization worthy of every business man's support. If I did not believe this I would not have accepted the presidency and be giving of my time from my business at a personal loss.

"Just in proportion as we support and work for the chamber of commerce, personally, just in the same proportion will Norwich grow industrially and commercially. Much has been done. There is much more to be done and too much at stake for any of us to be pikers now. We must fight together to hold what we have and work hard to keep things expanding. That I can work best and most effectively through an organization is my reason for accepting official responsibility in the chamber of commerce.

"For this I seek no personal credit, but feel justified in asking others equally interested to share in support and responsibility. The present programme and budget expansion campaign of the chamber gives each one of us an opportunity to get behind a progressive and constructive programme for the industrial and commercial advancement of Norwich."

In his letter to President Worth, Past President Larrabee writes the following:

"Any organization depending on the public for its funds must justify its existence and its appeal for support by its records of achievements. In the present campaign for the expansion of the programme and budget of the Norwich chamber of commerce the record for the past several years is being brought to the attention of the citizens of Norwich in an account of its stewardship. I believe that anyone who will take the time to go over the record and try to fix the dollars and cents value of the work done will say that now is the time for projecting a much more ambitious programme in order that Norwich may keep her place in the front ranks of Connecticut cities. I am heartily in accord with the present movement."

MONTVILLE WOMAN BRINGS SUIT FOR $15,000 DAMAGES

In a suit filed Wednesday with the clerk of the superior court in this city, Louiejune Moran, of Montville, asks damages of $15,000 from George T. Brown and Gertrude V. Brown, both of New London. Plaintiff brings the suit as the result of injuries she claims she received when the automobile she was driving on Nov. 5, last, figured in a collision with the car owned by George T. Brown, and operated by his wife, Gertrude V. Brown. The accident occurred near the intersection of the Raymond Hill road and the Norwich-New London turnpike.

The plaintiff claims that she sustained a severe nervous shock and breakdown and as a result thereof is suffering from a psychoneurosis of a degree which requires considerable time and medical care to overcome and she has been obliged to attend and is now confined in the Hartford hospital at Hartford, in endeavoring to be cured from the nervous disorder caused by the collision.

She further alleges that her nerves have been shattered and as a result of such nervous shock, she has been rendered wholly unable to operate an automobile.

The Yantic Grain Co., has brought suit against Max Moscowitz, of Jewett City, a grain dealer, asking damages of $500. Plaintiffs allege the defendant infringed on their rights by using the name "Big Y Dairy Ration" on inferior product sold by him.

A divorce and custody of a six-year-old child are sought in a petition brought by Grace Phelps, of Groton, against Morris S. Phelps, also of Groton. The action is brought on the grounds of desertion, alleged since Oct. 15, 1922. They were married July 4, 1912.

Henry Moran, of New Britain, has filed a foreclosure action against The Ridgewood Construction Co., New London, Charles L. Brockett, New London, The Thames Lumber Co., New London, Joseph A. Oddo, John B. Morin, Sr., and John B. Morin, Jr., all of New London, Pierce Butler Mfg. Co., New London; Adam L. Fensley, East Lyme; Phillip A. Robinson, of Waterford; Abraham J. Agranovitch, of this city and Benjamin Kaplan, of Norwich.

Mr. Moran alleges that he is the holder of a $2,000 mortgage note given him on Oct. 3, 1927, by Clarence L. Brockett and Jacob S. Silverstein. The note was secured by a mortgage of premises located at Ridgewood by the Sea, Ocean Beach park. The Ridgewood Construction Co., are now in possession. The other defendants claim to have attachments and mechanics liens on the property.

Charles Chrocicchia, of New London, has brought foreclosure proceedings against Frank Philopena and Thomas Ochialini, both of New London.
